ACT I.

Enter Chorus.

O, for a muse of fire, that would aſcend
The brighteſt heaven of invention!
A kingdom for a ſtage, princes to act,
And monarchs to behold the ſwelling ſcene!
Then ſhould the warlike Harry, like himſelf,
Aſſume the port of Mars; and, at his heels,
Leaſh'd in like hounds, ſhould famine, ſword, and fire,
Crouch for employment. But pardon, gentles all,
The flat unraiſed ſpirit, that hath dar'd,
On this unworthy ſcaffold, to bring forth
So great an object: Can this cock-pit hold
The vaſty field of France? or may we cram,
Within this wooden O, the very caſques
That did affright the air at Agincourt?
O, pardon! ſince a crooked figure may
Atteſt, in little place, a million;

And let us, cyphers to this great accompt,
On your imaginary forces work:
Suppose, within the girdle of these walls
Are now confin'd two mighty monarchies,
Whose high-upreared and abutting fronts
The perilous narrow ocean parts aſunder:
Piece out our imperfections with your thoughts;
Into a thousand parts divide one man,
And make imaginary puiſſance:
Think, when we talk of horſes, that you ſee them
Printing their proud hoofs i'the receiving earth:
For 'tis your thoughts that now muſt deck our kings,
Carry them here and there; jumping o'er times;
Turning the accompliſhment of many years
Into an hour-glaſs; For the which ſupply,
Admit me chorus to this hiſtory;
Who, prologue-like, your humble patience pray,
Gently to hear, kindly to judge, our play. [Exit.

SCENE I. London. A Room in the King's Palace.
Enter the Archbiſhop of CANTERBURY,
and the Biſhop of ELY.

CAN. My lord, I'll tell you,—that ſelf bill is urg'd,
Which, in the eleventh year o'the laſt king's reign,
Was like, and had indeed againſt us paſſ'd,
But that the ſcambling and unquiet time
Did puſh it out of farther queſtion.

ELY. But how, my lord, ſhall we reſiſt it now?

CAN. It muſt be thought on. If it paſs againſt us,
We lose the better half of our poſſeſſion:
For all the temporal lands, which men devout
By teſtament have given to the church,

Would they ſtrip from us; being valu'd thus,—
As much as would maintain, to the king's honour,
Full fifteen earls, and fifteen hundred knights;
Six thousand and two hundred good eſquires;
And, to relief of lazars, and weak age,
Of indigent faint ſouls, paſt corporal toil,
A hundred alms-houses, right well ſupply'd;
And to the coffers of the king, beſide,
A thousand pounds by the year: Thus runs the bill.

Ely. This would drink deep.

Can. 'Twould drink the cup and all.

Ely. But what prevention?

Can. The king is full of grace, and fair regard:

Ely. And a true lover of the holy church.

Can. The courſes of his youth promis'd it not.
The breath no ſooner left his father's body,
But that his wildneſs, mortify'd in him,
Seem'd to die too: yea, at that very moment,
Conſideration like an angel came,
And whip'd the offending Adam out of him;
Leaving his body as a paradiſe,
To envelop and contain celeſtial ſpirits.
Never was ſuch a ſudden ſcholar made:
Never came reformation in a flood,
With ſuch a heady current, ſcouring faults;
Nor never hydra-headed wilfulneſs
So ſoon did lose his ſeat, and all at once,
As in this king.

Ely. We are bleſſed in the change.

Can. Hear him but reason in divinity,
And, all-admiring, with an inward wiſh
You would desire, the king were made a prelate:

Hear him debate of common-wealth affairs,
You would ſay — it hath been all-in-all his ſtudy:
Liſt his diſcourſe of war, and you ſhall hear
A fearful battle render'd you in muſick:
Turn him to any cauſe of policy,
The Gordian knot of it he will unlooſe,
Familiar as his garter; that, when he ſpeaks,
The air, a charter'd libertine, is ſtill,
And the mute wonder lurketh in men's ears,
To ſteal his ſweet and honey'd ſentences;
So that the art and practic part of life
Muſt be the miſtreſs to this theorique:
Which is a wonder, how his grace ſhould glean it;
Since his addiction was to courſes vain;
His companies unletter'd, rude, and ſhallow;
His hours fill'd up with riots, banquets, ſports;
And never noted in him any ſtudy,
Any retirement, any ſequeſtration
From open haunts and popularity.

Ely. The ſtrawberry grows underneath the nettle;
And wholſome berries thrive and ripen beſt,
Neighbour'd by fruit of baſer quality:
And ſo the prince obſcur'd his contemplation
Under the veil of wildneſs; which, no doubt,
Grew like the ſummer graſs, faſteſt by night,
Unſeen, yet creſcive in his faculty.

Can. It muſt be ſo: for miracles are ceas'd;
And therefore we muſt needs admit the means,
How things are perfected.

Ely. But, my good lord,
How now for mitigation of this bill
Urg'd by the commons? Doth his majeſty

Incline to it, or no?

Can. He ſeems indifferent;
Or, rather, ſwaying more upon our part,
Than cheriſhing the exhibiters againſt us:
For I have made an offer to his majeſty,—
Upon our ſpiritual convocation;
And in regard of causes now in hand,
Which I have open'd to his grace at large,
As touching France,—to give a greater ſum,
Than ever at one time the clergy yet
Did to his predeceſſors part withal.

Ely. How did this offer ſeem receiv'd, my lord?

Can. With good acceptance of his majeſty:
Save, that there was not time enough to hear
(As, I perceiv'd, his grace would fain have done)
The ſeverals, and unhidden paſſages,
Of his true titles to ſome certain dukedoms;
And, generally, to the crown and ſeat of France,
Deriv'd from Edward, his great grandfather.

Ely. What was the impediment that broke this off?

Can. The French ambaſſador, upon that inſtant,
Crav'd audience: and the hour, I think, is come,
To give him hearing; Is it four o'clock?

Ely. It is.

Can. Then go we in, to know his embaſſy:
Which I could, with a ready gueſs, declare,
Before the Frenchman ſpeaks a word of it.

Ely. I'll wait upon you; and I long to hear it. [Ex.

SCENE II. The ſame. A Room of State in the ſame. Enter King Henry, and Train of Nobles; Dukes of Bedford, Gloſter, and Exeter; Earl of Westmoreland, &c.

Kin. Where is my gracious lord of Canterbury?
Exe. Not here in presence.
Kin. Send for him, good uncle. [Exit an Att.
Wes. Shall we call in the ambaſſador, my liege?
Kin. Not yet, my cousin; we would be resolv'd,
Before we hear him, of ſome things of weight,
That taſk our thoughts, concerning us and France.

Enter CANTERBURY, and ELY.

Can. God, and his angels, guard your ſacred throne,
And make you long become it!
Kin. Sure, we thank you.
My learned lord, we pray you to proceed;
And juſtly and religiouſly unfold,
Why the law Salique, which they have in France,
Or ſhould, or ſhould not, bar us in our claim.
And God forbid, my dear and faithful lord,
That you ſhould faſhion, wreſt, or bow your reading,
Or nicely charge your underſtanding ſoul
With opening titles miſcreate, whose right
Suits not in native colours with the truth;
For God doth know, how many, now in health,
Shall drop their blood in approbation
Of what your reverence ſhall incite us to:
Therefore take heed how you impawn our perſon,
How you awake the ſleeping ſword of war;
We charge you in the name of God, take heed:
For never two ſuch kingdoms did contend,
Without much fall of blood; whose guiltleſs drops
Are every one a woe, a ſore complaint,
'Gainſt him, whose wrong gives edge unto the ſword
That makes ſuch waſte in brief mortality.
Under this conjuration, ſpeak, my lord:

And we will hear, note, and believe in heart,
That what you ſpeak is in your conſcience waſh'd
As pure as ſin with baptism. [peers,
Can. Then hear me, gracious ſovereign,—and you
That owe yourſelves, your lives, and ſervices,
To this imperial throne;—There is no bar
To make againſt your highneſs' claim to France,
But this, which they produce from Pharamond,—
In terram Salicam mulieres né ſuccedant,
No woman ſhall ſucceed in Salique land:
Which Salique land the French unjuſtly gloze
To be the realm of France, and Pharamond
The founder of this law and female bar.
Yet their own authors faithfully affirm,
That the land Salique is in Germany,
Between the floods of Sala and of Elbe:
Where Charles the great, having ſubdu'd the Saxons,
There left behind and ſettl'd certain French;
Who, holding in diſdain the German women
For ſome unhoneſt manners of their life,
Eſtabliſh'd there this law,—to wit, No female
Should be inheritrix in Salique land;
Which Salique, as I ſaid, 'twixt Elbe and Sala,
Is, at this day, in Germany call'd—Meiſen.
Thus doth it well appear, the Salique law
Was not devised for the realm of France:
Nor did the French poſſeſs the Salique land
Until four hundred one and twenty years
After defunction of king Pharamond,
Idly ſuppos'd the founder of this law;
Who dy'd within the year of our redemption
Four hundred twenty ſix; and Charles the great

Subdu'd the Saxons, and did ſeat the French
Beyond the river Sala, in the year
Eight hundred five. Beſides, their writers ſay,
King Pepin, which deposed Childerick,
Did, as heir general, being deſcended
Of Blithild, which was daughter to king Clothair,
Make claim and title to the crown of France.
Hugh Capet alſo,—that usurp'd the crown
Of Charles the duke of Lorain, ſole heir male
Of the true line and ſtock of Charles the great,—
To fine his title with ſome ſhow of truth,
(When, in pure truth, it was corrupt and naught)
Convey'd himſelf as heir to the lady Lingare,
Daughter to Charlemain, who was the ſon
To Lewis the emperor, and Lewis the ſon
Of Charles the great. Alſo king Lewis the ninth,
Who was ſole heir to the usurper Capet,
Could not keep quiet in his conſcience,
Wearing the crown of France, 'till ſatiſfy'd
That fair queen Isabel, his grandmother,
Was lineal of the lady Ermengare,
Daughter to Charles the foreſaid duke of Lorain;
By the which marriage, the line of Charles the great
Was re-united to the crown of France.
So that, as clear as is the ſummer's ſun,
King Pepin's title, and Hugh Capet's claim,
King Lewis his ſatiſfaction, all appear
To hold in right and title of the female:
So do the kings of France unto this day;
Howbeit they would hold up this Salique law,
To bar your highneſs claiming from the female;
And rather choose to hide them in a net,

Than amply to unbare their crooked titles,
Usurp'd from you and your progenitors. [claim ?
Kin. May I, with right and conſcience, make this
Can. The ſin upon my head, dread ſovereign!
For in the book of Numbers is it writ—
When the ſon dies, let the inheritance
Deſcend unto the daughter. Gracious lord,
Stand for your own; unwind your bloody flag;
Look back unto your mighty anceſtors:
Go, my dread lord, to your great grandfire's grave,
From whom you claim; invoke his warlike ſpirit,
And your great uncle's, Edward the black prince;
Who on the French ground play'd a tragedy,
Making defeat on the full power of France;
Whiles his moſt mighty father on a hill
Stood ſmiling, to behold his lyon's whelp
Forage in blood of French nobility.—
O noble Engliſh, that could entertain
With half their forces the full pride of France;
And let another half ſtand laughing by,
All out of work, and cold for action!
Ely. Awake remembrance of these valiant dead,
And with your puiſſant arm renew their feats:
You are their heir, you ſit upon their throne;
The blood and courage, that renowned them,
Runs in your veins; and my thrice-puiſſant liege
Is in the very May-morn of his youth,
Ripe for exploits and mighty enterprizes.
Exe. Your brother kings and monarchs of the earth
Do all expect that you ſhould rouze yourſelf,
As did the former lions of your blood. [and might;
Wes. They know, your grace hath cauſe, and means,

[t] imbarre

So hath your highneſs; never king of England
Had nobles richer, and more loyal ſubjects;
Whose hearts have left their bodies here in England,
And lye pavilion'd in the fields of France.

Can. O, let their bodies follow, my dear liege,
With blood, and ſword, and fire, to win your right:
In aid whereof, we of the ſpiritualty
Will raise your highneſs ſuch a mighty ſum,
As never did the clergy at one time
Bring in to any of your anceſtors.

Kin. We muſt not only arm to invade the French;
But lay down our proportions to defend
Againſt the Scot, who will make road upon us
With all advantages.

Can. They of those marches, gracious ſovereign,
Shall be a wall ſufficient to defend
Our inland from the pilfering borderers.

Kin. We do not mean the courſing ſnatchers only,
But fear the main intendment of the Scot,
Who hath been ſtill a giddy neighbour to us:
For you ſhall read, that my great grandfather
Never went with his forces into France,
But that the Scot on his unfurniſh'd kingdom
Came pouring, like the tide into a breach,
With ample and brim fulneſs of his force;
Galling the gleaned land with hot aſſays;
Girding with grievous ſiege caſtles, and towns;
That England, being empty of defence,
Hath ſhook and trembl'd at the ill neigbourhood.

Can. She hath been then more fear'd than harm'd, my liege:
For hear her but exampl'd by herſelf,—
When all her chivalry hath been in France,

And ſhe a mourning widow of her nobles,
She hath herſelf not only well defended,
But taken, and impounded as a ſtray,
The king of Scots; whom ſhe did ſend to France,
To fill king Edward's fame with prisoner kings;
And make her chronicle as rich with praise,
As is the ouse and bottom of the ſea
With ſunken wreck and ſumleſs treasuries.

Wes. But there's a ſaying, very old and true,—
If that you will France win,
Then with Scotland firſt begin:
For once the eagle England being in prey,
To her unguarded neſt the weazel Scot
Comes ſneaking, and ſo ſucks her princely eggs;
Playing the mouſe, in abſence of the cat,
To taint and havock more than ſhe can eat.

Exe. It follows then, the cat muſt ſtay at home:
Yet that is but a crude neceſſity;
Since we have locks to ſafeguard neceſſaries,
And pretty traps to catch the petty thieves.
While that the armed hand doth fight abroad,
The advised head defends itſelf at home:
For government, though high, and low, and lower,
Put into parts, doth keep in one conſent;
Congruing in a full and natural close,
Like muſick.

Can. True: therefore doth heaven divide
The ſtate of man in divers functions,
Setting endeavour in continual motion;
To which is fixed, as an aim or but,
Obedience: for ſo work the honey bees;
Creatures, that, by a rule in nature, teach

6 their 16 tame and 18 cruſh'd 25 Congreeing

The art of order to a peopl'd kingdom.
They have a king, and officers of ſorts:
Where ſome, like magiſtrates, correct at home:
Others, like merchants, venture trade abroad:
Others, like ſoldiers, armed in their ſtings,
Make boot upon the ſummer's velvet bud;
Which pillage they with merry march bring home
To the tent-royal of their emperor:
Who, busy'd in his majeſty, ſurveys
The ſinging maſon building roofs of gold;
The civil citizens kneading up the honey;
The poor mechanick porters crouding in
Their heavy burthens at his narrow gate;
The ſad-ey'd juſtice, with his ſurly hum,
Delivering o'er to executors pale
The lazy yawning drone. I this infer,—
That many things, having full reference
To one conſent, may work contrariouſly:
As many arrows, looſed ſeveral ways,
Fly to one mark;
As many ſeveral ways meet in one town;
As many freſh ſtreams run in one ſelf ſea;
As many lines close in the dial's center;
So may a thousand actions, once afoot,
End in one purpose, and be all well born
Without defeat. Therefore to France, my liege.
Divide your happy England into four;
Whereof take you one quarter into France,
And you withal ſhall make all Gallia ſhake:
If we, with thrice that power left at home,
Cannot defend our own door from the dog,
Let us be worry'd; and our nation loſe

The name of hardineſs, and policy

Kin. Call in the meſſengers ſent from the dauphin.

[Exeunt ſome Attendants. King takes his Throne.

Now are we well resolv'd: and,—by God's help;
And yours, the noble ſinews of our power,—
France being ours, we'll bend it to our awe,
Or break it all to pieces: Or there we'll ſit,
Ruling, in large and ample empery,
O'er France, and all her almoſt kingly dukedoms;
Or lay these bones in an unworthy urn,
Tombleſs, with no remembrance over them:
Either our hiſtory ſhall, with full mouth,
Speak freely of our acts; or elſe our grave,
Like Turkiſh mute, ſhall have a tongueleſs mouth,
Not worſhip'd with a waxen epitaph.—

Enter certain Embaſſadors, and Train, uſher'd.

Now are we well prepar'd to know the pleasure
Of our fair cousin dauphin; for, we hear,
Your greeting is from him, not from the king.

Emb. Pleaseth your majeſty, to give us leave
Freely to render what we have in charge;
Or ſhall we ſparingly ſhew you far off
The dauphin's meaning, and our embaſſy?

Kin. We are no tyrant, but a chriſtian king;
Unto whose grace our paſſion is as ſubject;
As are our wretches fetter'd in our prisons:
Therefore, with frank and with uncurbed plainneſs,
Tell us the dauphin's mind.

Emb. Thus then, in few.
Your highneſs, lately ſending into France,
Did claim ſome certain dukedoms, in the right
Of your great predeceſſor, Edward the third.

In anſwer of which claim, the prince our maſter
Says,—that you ſavour too much of your youth,
And bids you be advis'd; there's nought in France,
That can be with a nimble galliard won;
You cannot revel into dukedoms there:
He therefore ſends you, meeter for your ſpirit,
This tun ⫩ of treasure; and, in lieu of this,
Desires you, let the dukedoms, that you claim,
Hear no more of you. This the dauphin ſpeaks.

Kin. What treasure, uncle?

Exe. Tennis-balls, my liege.

Kin. We are glad, the dauphin is ſo pleasant with us;
His present, and your pains, we thank you for:
When we have match'd our rackets to these balls,
We will, in France, by God's grace, play a ſet,
Shall ſtrike his father's crown into the hazard:
Tell him, he hath made a match with ſuch a wrangler,
That all the courts of France will be diſturb'd
With chaces. And we underſtand him well,
How he comes o'er us with our wilder days,
Not measuring what uſe we made of them.
We never valu'd this poor ſeat of England;
And therefore, living hence, did give ourſelf
To barbarous licence, As 'tis ever common,
That men are merrieſt when they are from home:
But tell the dauphin,—I will keep my ſtate,
Be like a king, and ſhew my ſail of greatneſs,
When I do rouze me in my throne of France:
For that I have lay'd by my majeſty,
And plodded like a man for working-days;
But I will riſe there with ſo full a glory,
That I will dazzle all the eyes of France,

Yea, ſtrike the dauphin blind to look on us.
And tell the pleasant prince,—this mock of his
Hath turn'd his balls to gun-ſtones; and his ſoul
Shall ſtand ſore charged for the waſteful vengeance
That ſhall fly with them: for many a thousand widows
Shall this his mock mock out of their dear husbands;
Mock mothers from their ſons, mock caſtles down;
And ſome are yet ungotten, and unborn,
That ſhall have cause to curſe the dauphin's ſcorn.
But this lies all within the will of God,
To whom I do appeal; And in whose name,
Tell you the dauphin, I am coming on,
To venge me as I may, and to put forth
My rightful hand in a well-hallow'd cause.
So, get you hence in peace: and tell the dauphin,—
His jeſt will favour but of ſhallow wit,
When thousands weep, more than did laugh at it.—
Convey them with ſafe conduct.—Fare you well.

[Exeunt Embaſſadors.

Exe. This was a merry meſſage.

Kin. We hope to make the ſender bluſh at it.

[coming from his Throne.

Therefore, my lords, omit no happy hour,
That may give furtherance to our expedition:
For we have now no thought in us, but France;
Save those to God, that run before our buſineſs.
Therefore, let our proportions for these wars
Be ſoon collected; and all things thought upon,
That may, with reasonable ſwiftneſs, add
More feathers to our wings: for, God before,
We'll chide this dauphin at his father's door.
Therefore, let every man now taſk his thought,

That this fair action may on foot be brought. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

Enter Chorus.

Now all the youth of England are on fire,
And filken dalliance in the wardrobe lies;
Now thrive the armorers, and honour's thought
Reigns ſolely in the breaſt of every man:
They ſell the paſture now, to buy the horſe;
Following the mirror of all chriſtian kings,
With winged heels, as Engliſh Mercuries.
For now ſits expectation in the air;
And hides a ſword, from hilts unto the point,
With crowns imperial, crowns, and coronets,
Promis'd to Harry, and his followers.
The French, advis'd by good intelligence
Of this moſt dreadful preparation,
Shake in their fear; and with pale policy
Seek to divert the Engliſh purposes.
O, England,—model to thy inward greatneſs,
Like little body with a mighty heart,—
What might'ſt thou do, that honour would thee do,
Were all thy children kind and natural!
But ſee thy fault! France hath in thee found out
A neſt of hollow bosoms, which ſhe fills
With treacherous crowns: and three corrupted men—
One, Richard earl of Cambridge; and the ſecond,
Henry lord Scroop of Maſham; and the third,
Sir Thomas Grey knight of Northumberland,—
Have, for the gilt of France, (o, guilt indeed!)

Confirm'd conſpiracy with fearful France;
And by their hands this grace of kings muſt die,
(If hell and treason hold their promises)
Ere he take ſhip for France, e'en in Southampton.
Linger your patience on; and well digeſt
The abuſe of diſtance, while we force a play.
The ſum is pay'd; the traitors are agreed;
The king is ſet from London; and the ſcene
Is now tranſported, gentles, to Southampton:
There is the play-houſe now, there muſt you ſit:
And thence to France ſhall we convey you ſafe,
And bring you back, charming the narrow ſeas
To give you gentle paſs; for, if we may,
We'll not offend one ſtomach with our play.
But, 'till the king come forth, and not 'till then,
Unto Southampton do we ſhift our ſcene. [Exit.

SCENE I. The ſame. A Street.

Enter BARDOLPH, and NYM, meeting.

BAR. Well met, corporal Nym.

NYM. Good morrow, lieutenant Bardolph.

BAR. What, are ancient Piſtol and you friends yet?

NYM. For my part, I care not: I ſay little; but when time ſhall ſerve, there ſhall be ſmiles;—but that ſhall be as it may. I dare not fight; but I will wink, and hold out mine iron: It is a ſimple one; But what though? it will toaſt cheeſe; and it will endure cold, as another man's ſword will: and there's an end.

BAR. I will beſtow a breakfaſt, to make you friends; and we'll be all three ſworn brothers to France: let it be ſo, good corporal Nym.

NYM. 'Faith, I will live ſo long as I may, that's the

4 and in 5 weg'l

certain of it; and, when I cannot live any longer, I will do as I may: that is my reſt, that is the rendezvous of it.

Bar. It is certain, corporal, that he is marry'd to Nell Quickly: and, certainly, ſhe did you wrong; for you were troth-plight to her.

Nym. I cannot tell; things muſt be as they may: Men may ſleep; and they may have their throats about them at that time; and, ſome ſay, knives have edges. It muſt be as it may: though patience be a tired mare, yet ſhe will plod. There muſt be conclusions. Well, I cannot tell.

Enter Pistol, and the Hoſteſs.

Bar. Here comes ancient Piſtol, and his wife:—good corporal, be patient here.—How now, mine hoſt Piſtol?

Pis. Baſe tike, call'ſt thou me-hoſt?
Now, by this hand I ſwear, I ſcorn the term;
Nor ſhall my Nell keep lodgers.

Hoſ. No, by my troth, not long: for we cannot lodge and board a dozen or fourteen gentlewomen, that live honeſtly by the prick of their needles, but it will be thought we keep a bawdy-houſe ſtraight. [Nym, and Piſtol, eye one another, and draw.] O wel-a-day, lady, if he be not drawn now! we ſhall ſee wilful adultery and murther committed.

Bar. Good ancient,—good corporal,—offer nothing here. [going between them.

Nym. Piſh!

Pis. Piſh for thee, Iseland dog; thou prick-ear'd cur of Iseland.

Hoſ. Good corporal Nym, ſhew the valour of a man,

25 not hewne now 27 Good lieutenant and put up your ſword.

Nym. Will you ſhog off? I would have you ſolus.

Pis. Solus, egregious dog? O viper vile!
The ſolus in thy moſt marvellous face;
The ſolus in thy teeth, and in thy throat,
And in thy hateful lungs, yea, in thy maw, perdy;
And, which is worſe, within thy naſty mouth!
I do retort the ſolus in thy bowels:
For I can talk; and Piſtol's cock is up,
And flaſhing fire will follow.

Nym. I am not Barbason; you cannot conjure me. I have an humour to knock you indifferently well: If you grow foul with me, Piſtol, I will ſcour you with my rapier, as I may, in fair terms: If you would walk off, I would prick your guts a little, in good terms, as I may; and that's the humour of it.

Pis. O braggard vile, and damned furious wight!
The grave doth gape, and doting death is near;
Therefore exhale.

Bar. Hear me, hear me what I ſay:—he that ſtrikes the firſt ſtroke, I'll run him up to the hilts, as I am a ſoldier.

Pis. An oath of mickle might, and fury ſhall abate.—
Give me thy fiſt, [to Nym.] thy fore-foot to me give;
Thy ſpirits are moſt tall.

Nym. I will cut thy throat, one time or other, in fair terms; that is the humour of it. [again.

Pis. Coupe le gorge, that's the word?—I thee defy
O hound of Crete, think'ſt thou my ſpouse to get?
No; to the ſpital go,
And from the powd'ring tub of infamy
Fetch forth the lazar kite of Creſſid's kind,

Doll Tear-ſheet ſhe by name, and her eſpouſe:
I have, and I will hold, the quondam Quickly
For the only ſhe; and—Pauca, there's enough.

Enter the Boy.

Boy. Mine hoſt Piſtol, you muſt come to my maſter,—and you hoſteſs;—he is very ſick, and would to bed.—Good Bardolph, put thy face between his ſheets, and do the office of a warming-pan: 'faith, he's very ill.

Bar. Away, you rogue.

Hoſ. By my troth, he'll yield the crow a pudding one of these days: the king has kill'd his heart.—Good husband, come home presently. [Ex. Hoſteſs, and Boy.

Bar. Come, ſhall I make you two friends? We muſt to France together; Why, the devil, ſhould we keep knives to cut one another's throats? [on!

Pis. Let floods o'er-ſwell, and fiends for food howl

Nym. You'll pay me the eight ſhillings, I won of you at betting?

Pis. Baſe is the ſlave that pays.

Nym. That now I will have; that's the humour of it.

Pis. As manhood ſhall compound; Puſh home.

Bar. By this ſword, he that makes the firſt thruſt, I'll kill him; by this ſword, I will. [courſe.

Pis. Sword is an oath, and oaths muſt have their

Bar. Corporal Nym, an thou wilt be friends, be friends: an thou wilt not, why then be enemies with me too: Pry'thee, put up.

Nym. I ſhall have my eight ſhillings, I won of you at betting?

Pis. A noble ſhalt thou have, and present pay;
And liquor likewise will I give to thee,
And friendſhip ſhall combine, and brotherhood:

[6] your Hoſteſſe

I'll live by Nym, and Nym ſhall live by me;—
Is not this juſt?—for I ſhall ſutler be
Unto the camp, and profits will accrue.
Give me thy hand.

Nym. I ſhall have my noble?

Pis. In caſh moſt juſtly pay'd.

Nym. Well then, that's the humour of it.

Re-enter Hoſteſs.

Hoſ. As ever you came of women, come in quickly to ſir John: Ah, poor heart! he is ſo ſhak'd of a burning quotidian tertian, that it is moſt lamentable to behold. Sweet men, come to him.

Nym. The king hath run bad humours on the knight, that's the even of it.

Pis. Nym, thou haſt ſpoke the right;
His heart is fracted, and corroborate.

Nym. The king is a good king: but it muſt be as it may; he paſſes ſome humours, and careers.

Pis. Let us condole the knight; for, lambkins, we will live. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. Southampton. A Hall of Council.

Enter Bedford, Exeter, and Westmoreland.

Bed. 'Fore God, his grace is bold, to truſt these traitors.

Exe. They ſhall be apprehended by and by.

Wes. How ſmooth and even they do bear themſelves!
As if allegiance in their bosoms ſat,
Crowned with faith, and conſtant loyalty.

Bed. The king hath note of all that they intend,
By interception which they dream not of.

Wes. Nay, but the man that was his bedfellow,
Whom he hath dull'd and cloy'd with gracious favours,—

That he ſhould, for a foreign purſe, ſo ſell
His ſovereign's life to death and treachery!

Trumpets. Enter King Henry; the Lords Scroop, Cambridge, Sir Thomas Grey, and Others.

Kin. Now ſits the wind fair, and we will aboard.
My lord of Cambridge,—and my kind lord of Maſham,—
And you, my gentle knight,—give me your thoughts:
Think you not, that the powers we bear with us
Will cut their paſſage through the force of France;
Doing the execution, and the act,
For which we have in head aſſembl'd them?

Scr. No doubt, my liege, if each man do his beſt.

Kin. I doubt not that: ſince we are well perſuaded,
We carry not a heart with us from hence,
That grows not in a fair conſent with ours;
Nor leave not one behind, that doth not wiſh
Succeſs and conqueſt to attend on us.

Cam. Never was monarch better fear'd, and lov'd,
Than is your majeſty; there's not, I think, a ſubject,
That ſits in heart-grief and uneaſineſs
Under the ſweet ſhade of your government.

Gre. Even thoſe, that were your father's enemies,
Have ſteep'd their galls in honey; and do ſerve you
With hearts create of duty and of zeal.

Kin. We therefore have great cauſe of thankfulneſs;
And ſhall forget the office of our hand,
Sooner than quittance of deſert and merit,
According to the weight and worthineſs.

Scr. So ſervice ſhall with ſteeled ſinews toil;
And labour ſhall refreſh itſelf with hope,
To do your grace inceſſant ſervices.

Kin. We judge no leſs.—Uncle of Exeter,

Enlarge the man committed yeſterday,
That rail'd againſt our perſon: we conſider,
It was exceſs of wine that ſet him on;
And, on his more advice, we pardon him.

Scr. That's mercy, but too much ſecurity:
Let him be puniſh'd, ſovereign; leſt example
Breed, by his ſufferance, more of ſuch a kind.

Kin. O, let us yet be merciful.

Cam. So may your highneſs, and yet puniſh too.

Gre. Sir, you ſhew great mercy, if you give him life,
After the taſte of much correction.

Kin. Alas, your too much love and care of me
Are heavy orisons 'gainſt this poor wretch:
If little faults, proceeding on diſtemper,
Shall not be wink'd at, how ſhall we ſtretch our eye,
When capital crimes, chew'd, ſwallow'd, and digeſted,
Appear before us?—We'll yet enlarge that man,
Though Cambridge, Scroop, and Grey,—in their dear care
And tender preservation of our perſon,— [ſes;
Would have him puniſh'd. And now to our French cau-
Who are the late commiſſioners?

Cam. I one, my lord;
Your highneſs bad me aſk for it to-day.

Scr. So did you me, my liege.

Gre. And me, my royal ſovereign. [yours;—

Kin. Then, Richard earl of Cambridge, there † is
There † yours, lord Scroop of Maſham;—and, ſir knight,
Grey of Northumberland, this † ſame is yours;—
Read them; and know, I know your worthineſs.—
My lord of Weſtmoreland,—and uncle Exeter,—
We will aboard to-night.—Why, how now, gentlemen?
What ſee you in those papers, that you loſe

So much complexion?—look ye, how they change!
Their cheeks are paper.—Why, what read you there,
That hath so cowarded and chac'd your blood
Out of appearance.

Cam. I do confess my fault; and do submit me
To your highness' mercy.

Scr. Gre. To which we all appeal.

Kin. The mercy, that was quick in us but late,
By your own counsel is suppress'd and kill'd:
You must not dare, for shame, to talk of mercy;
For your own reasons turn into your bosoms,
As dogs upon their masters, worrying them.—
See you, my princes, and my noble peers,
These English monsters: My lord of Cambridge here,—
You know, how apt our love was, to accord
To furnish him with all appertinents
Belonging to his honour; and this man
Hath, for a few light crowns, lightly conspir'd,
And sworn unto the practises of France,
To kill us here in Hampton: to the which,
This knight,—no less for bounty bound to us
Than Cambridge is,—hath likewise sworn.—But, o,
What shall I say to thee, lord Scroop; thou cruel,
Ingrateful, savage, and inhuman creature!
Thou, that didst bear the key of all my counsels,
That knew'st the very bottom of my soul,
That almost might'st have coin'd me into gold,
Would'st thou have practic'd on me for thy use?
May it be possible, that foreign hire
Could out of thee extract one spark of evil,
That might annoy my finger? 'tis so strange,
That, though the truth of it stands off as gross

As black from white, my eye will ſcarcely ſee it.
Treaſon, and murther, ever kept together,
As two yoak-devils ſworn to either's purpoſe,
Working ſo groſſly in a natural cauſe,
That admiration did not whoop at them;
But thou, 'gainſt all proportion, didſt bring in
Wonder, to wait on treaſon, and on murther:
And whatſoever cunning fiend it was,
That wrought upon thee ſo prepoſt'rouſly,
H'ath got the voice in hell for excellence:
All other devils, that ſuggeſt by treaſons,
Do botch and bungle up damnation
With patches, colours, and with forms being fetch'd
From gliſt'ring ſemblances of piety;
But he, that temper'd thee, bad thee ſtand up,
Gave thee no inſtance why thou ſhould'ſt do treaſon,
Unleſs to dub thee with the name of traitor.
If that ſame dæmon, that hath gull'd thee thus,
Should with his lion gait walk the whole world,
He might return to vaſty Tartar back,
And tell the legions—I can never win
A ſoul ſo easy as that Engliſhman's.
O, how haſt thou with jealouſy infected
The ſweetneſs of affiance! Shew men dutiful?
Why, ſo didſt thou: Or ſeem they grave, and learned?
Why, ſo didſt thou: Come they of noble family?
Why, ſo didſt thou: Seem they religious?
Why, ſo didſt thou: Or are they ſpare in diet;
Free from groſs paſſion, or of mirth, or anger;
Conſtant in ſpirit, not ſwerving with the blood;
Garniſh'd and deck'd in modeſt complement;
Not working with the eye, without the ear,

[10] Hath [11] And other

And, but in purged judgment, truſting neither?
Such, and ſo finely boulted, didſt thou ſeem:
And thus thy fall hath left a kind of blot,
To mark the full-fraught man, the beſt indu'd,
With ſome ſuſpicion. I will weep for thee;
For this revolt of thine, methinks, is like
Another fall of man.—Their faults are open,
Arreſt them to the anſwer of the law;—
And God acquit them of their practices!

Exe. I arreſt thee of high-treaſon, by the name of Richard earl of Cambridge.—I arreſt thee of high-treaſon, by the name of Henry lord Scroop of Maſham.—I arreſt thee of high-treaſon, by the name of Thomas Grey knight of Northumberland.

Scr. Our purposes God juſtly hath diſcover'd;
And I repent my fault, more than my death:
Which I beſeech your highneſs to forgive,
Although my body pay the price of it.

Cam. For me,—the gold of France did not ſeduce;
Although I did admit it as a motive,
The ſooner to effect what I intended:
But God be thanked for prevention;
Which I in ſufferance heartily will rejoice,
Beſeeching God, and you, to pardon me.

Gre. Never did faithful ſubject more rejoice
At the diſcovery of moſt dangerous treaſon,
Than I do at this hour joy o'er myſelf,
Prevented from a damned enterprize:
My fault, but not my body, pardon, ſovereign.

Kin. God quit you in his mercy! Hear your ſentence.
You have conſpir'd againſt our royal perſon,
Join'd with an enemy, and from his coffers

4 make thee full fraught man, and beſt 32 enemy proclaim'd,

Receiv'd the golden earneſt of our death;
Wherein you would have ſold your king to ſlaughter,
His princes and his peers to ſervitude,
His ſubjects to oppreſſion and contempt,
And his whole kingdom unto deſolation:
Touching our perſon, ſeek we no revenge;
But we our kingdom's ſafety muſt ſo tender,
Whoſe ruin you three ſought, that to her laws
We do deliver you. Get you therefore hence,
Poor miſerable wretches, to your death:
The taſte whereof, God, of his mercy, give you
Patience to endure; and true repentance
Of all your dear offences. — Bear them hence. — [Exeunt Conſpirators, guarded.
Now, lords, for France; the enterprize whereof
Shall be to you, as us, like glorious.
We doubt not of a fair and lucky war;
Since God ſo graciouſly hath brought to light
This dangerous treaſon, lurking in our way,
To hinder our beginnings, we doubt not now
But every rub is ſmoothed in our way.
Then, forth, dear countrymen; let us deliver
Our puiſſance into the hand of God,
Putting it ſtraight in expedition.
Chearly to ſea; the ſigns of war advance:
No king of England, if not king of France. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. London. Before a Tavern.
Enter PISTOL, Hoſteſs, NYM, BARDOLPH, and the Boy.

Hoſ. Pry'thee, honey-ſweet husband, let me bring thee to Staines.

5 into 21 on

Pis. No; for my manly heart doth yern. —
Bardolph, be blith; — Nym, rouze thy vaunting veins; —
Boy, briſtle thy courage up;
For Falſtaff he is dead, and we muſt yern therefore.

Bar 'Would, I were with him, whereſome'er he is, either in heaven, or in hell.

Hoſ. Nay, ſure, he's not in hell; he's in Arthur's bosom, if ever man went to Arthur's bosom. 'A made a fine end; and went away, an it had been any chryſſom' child; 'a parted juſt between twelve and one, e'en at turning of the tide: for after I ſaw him fumble with the ſheets, and play with flowers, and ſmile upon his fingers' ends, I knew there was but one way; for his nose was as ſharp as a pen, and 'a babbl'd of green fields. How now, ſir John? quoth I: what, man! be o' good cheer: So 'a cry'd out—God, God, God! three or four times: now I, to comfort him, bid him 'a ſhould not think of God; I hop'd, there was no need to trouble himſelf with any ſuch thoughts yet: So 'a bad me lay more cloaths on his feet: I put my hand into the bed, and felt them, and they were as cold as any ſtone; then I felt to his knees, and they were as cold as any ſtone; and ſo upward, and upward, and all was as cold as any ſtone.

Nym. They ſay, he cry'd out of ſack.

Hoſ. Ay, that 'a did.

Bar. And of women.

Hoſ. Nay, that 'a did not. [carnate.

Boy. Yes, that 'a did; and ſaid, they were devils in-

Boy. 'A ſaid once, the devil would have him about

Hoſ. 'A did in ſome ſort, indeed, handle women: but then he was rheumatick; and talk'd of the whore of Babylon.

Boy. Do you not remember, 'a ſaw a flea ſtick upon Bardolph's nose; and 'a ſaid, it was a black ſoul burning in hell-fire.

Bar. Well, the fuel is gone, that maintain'd that fire: that's all the riches I got in his ſervice.

Nym. Shall we ſhog? the king will be gone from Southampton.

Pis. Come, let's away.—My love, give me thy lips. [kiſſing her.

Look to my chattels, and my moveables:
Let ſenſes rule; the word is, Pitch and pay:
Truſt none;
For oaths are ſtraws, men's faiths are wafer-cakes,
And hold-faſt is the only dog, my duck;
Therefore, caveto be thy counſellor.
Go, clear thy cryſtals.—Yoke-fellows in arms,
Let us to France! like horſe-leeches, my boys;
To ſuck, to ſuck, the very blood to ſuck!

Boy. And that's but unwholſome food, they ſay.

Pis. Touch her ſoft mouth, and march.

Bar. Farewel, hoſteſs. [kiſſing her.

Nym. I cannot kiſs, that is the humour of it; but adieu. [mand.

Pis. Let huswif'ry appear; keep cloſe, I thee com-

Hoſ. Farewel; adieu. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. France. A Room in ſome Palace. Enter the French King, and Train of Nobles; the Dauphin, Conſtable, &c.

Fr.K. Thus come the Engliſh with full power upon us;
And more than carefully it us concerns,
To anſwer royally in our defences.
Therefore the dukes of Berry, and of Bretagne,
Of Brabant, and of Orleans, ſhall make forth,—
And you, prince dauphin,—with all ſwift diſpatch,
To line, and new repair, our towns of war,
With men of courage, and with means defendant:
For England his approaches makes as fierce,
As waters to the ſucking of a gulph.
It fits us then, to be as provident
As fear may teach us, out of late examples
Left by the fatal and neglected Engliſh
Upon our fields.

Dau. My moſt redoubted father,
It is moſt meet, we arm us 'gainſt the foe:
For peace itſelf ſhould not ſo dull a kingdom,
(Though war, nor no known quarrel, were in queſtion)
But that defences, muſters, preparations,
Should be maintain'd, aſſembl'd, and collected,
As were a war in expectation.
Therefore, I ſay, 'tis meet we all go forth,
To view the ſick and feeble parts of France:
And let us do it with no ſhew of fear;
No, with no more, than if we heard that England
Were busy'd with a whitſun' morris-dance:
For, my good liege, ſhe is ſo idly king'd,
Her ſcepter ſo fantaſtically born
By a vain, giddy, ſhallow, humourous youth,
That fear attends her not.

Con. O, peace, prince dauphin!
You are too much miſtaken in this king:

Queſtion your grace the late embaſſadors,—
With what great ſtate he heard their embaſſy,
How well ſupply'd with noble counſellors,
How modeſt in exception, and, withal,
How terrible in conſtant resolution,—
And you ſhall find, his vanities fore-ſpent
Were but the out-ſide of the Roman Brutus,
Covering diſcretion with a coat of folly;
As gard'ners do with ordure hide those roots,
That ſhall firſt ſpring, and be moſt delicate.

Dau. Well, 'tis not ſo, my lord high conſtable.
But, though we think it ſo, it is no matter:
In caſes of defence, 'tis beſt to weigh
The enemy more mighty than he ſeems,
So the proportions of defence are fill'd;
Which, of a weak and niggardly projection,
Doth, like a miser, ſpoil his coat, with ſcanting
A little cloth.

Fr. K. Think we king Harry ſtrong;
And, princes, look, you ſtrongly arm to meet him.
The kindred of him hath been fleſh'd upon us;
And he is bred out of that bloody ſtrain,
That haunted us in our familiar paths:
Witneſs our too-much-memorable ſhame,
When Creſſi battle fatally was ſtruck,
And all our princes captiv'd, by the hand
Of that black name, Edward black prince of Wales;
Whiles that his mountain ſire,—on mountain ſtanding,
Up in the air, crown'd with the golden ſun,—
Saw his heroical ſeed, and ſmil'd to ſee him
Mangle the work of nature, and deface
The patterns that by God and by French fathers

Had twenty years been made. This is a ſtem
Of that victorious ſtock; and let us fear
The native mightineſs and fate of him.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Embaſſadors from Harry king of England
Do crave admittance to your majeſty.

Fr.K. We'll give them present audience.—Go, and bring them. [Exeunt Meſ. and certain Lords.
You ſee, this chace is hotly follow'd, friends.

Dau. Turn head, and ſtop purſuit: for coward dogs
Moſt ſpend their mouths, when what they ſeem to threaten Runs far before them. Good my ſovereign,
Take up the Engliſh ſhort; and let them know
Of what a monarchy you are the head:
Self-love, my liege, is not ſo vile a ſin,
As ſelf-neglecting.

Re-enter Lords, with EXETER and Train.

Fr.K. From our brother of England?

EXE. From him; and thus he greets your majeſty.
He wills you, in the name of God almighty,
That you diveſt yourſelf, and lay apart
The borrow'd glories, that, by gift of heaven,
By law of nature, and of nations, 'long
To him, and to his heirs; namely, the crown,
And all wide-ſtretched honours that pertain,
By cuſtom, and the ordinance of times,
Unto the crown of France. That you may know,
'Tis no ſiniſter, nor no aukward claim,
Pick'd from the worm-holes of long-vaniſh'd days,
Nor from the duſt of old oblivion rak'd,
He ſends you this ‡ moſt memorable line,
In every branch truly demonſtrative;

Willing you, over-look this pedigree:
And, when you find him evenly deriv'd
From his moſt fam'd of famous anceſtors,
Edward the third, he bids you then resign
Your crown and kingdom, indirectly held
From him the native and true challenger.

Fr.K. Or elſe what follows?

Exe. Bloody conſtraint; for if you hide the crown
Even in your hearts, there will he rake for it:
And therefore in fierce tempeſt is he coming,
In thunder, and in earthquake, like a Jove,
That, if requiring fail, he will compel.
He bids you, in the bowels of the Lord,
Deliver up the crown; and to take mercy
On the poor ſouls, for whom this hungry war
Opens his vaſty jaws: and on your head
Turns he the widows' tears, the orphans' cries,
The dead mens' blood, the pining maidens' groans,
For husbands, fathers, and betrothed lovers,
That ſhall be ſwallow'd in this controverſy.
This is his claim, his threat'ning, and my meſſage;
Unleſs the dauphin be in presence here,
To whom expreſly I bring greeting too.

Fr.K. For us, we will conſider of this further:
To-morrow ſhall you bear our full intent
Back to our brother of England.

Dau. For the dauphin,
I ſtand here for him; What to him from England?

Exe. Scorn, and defiance; ſlight regard, contempt,
And any thing that may not miſbecome
The mighty ſender, doth he prize you at.
Thus ſays my king: and, if your father's highneſs

Do not, in grant of all demands at large,
Sweeten the bitter mock you ſent his majeſty,
He'll call you to ſo loud an anſwer for it,
That caves and womby vaultages of France
Shall chide your treſpaſs, and return your mock
In ſecond accent of his ordinance.

Dau. Say, if my father render fair reply,
It is againſt my will: for I desire
Nothing but odds with England; to that end,
As matching to his youth and vanity,
I did present him with those Paris balls.

Exe. He'll make your Paris Louvre ſhake for it,
Were it the miſtreſs court of mighty Europe:
And, be aſſur'd, you'll find a difference,
(As we, his ſubjects, have in wonder found)
Between the promise of his greener days,
And these he maſters now; now he weighs time,
Even to the utmoſt grain; which you ſhall read
In your own loſſes, if he ſtay in France.

Fr.K. To-morrow ſhall you know our mind at full.

Exe. Diſpatch us with all ſpeed, leſt that our king
Come here himſelf to queſtion our delay;
For he is footed in this land already. [tions:

Fr.K. You ſhall be ſoon diſpatch'd, with fair condi-
A night is but ſmall breath, and little pause,
To anſwer matters of this conſequence. [Exeunt.

ACT III.

Enter Chorus.

Thus with imagin'd wing our ſwift ſcene flies,

In motion of no leſs celerity
Than that of thought. Suppose, that you have ſeen
The well-appointed king at Hampton peer
Embark his royalty; and his brave fleet
With ſilken ſtreamers the young Phœbus fanning.
Play with your fancies; and in them behold,
Upon the hempen tackle, ſhip-boys climbing:
Hear the ſhrill whiſtle, which doth order give
To ſounds confus'd: behold the threaden ſails,
Born with the invisible and creeping wind,
Draw the huge bottoms through the furrow'd ſea,
Breaſting the lofty ſurge: O, do but think,
You ſtand upon the rivage, and behold
A city on the inconſtant billows dancing;
For ſo appears this fleet majeſtical,
Holding due courſe to Harfleur. Follow, follow!
Grapple your minds to ſternage of this navy;
And leave your England, as dead midnight, ſtill,
Guarded with grandſires, babies, and old women,
Either paſt, or not arriv'd to, pith and puiſſance:
For who is he, whose chin is but enrich'd
With one appearing hair, that will not follow
These cull'd and choice-drawn cavaliers to France?
Work, work, your thoughts, and therein ſee a ſiege;
Behold the ordinance on their carriages,
With fatal mouths gaping on girded Harfleur.
Suppose, the embaſſador from the French comes back;
Tells Harry—that the king doth offer him
Catharine, his daughter; and with her, to dowry,
Some petty and unprofitable dukedoms.
The offer likes not: and the nimble gunner
With linſtock now the deviliſh cannon touches,

3 at Dover Peer 5 fayning

[Alarum; and Chambers go off.
And down goes all before him. Still be kind,
And eke out our performance with your mind. [Exit.

SCENE I. The ſame. Before Harfleur.
Other Alarums, Firings, &c. Enter King Henry, and Forces, with Scaling-ladders.

Kin. Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more;
Or close the wall up with our Engliſh dead!
In peace, there's nothing ſo becomes a man,
As modeſt ſtillneſs, and humility:
But when the blaſt of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tyger;
Stiffen the ſinews, ſummon up the blood,
Diſguise fair nature with hard-favour'd rage:
Then lend the eye a terrible aſpect;
Let it pry through the portage of the head,
Like the braſs cannon; let the brow o'erwhelm it,
As fearfully, as doth a galled rock
O'er-hang and jutty his confounded baſe,
Swill'd with the wild and waſteful ocean.
Now ſet the teeth, and ſtretch the noſtril wide;
Hold hard the breath, and bend up every ſpirit
To his full height! — On, on, you nobleſt Engliſh,
Whose blood is ſet from fathers of war-proof!
Fathers, that, like ſo many Alexanders,
Have, in these parts, from morn 'till even fought,
And ſheath'd their ſwords for lack of argument.
Diſhonour not your mothers; now atteſt,
That those, whom you call'd fathers, did beget you!
Be copy now to men of groſſer blood,
And teach them how to war! — And you, good yeomen,

14 commune up 31 me of

Whose limbs were made in England, ſhew us here
The mettle of your paſture; let us ſwear,
That you are worth your breeding: which I doubt not;
For there is none of you ſo mean and baſe,
That hath not noble luſtre in your eyes.
I ſee you ſtand like greyhounds in the ſlips,
Straining upon the ſtart. The game's a foot;
Follow your ſpirit: and, upon this charge,
Cry—God for Harry! England! and ſaint George!
[Exeunt, ſounding a Charge.

SCENE II. The ſame.

Enter other Forces, and paſs over; then, NYM, BARDOLPH, PISTOL, and Boy.

BAR. On, on, on, on, on! to the breach, to the breach!

NYM. Pray thee, lieutenant, ſtay; the knocks are too hot; and, for mine own part, I have not a caſe of lives: the humour of it is too hot, that is the very plain-ſong of it. [abound;

PIS. The plain-ſong is moſt juſt: for humours do
Knocks go and come; God's vaſſals drop and die;
And ſword, and ſhield,
In bloody field,
Doth win immortal fame.

Boy. 'Would, I were in an ale-houſe in London! I would give all my fame for a pot of ale, and ſafety.

PIS. And I:
If wiſhes would prevail with me,
My purpoſe ſhould not fail with me,
But thither would I hie.

Boy. As duly, (but not as truly) as bird doth ſing on bough.

7 ſtraying 16 Pray thee Corporall,

Enter FLUELLEN.

Flu. Got's plud!—Up to the preaches you raſcals! will you not up to the preaches?

[driving them forward with his Partizan.

Pis. Be merciful, great duke, to men of mould!
Abate thy rage, abate thy manly rage!
Good bawcock, bate thy rage! use lenity, ſweet chuck!

Nym. These be good humours!—your honour wins bad humours. [Exeunt NYM, PISTOL, and BARDOLPH, driven in by FLUELLEN.

Boy. As young as I am, I have obſerv'd these three ſwaſhers. I am boy to them all three: but all they three, though they would ſerve me, could not be man to me; for, indeed, three ſuch anticks do not amount to a man. For Bardolph,—he is white-liver'd, and red-fac'd; by the means whereof, a' faces it out, but fights not. For Piſtol,—he hath a killing tongue, and a quiet ſword; by the means whereof, a' breaks words, and keeps whole weapons. For Nym,—he hath heard, that men of few words are the beſt men; and therefore he ſcorns to ſay his prayers, leſt a' ſhould be thought a coward: but his few bad words are match'd with as few good deeds; for a' never broke any man's head, but his own; and that was againſt a poſt, when he was drunk. They will ſteal any thing, and call it—purchaſe. Bardolph ſtole a lute-caſe; bore it twelve leagues, and ſold it for three half-pence. Nym, and Bardolph, are ſworn brothers in filching; and in Calais they ſtole a fire-ſhovel: I knew, by that piece of ſervice, the men would carry coals. They would have me as familiar with men's pockets, as their gloves, or their handkerchiefs: which makes much againſt my manhood, if I ſhould take from another's pocket, to put into mine; for it is plain pocketing up of wrongs. I muſt leave them, and ſeek ſome better ſervice: their villany goes againſt my weak ſtomach, and therefore I muſt caſt it up. [Exit.

Re-enter FLUELLEN; to him GOWER.

Gow. Captain Fluellen, you muſt come presently to the mines; the duke of Gloſter would ſpeak with you.

Flu. To the mines! tell you the duke, it is not ſo goot to come to the mines: For, look you, the mines is not according to the diſciplines of the war; the concavities of it is not ſufficient; for, look you, th'athverſary (you may diſcuſs unto the duke, look you) is digt himſelf four yards under the countermines: by Cheſhu, I think a' will plow up all, if there is not petter directions.

Gow. The duke of Gloſter, to whom the order of the ſiege is given, is altogether directed by an Iriſhman; a very valiant gentleman, i'faith.

Flu It is captain Mac-morris, is it not?

Gow. I think, it be.

Flu. By Cheſhu, he is an aſs, as in the 'orld; I will verify as much in his peard: he has no more directions in the true diſciplines of the wars, look you, of the Roman diſciplines, than is a puppy-dog.

Enter MAC-MORRIS, and JAMY, at a Diſtance.

Gow. Here a' comes; and the Scots captain, captain Jamy, with him.

Flu. Captain Jamy is a marvellous falorous gentleman, that is certain; and of great expedition, and knowledge, in the ancient wars, upon my particular knowledge of his directions: by Cheſhu, he will maintain his argument as well as any military man in the 'orld, in the diſciplines of the priſtine wars of the Romans.

Jam. I ſay, gud-day, captain Fluellen.

Flu. God-den to your worſhip, goot captain Jamy.

Gow. How now, captain Mac-morris? have you quit the mines? have the pioneers given o'er?

Mac. By Chriſh, la, tiſh ill done; the work iſh give over, the trumpet ſound the retreat. By my hand, I ſwear, and my father's ſoul, the work iſh ill done; it iſh give over: I would have blowed up the town, ſo Chriſh ſave me, la, in an hour. O, tiſh ill done, tiſh ill done; by my hand, tiſh ill done!

Flu. Captain Mac-morris, I peſeech you now, will you vouchſafe me, look you, a few diſputations with you, as partly touching or concerning the diſciplines of the war, the Roman wars, in the way of argument, look you, and friendly communication; partly, to ſatiſfy my opinion, and, partly, for the ſatiſfaction, look you, of my mind, as touching the direction of the military diſcipline; that is the point.

Jam. It ſall be vary gud, gud feith, gud captains bath: and I ſall quit you with gud leve, as I may pick occaſion; that ſall I, mary.

Mac. It is no time to diſcourſe, ſo Chriſh ſave me: the day is hot, and the weather, and the wars, and the king, and the dukes; it is no time to diſcourſe. The town is beſeech'd, and the trumpet call us to the breach; and we talk, and (by Chriſh) do nothing; 'tis ſhame for us all: ſo God ſa'me, 'tis ſhame to ſtand ſtill; it is ſhame, by my hand: and there is throats to be cut, and works to be done; and there iſh nothing done, ſo Chriſh ſa'me, la.

Jam. By the meſs, ere theise eyes of mine take themſelves to ſlumber, ayle do gud ſervice, or ayle lig i'th' grund for it; ay, or go to death; and ayle pay't as valorouſly as I may, that ſall I ſuerly do, that is the breff and the long: Mary, I wad full fain heard ſome queſtion 'tween you tway.

Flu. Captain Mac-morris, I think, look you, under your correction, there is not many of your nation—

Mac. Of my nation? What iſh my nation? iſh a villain, and a baſtard, and a knave, and a raſcal?—What iſh my nation? Who talks of my nation?

Flu. Look you, if you take the matter otherwise than is meant, captain Mac-morris, peradventure, I ſhall think you do not use me with that affability as in diſcretion you ought to use me, look you; being as goot a man as yourſelf, both in the diſciplines of war, and in the derivation of my birth, and in other particularities.

Mac. I do not know you ſo good a man as myſelf: ſo Chriſh ſave me, I will cut off your head.

Gow. Gentlemen both, you will miſtake each other.

Jam. Au! that's a foul fault. [Parley ſounded.

Gow. The town ſounds a parley.

Flu. Captain Mac-morris, when there is more petter opportunity to be required, look you, I will be ſo pold as to tell you, I know the diſciplines of war; and there is an end. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. The ſame. Before a Gate.

Governor, and Others, upon the walls; below, the Engliſh Forces.

Flouriſh. Enter King Henry, and Train.

Kin. How yet reſolves the governor of the town?
This is the lateſt parle we will admit:
Therefore, to our beſt mercy give yourſelves;
Or, like to men proud of deſtruction,
Defy us to our worſt: for, as I am a ſoldier,
(A name, that, in my thoughts, becomes me beſt)
If I begin the battery once again,
I will not leave the half-atchieved Harfleur,
'Till in her aſhes ſhe lie buried.
The gates of mercy ſhall be all ſhut up;
And the fleſh'd ſoldier,—rough, and hard of heart,—
In liberty of bloody hand, ſhall range
With conſcience wide as hell; mowing like graſs
Your freſh fair virgins, and your flow'ring infants.
What is it then to me, if impious war,—
Array'd in flames, like to the prince of fiends,—
Do, with his ſmirch'd complexion, all fell feats
Enlink'd to waſte and deſolation?
What is't to me, when you yourſelves are cauſe,
If your pure maidens fall into the hand
Of hot and forcing violation?
What rein can hold licentious wickedneſs,
When down the hill he holds his fierce career?
We may as bootleſs ſpend our vain command
Upon the enraged ſoldiers in their ſpoil,
As ſend precépts to the leviathan
To come aſhore. Therefore, you men of Harfleur,
Take pity of your town, and of your people,
Whiles yet my ſoldiers are in my command;
Whiles yet the cool and temperate wind of grace
O'er-blows the filthy and contagious clouds

Of heady murther, ſpoil, and villany.
If not, Why, in a moment, look to ſee
The blind and bloody ſoldier with foul hand
Defile the locks of your ſhrill-ſhrieking daughters;
Your fathers taken by the ſilver beards,
And their moſt reverend heads daſh'd to the walls;
Your naked infants ſpitted upon pikes;
Whiles the mad mothers with their howls confus'd
Do break the clouds, as did the wives of Jewry
At Herod's bloody-hunting ſlaughtermen.
What ſay you? will you yield, and this avoid?
Or, guilty in defence, be thus deſtroy'd?

Gov. Our expectation hath this day an end:
The dauphin, whom of ſuccour we entreated,
Returns us — that his powers are not yet ready
To raise ſo great a ſiege. Therefore, dread king,
We yield our town, and lives, to thy ſoft mercy:
Enter our gates; diſpose of us, and ours;
For we no longer are defenſible.

Kin. Open your gates.—Come, uncle Exeter,
Go you and enter Harfleur; there remain,
And fortify it ſtrongly 'gainſt the French:
Use mercy to them all for us, good uncle.
The winter coming on, and ſickneſs growing
Upon our ſoldiers, we will retire to Calais.
To-night in Harfleur will we be your gueſt;
To-morrow for the march are we addreſt.

[Flouriſh; and Exeunt Engliſh to the Town.

SCENE IV. Roan. A Room in the Palace.

Enter the Lady CATHARINE, and ALICE.

CAT. Alice, tu as eſté en Angleterre, et tu parles bien

4 Deſire

le language.

Ali. Un peu, madame.

Cat. Je te prie, m'enſeignez; il faut que j'apprenne á parler. Comment appellez vous — la main, en Anglois?

Ali. La main? ell' eſt appellée — de hand.

Cat. De hand. Et les doigts?

Ali. Les doigts? ma foy, je oublie — les doigts; mais je me ſouviendray. Les doigts? Je penſe, qu'ils ſont appellé — de fingers; oui, de fingers.

Cat. La main, de hand; les doigts, de fingers: Je penſe, que je ſuis le bon eſcolier; je gagnée deux mots d'Anglois viſtement. Comment appellez vous — les ongles?

Ali. Les ongles? les appellons — de nails.

Cat. De nails. Eſcoutez; dites moi, ſi je parle bien: De hand, de fingers, de nails.

Ali. C'eſt bien dit, madame; il eſt fort bon Anglois.

Cat. Dites moi en Anglois — le bras.

Ali. De arm, madame.

Cat. Et le coude.

Ali. De elbow.

Cat. De elbow. Je m'en faitz la repetition de tous les mots que vous m'avez apprinſe dés á preſent.

Ali. Il eſt trop difficile, madame, comme je penſe.

Cat. Excuſez moi, Alice; Eſcoutez: De hand, de fingers, de nails, de arm, de bilbow.

Ali. De elbow, madame.

Cat. O ſeigneur Dieu! je m'en oublie; De elbow. Comment appellez vous — le col?

Ali. De neck, madame.

Cat. De neck: Et le menton?

Ali. De chin.

Cat. De ſin. Le col, de neck; le menton, de ſin.

Ali. Oui. Sauf voſtre honneur ; en verité, vous prononcez les mots auſſi droict que les natifs d'Angleterre.

Cat. Je ne doute point d'apprendre, par la grace de Dieu ; et en peu de temps. [ſeignée?

Ali. N'avez vous pas déja oublié ce que je vous ay en-

Cat. Non ; je reciteray á vous promptement. De hand, de fingers, de mails,—

Ali. De nails, madame.

Cat. De nails, de arm, de ilbow,—

Ali. Sauf voſtre honneur, de elbow.

Cat. Ainſi dis je ; de elbow, de neck, et de ſin. Comment appellez vous—les pieds, et la robe?

Ali. De foot, madame ; et de con.

Cat. De foot, et de con? O ſeigneur Dieu! ces ſont mots de ſon mauvais, corruptible, groſſe, et impudique, et non pour les dames d'honneur d'uſer : Je ne voudrois prononcer ces mots devant les ſeigneurs de France, pour tout le monde. Il faut, de foot, et de con, neant-moins. Je reciteray une autre fois ma leçon enſemble : De hand, de fingers, de nails, de arm, de elbow, de neck, de ſin, de foot, de con.

Ali. Excellent, madame!

Cat. C'eſt aſſez pour une fois ; allons nous en diſner.

SCENE V. The ſame. Another Room in the ſame. Enter the French King, the Dauphin, the Duke of Bourbon, the Conſtable of France, and Others.

Fr.K. 'Tis certain, he hath paſſ'd the river Some.

Con. And if he be not fought withal, my lord,
Let us not live in France ; let us quit all,
And give our vineyards to a barbarous people.

Dau. O Dieu vivant! ſhall a few ſprays of us,—

The emptying of our fathers' luxury,—
Our ſyens, put in wild and ſavage ſtock,
Spirt up ſo ſuddenly into the clouds,
And over-grow their grafters?

Bou. Normans, but baſtard Normans, Norman baſtards!
Mort de ma vie! if thus they march along
Unfought withal, but I will ſell my dukedom,
To buy a ſlobbery and a dirty farm
In that nook-ſhotten iſle of Albion.

Con. Dieu de batailles! where have they this mettle?
Is not their climate foggy, raw, and dull?
On whom, as in deſpight, the ſun looks pale,
Killing their fruit with frowns? Can ſodden water,
A drench for ſur-rein'd jades, their barley broth,
Decoct their cold blood to ſuch valiant heat?
And ſhall our quick blood, ſpirited with wine,
Seem froſty? O, for honour of our land,
Let us not hang like roping iſicles
Upon our houses' thatch, whiles a more froſty people
Sweat drops of gallant youth in our rich fields;
Poor — we may call them, in their native lords.

Dau. By faith and honour,
Our madams mock at us; and plainly ſay,
Our mettle is bred out; and they will give
Their bodies to the luſt of Engliſh youth,
To new-ſtore France with baſtard warriors.

Bou. They bid us — to the Engliſh dancing-ſchools,
And teach lavolta's high, and ſwift corranto's;
Saying, our grace is only in our heels,
And that we are moſt lofty run-aways.

Fr. K. Where is Montjoy, the herald? ſpeed him hence;
Let him greet England with our ſharp defiance. —

Up, princes; and, with ſpirit of honour edg'd,
More ſharper than your ſwords, hie to the field:
Charles De-la-bret, high conſtable of France;
You dukes of Orleans, Bourbon, and of Berry,
Alenson, Brabant, Bar, and Burgundy;
Jaques Chatillion, Rambures, Vaudemont,
Beaumont, Grandprée, Rouſſi, and Fauconberg,
Foix, Leſtrale, Bouciqualt, and Charolois;
High dukes, great princes, barons, lords, and knights,
For your great ſeats, now quit you of great ſhames.
Bar Harry England, that ſweeps through our land
With pennons painted in the blood of Harfleur:
Ruſh on his hoſt, as doth the melted ſnow
Upon the valleys; whose low vaſſal ſeat
The Alps doth ſpit and void his rheum upon:
Go down upon him,—you have power enough,—
And, in a captive chariot, into Roan
Bring him our prisoner.

Con. This becomes the great.
Sorry am I, his numbers are ſo few,
His ſoldiers ſick, and famiſh'd in their march;
For, I am ſure, when he ſhall ſee our army,
He'll drop his heart into the ſink of fear,
And, for atchievement, offer us his ranſom.

Fr.K. Therefore, lord conſtable, haſte on Montjoy;
And let him ſay to England, that we ſend
To know what willing ranſom he will give.—
Prince dauphin, you ſhall ſtay with us in Roan.

Dau. Not ſo, I do beſeech your majeſty.

Fr.K. Be patient, for you ſhall remain with us.—
Now, forth, lord conſtable, and princes all;
And quickly bring us word of England's fall. [Exeunt.

9 Kings v. Note.

SCENE VI. Camp of the Engliſh Forces in Picardy.

Enter GOWER, and FLUELLEN, meeting.

Gow. How now, captain Fluellen? come you from the bridge?

Flu. I aſſure you, there is very excellent ſervice committed at the pridge.

Gow. Is the duke of Exeter ſafe?

Flu. The duke of Exeter is as magnanimous as Agamemnon; and a man that I love and honour with my ſoul, and my heart, and my duty, and my life, and my livings, and my uttermoſt powers: he is not (Got be praised and bleſſed!) any hurt in the 'orld; but keeps the pridge moſt valiantly, with excellent diſcipline. There is an ancient lieutenant there at the pridge,—I think, in my very conſcience, he is as valiant a man as Mark Antony; and he is a man of no eſtimation in the 'orld; but I did ſee him do gallant ſervice.

Gow. What do you call him?

Flu. He is call'd—ancient Piſtol.

Gow. I know him not.

Enter PISTOL.

Flu. Do you not know him? Here comes the man.

Pis. Captain, I thee beſeech to do me favours. The duke of Exeter doth love thee well:

Flu. Ay, I praise Got; and I have merited ſome love at his hands.

Pis. Bardolph, a ſoldier, firm and ſound of heart,
Of buxom valour, hath,—by cruel fate,
And giddy fortune's furious fickle wheel,
That goddeſs blind,
That ſtands upon the rowling reſtleſs ſtone,—

Flu. By your patience, ancient Piſtol. Fortune is painted blind, with a muffler afore her eyes, to ſignify to you — that fortune is blind: And ſhe is painted alſo with a wheel; to ſignify to you, which is the moral of it, that ſhe is turning, and inconſtant, and variations, and mutabilities: and her foot, look you, is fixed upon a ſpherical ſtone, which rowls, and rowls, and rowls;— Surely, the poet is make an excellent deſcription of fortune; fortune, look you, is an excellent moral.

Pis. Fortune is Bardolph's foe, and frowns on him;
For he hath ſtoln a pax, and hanged muſt 'a be.
Damn'd death!
Let gallows gape for dog, let man go free,
And let not hemp his wind-pipe ſuffocate:
But Exeter hath given the doom of death,
For pax of little price.
Therefore, go ſpeak, the duke will hear thy voice;
And let not Bardolph's vital thread be cut
With edge of penny-cord, and vile reproach:
Speak, captain, for his life, and I will thee requite.

Flu. Ancient Piſtol, I do partly underſtand your meaning:

Pis. Why then rejoice therefore.

Flu. Certainly, ancient, it is not a thing to rejoice at: for if, look you, he were my prother, I would deſire the duke to use his goot pleaſure, and put him to executions; for diſciplines ought to be used.

Pis. Die, and be damn'd; and figo for thy friendſhip!

Flu. It is well.

Pis. The fig of Spain! [Exit Pistol.

Flu. Very good.

Gow. Why, this is an arrant counterfeit raſcal; I remember him now; a bawd, a cut-purſe.

5 variation;

Flu. I'll aſſure you, a' utter'd as prave 'ords at the pridge, as you ſhall ſee in a ſummer's day: But it is very well; what he has ſpoke to me, that is well, I warrant you, when time is ſerve.

Gow. Why, 'tis a gull, a fool, a rogue; that now and then goes to the wars, to grace himſelf, at his return into London, under the form of a ſoldier. And ſuch fellows are perfect in great commanders' names: and they will learn you by rote, where ſervices were done;—at ſuch and ſuch a ſconce, at ſuch a breach, at ſuch a convoy; who came off bravely, who was ſhot, who diſgraced, what terms the enemy ſtood on; and this they con perfectly in phraſe of war, which they trick up with new-tuned oaths: And what a beard of the general's cut, and a horrid ſhout of the camp, will do among foming bottles, and ale-waſh'd wits, is wonderful to be thought on! But you muſt learn to know ſuch ſlanders of the age, or elſe you may be marvelloufly miſtook.

Flu. I tell you what, captain Gower;—I do perceive, he is not the man that he would gladly make ſhew to the 'orld he is; if I find a hole in his coat, I will tell him my mind. [Drum heard.] Hark you, the king is coming; and I muſt ſpeak with him from the pridge.

Enter King Henry, and Forces; Gloster, and Others, with him.

Got pleſs your majeſty! [bridge?

Kin. How now, Fluellen? cameſt thou from the Flu. Ay, ſo please your majeſty. The duke of Exeter has very gallantly maintain'd the pridge: the French is gone off, look you; and there is gallant and moſt prave paſſages: Marry, th'athverſary was have poſſeſſion of the pridge; but he is enforced to retire, and the duke of Exeter is maſter of the pridge: I can tell your majeſty, the duke is a prave man.

Kin. What men have you loſt, Fluellen?

Flu. The perdition of th'athverſary hath been very great, reasonable great: marry, for my part, I think the duke hath loſt never a man, but one that is like to be executed for robbing a church, one Bardolph, if your majeſty know the man: his face is all pupuncles, and whelks, and knobs, and flames of fire; and his lips plows at his nose, and it is like a coal of fire, ſometimes plew, and ſometimes red; but his nose is executed, and his fire's out.

Kin. We would have all ſuch offenders ſo cut off:— and we give expreſs charge, that, in our marches through the country, there be nothing compell'd from the villages, nothing taken but pay'd for; none of the French upbraided, or abused in diſdainful language; For, when lenity and cruelty play for a kingdom, the gentler gameſter is the ſooneſt winner.

Tucket. Enter Montjoy.

Mon. You know me by my habit. [thee?

Kin. Well then, I know thee; What ſhall I know of

Mon. My maſter's mind.

Kin. Unfold it.

Mon. Thus ſays my king;—Say thou to Harry of England, Though we ſeem'd dead, we did but ſleep; Advantage is a better ſoldier, than raſhneſs. Tell him, we could have rebuk'd him at Harfleur; but that we thought not good to bruise an injury, 'till it were full ripe: now we ſpeak upon our cue, and our voice is imperial; England ſhall repent his folly, ſee his weakneſs, and admire our ſufferance. Bid him, therefore, conſider of his ranſom; which muſt proportion the loſſes we have born, the ſubjects we have loſt, the diſgrace we have digeſted; which in weight to re-anſwer, his pettineſs would bow under. For our loſſes, his exchequer is too poor; for the effuſion of our blood, the muſter of his kingdom too faint a number; and for our diſgrace, his own perſon, kneeling at our feet, but a weak and worthleſs ſatiſfaction. To this, add—defiance: and tell him, for conclusion, he hath betray'd his followers, whose condemnation is pronounc'd. So far my king and maſter; ſo much my office.

Kin. What is thy name? I know thy quality.

Mon. Montjoy.

Kin. Thou doſt thy office fairly. Turn thee back,
And tell thy king,—I do not ſeek him now;
But could be willing to march on to Calais,
Without impeachment: for, to ſay the ſooth,
(Though 'tis no wisdom, to confeſs ſo much Unto an enemy of craft and vantage)
My people are with ſickneſs much enfeebl'd;
My numbers leſſen'd; and those few I have,
Almoſt no better than ſo many French;
Who when they were in health, I tell thee, herald,
I thought, upon one pair of Engliſh legs
Did march three Frenchmen.—Yet, forgive me, God,
That I do brag thus!—this your air of France
Hath blown that vice in me; I muſt repent.
Go, therefore, tell thy maſter,—here I am;
My ranſom, is this frail and worthleſs trunk;
My army, but a weak and ſickly guard;

Yet, God before, tell him we will come on,
Though France himſelf, and ſuch another neighbour,
Stand in our way. There's † for thy labour, Montjoy.
Go, bid thy maſter well advise himſelf:
If we may paſs, we will; if we be hinder'd,
We ſhall your tawny ground with your red blood
Diſcolour: and ſo, Montjoy, fare you well.
The ſum of all our anſwer is but this:
We would not ſeek a battle, as we are;
Nor, as we are, we ſay, we will not ſhun it;
So tell your maſter.

Mon. I ſhall deliver ſo. Thanks to your highneſs.
[Exit Montjoy.

Glo. I hope, they will not come upon us now.

Kin. We are in God's hand, brother, not in theirs.—
March to the bridge; it now draws toward night:—
Beyond the river we'll encamp ourſelves;
And on to-morrow bid them march away. [Exeunt.

SCENE VII. The French Camp, near Agincourt.

Enter the Conſtable of France, the Lord Rambures, the Duke of Orleans, Dauphin, and Others.

Con. Tut! I have the beſt armour of the world.—
'Would, it were day!

Orl. You have an excellent armour; but let my horſe have his due.

Con. It is the beſt horſe of Europe.

Orl. Will it never be morning?

Dau. My lord of Orleans, and my lord high conſtable, you talk of horſe and armour,—

Orl. You are as well provided of both, as any prince in the world.

Dau. What a long night is this! — I will not change my horſe with any that treads but on four paſterns. Ha, ha! he bounds from the earth, as if his entrails were hairs; le cheval volant, the Pegaſus, qui a les narines de feu. When I beſtride him, I ſoar, I am a hawk: he trots the air; the earth ſings, when he touches it; the baſeſt horn of his hoof is more musical than the pipe of Hermes.

Orl. He's of the colour of the nutmeg.

Dau. And of the heat of the ginger. It is a beaſt for Perſeus: he is pure air, and fire; and the dull elements of earth, and water, never appear in him, but only in patient ſtilneſs, while his rider mounts him: he is, indeed, a horſe; and all other jades you may call — beaſts.

Con. Indeed, my lord, it is a moſt abſolute and excellent horſe.

Dau. It is the prince of palfreys; his neigh is like the bidding of a monarch, and his countenance enforces homage.

Orl. No more, cousin.

Dau. Nay, the man hath no wit, that cannot, from the rising of the lark to the lodging of the lamb, vary deserved praise on my palfrey: it is a theme as fluent as the ſea; turn the ſands into eloquent tongues, and my horſe is argument for them all: 'tis a ſubject for a ſovereign to reason on, and for a ſovereign's ſovereign to ride on; and for the world (familiar to us, and known) to lay apart their particular functions, and wonder at him. I once writ a ſonnet in his praise; and began thus, Wonder of nature,—

Orl. I have heard a ſonnet begin ſo to one's miſtreſs.

[3] v. Note. [29] and unknown

Dau. Then did they imitate that which I compos'd to my courſer; for my horſe is my miſtreſs.

Orl. Your miſtreſs bears well.

Dau. Me well; which is the preſcript praiſe, and perfection, of a good and particular miſtreſs.

Con. Nay; for, methought, yeſterday your miſtreſs ſhrewdly ſhook your back.

Dau. So, perhaps, did yours.

Con. Mine was not bridl'd.

Dau. O! then, belike, ſhe was old and gentle; and you rode like a kerne of Ireland, your French hoſe off, and in your ſtrait troſſers.

Con. You have good judgment in horſemanſhip.

Dau. Be warn'd by me then: they that ride ſo, and ride not warily, fall into foul bogs; I had rather have my horſe to my miſtreſs.

Con. I had as lief have my miſtreſs a jade.

Dau. I tell thee, conſtable, my miſtreſs wears her own hair.

Con. I could make as true a boaſt as that, if I had a ſow to my miſtreſs.

Dau. Le chien eſt retourné a ſon propre vomiſſement, et la truie lavée au bourbier: thou mak'ſt uſe of any thing.

Con. Yet I do not use my horſe for my miſtreſs; or any ſuch proverb, ſo little kin to the purpose.

Ram. My lord conſtable, the armour, that I ſaw in your tent to-night, are thoſe ſtars, or ſuns, upon it?

Con. Stars, my lord,

Dau. Some of them will fall to-morrow, I hope.

Con. And yet my ſky ſhall not want.

Dau. That may be, for you bear a many ſuperfluouſly;

12 Stroffers 23 la levye

and 'twere more honour, ſome were away.

Con. Ev'n as your horſe bears your praiſes; who would trot as well, were ſome of your brags diſmounted.

Dau. 'Would, I were able to load him with his deſert. Will it never be day? I will trot to-morrow a mile, and my way ſhall be paved with Engliſh faces.

Con. I will not ſay ſo, for fear I ſhould be fac'd out of my way: But I would it were morning, for I would fain be about the ears of the Engliſh.

Ram. Who will go to hazard with me for twenty priſoners?

Con. You muſt firſt go yourſelf to hazard, ere you have them.

Dau. 'Tis midnight, I'll go arm myſelf. [Exit.

Orl. The dauphin longs for morning.

Ram. He longs to eat the Engliſh.

Con. I think, he will eat all he kills.

Orl. By the white hand of my lady, he's a gallant prince.

Con. Swear by her foot, that ſhe may tread out the oath. [France.

Orl. He is, ſimply, the moſt active gentleman of

Con. Doing is activity; and he will ſtill be doing.

Orl. He never did harm, that I heard of.

Con. Nor will do none to-morrow; he will keep that good name ſtill.

Orl. I know him to be valiant. [than you.

Con. I was told that, by one that knows him better

Orl. What's he?

Con. Marry, he told me ſo himſelf; and he ſaid, he car'd not who knew it.

Orl. He needs not, it is no hidden virtue in him.

Con. By my faith, ſir, but it is; never any body ſaw it, but his lacquey: 'tis a hooded valour; and, when it appears, it will bate.

Orl. Ill will never ſaid well.

Con. I will cap that proverb, with — There is flattery in friendſhip. [his due.

Orl. And I will take up that, with — Give the devil

Con. Well plac'd· there ſtands your friend for the devil: have at the very eye of that proverb, with — A pox of the devil!

Orl. You are the better at proverbs, by how much— A fool's bolt is ſoon ſhot.

Con. You have ſhot over.

Orl. 'Tis not the firſt time you were over-ſhot.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. My lord high conſtable, the Engliſh lie within fifteeen hundred paces of your tent.

Con. Who hath measur'd the ground?

Meſ. The lord Grandprée.

Con. A valiant and moſt expert gentleman. 'Would, it were day! Alas, poor Harry of England! he longs not for the dawning, as we do.

Orl. What a wretched and peeviſh fellow is this king of England, to mope with his fat-brain'd followers ſo far out of his knowledge!

Con. If the Engliſh had any apprehenſion, they would run away.

Orl. That they lack; for if their heads had any intellectual armour, they could never wear ſuch heavy head-pieces.

Ram. That iſland of England breeds very valiant creatures; their maſtiffs are of unmatchable courage.

Orl. Fooliſh curs! that run winking into the mouth of a Ruſſian bear, and have their heads cruſh'd like rotten apples: You may as well ſay—that's a valiant flea, that dare eat his breakfaſt on the lip of a lion.

Con. Juſt, juſt; and the men do ſympathize with the maſtiffs, in robuſtious and rough coming on, leaving their wits with their wives: and then give them great meals of beef, and iron and ſteal, they will eat like wolves, and fight like devils.

Orl. Ay, but these Engliſh are ſhrewdly out of beef.

Con. Then ſhall we find to-morrow—they have only ſtomachs to eat, and none to fight. Now is it time to arm; Come, ſhall we about it?

Orl. It is now two o'clock: but, let me ſee,—by ten, We ſhall have each a hundred Engliſhmen. [Exeunt.

ACT IV.

Enter Chorus.

Now entertain conjecture of a time,
When creeping murmur, and the poring dark,
Fills the wide veſſel of the univerſe.
From camp to camp, through the foul womb of night
The hum of either army ſtilly ſounds,
That the fixt centinels almoſt receive
The ſecret whiſpers of each other's watch:
Fire anſwers fire; and through their paly flames
Each battle ſees the other's umber'd face:
Steed threatens ſteed, in high and boaſtful neighs
Piercing the night's dull ear; and from the tents,
The armourers, accompliſhing the knights,

With busy hammers closing rivets up,
Give dreadful note of preparation.
The country cocks do crow, the clocks do toll;
And the third hour of drowzy morning's nam'd.
Proud of their numbers, and ſecure in ſoul,
The confident and over-luſty French
Do the low-rated Engliſh play at dice;
And chide the cripple tardy-gaited night,
Who, like a foul and ugly witch, doth limp
So tediouſly away. The poor condemned Engliſh,
Like ſacrifices, by their watchful fires
Sit patiently, and inly ruminate
The morning's danger; and their geſture ſad,
And war-worn coats, inveſting lank-lean cheeks,
Presented them unto the gazing moon
So many horrid ghoſts, O, now, who will behold
The royal captain of this ruin'd band,
Walking from watch to watch, from tent to tent,
Let him cry — Praise and glory on his head!
For forth he goes, and visits all his hoſt;
Bids them good morrow, with a modeſt ſmile;
And calls them — brothers, friends, and countrymen.
Upon his royal face there is no note,
How dread an army hath enrounded him;
Nor doth he dedicate one jot of colour
Unto the weary and all-watched night:
But freſhly looks, and over-bears attaint,
With chearful ſemblance, and ſweet majeſty;
That every wretch, pining and pale before,
Beholding him, plucks comfort from his looks:
A largeſs univerſal, like the ſun,
His liberal eye doth give to every one,

[13] Inveſting lanke-leane Cheeks, and Warre-worne Coats,

Thawing cold fear. Then, mean and gentle all,
Behold, as may unworthineſs define,
A little touch of Harry in the night:
And ſo our ſcene muſt to the battle fly;
Where (o, for pity!) we ſhall much diſgrace—
With four or five moſt vile and ragged foils,
Right ill diſpos'd, in brawl ridiculous,—
The name of Agincourt: Yet, ſit and ſee;
Minding true things by what their mockeries be. [Exit.

SCENE I. The Engliſh Camp.

Enter King Henry, Bedford, and Gloster.

Kin. Gloſter, 'tis true, that we are in great danger;
The greater therefore ſhould our courage be.—
Good morrow, brother Bedford.—God almighty!
There is ſome ſoul of goodneſs in things evil,
Would men obſervingly diſtil it out;
For our bad neighbour makes us early ſtirrers,
Which is both healthful, and good husbandry:
Beſides, they are our outward conſciences,
And preachers to us all; admoniſhing,
That we ſhould dreſs us fairly for our end.
Thus may we gather honey from the weed,
And make a moral of the devil himſelf.

Enter Erpingham.

Good morrow, old ſir Thomas Erpingham:
A good ſoft pillow for that good white head
Were better than a churliſh turf of France.

Erp. Not ſo, my liege; this lodging likes me better,
Since I may ſay—Now lye I like a king.

Kin. 'Tis good for men to love their preſent pains,
Upon example; ſo the ſpirit is eaſed:

[1] feare, that meane

And, when the mind is quicken'd, out of doubt,
The organs, though defunct and dead before,
Break up their drowzy grave, and newly move
With caſted ſlough and freſh legerity.
Lend me thy cloak, ſir Thomas. — Brothers both,
[throwing the Cloak about him.
Commend me to the princes in our camp;
Do my good morrow to them; and, anon,
Desire them all to my pavilion.

Glo. We ſhall, my liege. [Exeunt Glo. and Bed.

Erp. Shall I attend your grace?

Kin. No, my good knight;
Go with my brothers to my lords of England:
I and my bosom muſt debate a while,
And then I would no other company.

Erp. The Lord in heaven bleſs thee, noble Harry!
[Exit Erpingham.

Kin. God-a-mercy, old heart! thou ſpeak'ſt chearfully.

Enter Pistol.

Pis. Qui va là?

Kin. A friend.

Pis. Diſcuſs unto me, Art thou officer?
Or art thou baſe, common, and popular?

Kin. I am a gentleman of a company.

Pis. Trail'ſt thou the puiſſant pike?

Kin. Even ſo: What are you?

Pis. As good a gentleman as the emperor.

Kin. Then you are a better than the king.

Pis. The king's a bawcock, and a heart of gold;
A lad of life, an imp of fame;
Of parents good, of fiſt moſt valiant:
I kiſs his dirty ſhoe, and from my heart-ſtrings

[10] Che vous la

I love the lovely bully. What is thy name?

Kin. Harry le Roi.

Pis. Le Roi? — a Corniſh name; —
Art thou of Corniſh crew?

Kin. No, I am a Welſhman.

Pis. Know'ſt thou Fluellen?

Kin. Yes.

Pis. Tell him, I'll knock his leek about his pate,
Upon ſaint Davy's day.

Kin. Do not you wear your dagger in your cap that day, leſt he knock that about yours.

Pis. Art thou his friend?

Kin. And his kinsman too.

Pis. The figo for thee then!

Kin. I thank you: God be wi' you!

Pis. My name is Piſtol call'd. [Exit.

Kin. It ſorts well with your fierceneſs.

Enter GOWER, and FLUELLEN.

Gow. Captain Fluellen,—

Flu. So! in the name of Cheſhu Chriſt, ſpeak fewer. It is the greateſt admiration in the univerſal 'orld, when the true and ancient prerogatifes and laws of the wars is not kept: if you would take the pains but to examine the wars of Pompey the great, you ſhall find, I warrant you, that there is no tiddle taddle nor pibble pabble in Pompey's camp; I warrant you, you ſhall find the ceremonies of the wars, and the cares of it, and the forms of it, and the ſobriety of it, and the modeſty of it, to be otherwise.

Gow. Why, the enemy is loud; you heard him all night.

Flu. If the enemy is an aſs, and a fool, and a prating

coxcomb, is it meet, think you, that we ſhould alſo, look you, be an aſs, and a fool, and a prating coxcomb; in your own conſcience now?

Gow. I will ſpeak lower.

Flu. I pray you, and beſeech you, that you will.

[Exeunt Gow. and Flu.

Kin. Though it appear a little out of faſhion,
There is much care and valour in this Welſhman.

Enter Bates, Court, and Williams.

Cou. Brother John Bates, is not that the morning, which breaks yonder?

Bat. I think, it be: but we have no great cause to deſire the approach of day.

Wil. We ſee yonder the beginning of the day, but, I think, we ſhall never ſee the end of it.—Who goes there?

Kin. A friend.

Wil. Under what captain ſerve you?

Kin. Under ſir Thomas Erpingham.

Wil. A good old commander, and a moſt kind gentleman: I pray you, what thinks he of our eſtate?

Kin. Even as men wreck'd upon a ſand, that look to be waſh'd off the next tide.

Bat. He hath not told his thought to the king?

Kin. No; nor it is not meet, he ſhould. For, though I ſpeak it to you, I think, the king is but a man, as I am: the violet ſmells to him, as it doth to me; the element ſhews to him, as it doth to me; all his ſenſes have but human conditions: his ceremonies lay'd by, in his nakedneſs he appears but a man; and though his affections are higher mounted than ours, yet, when they ſtoop, they ſtoop with the like wing; therefore when he ſees reason of fears, as we do, his fears, out of doubt, be of the ſame reliſh as ours are: Yet, in reason, no man ſhould poſſeſs him with any appearance of fear, leſt he, by ſhewing it, ſhould diſhearten his army.

Bat. He may ſhew what outward courage he will: but, I believe, as cold a night as 'tis, he could wiſh himſelf in Thames up to the neck; and ſo I would he were, and I by him, at all adventures, ſo we were quit here.

Kin. By my troth, I will ſpeak my conſcience of the king; I think, he would not wiſh himſelf any where, but where he is.

Bat. Then, 'would he were here alone; ſo ſhould he be ſure to be ranſomed, and a many poor men's lives ſaved.

Kin. I dare ſay, you love him not ſo ill, to wiſh him here alone; howſoever you ſpeak this, to feel other men's minds: Methinks, I could not die any where ſo contented, as in the king's company; his cause being juſt, and his quarrel honorable.

Wil. That's more than we know.

Bat. Ay, or more than we ſhould ſeek after; for we know enough, if we know we are the king's ſubjects: if his cause be wrong, our obedience to the king wipes the crime of it out of us.

Wil. But, if the cause be not good, the king himſelf hath a heavy reck'ning to make; when all those legs, and arms, and heads, chopt off in a battle, ſhall join together at the latter day, and cry all—We dy'd at ſuch a place; ſome, ſwearing; ſome, crying for a ſurgeon; ſome, upon their wives left poor behind them; ſome, upon the debts they owe; ſome, upon their children rawly left: I am afeard, there are few die well, that die in a battle; For how can they charitably diſpose of any thing, when blood is their argument? now, if these men do not die well, it will be a black matter for the king that led them to it; whom to diſobey, were againſt all proportion of ſubjection.

Kin. So, if a ſon, that is by his father ſent about merchandize, do ſinfully miſcarry upon the ſea, the imputation of his wickedneſs, by your rule, ſhould be imposed upon his father that ſent him: or if a ſervant, under his maſter's command, tranſporting a ſum of money, be aſſail'd by robbers, and die in many irreconcil'd iniquities, you may call the buſineſs of the maſter the author of the ſervant's damnation: But this is not ſo: the king is not bound to anſwer the particular endings of his ſoldiers, the father of his ſon, nor the maſter of his ſervant; for they purpose not their death, when they purpose their ſervices. Beſides, there is no king, be his cause never ſo ſpotleſs, if it come to the arbitrement of ſwords, can try it out with all unſpotted ſoldiers: ſome, peradventure, have on them the guilt of premeditated and contrived murther; ſome, of beguiling virgins with the broken ſeals of perjury; ſome, making the wars their bulwark, that have before gored the gentle bosom of peace with pillage and robbery: Now, if these men have defeated the law, and out-run native puniſhment, though they can out-ſtrip men, they have no wings to fly from God: war is his beadle, war is his vengeance; ſo that here men are puniſh'd, for before-breach of the king's laws, in now the king's quarrel: where they feared the death, they have born life away; and where they would be ſafe, they periſh: then if they die unprovided, no more is the king guilty of their damnation, than he was before guilty of those impieties for the which they are now visited. Every ſubject's duty is the king's; but every ſubject's ſoul is his own. Therefore ſhould every ſoldier in the wars do as every ſick man in his bed, waſh every moth out of his conſcience: and dying ſo, death is to him advantage; or not dying, the time was bleſſedly loſt, wherein ſuch preparation was gained: and, in him that eſcapes, it were not ſin to think, that, making God ſo free an offer, he let him out-live that day, to ſee his greatneſs, and to teach others how they ſhould prepare.

Wil. 'Tis certain, every man that dies ill, the ill upon his own head, the king is not to anſwer it.

Bat. I do not desire he ſhould anſwer for me; and yet I determine to fight luſtily for him.

Kin. I myſelf heard the king ſay, he would not be ranſom'd.

Wil. Ay, he ſaid ſo, to make us fight chearfully: but, when our throats are cut, he may be ranſom'd, and we ne'er the wiser. [after.

Kin. If I live to ſee it, I will never truſt his word

Wil. You pay him then! that's a perilous ſhot out of an elder gun, that a poor and a private diſpleasure can do againſt a monarch: you may as well go about to turn the ſun to ice, with fanning in his face with a peacock's feather. You'll never truſt his word after! come, 'tis a fooliſh ſaying.

Kin. Your reproof is ſomething too round; I ſhould be angry with you, if the time were convenient.

Wil. Let it be a quarrel between us, if you live.

Kin. I embrace it.

Wil. How ſhall I know thee again?

Kin. Give me any gage of thine, and I will wear it in my bonnet: then, if ever thou dar'ſt acknowledge it, I will make it my quarrel.

Wil. Here's my † glove; give me another of thine.

Kin. There †.

Wil. This will I alſo wear in my cap: if ever thou come to me, and ſay, after to-morrow, This is my glove, by this hand, I will take thee a box on the ear.

Kin. If ever I live to ſee it, I will challenge it.

Wil. Thou dar'ſt as well be hang'd.

Kin. Well, I will do it, though I take thee in the king's company.

Wil. Keep thy word: fare thee well.

Bat. Be friends, you Engliſh fools, be friends; we have French quarrels enough, if you could tell how to reckon.

Kin. Indeed, the French may lay twenty French crowns to one, they will beat us; for they bear them on their ſhoulders: But it is no Engliſh treason, to cut French crowns; and, to-morrow, the king himſelf will be a clipper. [Exeunt Soldiers.

Upon the king! let us our lives, our ſouls,
Our debts, our careful wives, our children, and
Our ſins, lay on the king;—we muſt bear all.
O hard condition! twin-born with greatneſs,
Subjected to the breath of every fool,
Whoſe ſenſe no more can feel but his own wringing!
What infinite heart's-ease muſt kings neglect,
That private men enjoy?
And what have kings, that privates have not too,
Save ceremony, ſave general ceremony?
And what art thou, thou idol ceremony?

What kind of god art thou, that ſuffer'ſt more
Of mortal griefs, than do thy worſhippers?
What are thy rents, what are thy comings-in,
O ceremony,— ſhew me but thy worth,—
What is thy roul of adoration?
Art thou aught elſe but place, degree, and form,
Creating awe and fear in other men?
Wherein thou art leſs happy being fear'd,
Than they in fearing.
What drink'ſt thou oft, inſtead of homage ſweet,
But poison'd flattery? O, be ſick, great greatneſs,
And bid thy ceremony give thee cure!
Think'ſt thou, the fiery fever will go out
With titles blown from adulation?
Will it give place to flexure and low bending?
Canſt thou, when thou command'ſt the beggar's knee,
Command the health of it? No, thou proud dream,
That play'ſt ſo ſubtly with a king's repoſe,
I am a king, that find thee: and I know,
'Tis not the balm, the ſcepter, and the ball,
The ſword, the mace, the crown imperial,
The enter-tiſſu'd robe of gold and pearl,
The farſed title running 'fore the king,
The throne he ſits on, nor the tide of pomp
That beats upon the high ſhore of this world,
No, not all these, thrice-gorgeous ceremony,
Not all these, lay'd in bed majeſtical,
Can ſleep ſo ſoundly as the wretched ſlave;
Who, with a body fill'd, and vacant mind,
Gets him to reſt, cram'd with diſtreſſful bread;
Never ſees horrid night, the child of hell;
But, like a lacquey, from the rise to ſet,

5 thy Soule 13 Thinks

Sweats in the eye of Phœbus, and all night
Sleeps in Elysium; next day, after dawn,
Doth rise, and help Hyperion to his horſe;
And follows ſo the ever-running year,
With profitable labour, to his grave:
And, but for ceremony, ſuch a wretch,
Winding up days with toil, and nights with ſleep,
Had the fore-hand and vantage of a king.
The ſlave, a member of the country's peace,
Enjoys it; but in groſs brain little wots,
What watch the king keeps to maintain the peace,
Whose hours the peasant beſt advantages.

Enter ERPINGHAM.

Erp. My lord, your nobles, jealous of your abſence,
Seek through your camp to find you.

Kin. Good old knight,
Collect them all together at my tent:
I'll be before thee.

Erp. I ſhall do't, my lord. [Exit.

Kin. O God of battles, ſteel my ſoldiers' hearts!
Poſſeſs them not with fear; take from them now
The ſenſe of reck'ning, leſt the opposed numbers
Pluck their hearts from them! Not to-day, o Lord,
O not to-day, think not upon the fault
My father made in compaſſing the crown!
I Richard's body have interred new;
And on it have beſtow'd more contrite tears,
Than from it iſſu'd forced drops of blood:
Five hundred poor I have in yearly pay,
Who twice a day their wither'd hands hold up
Toward heaven, to pardon blood; and I have built
Two chantries, where the ſad and ſolemn prieſts

22 reckning of th'oppoſed

Sing ſtill for Richard's ſoul. More will I do:
Though all that I can do, is nothing worth;
Since that my penitence comes after all,
Imploring pardon.

Enter GLOSTER.

Glo. My liege!

King. My brother Gloſter's voice.—
I know thy errand, I will go with thee:—
The day, my friends, and all things ſtay for me. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. The French Camp.

Enter Dauphin, ORLEANS, RAMBURES, and Others.

Orl. The ſun doth gild our armour; up, my lords.

Dau. Montez cheval:—My horſe! valet! lacquay! ha!

Orl. O brave ſpirit!

Dau. Via! l'eau et terre.

Orl. Rien plus? l'air et feu.

Enter Conſtable.

Dau. Ciel! cousin Orleans,—Now, my lord conſtable?

Con. Hark, how our ſteeds for present ſervice neigh.

Dau. Mount them, and make incision in their hides;
That their hot blood may ſpin in Engliſh eyes,
And daunt them with ſuperfluous courage. Ha! [blood?

Ram. What, will you have them weep our horſes'
How ſhall we then behold their natural tears?

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. The Engliſh are embattl'd, you French peers.

Con. To horſe, you gallant princes! ſtraight to horſe!
Do but behold yon' poor and ſtarved band,
And your fair ſhew ſhall ſuck away their ſouls,
Leaving them but the ſhales and huſks of men.
There is not work enough for all our hands;

16 v. Note. 23 doubt

Scarce blood enough in all their ſickly veins,
To give each naked curtle-ax a ſtain,
That our French gallants ſhall to-day draw out,
And ſheath for lack of ſport: let us but blow on them,
The vapour of our valour will o'er-turn them.
'Tis poſitive 'gainſt all exceptions, lords,
That our ſuperfluous lacqueys, and our peaſants,—
Who, in unneceſſary action, ſwarm
About our ſquares of battle,—were enough
To purge this field of ſuch a hilding foe;
Though we upon this mountain's baſis by
Took ſtand for idle ſpeculation:
But that our honours muſt not. What's to ſay?
A very little little let us do,
And all is done. Then let the trumpets ſound
The tucket ſonuance, and the note to mount:
For our approach ſhall ſo much dare the field,
That England ſhall couch down in fear, and yield.

Enter GRANDPREE.

Gra. Why do you ſtay ſo long, my lords of France?
Yon' island carrions, deſperate of their bones,
Ill-favour'dly become the morning field:
Their ragged curtains poorly are let looſe,
And our air ſhakes them paſſing ſcornfully.
Big Mars ſeems bankrupt in their beggar'd hoſt,
And faintly through a ruſty bever peeps.
Their horſemen ſit like fixed candleſticks,
With torch-ſtaves in their hand: and their poor jades
Lob down their heads, drooping the hide and hips;
The gum down-roping from their pale-dead eyes;
And in their palled mouths the jymold bit
Lies foul with chaw'd graſs, ſtill and motionleſs;

[31] pa'e dull mouthes.

And their executors, the knaviſh crows,
Fly o'er them all, impatient for their hour.
Deſcription cannot ſuit itſelf in words,
To démonſtrate the life of ſuch a battle
In life ſo lifeleſs as it ſhews itſelf. [death.

Con. They have ſaid their prayers, and they ſtay for

Dau. Shall we go ſend them dinners, and freſh ſuits,
And give their faſting horſes provender,
And after fight with them?

Con. I ſtay but for my guard; On, to the field:
I will the banner from a trumpet take,
And use it for my haſte. Come, come away;
The ſun is high, and we out-wear the day. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. Before the Camp.

Enter the Hoſt of England; BEDFORD, GLOSTER, EXETER, SALISBURY, and WESTMORLAND.

GLO. Where is the king?

BED. The king himſelf is rode to view their battle.

WES. Of fighting men they have full threeſcore thousand.

EXE. There's five to one; beſides, they all are freſh.

SAL. God's arm ſtrike with us! 'tis a fearful odds.
God be wi' you, princes all; I'll to my charge:
If we no more meet, 'till we meet in heaven,
Then, joyfully, — my noble lord of Bedford, —
My dear lord Gloſter, — and my good lord Exeter, —
And my kind kinsman, — warriors all, adieu! [thee!

BED. Farewel, good Salisbury; and good luck go with

EXE. Farewel, kind lord; fight valiantly to-day.
And yet I do thee wrong, to mind thee of it,
For thou art fram'd of the firm truth of valour. [Ex. SAL.

Bed. He is as full of valour, as of kindneſs;
Princely in both.

Wes. O, that we now had here
Enter King Henry.
But one ten thouſand of thoſe men in England,
That do no work to-day!

Kin. What's he, that wiſhes ſo?
My couſin Weſtmorland? — No, my fair couſin:
If we are mark'd to die, we are enough
To do our country loſs; and if to live,
The fewer men, the greater ſhare of honour.
God's will! I pray thee, wiſh not one man more.
By Jove, I am not covetous for gold;
Nor care I, who doth feed upon my coſt;
It yerns me not, if men my garments wear;
Such outward things dwell not in my deſires:
But, if it be a ſin to covet honour,
I am the moſt offending ſoul alive.
No, 'faith, my coz', wiſh not a man from England:
God's peace! I would not loſe ſo great an honour,
As one man more, methinks, would ſhare from me,
For the beſt hope I have. O, do not wiſh one more:
Rather proclaim it, Weſtmorland, through my hoſt,—
That he, which hath no ſtomack to this fight,
Let him depart; his paſſport ſhall be made,
And crowns for convoy put into his purſe:
We would not die in that man's company,
That fears his fellowſhip to die with us.
This day is call'd — the feaſt of Criſpian:
He, that out-lives this day, and comes ſafe home,
Will ſtand a tip-toe when this day is nam'd,
And rouze him at the name of Criſpian.

He, that ſhall live this day, and ſee old age,
Will yearly on the vigil feaſt his friends,
And ſay — to-morrow is ſaint Criſpian:
Then will he ſtrip his ſleeve, and ſhew his ſkars.
Old men forget; all ſhall not be forgot;
But he'll remember, with advantages,
What feats he did that day: Then ſhall our names,
Familiar in his mouth as houſhold words,—
Harry the king, Bedford, and Exeter,
Warwick and Talbot, Salisbury and Gloſter,—
Be in their flowing cups freſhly remember'd.
This ſtory ſhall the good man teach his ſon;
And Criſpin Criſpian ſhall ne'er go by,
From this day to the ending of the world,
But we in it ſhall be remembered:
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers;
For he, to-day that ſheds his blood with me,
Shall be my brother; be he ne'er ſo vile,
This day ſhall gentle his condition:
And gentlemen in England, now abed,
Shall think themſelves accurſ'd, they were not here;
And hold their manhoods cheap, while any ſpeaks,
That fought with us upon ſaint Criſpin's day.

Re-enter SALISBURY.

Sal. My ſovereign lord, beſtow yourſelf with ſpeed:
The French are bravely in their battles ſet,
And will with all expedience charge on us.

Kin. All things are ready, if our minds be ſo.

Wes. Periſh the man, whose mind is backward now!

Kin. Thou doſt not wiſh more help from England, cousin?

Wes. God's will, my liege, would you and I alone,

[1] ſee this day, and live [5] forget; yet all

Without more help, might fight this battle out. [men;
Kin. Why, now thou haſt unwiſh'd five thousand
Which likes me better, than to wiſh us one —
You know your places: God be with you all!
Tucket. Enter MONTJOY.
Mon. Once more I come to know of thee, king Harry,
If for thy ranſom thou wilt now compound,
Before thy moſt aſſured overthrow:
For, certainly, thou art ſo near the gulph,
Thou needs muſt be englutted. Beſides, in mercy,
The conſtable desires thee — thou wilt mind
Thy followers of repentance; that their ſouls
May make a peaceful and a ſweet retire [dies
From off these fields, where (wretches) their poor bo-
Muſt lie and feſter.
Kin. Who hath ſent thee now?
Mon. The conſtable of France.
Kin. I pray thee, bear my former anſwer back;
Bid them atchieve me, and then ſell my bones.
Good God! why ſhould they mock poor fellows thus?
The man, that once did ſell the lion's ſkin
While the beaſt liv'd, was kill'd with hunting him.
A many of our bodies ſhall, no doubt,
Find native graves; upon the which, I truſt,
Shall witneſs live in braſs of this day's work:
And those that leave their valiant bones in France,
Dying like men, though bury'd in your dunghills,
They ſhall be fam'd; for there the ſun ſhall greet them,
And draw their honours reeking up to heaven;
Leaving their earthly parts to choke your clime,
The ſmell whereof ſhall breed a plague in France.
Mark then a bounding valour in our Engliſh;

[1] abounding

That, being dead, like to the bullet's grazing,
Breaks out into a ſecond courſe of miſchief,
Killing in relapſe.
Let me ſpeak proudly; — Tell the conſtable,
We are but warriors for the working-day:
Our gayneſs, and our gilt, are all beſmirch'd
With rainy marching in the painful field;
There's not a piece of feather in our hoſt,
(Good argument, I hope, we ſhall not fly)
And time hath worn us into ſlovenry:
But, by the maſs, our hearts are in the trim:
And my poor ſoldiers tell me — yet ere night,
They'll be in freſher robes; or they will pluck
The gay new coats o'er the French ſoldiers' heads,
And turn them out of ſervice. If they do this,
(As, if please God, they ſhall) my ranſom then
Will ſoon be levy'd. Herald, ſave thy labour;
Come thou no more for ranſom, gentle herald;
They ſhall have none, I ſwear, but these my joints:
Which if they have as I will leave 'em them,
Shall yield them little, tell the conſtable.

Mon. I ſhall, king Harry. And ſo fare thee well:
Thou never ſhalt hear herald any more. [Exit.

Kin. I fear, thou'lt once more come again for ranſom.

Enter the Duke of York.

Yor. My lord, moſt humbly on my knee I beg
The leading of the vaward. [away: —

Kin. Take it brave York. — Now, ſoldiers, march
And how thou pleaſeſt, God, diſpose the day. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. The Field of Battle.

Alarums, as of a Battle join'd. Excurſions. Enter a

3 relapſe of Mortalitie.

Frenchman, flying; PISTOL, and Boy, following.

Pis. Yield, cur.

Fre. Je penſe, que vous eſtes le gentilhomme de bonne qualité.

Pis. Quality! cality!—conſtrue me,—
Art thou a gentleman? What is thy name?
Diſcuſs.

Fre. O ſeigneur Dieu!

Pis. O, ſignieur Dew ſhould be a gentleman:—
Perpend my words, o ſignieur Dew, and mark;—
O ſignieur Dew, thou dy'ſt on point of fox,
Except, o ſignieur, thou do give to me
Egregious ranſom.

Fre. O, prennez miſericorde! ayez pitié de moi!

Pis. Moy ſhall not ſerve, I will have forty moys;
Or I will fetch thy rim out at thy throat,
In drops of crimson blood.

Fre. Eſt il impoſſible d'eſchapper la force de ton bras?

Pis. Braſs, cur!
Thou damned and luxurious mountain goat,
Offer'ſt me braſs?

Fre. O, pardonnez moi!

Pis. Say'ſt thou me ſo? is that a tun of moys?—
Come hither, boy; Aſk me this ſlave in French
What is his name.

Boy. Eſcoutez; Comment eſtes vous appellé?

Fre. Monſieur le Fer.

Boy. He ſays, his name is—maſter Fer.

Pis. Maſter Fer! I'll fer him, and ferk him, and ferret him:—diſcuſs the ſame in French unto him.

Boy. I do not know the French for fer, and ferret, and ferk.

5 Qualtity calmy cuſture 16 for I

Pis. Bid him prepare, for I will cut his throat.

Fre. Que dit-il, monſieur?

Boy. Il me commande de vous dire, que vous vous teniez preſt; car ce ſoldat ici eſt diſpoſé tout á cette heure de couper voſtre gorge.

Pis. Oui, coupe le gorge, par ma foy, pesant,
Unleſs thou give me crowns, brave crowns;
Or mangl'd ſhalt thou be by this my ſword.

Fre. O, je vous ſupplie, pour l'amour de Dieu, me pardonner! Je ſuis gentilhomme de bonne maiſon; gardez ma vie, et je vous donneray deux cents eſcus.

Pis. What are his words?

Boy. He prays you to ſave his life: he is a gentleman of a good houſe; and, for his ranſom, he will give you two hundred crowns.

Pis. Tell him — my fury ſhall abate,
And I the crowns will take.

Fre. Petit monſieur, que dit-il?

Boy. Encore qu'il eſt contre ſon jurement, de pardonner aucun priſonnier; neantmoins, pour les eſcus que vous lui promettez, il eſt content de vous donner la liberté, le franchiſement.

Fre. Sur mes genoux, je vous donne mille remerciemens: et je me eſtime heureux, que j'ai tombé entre les mains d'un chevalier, comme je penſe, le plus brave, valiant, et tres diſtingué ſeigneur d'Angleterre.

Pis. Expound unto me, boy.

Boy. He gives you, upon his knees, a thouſand thanks: and eſteems himſelf happy, that he hath fall'n into the hands of one (as he thinks) the moſt brave, valorous, and thrice-worthy ſignieur of England.

Pis. As I ſuck blood, I will ſome mercy ſhew. —

Follow me, cur. [Exit PISTOL.

Boy. Suivez vous le grand capitain.

[Exit Frenchman, after him.

I did never know ſo full a voice iſſue from ſo empty a heart: but the ſaying is true,—The empty veſſel makes the greateſt ſound. Bardolph, and Nym, had ten times more valour than this roaring devil i'the old play, that every one may pare his nails with a wooden dagger; and they are both hang'd; and ſo would this be, if he durſt ſteal any thing advent'rouſly. I muſt ſtay with the lacqueys, with the luggage of our camp: the French might have a good prey of us, if he knew of it; for there is none to guard it, but boys. [Exit.

SCENE V. The ſame. Another Part of it.

Alarums, &c. Enter Dauphin, ORLEANS, Conſtable, BOURBON, and divers Others.

Con. O diable!

ORL. O ſeigneur!—le jour eſt perdu, tout eſt perdu!

Dau. Mort de ma vie! all is confounded, all!
Reproach, reproach, and everlaſting ſhame
Sits mocking in our plumes.—O meſchante fortune!—
Do not run away. [other Alarums.

Con. Why, all our ranks are broke.

Dau. O perdurable ſhame!—let's ſtab ourſelves.
Be these the wretches, that we play'd at dice for?

ORL. Is this the king, we ſent to for his ranſom?

Bou. Shame, and eternal ſhame, nothing but ſhame!
Let us die inſtant:—Once more back again;
And he that will not follow Bourbon now,
Let him go hence, and, with his cap in hand,
Like a baſe pander, hold the chamber-door,

[2] Sauve vous

Whilſt by a ſlave, no gentler than my dog,
His faireſt daughter is contaminate.

Con. Disorder, that hath ſpoil'd us, friend us now:
Let us, on heaps, go offer up our lives.

Orl. We are enough, yet living in the field,
To ſmother up the Engliſh in our throngs,
If any order might be thought upon.

Bou. The devil take order now! I'll to the throng:
Let life be ſhort; elſe, ſhame will be too long. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. The ſame. Another Part of it. Alarums. Enter King Henry, and Forces; Exeter, and Others, with him.

Kin. Well have we done, thrice-valiant countrymen:
But all's not done, yet keep the French the field. [ſty.

Exe. The duke of York commends him to your maje-

Kin. Lives he, good uncle? thrice, within this hour,
I ſaw him down; thrice up again, and fighting;
From helmet to the ſpur, all blood he was.

Exe. In which array (brave ſoldier) doth he lie,
Larding the plain: and by his bloody ſide
(Yoak-fellow to his honour-owing wounds)
The noble earl of Suffolk alſo lies.
Suffolk firſt dy'd: and York, all haggl'd o'er,
Comes to him, where in gore he lay inſteep'd,
And takes him by the beard; kiſſes the gaſhes,
That bloodily did yawn upon his face;
And cries aloud,—Tarry, my couſin Suffolk!
My ſoul ſhall thine keep company to heaven:
Tarry, ſweet ſoul, for mine, then fly a-breaſt;
As, in this glorious and well-foughten field,
We kept together in our chivalry!

Upon these words, I came, and cheer'd him up:
He ſmil'd me in the face, raught me his hand,
And, with a feeble gripe, ſays,—Dear my lord,
Commend my ſervice to my ſovereign.
So did he turn, and over Suffolk's neck
He threw his wounded arm, and kiſſ'd his lips;
And ſo, eſpous'd to death, with blood he ſeal'd
A teſtament of noble-ending love:
The pretty and ſweet manner of it forc'd
Those waters from me, which I would have ſtop'd;
But I had not ſo much of man in me;
But all my mother came into mine eyes,
And gave me up to tears.

Kin. I blame you not;
For, hearing this, I muſt perforce compound
With miſtful eyes, or they will iſſue too.—
[a loud Alarum.
But, hark! what new alarum is this ſame?—
The French have re-inforc'd their ſcatter'd men:—
Then every ſoldier kill his prisoners;
Give the word through. [Exeunt.

SCENE VII. The ſame. Another Part of it.

Alarums. Enter GOWER, and FLUELLEN.

Flu Kill the poys, and the luggage! 'tis expreſly againſt the law of arms: 'tis as arrant a piece of knavery, mark you now, as can be offer'd; In your conſcience now, is it not?

Gow. 'Tis certain, there's not a boy left alive; and the cowardly raſcals, that ran from the battle, ha' done this ſlaughter: beſides, they have burned, and carry'd away, all that was in the king's tent; wherefore the king, moſt worthily, hath caus'd every ſoldier to cut his priſoner's throat. O, 'tis a gallant king!

Flu. Ay, he was born at Monmouth, captain Gower: What call you the town's name, where Alexander the pig was born?

Gow. Alexander the great.

Flu. Why, I pray you, is not, pig, great? the pig, or the great, or the mighty, or the huge, or the magnanimous, are all one reckonings, ſave the phraſe is a little variations.

Gow. I think, Alexander the great was born in Macedon; his father was call'd — Philip of Macedon, as I take it.

Flu. I think, it is in Macedon, where Alexander is porn. I tell you, captain, — If you look in the maps of the 'orld, I warrant, you ſhall find, in the compariſons between Macedon and Monmouth, that the ſituations, look you, is both alike: There is a river in Macedon; and there is alſo moreover a river at Monmouth: it is call'd Wye, at Monmouth; but it is out of my prains, what is the name of the other river; but 'tis all one, 'tis ſo like as my fingers is to my fingers, and there is ſalmons in both. If you mark Alexander's life well, Harry of Monmouth's life is come after it indifferent well; for there is figures in all things. Alexander, (Got knows, and you know) in his rages, and his furies, and his wraths, and his cholers, and his moods, and his diſpleasures, and his indignations, and alſo being a little intoxicates in his prains, did, in his ales and his angers, look you, kill his peſt friend Clytus.

Gow. Our king is not like him in that; he never kill'd any of his friends.

Flu. It is not well done, mark you now, to take the tales out of my mouth, ere it is made an end and finiſhed. I ſpeak but in the figures and compariſons of it: As Alexander is kill his friend Clytus, being in his ales and his cups; ſo alſo Harry Monmouth, being in his right wits and his goot judgments, is turn away the fat knight with the great-pelly doublet; he was full of jeſts, and gypes, and knaveries, and mocks, I am forget his name.

Gow. Sir John Falſtaff.

Flu. That is he: I'll tell you, there is goot men porn at Monmouth.

Gow. Here comes his majeſty.

Alarums. Enter King Henry, and Forces; Warwick, Gloster, Exeter, and Others.

Kin. I was not angry ſince I came to France,
Until this inſtant.—Take a trumpet, herald;
Ride thou unto the horſemen on yon' hill:
If they will fight with us, bid them come down,
Or void the field; they do offend our ſight:
If they'll do neither, we will come to them;
And make them ſkir away, as ſwift as ſtones
Enforced from the old Aſſyrian ſlings:
Beſides, we'll cut the throats of those we have;
And not a man of them, that we ſhall take,
Shall taſte our mercy: Go, and tell them ſo.

[Exeunt a Herald, and Others.

Exe. Here comes the herald of the French, my liege.

Enter Montjoy.

Glo. His eyes are humbler than they us'd to be.

Kin. How now! what means this herald? know'ſt thou
That I have fin'd these bones of mine for ranſom?
Com'ſt thou again for ranſom?

Mon. No, great king:
I come to thee for charitable licence,
That we may wander o'er this bloody field,
To book our dead, and then to bury them;
To sort our nobles from our common men;
For many of our princes (woe the while!)
Lie drown'd and soak'd in mercenary blood:
So do our vulgar drench their peasant limbs
In blood of princes; and the wounded steeds
Fret fetlock-deep in gore, and, with wild rage,
Yerk out their armed heels at their dead masters,
Killing them twice. O, give us leave, great king,
To view the field in safety, and dispose
Of their dead bodies.

Kin. I tell thee truly, herald,
I know not, if the day be ours, or no;
For yet a many of your horse appear,
And gallop o'er the field.

Mon. The day is yours.

Kin. Praised be God, and not our strength for it. —
What is this castle call'd, that stands hard by?

Mon. They call it — Agincourt.

Kin. Then call we this — the field of Agincourt,
Fought on the day of Crispin Crispianus.

Flu. Your grandfather of famous memory, an't please your majesty, and your great-uncle Edward the plack prince of Wales, as I have read in the chronicles, fought a most prave pattle here in France.

Kin. They did, Fluellen.

Flu. Your majesty says very true: If your majesties is remember'd of it, the Welshmen did goot service in a garden where leeks did grow, wearing leeks in their

9 and with wounded 17 horsemen peere

Monmouth caps; which, your majeſty know, to this hour is an honourable padge of the ſervice: and, I do believe, your majeſty takes no ſcorn to wear the leek upon ſaint Tavy's day.

Kin. I wear it for a memorable honour:
For I am Welſh, you know, good countryman.

Flu. All the water in Wye cannot waſh your majeſty's Welſh plood out of your pody, I can tell you that: Got pleſs it, and preserve it, as long as it pleases his grace and his majeſty too!

Kin. Thanks, good my countryman.

Flu. By Cheſhu, I am your majeſty's countryman, I care not who know it; I will confeſs it to all the 'orld: I need not to be aſhamed of your majeſty, praised be Got, ſo long as your majeſty is an honeſt man.

Kin. God keep me ſo!—Our heralds, go with him;
Bring me juſt notice of the numbers dead
On both our parts.—Call yonder fellow hither.

[ſeeing Williams among the Troops.

Exe. Soldier, you muſt come to the king.

[Exeunt Montjoy, and Others.

Kin. Soldier, why wear'ſt thou that glove in thy cap?

Wil. An't please your majeſty, 'tis the gage of one that I ſhould fight withal, if he be alive.

Kin. An Engliſhman?

Wil. An't please your majeſty; a raſcal, that ſwagger'd with me laſt night: who if 'a live, and ever dare to challenge this glove, I have ſworn to take him a box o'the ear: or, if I can ſee my glove in his cap, (which, he ſwore, as he was a ſoldier, he would wear, if alive) I would ſtrike it out ſoundly.

Kin. What think you, captain Fluellen; is it fit, this

[27] alive

ſoldier keep his oath ?

Flu. He is a craven and a villain elſe, an't please your majeſty, in my conſcience.

Kin. It may be, his enemy is a gentleman of great ſort, quite from the anſwer of his degree.

Flu. Though he be as goot a gentleman as the tevil is, as Lucifer and Belzebub himſelf, it is neceſſary, look your grace, that he keep his vow and his oath : if he be perjur'd, ſee you now, his reputation is as arrant a villain and a jack-ſauce, as ever his plack ſhoe trod upon Got's ground and his earth, in my conſcience, la.

Kin. Then keep thy vow, ſirrah, when thou meet'ſt the fellow.

Wil. So I will, my liege, as I live.

Kin. Who ſerv'ſt thou under ?

Wil. Under captain Gower, my liege.

Flu. Gower is a goot captain ; and is goot knowledge and literature in the wars.

Kin. Call him hither to me, ſoldier.

Wil. I will, my liege. [Exit.

Kin. Here, Fluellen ; wear thou this † favour for me, and ſtick it in thy cap : When Alenson and myſelf were down together, I pluck'd this glove from his helm : if any man challenge this, he is a friend to Alenson, and an enemy to our perſon ; if thou encounter any ſuch, apprehend him, an thou doſt love me.

Flu. Your grace does me as great honours, as can be desired in the hearts of his ſubjects : I would fain ſee the man, that has but two legs, that ſhall find himſelf agrief'd at this glove, that is all ; but I would fain ſee it once ; an please Got of his grace, that I might ſee it.

Kin. Know'ſt thou Gower ?

Flu. He is my dear friend, an please you. [tent.
Kin. Pray thee, go seek him, and bring him to my
Flu. I will fetch him. [Exit.
Kin. My lord of Warwick,—and my brother Gloſter,—
Follow Fluellen cloſely at the heels:
The glove, which I have given him for a favour,
May, haply, purchaſe him a box o'the ear;
It is the ſoldier's; I, by bargain, ſhould
Wear it myſelf. Follow, good cousin Warwick:
If that the ſoldier ſtrike him, (as, I judge
By his blunt bearing, he will keep his word)
Some ſudden miſchief may arise of it;
For I do know Fluellen valiant,
And, touch'd with choler, hot as gun-powder,
And quickly will return an injury:
Follow, and ſee there be no harm between them.—
Go you with me, uncle of Exeter. [Exeunt.

SCENE VIII. The Engliſh Camp.

Enter Gower, and Williams.

Wil. I warrant, it is to knight you, captain.

Enter Fluellen.

Flu. Got's will and his pleaſure, captain, I peſeech you now, come apace to the king: there is more goot toward you, peradventure, than is in your knowledge to dream of. [Cap.

Wil. Sir, know you this glove? [ſhewing that in his
Flu. Know the glove? I know, the glove is a glove.
Wil. I know this; [pointing to the Glove in Fluellen's Cap.] and thus I challenge it. [ſtrikes him.
Flu. 'Sblud, an arrant traitor, as any's in the univerſal 'orld, or in France, or in England.

Gow. How now, ſir? you villain!

Wil. Do you think I'll be forſworn?

Flu. Stand away, captain Gower; I will give treaſon his payment in plows, I warrant you.

Wil. I am no traitor.

Flu. That's a lie in thy throat. — I charge you in his majeſty's name, apprehend him; he's a friend of the duke Alenſon's.

Enter Warwick, and Gloſter.

War. How now, how now! what's the matter?

Flu. My lord of Warwick, here is (praiſed be Got for it) a moſt contagious treaſon come to light, look you, as you ſhall deſire in a ſummer's day. Here is his majeſty.

Enter King Henry, and Exeter.

Kin. How now! what's the matter?

Flu. My liege, here is a villain and a traitor, that, look your grace, has ſtrook the glove which your majeſty is take out of the helmet of Alenſon.

Wil. My liege, that was my glove, here is † the fellow of it: and he, that I gave it to in change, promis'd to wear it in his cap; I promis'd to ſtrike him, if he did: I met this man with my glove in his cap, and I have been as good as my word.

Flu. Your majeſty hear now, (ſaving your majeſty's manhood) what an arrant, raſcally, beggarly, lousy, knave it is: I hope, your majeſty is pear me teſtimony, and witneſs, and avouchments, that this is the glove of Alenſon, that your majeſty is give me, in your conſcience now. [the fellow of it:

Kin. Give me thy glove, ſoldier; Look, here is † 'Twas I, indeed, thou promised'ſt to ſtrike;

4 into 28 and will avouch —

And thou haſt given me moſt bitter terms.

Flu. An please your majeſty, let his neck anſwer for it, if there is any martial law in the 'orld.

Kin. How canſt thou make me ſatiſfaction?

Wil. All offences, my liege, come from the heart: never came any from mine, that might offend your majeſty.

Kin. It was ourſelf thou didſt abuse.

Wil. Your majeſty came not like yourſelf: you appear'd to me but as a common man; witneſs the night, your garments, your lowlineſs; and what your highneſs ſuffer'd under that ſhape, I beſeech you, take it for your own fault, and not mine: for had you been as I took you for, I made no offence; therefore, I beſeech your highneſs, pardon me. [crowns,

Kin. Here, uncle Exeter, fill this glove ✝ with And give it to this fellow. — Keep it, fellow;
And wear it for an honour in thy cap,
'Till I do challenge it. — Give him the crowns: —
And, captain, you muſt needs be friends with him.

Flu. By this day and this light, the fellow has mettle enough in his pelly: — Hold, there is twelve-pence for you; and I pray you to ſerve Got, and keep you out of prawls, and prabbles, and quarrels, and diſſentions, and, I warrant you, it is the petter for you.

Wil. I will none of your money.

Flu. It is with a goot will; I can tell you, it will ſerve you to mend your ſhoes: Come, wherefore ſhould you be ſo paſhful? your ſhoes is not ſo goot: 'tis a goot filling, I warrant you, or I will change it.

Enter a Herald, and Others.

Kin. Now, herald; are the dead number'd?

Her. Here is the number of the ſlaughter'd French.
[kneeling, and delivering Papers.

Kin. What prisoners of good ſort are taken, uncle?

Exe. Charles duke of Orleans, nephew to the king;
John duke of Bourbon, and lord Bouciqualt:
Of other lords, and barons, knights, and 'ſquires,
Full fifteen hundred, beſides common men.

Kin. This note doth tell me of ten thousand French,
That in the field lie ſlain: of princes, in this number,
And nobles bearing banners, there lie dead
One hundred twenty ſix: added to these,
Of knights, eſquires, and gallant gentlemen,
Eight thousand and four hundred; of the which,
Five hundred were but yeſterday dub'd knights:
So that, in these ten thousand they have loſt,
There are but ſixteen hundred mercenaries;
The reſt are — princes, barons, lords, knights, 'ſquires,
And gentlemen of blood and quality.
The names of those their nobles that lie dead,—
Charles De-la-bret, high conſtable of France;
Jaques of Chatillion, admiral of France;
The maſter of the croſs-bows, lord Rambures;
Great-maſter of France, the brave ſir Guiſchard Dolphin;
John duke of Alenson; Antony duke of Brabant,
The brother to the duke of Burgundy;
And Edward duke of Bar: of luſty earls,
Grandprée, and Rouſſi, Fauconberg, and Foix,
Beaumont, and Marle, Vaudemont, and Leſtrale.
Here was a royal fellowſhip of death!—
Where is the number of our Engliſh dead?—
[Herald ſhews him another Paper.
Edward the duke of York, the earl of Suffolk,

Sir Richard Ketly, Davy Gam eſquire,
None elſe of name; and, of all other men,
But five and twenty. — O God, thy arm was here!
And not to us, but to thy arm alone,
Aſcribe we all. — When, without ſtratagem,
But in plain ſhock and even play of battle,
Was ever known ſo great and little loſs,
On one part and on the other? — take it, God,
For it is only thine.

Exe. 'Tis wonderful!

Kin. Come, go we in proceſſion to the village:
And be it death proclaimed through our hoſt,
To boaſt of this, or take that praiſe from God,
Which is his only.

Flu. Is it not lawful, an please your majeſty, to tell how many is kill'd?

Kin. Yes, captain; but with this acknowledgment,
That God fought for us.

Flu. Yes, my conſcience, he did us great goot.

Kin. Do we all holy rites;
Let there be ſung, Non nobis, and Te deum.
The dead with charity enclos'd in clay,
We'll then to Calais; and to England then;
Where ne'er from France arriv'd more happier men.

[Flouriſh. Exeunt.

ACT V.

Enter Chorus.

Vouchſafe to those that have not read the ſtory,
That I may prompt them: and for ſuch as have,

32 and of ſuch

I humbly pray them to admit the excuſe
Of time, of numbers, and due courſe of things,
Which cannot in their huge and proper life
Be here presented. Now we bear the king
Toward Calais: grant him there; and there being ſeen,
Heave him away upon your winged thoughts
Athwart the ſea: Behold, the Engliſh beach
Pales in the flood with men, with wives, and boys,
Whose ſhouts and claps out-voice the deep-mouth'd ſea;
Which, like a mighty whifler 'fore the king,
Seems to prepare his way: ſo let him land;
And, ſolemnly, ſee him ſet on to London.
So ſwift a pace hath thought, that even now
You may imagine him upon Black-heath:
Where that his lords desire him, to have borne
His bruised helmet, and his bended ſword,
Before him, through the city: he forbids it,
Being free from vainneſs and ſelf-glorious pride;
Giving full trophy, ſignal, and oſtent,
Quite from himſelf, to God. But now behold,
In the quick forge and working-houſe of thought,
How London doth pour out her citizens!
The mayor, and all his brethren, in beſt ſort,—
Like to the ſenators of the antique Rome,
With the plebeians ſwarming at their heels,—
Go forth, and fetch their conquering Cæsar in:
As, by a low but loving likelihood,
Were now the general of our gracious empreſs
(As, in good time, he may) from Ireland coming,
Bringing rebellion broached on his ſword,
How many would the peaceful city quit,
To welcome him? much more, and much more cause,

27 lower, but by loving

Did they this Harry. Now in London place him.
And here the lamentation of the French
Invites,— the king of England's ſtay at home,—
The emperor's coming in behalf of France,
To order peace between them :— But theſe now
We paſs in ſilence over; and omit
All the occurrences whatever chanc'd,
'Till Harry's back-return again to France;
There muſt we bring him; and myſelf have play'd
The interim, by rememb'ring you — 'tis paſt.
Then brook abridgment; and your eyes advance,
After your thoughts, ſtraight back again to France.
[Exit.

SCENE I. France. A Court of Guard.

Enter GOWER, and FLUELLEN.

Gow. Nay, that's right; But why wear you your leek to-day? ſaint Davy's day is paſt.

Flu. There is occasions and causes why and wherefore in all things: I will tell you, as my friend, captain Gower; The raſcally, ſcald, beggarly, lousy, pragging knave, Piſtol,— which you and yourſelf, and all the 'orld, know to be no petter than a fellow, look you now, of no merits,— he is come to me, and prings me pread and ſalt yeſterday, look you, and bid me eat my leek: it was in a place where I could not breed no contentions with him; but I will be ſo pold as to wear it in my cap 'till I ſee him once again, and then I will tell him a little piece of my desires.

Enter PISTOL.

Gow. Why, here he comes, ſwelling like a turkey-cock.

Flu. 'Tis no matter for his ſwellings, nor his tur-

[2] As yet the key-cocks. — Got pleſs you, ancient Piſtol! you ſcurvy lousy knave, Got pleſs you! [jan,

Pis. Ha! art thou Bedlam? doſt thou thirſt, baſe Tro-
To have me fold up Parca's fatal web?
Hence! I am qualmiſh at the ſmell of leek.

Flu. I peſeech you heartily, [taking the Leek from his Cap.] ſcurvy lousy knave, at my desires, and my requeſts, and my petitions, to eat, look you, this leek; because, look you, you do not love it, nor your affections, and your appetites, and your digeſtions, does not agree with it, I would desire you to eat it.

Pis. Not for Cadwallader, and all his goats.

Flu. There is one goat for you. [beating him.] Will you be ſo goot, ſcald knave, as eat it?

Pis. Baſe Trojan, thou ſhalt die.

Flu. You ſay very true, ſcald knave, when Got's will is: I will desire you to live in the mean time, and eat your victuals; come, there is ſauce for it. [beating him again.] You call'd me yeſterday, mountain 'ſquire; but I will make you to-day a 'ſquire of low degree. I pray you, fall to; [beating again.] if you can mock a leek, you can eat a leek.

Gow. Enough, captain, you have aſtoniſh'd him.

Flu. I ſay, I will make him eat ſome part of my leek, or I will peat his pate four days: — bite, I pray you; [giving the Leek into his Hand.] it is goot for your green wound, and your ploody coxcomb.

Pis. Muſt I bite?

Flu. Yes, certainly; and out of doubt, and out of queſtion too, and ambiguities.

Pis. By this leek, [eating of it.] I will moſt horribly revenge. I eat, and eat, I ſwear.

Flu. Eat, I pray you: Will you have ſome more ſauce to your leek? there is not enough leek to ſwear by.

Pis. Quiet thy cudgel; thou doſt ſee, I eat.

Flu. Much goot do you, ſcald knave, heartily. Nay, pray you, throw none away; the ſkin is goot for your proken coxcomb: When you take occasions to ſee leeks hereafter, I pray you, mock at them; that is all.

Pis. Good.

Flu. Ay, leeks is goot:—Hold you, there is a groat to heal your pate.

Pis. Me a groat!

Flu. Yes, verily, and in truth, you ſhall take it; or I have another leek in my pocket, which you ſhall eat.

Pis. I take † thy groat, in earneſt of revenge.

Flu. If I owe you any thing, I will pay you in cudgels; you ſhall be a woodmonger, and buy nothing of me but cudgels. Got be wi' you, and keep you, and heal your pate. [Exit.

Pis. All hell ſhall ſtir for this.

Gow. Go, go; you are a counterfeit cowardly knave: Will you mock at an antient tradition,—begun upon an honourable reſpect, and worn as a memorable trophy of predeceaſed valour,—and dare not avouch in your deeds any of your words? I have ſeen you gleeking and galling at this gentleman twice or thrice. You thought, because he could not ſpeak Engliſh in the native garb, he could not therefore handle an Engliſh cudgel: you find it otherwise; and, henceforth, let a Welſh correction teach you a good Engliſh condition. Fare ye well. [Exit.

Pis. Doth fortune play the huswy' with me now?
News have I, that my Nell is dead i'the 'ſpital
Of malady of France;

† my Doll

And there my rendezvous is quite cut off.
Old I do wax; and from my weary limbs
Honour is cudgel'd. Well, bawd will I turn,
And ſomething lean to cut-purſe of quick hand.
To England will I ſteal, and there I'll ſteal:
And patches will I get unto these ſcars;
And ſwear, I got them in the Gallia wars. [Exit.

SCENE II. The ſame. A Room in ſome Palace.
Enter, at one Door, King Henry, and Train of Nobles; EXETER, amongſt them, and WESTMORLAND: at another, the French King, and his Queen, the Lady CATHARINE, ALICE, and other Ladies, Lords, &c. Duke of BURGUNDY, and Train.

King. Peace to this meeting, wherefore we are met! —
Unto our brother France, — and to our ſiſter, —
Health and fair time of day; — joy and good wiſhes
To our moſt fair and princely cousin Catharine; —
And (as a branch and member of this royalty,
By whom this great aſſembly is contriv'd)
We do ſalute you, duke of Burgundy; —
And princes French, and peers, health to you all!

Fr. K. Right joyous are we to behold your face,
Moſt worthy brother England; fairly met: —
So are you, princes Engliſh, every one.

Fr. Q. So happy be the iſſue, brother England,
Of this good day, and of this gracious meeting,
As we are now glad to behold your eyes;
Your eyes, which hitherto have born in them,
Againſt the French, that met them in their bent,
The fatal balls of murthering basilisks:
The venom of ſuch looks, we fairly hope,

Have loſt their quality; and that this day
Shall change all griefs, and quarrels, into love.
Kin. To cry amen to that, we thus appear.
Fr. Q. You Engliſh princes all, I do ſalute you.
Bur. My duty to you both, on equal love, [our'd,
Great kings of France and England! That I have lab-
With all my wits, my pains, and ſtrong endeavours,
To bring your moſt imperial majeſties
Unto this bar and royal interview,
Your mightineſs on both parts beſt can witneſs.
Since then my office hath ſo far prevail'd,
That, face to face, and royal eye to eye,
You have congreeted; let it not diſgrace me,
If I demand, before this royal view,—
What rub, or what impediment, there is,
Why that the naked, poor, and mangl'd peace,
Dear nurſe of arts, plenties, and joyful births,
Should not, in this beſt garden of the world,
Our fertile France, put up her lovely viſage?
Alas! ſhe hath from France too long been chaſ'd;
And all her husbandry doth lie on heaps,
Corrupting in it's own fertility.
Her vine, the merry chearer of the heart,
Unpruned, dies: her hedges even-pleach'd,
Like prisoners wildly over-grown with hair,
Put forth disorder'd twigs: her fallow leas
The darnel, hemlock, and rank fumitory,
Doth root upon; while that the culter ruſts,
That ſhould deracinate ſuch ſavag'ry:
The even mead, that erſt brought ſweetly forth
The freckl'd cowſlip, burnet, and green clover,
Wanting the ſcythe, all uncorrected, rank,

32 Sythe, withall

Conceives by idleneſs; and nothing teems,
But hateful docks, rough thiſtles, keckſies, burs,
Losing both beauty and utility.
And as our vineyards, fallows, meads, and hedges,
Defective in their natures, grow to wildneſs;
Even ſo our houses, and ourſelves, and children,
Have loſt, or do not learn, for want of time,
The ſciences that ſhould become our country;
But grow, like ſavages,—as ſoldiers will,
That nothing do but meditate on blood,—
To ſwearing, and ſtern looks, diffus'd attire,
And every thing that ſeems unnatural.
Which to reduce into our former favour,
You are aſſembl'd: and my ſpeech entreats,
That I may know the let, why gentle peace
Should not expel these inconveniencies,
And bleſs us with her former qualities.

Kin. If, duke of Burgundy, you would the peace,
Whose want gives growth to the imperfections
Which you have cited, you muſt buy that peace
With full accord to all our juſt demands;
Whose tenures and particular effects
You have, enſchedul'd briefly, in your † hands.

Bur. The king hath heard them; to the which, as yet,
There is no anſwer made.

Kin. Well then, the peace,
Which you before ſo urg'd, lies in his anſwer.

Fr. K. I have but with a curſorary eye
O'er-glanc'd the articles: pleaseth your grace
To appoint ſome of your council presently
To ſit with us once more, with better heed
To re-ſurvey them, we will, ſuddenly,

† And all our

Paſs, or accept, and peremptory anſwer.

Kin. Brother, we ſhall. — Go, uncle Exeter, — And brother Clarence, — and you, brother Gloſter, — Warwick, — and Huntington, — go with the king: And take with you free power, to ratify, Augment, or alter, as your wisdoms beſt Shall ſee advantageable for our dignity, Any thing in, or out of, our demands; And we'll conſign thereto. — Will you, fair ſiſter, Go with the princes, or ſtay here with us?

Fr. Q. Our gracious brother, I will go with them; Haply, a woman's voice may do ſome good, When articles, too nicely urg'd, be ſtood on.

Kin. Yet leave our cousin Catharine here with us; She is our capital demand, compris'd Within the fore-rank of our articles.

Fr. Q. She hath good leave.

[Exeunt All but Hen. Cath. and her Gentlewoman.

Kin. Fair Catharine, and moſt fair! Will you vouchſafe to teach a ſoldier terms, Such as will enter at a lady's ear, And plead his love-ſuit to her gentle heart?

Cat. Your majeſty ſhall mock at me; I cannot ſpeak your England.

Kin. O fair Catharine, if you will love me ſoundly with your French heart, I will be glad to hear you confeſs it brokenly with your Engliſh tongue. Do you like me, Kate?

Cat. Pardonnez moi, I cannot tell vat is — like me.

Kin. An angel is like you, Kate; and you are like an angel.

Cat. Que dit-il? que je ſuis ſemblable á les anges?

[1] Paſſe our accept

Alı. Oui, vrayment, (ſauf voſtre grace) ainſi dit-il.

Kin. I ſaid ſo, dear Catharine; and I muſt not bluſh to affirm it.

Cat. O bon Dieu! les langues des hommes ſont pleines des tromperies.

Kin. What ſays ſhe, fair one? that the tongues of men are full of deceits?

Alı. Oui; dat de tongues of de mans is be full of deceits: dat is de princeſs.

Kin. The princeſs is the better Engliſh-woman.—I'faith, Kate, my wooing is fit for thy underſtanding: I am glad, thou canſt ſpeak no better Engliſh; for, if thou could'ſt, thou would'ſt find me ſuch a plain king, that thou would'ſt think, I had ſold my farm to buy my crown. I know no ways to mince it in love, but directly to ſay—I love you: then, if you urge me farther than to ſay—Do you, in faith? I wear out my ſuit. Give me your anſwer; i'faith, do; and ſo clap hands, and a bargain: How ſay you, lady?

Cat. Sauf voſtre honneur, me underſtand vell.

Kin. Marry, if you would put me to verſes, or to dance for your ſake, Kate, why, you undid me: for the one, I have neither words nor measure; and for the other, I have no ſtrength in measure, yet a reasonable measure in ſtrength. If I could win a lady at leap-frog, or by vaulting into my ſaddle with my armour on my back, under the correction of bragging be it ſpoken, I ſhould quickly leap into a wife: Or, if I might buffet for my love, or bound my horſe for her favours, I could lay on like a butcher, and ſit like a jack-an-apes, never off: But, before God, Kate, I cannot look greenly, nor gaſp out my eloquence, nor I have no cunning in pro-

teſtation; only downright oaths, which I never use 'till urg'd, nor never break for urging. If thou canſt love a fellow of this temper, Kate, whose face is not worth ſun-burning, that never looks in his glaſs for love of any thing he ſees there, let thine eye be thy cook. I ſpeak to thee plain ſoldier: If thou canſt love me for this, take me: if not, to ſay to thee — that I ſhall die, is true; but — for thy love, by the Lord, no; yet I love thee too. And while thou liv'ſt, dear Kate, take a fellow of plain and uncoined conſtancy; for he perforce muſt do thee right, because he hath not the gift to woo in other places: for these fellows of infinite tongue, that can rhime themſelves into ladies' favours, — they do always reason themſelves out again. What! a ſpeaker is but a prater; a rhime is but a ballad. A good leg will fall; a ſtrait back will ſtoop; a black beard will turn white; a curl'd pate will grow bald; a fair face will wither; a full eye will wax hollow: but a good heart, Kate, is the ſun and the moon; or (rather) the ſun, and not the moon; for it ſhines bright, and never changes, but keeps his courſe truly. If thou would have ſuch a one, take me: And take me; take a ſoldier, take a ſoldier; take a king. And what ſay'ſt thou then to my love? ſpeak, my fair, and fairly, I pray thee.

Cat. Is it poſſible, dat I ſhould love de enemy of France?

Kin. No; it is not poſſible, you ſhould love the enemy of France, Kate: but, in loving me, you ſhould love the friend of France; for I love France ſo well, that I will not part with a village of it; I will have it all mine: And, Kate, when France is mine, and I am yours, thine yours is France, and you are mine.

Cat. I cannot tell vat is dat.

Kin. No, Kate? I will tell thee in French; which, I am ſure, will hang upon my tongue, like a new-marry'd wife about her husband's neck, hardly to be ſhook off. Quand j'ay la poſſeſſion de France, et quand vous avez la poſſeſſion de moi,—let me ſee, What then? Saint Dennis be my ſpeed!—donc voſtre eſt France, et vous eſtes mienne. It is as easy for me, Kate, to conquer the kingdom, as to ſpeak ſo much more French: I ſhall never move thee in French, unleſs it be to laugh at me.

Cat. Sauf voſtre honneur, le Francois que vous parlez, eſt meilleur que l'Anglois lequel je parle.

Kin. No, 'faith, is't not, Kate: but thy ſpeaking of my tongue, and I thine, moſt truly falſely, muſt needs be granted to be much at one. But, Kate, doſt thou underſtand thus much Engliſh? canſt thou love me?

Cat. I cannot tell.

Kin. Can any of your neighbours tell, Kate? I'll aſk them. Come, I know, thou loveſt me: and at night, when you come into your cloſet, you'll queſtion this gentlewoman about me; and I know, Kate, you will (to her) diſpraiſe those parts in me, that—you love with your heart: but, good Kate, mock me mercifully; the rather, gentle princeſs, because I love thee cruelly. If ever thou be'ſt mine, Kate, (as I have a ſaving faith within me, tells me—thou ſhalt) I get thee with ſcambling, and thou muſt therefore needs prove a good ſoldier-breeder: Shall not thou and I, between ſaint Dennis and ſaint George, compound a boy, half French, half Engliſh, that ſhall go to Conſtantinople, and take the Turk by the beard? ſhall we not? what ſay'ſt thou, my fair flower-de-luce?

Cat. I do not know dat.

Kin. No; 'tis hereafter to know, but now to promise: do but now promise, Kate, you will endeavour for your French part of ſuch a boy; and, for my Engliſh moiety, take the word of a king and a batchelor. How anſwer you, la plus belle Catharine du monde, mon tres chere et divine deeſſe?

Cat. Your majeſté 'ave fauſſe French enough to deceive de moſt ſage damoiſelle dat is en France.

Kin. Now, fie upon my falſe French! By mine honour, in true Engliſh, I love thee, Kate: by which honour I dare not ſwear, thou loveſt me; yet my blood begins to flatter me that thou doſt, notwithſtanding the poor and untempting effect of my viſage. Now beſhrew my father's ambition! he was thinking of civil wars, when he got me; therefore was I created with a ſtubborn outſide, with an aſpect of iron, that, when I come to woo ladies, I fright them. But, in faith, Kate, the elder I wax, the better I ſhall appear: my comfort is, —that old age, that ill layer-up of beauty, can do no more ſpoil upon my face: thou haſt me, if thou haſt me, at the worſt; and thou ſhalt wear me, if thou wear me, better and better; And therefore tell me, moſt fair Catharine, will you have me? Put off your maiden bluſhes; avouch the thoughts of your heart with the looks of an empreſs; take me by the hand, and ſay— Harry of England, I am thine: which word thou ſhalt no ſooner bleſs mine ear withal, but I will tell thee aloud, —England is thine, Ireland is thine, France is thine, and Henry Plantagenet is thine; who, though I ſpeak it before his face, if he be not fellow with the beſt king, thou ſhalt find the beſt king of good-fellows. Come, your anſwer in broken musick; for thy voice is musick, and thy Engliſh broken: therefore, queen of all, Catharine, break thy mind to me in broken Engliſh, Wilt thou have me?

Cat. Dat is as it ſhall please de roi mon pere.

Kin. Nay, it will please him well, Kate; it ſhall please him, Kate.

Cat. Den it ſhall alſo content me.

Kin. Upon that I kiſs your hand; and I call you — my queen.

Cat. Laiſſez, mon ſeigneur, laiſſez, laiſſez: ma foi, je ne veux point que vous abbaiſſez voſtre grandeur, en baiſant la main d'une voſtre indigne ſerviteure; excuſez moi, je vous ſupplie, mon tres puiſſant ſeigneur.

Kin. Then I will kiſs your lips, Kate.

Cat. Les dames, et damoiſelles, pour eſtre baiſées devant leur nopces, il n'eſt pas la coutume de France.

Kin. Madam my interpreter, what ſays ſhe?

Ali. Dat it is not be de faſhion pour de ladies of France, — I cannot tell vat is, baiſer, en Engliſh.

Kin. To kiſs.

Ali. Your majeſty entendre better que moi.

Kin. It is not a faſhion for the maids in France to kiſs before they are marry'd, would ſhe ſay?

Ali. Oui, vrayment.

Kin. O, Kate, nice cuſtoms curt'ſy to great kings. Dear Kate, you and I cannot be confin'd within the weak liſt of a country's faſhion: we are the makers of manners, Kate; and the liberty that follows our places, ſtops the mouth of all find-faults; as I will do yours, for upholding the nice faſhion of your country, in denying me a kiſs: therefore, patiently, and yielding.

[kiſſes her.] You have witchcraft in your lips, Kate: there is more eloquence in a ſugar touch of them, than in the tongues of the French council; and they ſhould ſooner perſuade Harry of England, than a general petition of monarchs. Here comes your father.

Re-enter the French King, and his Queen; BURGUNDY, Lords, &c.

Bur. God ſave your majeſty! my royal cousin, Teach you our princeſs Engliſh?

Kin. I would have her learn, my fair cousin, how perfectly I love her; and that is good Engliſh.

Bur. Is ſhe not apt?

Kin. Our tongue is rough, coz'; and my condition is not ſmooth: ſo that, having neither the voice nor the heart of flattery about me, I cannot ſo conjure up the ſpirit of love in her, that he will appear in his true likeneſs.

Bur. Pardon the frankneſs of my mirth, if I anſwer you for that. If you would conjure in her, you muſt make a circle: if conjure up love in her in his true likeneſs, he muſt appear naked, and blind: Can you blame her then, being a maid yet rosy'd over with the virgin crimson of modeſty, if ſhe deny the appearance of a naked blind boy in her naked ſeeing ſelf? It were, my lord, a hard condition for a maid to conſign to.

Kin. Yet they do wink, and yield; as love is blind, and enforces.

Bur. They are then excus'd, my lord, when they ſee not what they do.

Kin. Then, good my lord, teach your cousin to conſent to winking.

Bur. I will wink on her to conſent, my lord, if you will teach her to know my meaning: for maids, well ſummer'd and warm kept, are like flies at Bartholomew-tide, blind, though they have their eyes; and then they will endure handling, which before would not abide looking on.

Kin. This moral ties me over to time, and a hot ſummer; and ſo I ſhall catch the fly, your couſin, in the latter end, and ſhe muſt be blind too.

Bur. As love is, my lord, before it loves.

Kin. It is ſo: and you may, ſome of you, thank love for my blindneſs; who cannot ſee many a fair French city, for one fair French maid that ſtands in my way.

Fr. K. Yes, my lord, you ſee them perſpectively, the cities turn'd into a maid; for they are all girdl'd with maiden walls, that war hath not enter'd.

Kin. Shall Kate be my wife?

Fr. K. So please you.

Kin. I am content; ſo the maiden cities, you talk of, may wait on her: ſo the maid, that ſtood in the way for my wiſh, ſhall ſhew me the way to my will.

Fr. K. We have conſented to all terms of reason.

Kin. Is't ſo, my lords of England?

Wes. The king hath granted every article:
His daughter, firſt; and then, in ſequel, all,
According to their firm proposed natures.

Exe. Only, he hath not yet ſubſcribed this:—
Where your majeſty demands,—that the king of France, having any occaſion to write for matter of grant, ſhall name your highneſs in this form, and with this addition, in French,—Noſtre tres cher filz Henry roi d'Angleterre, heretier de France; and thus in Latin,—Præclariſſimus filius noſter Henricus, rex Angliæ, et hæres Franciæ.

Fr. K. Nor this I have not, brother, ſo deny'd,
But your requeſt ſhall make me let it paſs.
Kin. I pray you then, in love and dear alliance,
Let that one article rank with the reſt:
And, thereupon, give me your daughter.
Fr. K. Take her, fair ſon; and from her blood raise up
Iſſue to me: that the contending kingdoms
Of France and England, whose very ſhores look pale
With envy of each other's happineſs,
May ceaſe their hatred; and this dear conjunction
Plant neighbourhood and chriſtian-like accord
In their ſweet bosoms, that never war advance
His bleeding ſword 'twixt England and fair France.
all. Amen!
Kin. Now, welcome, Kate:—and bear me witneſs all,
That here I kiſs her as my ſovereign queen.
[Shouts, and Flouriſh of Inſtruments.
Fr. Q. God, the beſt maker of all marriages,
Combine your hearts in one, your realms in one!
As man and wife, being two, are one in love,
So be there 'twixt your kingdoms ſuch a ſpousal,
That never may ill office, or fell jealouſy,
Which troubles oft the bed of bleſſed marriage,
Thruſt in between the paction of these kingdoms,
To make divorce of their incorporate league;
But Engliſh may as French, French Engliſhmen,
Receive each other!—God ſpeak this amen!
all. Amen!
Kin. Prepare we for our marriage:—on which day,
My lord of Burgundy, we'll take your oath,
And all the peers', for ſurety of our leagues.—
Then ſhall I ſwear to Kate,—and you to me;—

And may our oaths well kept and proſp'rous be!
[Flouriſh. Exeunt.

Thus far, with rough and all-unable pen,
Our bending author hath purſu'd the ſtory;
In little room confining mighty men,
Mangling by ſtarts the full courſe of their glory.
Small time, but, in that ſmall, moſt greatly liv'd
This ſtar of England: fortune made his ſword;
By which the world's beſt garden he atchiev'd,
And of it left his ſon imperial lord.
Henry the ſixth, in infant bands crown'd king
Of France and England, did this king ſucceed;
Whose ſtate ſo many had the managing,
That they loſt France, and made his England bleed:
Which oft our ſtage hath ſhown; and, for their ſake,
In your fair minds let this acceptance take. [Exit.

BED. Hung be the heavens with black, yield day to night!
Comets, importing change of times and states,
Brandish your crystal tresses in the sky;
And with them scourge the bad revolting stars,
That have consented unto Henry's death!
Henry the fifth, too famous to live long!
England ne'er lost a king of so much worth.

GLO. England ne'er had a king, until his time.
Virtue he had, deserving to command:
His brandish'd sword did blind men with his beams;
His arms spread wider than a dragon's wings;
His sparkling eyes, replete with wrathful fire,
More dazzl'd and drove back his enemies,
Than mid-day sun, fierce bent against their faces.
What should I say? his deeds exceed all speech:

He ne'er lift up his hand, but conquered. [blood?

Exe. We mourn in black, Why mourn we not in blood? Henry is dead, and never ſhall revive:
Upon a wooden coffin we attend;
And death's diſhonourable victory
We with our ſtately presence glorify,
Like captives bound to a triumphant car.
What? ſhall we curſe the planets of miſ-hap,
That plotted thus our glories' overthrow?
Or ſhall we think the ſubtle-witted French
Conjurers and forcerers, that, afraid of him,
By magick verſes have contriv'd his end?

Win. He was a king bleſt of the King of kings.
Unto the French the dreadful judgment-day
So dreadful will not be, as was his ſight.
The battles of the Lord of hoſts he fought:
The church's prayers made him ſo proſperous. [pray'd,

Glo. The church! where is it? Had not church-men
His thread of life had not ſo ſoon decay'd:
None do you like but an effeminate prince,
Whom like a ſchool-boy you may over-awe.

Win. Gloſter, whate'er we like, thou art protector;
And lookeſt to command the prince, and realm.
Thy wife is proud; ſhe holdeth thee in awe,
More than God, or religious church-men, may.

Glo. Name not religion, for thou lov'ſt the fleſh;
And ne'er throughout the year to church thou go'ſt,
Except it be to pray againſt thy foes. peace!

Bed. Ceaſe, ceaſe these jars, and reſt your minds in
Let's to the altar: — Heralds, wait on us: —
Inſtead of gold, we'll offer up our arms;
Since arms avail not, now that Henry's dead. —

Posterity, await for wretched years,
When at their mother's moist eyes babes shall suck;
Our isle be made a marish of salt tears,
And none but women left to wail the dead. —
Henry the fifth, thy ghost I invocate;
Prosper this realm, keep it from civil broils!
Combat with adverse planets in the heavens!
A far more glorious star thy soul will make,
Than Julius Cæsar, or bright ———

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. My honourable lords, health to you all!
Sad tidings bring I to you out of France,
Of loss, of slaughter, and discomfiture:
Guienne, Champaigne, Rheims, Roan, Orleans,
Paris, Gisors, Poitiers, are all quite lost. [corse?

Bed. What say'st thou, man, before dead Henry's
Speak softly; or the loss of those great towns
Will make him burst his lead, and rise from death.

Glo. Is Paris lost? is Roan yielded up?
If Henry were recall'd to life again,
These news would cause him once more yield the ghost.

Exe. How were they lost? what treachery was us'd?

Mes. No treachery; but want of men, and money.
Amongst the soldiers this is muttered,—
That here you máintain several factions;
And, whilst a field should be dispatch'd and fought,
You are disputing of your generals.
One would have ling'ring wars, with little cost;
Another would fly swift, but wanteth wings;
A third man thinks, without expence at all,
By guileful fair words peace may be obtain'd.
Awake, awake, English nobility;

[3] a Nourish

Let not sloth dim your honours, new-begot:
Cropt are the flower-de-luces in your arms;
Of England's coat one half is cut away.

Exe. Were our tears wanting to this funeral,
These tidings would call forth their flowing tides.

Bed. Me they concern, regent I am of France:—
Give me my steeled coat, I'll fight for France.—
Away with these disgraceful wailing robes!
Wounds will I lend the French, instead of eyes,
To weep their intermissive miseries.

Enter another Messenger. [chance,

2. M. Lords, view these ✝ letters, full of bad mis-
France is revolted from the English quite;
Except some petty towns, of no import:
The dauphin Charles is crowned king in Rheims;
The bastard of Orleans with him is join'd;
Reignier, duke of Anjou, takes his part;
The duke of Alenson flyeth to his side.

Exe. The dauphin crowned king! all fly to him!
O, whither shall we fly from this reproach?

Glo. We will not fly, but to our enemies' throats:—
Bedford, if thou be slack, I'll fight it out.

Bed. Gloster, why doubt'st thou of my forwardness?
An army have I muster'd in my thoughts,
Wherewith already France is over-run.

Enter a third Messenger.

3. M. My gracious lords,—to add to your laments,
Wherewith you now bedew king Henry's hearse,—
I must inform you of a dismal fight,
Betwixt the stout lord Talbot and the French.

Win. What, wherein Talbot overcame? is't so?

3. M. O, no; wherein lord Talbot was o'er-thrown:

5 her flowing 17 doth take

The circumſtance I'll tell you more at large.
The tenth of Auguſt laſt, this dreadful lord,
Retiring from the ſiege of Orleans,
Having ſcarce full ſix thousand in his troop,
By three and twenty thousand of the French
Was round encompaſſed and ſet upon:
No leisure had he to enrank his men;
He wanted pikes to ſet before his archers;
Inſtead whereof, ſharp ſtakes, pluck'd out of hedges,
They pitched in the ground confusedly,
To keep the horſemen off from breaking in.
More than three hours the fight continued;
Where valiant Talbot, above human thought,
Enacted wonders with his ſword and lance:
Hundreds he ſent to hell, and none durſt ſtand him;
Here, there, and every where, enrag'd he ſlew:
The French exclaim'd, The devil was in arms;
All the whole army ſtood agaz'd on him:
His ſoldiers, ſpying his undaunted ſpirit,
A Talbot, a Talbot! cried out amain,
And ruſh'd into the bowels of the battle.
Here had the conqueſt fully been ſeal'd up,
If ſir John Falſtaff had not play'd the coward:
He being in the rere ward plac'd behind,
With purpose to relieve and follow them,
Cowardly fled, not having ſtruck one ſtroke.
Hence grew the general wreck and maſſacre;
Enclosed were they with their enemies:
A baſe Walloon, to win the dauphin's grace,
Thruſt Talbot with a ſpear into the back;
Whom all France, with their chief aſſembl'd ſtrength,
Durſt not presume to look once in the face.

4 full ſcarce 24 Vauward

Bed. Is Talbot slain then? I will slay myself,
For living idly here, in pomp and ease,
Whilst such a worthy leader, wanting aid,
Unto his dastard foeman is betray'd.

3. M. O, no, he lives; but is took prisoner,
And lord Scales with him, and lord Hungerford:
Most of the rest slaughter'd, or took, likewise.

Bed. His ransom there is none but I shall pay:
I'll hale the dauphin headlong from his throne,
His crown shall be the ransom of my friend;
Four of their lords I'll change for one of ours. —
Farewel, my masters, to my task will I;
Bonfires in France forthwith I am to make,
To keep our great saint George's feast withal:
Ten thousand soldiers with me I will take,
Whose bloody deeds shall make all Europe quake.

3. M. So you had need; for Orleans is besieg'd;
The English army is grown weak and faint:
The earl of Salisbury craveth supply;
And hardly keeps his men from mutiny,
Since they, so few, watch such a multitude.

Exe. Remember, lords, your oaths to Henry sworn;
Either to quell the dauphin utterly,
Or bring him in obedience to your yoke.

Bed. I do remember it; and here take leave,
To go about my preparation. [Exit.

Glo. I'll to the tower with all the haste I can,
To view the artillery and munition;
And then I will proclaim young Henry king. [Exit.

Exe. To Eltam will I, where the young king is,
Being ordain'd his special governor;
And for his safety there I'll best devise. [Exit.

Win. Each hath his place and function to attend:
I am left out; for me nothing remains.
But long I will not be Jack-out-of-office;
The king from Eltam I intend to send,
And sit at chiefest stern of publick weal.
[Exit. Scene closes.

SCENE II. France. The English Posts before Orleans.
Drums. Enter the Dauphin, Charles, and his Forces;
Reignier, Alenson, and Others.

Cha. Mars his true moving, even as in the heavens,
So in the earth, to this day is not known:
Late did he shine upon the English side;
Now we are victors, upon us he smiles.
What towns of any moment, but we have?
At pleasure here we lye, near Orleans;
The whiles the famish'd English, like pale ghosts,
Faintly besiege us one hour in a month. [beeves:

Ale. They want their porridge, and their fat bull-
Either they must be dieted like mules,
And have their provender ty'd to their mouths;
Or piteous they will look, like drowned mice.

Rei. Let's raise the siege; Why sit we idly here?
Talbot is taken, whom we wont to fear:
Remaineth none, but mad-brain'd Salisbury;
And he may well in fretting spend his gall,
Nor men, nor money, hath he to make war.

Cha. Sound, sound alarum; — we will rush on them.
[Charge sounded.
Now for the honour of the forlorn French: —
Him I forgive my death, that killeth me,
When he sees me go back one foot, or fly. [Exeunt.

[17] Otherwhiles

Alarums; Skirmishings; afterwards, a Retreat:
Re-enter CHARLES, and the rest.

CHA. Who ever saw the like? what men have I? —
Dogs! cowards! dastards — I would ne'er have fled,
But that they left me 'midst my enemies.

REI. Salisbury is a desperate homicide;
He fighteth as one weary of his life.
The other lords, like lions wanting food,
Do rush upon us as their hungry prey.

ALE. Froisard, a countryman of ours, records,
England all Olivers and Rowlands bred,
During the time Edward the third did reign:
More truly now may this be verify'd;
For none but Sampsons, and Goliasses,
It sendeth forth to skirmish. One to ten!
Lean raw-bon'd rascals! who would e'er suppose,
They had such courage and audacity? [slaves,

CHA. Let's leave this town; for they are hair-brain'd
And hunger will enforce them be more eager:
Of old I know them; rather with their teeth
The walls they'll tear down, than forsake the siege.

REI. I think, by some odd gimmals or device,
Their arms are set, like clocks, still to strike on;
Else ne'er could they hold out so as they do.
By my consent, we'll e'en let them alone.

ALE. Be it so.

Enter the Bastard of Orleans. [him.

Bas. Where's the prince dauphin? I have news for

CHA. Bastard of Orleans, thrice welcome to us.

Bas. Methinks, your looks are sad, your cheer ap-
Hath the late overthrow wrought this offence? [pall'd;
Be not dismay'd, for succour is at hand:

11 breed 19 them to be

A holy maid hither with me I bring,
Which, by a vision ſent to her from heaven,
Ordained is to raise this tedious ſiege,
And drive the Engliſh forth the bounds of France:
The ſpirit of deep propheſy ſhe hath,
Exceeding the nine ſibyls of old Rome;
What's paſt, and what's to come, ſhe can deſcry.
Speak, ſhall I call her in? Believe my words,
For they are certain and unfallible. [ſkill,

Cha. Go, call her in: [Exit Baſ.] But, firſt, to try her Reignier, ſtand thou as dauphin in my place:
Queſtion her proudly, let thy looks be ſtern; —
By this means ſhall we ſound what ſkill ſhe hath.
[retires.

Enter La Pucelle, uſher'd.

Rei. Fair maid, is't thou wilt do these wond'rous feats?

Puc. Reignier, is't thou that thinkeſt to beguile me? —
Where is the dauphin? — come, come from behind;
I know thee well, though never ſeen before.
Be not amaz'd, there's nothing hid from me:
In private will I talk with thee apart; —
Stand back, you lords, and give us leave a while.
[driving them back.

Rei. She takes upon her bravely at firſt daſh.

Puc. Dauphin, I am by birth a ſhepherd's daughter,
My wit untrain'd in any kind of art.
Heaven, and our lady gracious, hath it pleas'd
To ſhine on my contemptible eſtate:
Lo, whilſt I waited on my tender lambs,
And to ſun's parching heat diſplay'd my cheeks,
God's mother deigned to appear to me;

And, in a vision full of majesty,
Will'd me to leave my base vocation,
And free my country from calamity:
Her aid she promis'd, and assur'd success:
In compleat glory she reveal'd herself;
And, whereas I was black and swart before,
With those clear rays which she infus'd on me,
That beauty am I blest with, which you see.
Ask me what question thou canst possible,
And I will answer unpremeditated:
My courage try by combat, if thou dar'st,
And thou shalt find that I exceed my sex.
Resolve on this, Thou shalt be fortunate,
If thou receive me for thy warlike mate.

Cha. Thou hast astonish'd me with thy high terms:
Only this proof I'll of thy valour make,—
In single combat thou shalt buckle with me;
And, if thou vanquishest, thy words are true;
Otherwise, I renounce all confidence.

Puc. I am prepar'd: here is my keen-edg'd sword, [drawing it.
Deck'd with fine flower-de-luces on each side;
The which at Touraine, in saint Catharine's church-yard,
Out of a great deal of old iron I chose.

Cha. Then come o'God's name, for I fear no woman. [addressing him to the Combat.

Puc. And, while I live, I'll never fly no man.
[engaging him.

Cha. Stay, stay thy hands; thou art an Amazon,
And fightest with the sword of Debora.

Puc. Christ's mother helps me, else I were too weak.

Cha. Whoe'er helps thee, 'tis thou that must help me:

Impatiently I burn with thy desire;
My heart and hands thou haſt at once ſubdu'd.
Excellent Pucelle, if thy name be ſo,
Let me thy ſervant, and not ſovereign, be;
'Tis the French dauphin ſueth to thee thus.
Puc. I muſt not yield to any rites of love,
For my profeſſion's ſacred from above:
When I have chaſed all thy foes from hence,
Then will I think upon a recompence.
Cha. Mean time, look gracious on thy proſtrate thrall.
Rei. My lord, methinks, is very long in talk.
Ale. Doubtleſs, he ſhrives this woman to her ſmock;
Elſe ne'er could he ſo long protract his ſpeech.
Rei. Shall we diſturb him, ſince he keeps no mean?
Ale. He may mean more than we poor men do know:
These women are ſhrewd tempters with their tongues.
Rei. My lord, [to the Dauphin, advancing.] where are you? what devise you on?
Shall we give o'er this Orleans, or no?
Puc. Why, no, I ſay: diſtruſtful recreants,
Fight 'till the laſt gaſp; I will be your guard.
Cha. What ſhe ſays, I'll confirm; we'll fight it out.
Puc. Aſſign'd am I to be the Engliſh ſcourge.
This night the ſiege aſſuredly I'll raise:
Expect ſaint Martin's ſummer, Halcyon days,
Since I have enter'd thus into these wars.
Glory is like a circle in the water;
Which never ceaſeth to enlarge itſelf,
'Till, by broad ſpreading, it diſperſe to nought:
With Henry's death, the Engliſh circle ends;
Diſperſed are the glories it included.
Now am I like that proud inſulting ſhip,

Which Cæsar and his fortune bare at once.
Cha. Was Mahomet inspired with a dove?
Thou with an eagle art inspired then.
Helen, the mother of great Constantine,
Nor yet saint Philip's daughters, were like thee.
Bright star of Venus, fall'n down on the earth,
How may I ever worship thee enough?
Ale. Leave off delays, and let us raise the siege.
Rei. Woman, do what thou canst to save our honours;
Drive them from hence, and be immortaliz'd. [it:—
Cha. Presently we'll try:—Come, let's away about
No prophet will I trust, if she prove false. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. London. Hill before the Tower.
Warders within, attending: Enter, to the Gates, the Duke of Gloster, and Servingmen in blue.

Glo. I am come to survey the tower this day;
Since Henry's death, I fear, there is conveyance.—
Where be these warders, that they wait not here?
Open the gates; 'tis Gloucester, that calls.
1. W. Who's there, that knocketh so imperiously?
1. S. It is the noble duke of Gloucester.
2. W. Whoe'er he be, he may not be let in.
1. S. Villains, answer you so the lord protector?
1. W. The Lord protect him! so we answer him:
We do no otherwise than we are will'd.
Glo. Who willed you? or whose will stands, but mine?
There's none protector of the realm, but I.—
Break up the gates, I'll be your warrantize:
Shall I be flouted thus by dunghil grooms?

7 I reverently wor- 10 from Orleance, 22 knocks 24 be, you may

Servants ruſh at the Gates. Enter, to the Gates, within, WOODVILE, the Lieutenant.

Woo. What noise is this? what traitors have we here?

Glo. Lieutenant, is it you, whose voice I hear?
Open the gates; here's Gloſter, that would enter.

Woo. Have patience, noble duke; I may not open,
The cardinal of Wincheſter forbids:
From him I have expreſs commandement,
That thou nor none of thine ſhall be let in.

Glo. Faint-hearted Woodvile, prizeſt him 'fore me?
Arrogant Wincheſter? that haughty prelate,
Whom Henry, our late ſovereign, ne'er could brook?
Thou art no friend to God, or to the king:
Open the gates, or I'll ſhut thee out ſhortly.

Ser. Open the gates unto the lord protector;
We'll burſt them open, if you come not quickly.

Servants ruſh at the Gates again.

Enter Beaufort, Biſhop of WINCHESTER; and Train of Servants, in tawny.

Win. How now, ambitious Humphry? what means this?

Glo. Piel'd prieſt, doſt thou command me be ſhut out?

Win. I do, thou moſt usurping proditor,
And not protector of the king or realm.

Glo. Stand back, thou manifeſt conſpirator;
Thou that contriv'dſt to murder our dead lord;
Thou that giv'ſt whores indulgences to ſin:
I'll canvas thee in thy broad cardinal's hat,
If thou proceed in this thy inſolence.

Win. Nay, ſtand thou back, I will not budge a foot;
This be Damaſcus, be thou curſed Cain,
To ſlay thy brother Abel, if thou wilt.

16 Or we'll — if that you 20 Umpheir 22 me to be

Glo. I will not slay thee, but I'll drive thee back:
Thy scarlet robes as a child's bearing-cloth
I'll use, to carry thee out of this place.
Win. Do what thou dar'st; I beard thee to thy face.
Glo. What, am I dar'd, and bearded to my face?—
Draw, men, for all this priviledged place;
Blue-coats to tawny-coats. — Priest, beware thy beard;
[Gloster, and his Men, attack the others.
I mean to tug it, and to cuff you soundly:
Under my feet I'll stamp thy cardinal's hat;
In spite of pope, or dignities of church,
Here by the cheeks I'll drag thee up and down.
Win. Gloster, thou'lt answer this before the pope.
Glo. Winchester goose, I cry — A rope! a rope! —
Now beat them hence, Why do you let them stay?—
Thee I'll chase hence, thou wolf in sheep's array. —
Out, tawny-coats! — out, scarlet hypocrite!
A great Tumult: Enter the Mayor of London, and Officers.
May. Fie, lords! that you, being supream magistrates,
Thus contumeliously should break the peace!
Glo. Peace, mayor; for thou know'st little of my wrongs:
Here's Beaufort, that regards nor God nor king,
Hath here distrain'd the tower to his use.
Win. Here's Gloster too, a foe to citizens;
One that still motions war, and never peace,
O'er-charging your free purses with large fines;
That seeks to overthrow religion,
Because he is protector of the realm;
And would have armour here out of the tower,
To crown himself king, and suppress the prince.

Glo. I will not anſwer thee with words, but blows.
[Tumult begins again.

May. Nought reſts for me, in this tumultuous ſtrife,
But to make open proclamation:—
Come, officer; as loud as e'er thou canſt.

Off. All manner of men, aſſembl'd here in arms this day, againſt God's peace and the king's, we charge and command you, in his highneſs' name, to repair to your ſeveral dwelling-places; and not to wear, handle, or uſe, any ſword, weapon, or dagger, henceforward, upon pain of death.

Glo. Cardinal, I'll be no breaker of the law:
But we ſhall meet, and break our minds at large.

Win. Gloſter, we'll meet; to thy dear coſt, be ſure:
Thy heart-blood I will have for this day's work.

May. I'll call for clubs, if you will not away:—
This cardinal is more haughty than the devil.

Glo. Mayor, farewel: thou doſt but what thou may'ſt.

Win. Abominable Gloſter! guard thy head;
For I intend to have it, ere't be long.
[Exeunt either Party, ſeverally.

May. See the coaſt clear'd, and then we will depart.—
Good God! that nobles ſhould ſuch ſtomacks bear!
I myſelf fight not once in forty year. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. France. Under Orleans.

Enter, upon the Walls, above, a Gunner, and his Son.

Gun. Sirrah, thou know'ſt how Orleans is beſieg'd;
And how the Engliſh have the ſuburbs won.

Son. Father, I know; and oft have ſhot at them,
Howe'er, unfortunate, I miſſ'd my aim.

23 theſe Nobles

Gun. But now thou shalt not. Be thou rul'd by me:
Chief master-gunner am I of this town;
Something I must do, to procure me grace.
The prince's 'spials have informed me,
How the English, in the suburbs close entrench'd,
Went, through a secret grate of iron bars
In yonder tower, to over-peer the city;
And thence discover, how, with most advantage,
They may vex us, with shot, or with assault.
To intercept this inconvenience,
A piece of ord'nance 'gainst it I have plac'd;
And fully even these three days have I watch'd,
If I could see them: Now, boy, do thou watch;
For I can stay no longer.
If thou spy'st any, run and bring me word;
And thou shalt find me at the governor's.

Son. Father, I warrant you; take you no care;
I'll never trouble you, if I may 'spy them.

Enter the Lords SALISBURY and TALBOT, Sir Thomas GARGRAVE, Sir William GLANSDALE, and Others.

SAL. Talbot, my life, my joy, again return'd!
How wert thou handl'd, being prisoner?
Or by what means got'st thou to be releas'd?
Discourse, I pr'ythee, on this turret's top.

TAL. The duke of Bedford had a prisoner,
Called—the brave lord Ponton de Santrailles;
For him was I exchang'd and ransomed.
But with a baser man of arms by far,
Once, in contempt, they would have barter'd me:
Which I, disdaining, scorn'd; and craved death,

Rather than I would be ſo pill'd eſteem'd.
In fine, redeem'd I was as I desir'd.
But, o, the treacherous Falſtaff wounds my heart!
Whom with my bare fiſts I would execute,
If I now had him brought into my power.

Sal. Yet tell'ſt thou not, how thou wert entertain'd.

Tal. With ſcoffs, and ſcorns, and contumelious taunts.
In open market-place produc'd they me,
To be a publick ſpectacle to all;
Here, ſaid they, is the terror of the French,
The ſcare-ſcrow that affrights our children ſo:
Then broke I from the officers that led me;
And with my nails dig'd ſtones out of the ground,
To hurl at the beholders of my ſhame.
My grizly countenance made others fly;
None durſt come near, for fear of ſudden death.
In iron walls they deem'd me not ſecure;
So great fear of my name 'mongſt them was ſpread,
That they ſuppos'd, I could rend bars of ſteel,
And ſpurn in pieces poſts of adamant:
Wherefore a guard of chosen ſhot I had,
That walk'd about me every minute while;
And if I did but ſtir out of my bed,
Ready they were to ſhoot me to the heart.

Sal. I grieve to hear what torments you endur'd;
But we will be reveng'd ſufficiently.
Now it is ſupper-time in Orleans:
Here, through this grate, I can count every one,
And view the Frenchmen how they fortify;
Let us look in, the ſight will much delight thee.—
Sir Thomas Gargrave, and ſir William Glansdale,
Let me have your expreſs opinions,

18 were ſpread

Where is best place to make our battery next.
Gar. I think, at the north gate; for there stand lords.
Gla. And I † here, at the bulwark of the bridge.
Tal. For ought I see, this city must be famish'd;
Or with light skirmishes enfeebled.
[Shot from the Town. Sal. and Sir Tho. Gar. fall.
Sal. O Lord have mercy on us, wretched sinners!
Gar. O Lord have mercy on me, woful man!
Tal. What chance is this, that suddenly hath crost
Speak, Salisbury; at least, if thou canst speak; [us?—
How far'st thou, mirror of all martial men?
One of thy eyes, and thy cheek's side struck off!—
Accursed tower! accursed fatal hand,
That hath contriv'd this woful tragedy!
In thirteen battles Salisbury o'er-came;
Henry the fifth he first train'd to the wars:
Whilst any trump did sound, or drum struck up,
His sword did ne'er leave striking in the field.—
Yet liv'st thou, Salisbury? though thy speech doth fail,
One eye thou hast to look to heaven for grace:
The sun with one eye vieweth all the world.—
Heaven, be thou gracious to none alive,
If Salisbury wants mercy at thy hands.—
Bear hence his body, I will help to bury it.—
Sir Thomas Gargrave, hast thou any life?
Speak unto Talbot; nay, look up to him.—
Salisbury, chear thy spirit with this comfort;
Thou shalt not die, whiles—
He beckons with his hand, and smiles on me;
As who should say, When I am dead and gone,
Remember to avenge me on the French.—
Plantagenet, I will; and Nero-like,

Play on the lute, beholding the towns burn:
Wretched ſhall France be only in my name.
[Thunder heard; afterwards, an Alarum.
What ſtir is this? What tumult's in the heavens?
Whence cometh this alarum, and this noise?
Enter a Meſſenger, haſtily. [head:
Meſ. My lord, my lord, the French have gather'd
The dauphin, with one Joan la Pucelle join'd,—
A holy prophetess, new risen up,—
Is come with a great power to raise the ſiege.
[Salisbury groans.
Tal. Hear, hear, how dying Salisbury doth groan;
It irks his heart, he cannot be reveng'd.—
Frenchmen, I'll be a Salisbury to you:—
Pucelle or puzzel, dolphin or dog-fiſh,
Your hearts I'll ſtamp out with my horſe's heels,
And make a quagmire of your mingl'd brains.—
Convey me Salisbury into his tent,
And then we'll try what daſtard Frenchmen dare.
[Exeunt, bearing out the Bodies.

SCENE V. The ſame. Before one of the Gates.
Alarums. Skirmiſhings. Enter Talbot.

Tal. Where is my ſtrength, my valour, and my force?
Our Engliſh troops retire, I cannot ſtay them;
A woman, clad in armour, chaſeth them.
Enter La Pucelle.
Here, here ſhe comes:—I'll have a bout with thee;
[throwing himſelf in her Way.
Devil, or devil's dam, I'll conjure thee:
Blood will I draw of thee, thou art a witch,
And ſtraightway give thy ſoul to him thou ſerv'ſt.

5 the noyſe

Puc. Come, come, 'tis only I that must disgrace thee. [they fight.

Tal. Heavens, can you suffer hell so to prevail?
My breast I'll burst with straining of my courage,
And from my shoulders crack my arms asunder,
But I will chastise this high-minded strumpet.
[fight again.

Puc. Talbot, farewel; thy hour is not yet come:
[quitting him, to head some Troops.
I must go victual Orleans forthwith.
O'er-take me, if thou canst; I scorn thy strength.
Go, go, chear up thy hunger-starved men;
Help Salisbury to make his testament:
This day is ours, as many more shall be.
[Exit, with Troops, to the Town.

Tal. My thoughts are whirled like a potter's wheel;
I know not where I am, nor what I do:
A witch, by fear, not force, like Hannibal,
Drives back our troops, and conquers as she lifts:
So bees with smoke, and doves with noisome stench,
Are from their hives, and houses, driven away.
They call'd us, for our fierceness, English dogs;
Now, like the whelps, we crying run away.
[a short Skirmish.
Hark, countrymen! either renew the fight,
Or tear the lions out of England's coat;
Renounce your soil, give sheep in lions' stead:
Sheep run not half so timorous from the wolf,
Or horse, or oxen, from the leopard,
As you fly from your oft-subdued slaves.—
[another Skirmish.
It will not be:—Retire into your trenches:

12 hungry-starved 28 treacherous

You all consented unto Salisbury's death.
[Retreat sounded.
For none would strike a stroke in his revenge. —
Pucelle is enter'd into Orleans,
In spite of us, or ought that we could do.
O, would I were to die with Salisbury!
The shame hereof will make me hide my head.
[Exeunt, TALBOT, and Forces of both Sides.

SCENE VI. The same.

Enter, upon the Walls, PUCELLE, CHARLES, REIGNIER, ALENSON, and Soldiers.

Puc. Advance our waving colours on the walls;
Rescu'd is Orleans from the English wolves: —
Thus Joan la Pucelle hath perform'd her word.
Cha. Divinest creature, bright Astræa's daughter,
How shall I honour thee for this success?
Thy promises are like Adonis' gardens,
That one day bloom'd, and fruitful were the next. —
France, triumph in thy glorious prophetess! —
Recover'd is the town of Orleans:
More blessed hap did ne'er befal our state.
Rei. Why ring not out the bells throughout the town?
Dauphin, command the citizens make bonfires,
And feast and banquet in the open streets,
To celebrate the joy that God hath given us.
Ale. All France will be replete with mirth and joy,
When they shall hear how we have play'd the men.
Cha. 'Tis Joan, not we, by whom the day is won;
For which, I will divide my crown with her:
And all the priests and friars in my realm

[18] Garden,

Shall, in procession, sing her endless praise.
A statelier pyramis to her I'll rear,
Than Rhodope's, or Memphis', ever was:
In memory of her, when she is dead,
Her ashes, in an urn more precious
Than the rich-jewel'd coffer of Darius
Transported, shall be at high festivals
Before the kings and queens of France up-born.
No longer on saint Dennis will we cry,
But Joan la Pucelle shall be France's saint.
Come in; and let us banquet royally,
After this golden day of victory. [Flourish. Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE I. The same.

Enter a French Serjeant, and Sentinels, to the Gate.

Ser. Sirs, take your places, and be vigilant:
If any noise, or soldier, you perceive,
Near to the walls, by some apparent sign
Let us have knowledge at the court of guard.
1. S. Serjeant, you shall. [Exit Ser.] Thus are poor servitors
(When others sleep upon their quiet beds)
Constrain'd to watch in darkness, rain, and cold.

Enter the Dukes of BEDFORD, and BURGUNDY, the Lord TALBOT, and Forces, at a Distance, with scaling Ladders; their Drums beating a dead March.

Tal. Lord regent, — and redoubted Burgundy, —
By whose approach, the regions of Artois,

Walloon, and Picardy, are friends to us, —
This happy night the Frenchmen are ſecure,
Having all day carous'd and banqueted:
Embrace we then this opportunity;
As fitting beſt to quittance their deceit,
Contriv'd by art, and baleful ſorcery. [ſame,
Bed. Coward of France! — how much he wrongs his
Deſpairing of his own arm's fortitude,
To join with witches, and the help of hell.
Bur. Traitors have never other company.
But what's that Pucelle, whom they term ſo pure?
Tal. A maid, they ſay.
Bed. A maid! and be ſo martial!
Bur. Pray God, ſhe prove not maſculine ere long;
If underneath the ſtandard of the French
She carry armour, as ſhe hath begun.
Tal. Well, let them practiſe and converſe with ſpirits:
God is our fortreſs; in whose conquering name,
Let us resolve to ſcale their flinty bulwarks.
Bed. Aſcend, brave Talbot; we will follow thee.
Tal. Not altogether: better far, I gueſs,
That we do make our entrance ſeveral ways;
That, if it chance the one of us do fail,
The other yet may rise againſt their force.
Bed. Agreed; I'll to yon' corner.
Bur. And I to this.
Tal. And here will Talbot mount, or make his grave.
Now, Salisbury, for thee, and for the right
Of Engliſh Henry, ſhall this night appear
How much in duty I am bound to both.
[they diſperſe, and ſcale the Walls, crying, Saint George! a Talbot! &c. and all enter the City.

Sen. Arm, arm! the enemy doth make assault!
The French leap o'er the Walls in their Shirts.
Enter, confusedly, and unready, the Bastard of Orleans, ALENSON, REIGNIER, and Others.
ALE. How now, my lords? what, all unready so?
Bas. Unready? ay, and glad we 'scap'd so well.
REI. 'Twas time, I trow, to wake, and leave our beds,
Hearing alarums at our chamber doors.
ALE. Of all exploits, since first I follow'd arms,
Ne'er heard I of a warlike enterprize
More venturous, or desperate, than this.
Bas. I think, this Talbot be a fiend of hell.
REI. If not of hell, the heavens, sure, favour him.
ALE. Here cometh Charles; I marvel, how he sped.
Enter CHARLES, and PUCELLE.
Bas. Tut! holy Joan was his defensive guard.
CHA. Is this thy cunning, thou deceitful dame?
Didst thou at first, to flatter us withal,
Make us partakers of a little gain,
That now our loss might be ten times so much?
PUC. Wherefore is Charles impatient with his friend?
At all times will you have my power alike?
Sleeping, or waking, must I still prevail,
Or will you blame and lay the fault on me?—
Improvident soldiers! had your watch been good,
This sudden mischief never could have fall'n.
CHA. Duke of Alenson, this was your default;
That, being captain of the watch to-night,
Did look no better to that weighty charge.
ALE. Had all your quarters been as safely kept,
As that whereof I had the government,
We had not been thus shamefully surpriz'd.

Baſ. Mine was ſecure.

Rei. And ſo was mine, my lord.

Cha. And, for myſelf, moſt part of all this night,
Within her quarter, and mine own precinct,
I was employ'd in paſſing to and fro,
About relieving of the ſentinels:
Then how, or which way, ſhould they firſt break in?

Puc. Queſtion, my lords, no further of the caſe,
How, or which way; 'tis ſure, they found ſome place
But weakly guarded, where the breach was made:
And now there reſts no other ſhift but this,—
To gather our ſoldiers, ſcatter'd and diſperſ'd,
And lay new plat-forms to endammage them.

Alarums. Enter an Engliſh Soldier, crying, A Talbot! a Talbot! they fly, leaving their Cloaths behind.

Sol. I'll be ſo bold to take what they have left.
The cry of Talbot ſerves me for a ſword;
For I have loaden me with many ſpoils,
Using no other weapon but his name. [Exit.

SCENE II. The ſame. Within the Town.

Flouriſh. Enter Talbot, Bedford, Burgundy, a Captain, and Others.

Bed. The day begins to break, and night is fled,
Whoſe pitchy mantle over-veil'd the earth.
Here ſound retreat, and ceaſe our hot purſuit.
[Retreat ſounded.

Tal. Bring forth the body of old Salisbury;
And here advance it in the market-place,
The middle centre of this curſed town.—
Now have I pay'd my vow unto his ſoul;

For every drop of blood was drawn from him,
There hath at least five Frenchmen dy'd to-night.
And, that hereafter ages may behold
What ruin happen'd in revenge of him,
Within their chiefest temple I'll erect
A tomb, wherein his corps shall be interr'd:
Upon the which, that every one may read,
Shall be engrav'd the sack of Orleans;
The treacherous manner of his mournful death,
And what a terror he had been to France.
But, lords, in all our bloody massacre,
I muse, we met not with the dauphin's grace;
His new-come champion, virtuous Joan of Arc;
Nor any of his false confederates.

Bed. 'Tis thought, lord Talbot, when the fight began,
Rouz'd on the sudden from their drowzy beds,
They did, amongst the troops of armed men,
Leap o'er the walls for refuge in the field.

Bur. Myself (as far as I could well discern,
For smoke, and dusky vapours of the night)
Am sure, I scar'd the dauphin, and his trull;
When arm in arm they both came swiftly running,
Like to a pair of loving turtle-doves,
That could not live asunder day or night.
After that things are set in order here,
We'll follow them with all the power we have.

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. All hail, my lords! which of this princely train
Call ye the warlike Talbot, for his acts
So much applauded through the realm of France?

Tal. Here is the Talbot; Who would speak with him?

Mes. The virtuous lady, countess of Auvergne,

With modeſty admiring thy renown,
By me entreats, great lord, thou would'ſt vouchſafe
To visit her poor caſtle where ſhe lies;
That ſhe may boaſt, ſhe hath beheld the man
Whose glory fills the world with loud report.

Bur. Is it even ſo? Nay, then, I ſee, our wars
Will turn unto a peaceful comic ſport,
When ladies crave to be encounter'd with. —
You may not, lord, deſpise her gentle ſuit.

Tal. Ne'er truſt me then; for, when a world of men
Could not prevail with all their oratory,
Yet hath a woman's kindneſs over-rul'd: —
And therefore tell her, I return great thanks;
And in ſubmiſſion will attend on her. [Exit Meſ.
Will not your honours bear me company?

Bed. No, truly; that is more than manners will:
And I have heard it ſaid, Unbidden gueſts
Are often welcomeſt when they are gone.

Tal. Well then, alone, ſince there's no remedy,
I mean to prove this lady's courteſy! — [mind.
Come, hither, captain; [whiſpers him.] You perceive my

Cap. I do, my lord; and mean accordingly. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. Auvergne. Court of the Caſtle.
Enter the Counteſs of Auvergne, her Porter, and Others.

Cou. Porter, remember what I gave in charge;
And, when you have done ſo, bring the keys to me.

Por. Madam, I will. [Exit.

Cou. The plot is lay'd: if all things fall out right,
I ſhall as famous be by this exploit,
As Scythian Tomyris by Cyrus' death.

9 not (my Lord) 16 truly, 'tis

Great is the rumour of this dreadful knight,
And his atchievements of no less account:
Fain would mine eyes be witness with mine ears,
To give their censure of these rare reports.

Enter Messenger, and TALBOT.

Mes. Madam, according as your ladyship
By message crav'd, so is lord Talbot come.

Cou. And he is welcome: What! is this the man?

Mes. Madam, it is.

Cou. Is this the scourge of France?
Is this the Talbot, so much fear'd abroad
That with his name the mothers still their babes?
I see, report is fabulous and false:
I thought, I should have seen some Hercules,
A second Hector, for his grim aspéct,
And large proportion of his strong-knit limbs.
Alas! this is a child, a silly dwarf:
It cannot be, this weak and wrizl'd shrimp
Should strike such terror to his enemies.

TAL. Madam, I have been bold to trouble you:
But, since your ladyship is not at leisure,
I'll sort some other time to visit you. [going.

Cou. What means he now? — Go ask him, whither he goes.

Mes. Stay, my lord Talbot; for my lady craves
To know the cause of your abrupt departure.

TAL. Marry, for that she's in a wrong belief,
I go to certify her, Talbot's here.

Re-enter Porter, with Keys.

Cou. If thou be he, then art thou prisoner.

TAL. Prisoner! to whom?

Cou. To me, blood-thirsty lord;

6 Ladyship desir'd, 18 writhled

And for that cause I train'd thee to my houſe.
Long time thy ſhadow hath been thrall to me,
For in my gallery thy picture hangs:
But now the ſubſtance ſhall endure the like;
And I will chain these legs and arms of thine,
That haſt by tyranny, these many years,
Waſted our country, ſlain our citizens,
And ſent our ſons and husbands captivate.

Tal. Ha, ha, ha! [moan.

Cou. Laugheſt thou, wretch? thy mirth ſhall turn to

Tal. I laugh to ſee your ladyſhip ſo fond,
To think that you have ought but Talbot's ſhadow,
Whereon to practiſe your ſeverity.

Cou. Why, art not thou the man?

Tal. I am, indeed.

Cou. Then have I ſubſtance too.

Tal. No, no, I am but ſhadow of myſelf:
You are deceiv'd, my ſubſtance is not here;
For what you ſee, is but the ſmalleſt part
And leaſt proportion of humanity:
I tell you, madam, were the whole frame here,
It is of ſuch a ſpacious lofty pitch,
Your roof were not ſufficient to contain't.

Cou. This is a riddling merchant for the nonce;
He will be here, and yet he is not here:
How can these contrarieties agree?

Tal. That will I ſhew you presently.

Winds a Horn. Drums heard; then, a Peal of Ordinance: The Gates are forced; and Enter certain of his Troops.

How ſay you, madam? are you now perſuaded,
That Talbot is but ſhadow of himſelf?

These are his substance, sinews, arms, and strength,
With which he yoketh your rebellious necks;
Razeth your cities, and subverts your towns,
And in a moment makes them desolate.

Cou. Victorious Talbot, pardon my abuse:
I find, thou art no less than fame hath bruited,
And more than may be gather'd by thy shape.
Let my presumption not provoke thy wrath;
For I am sorry, that with reverence
I did not entertain thee as thou art.

Tal. Be not dismay'd, fair lady; nor misconstrue
The mind of Talbot, as you did mistake
The outward composition of his body.
What you have done, hath not offended me:
Nor other satisfaction do I crave,
But only (with your patience) that we may
Taste of your wine, and see what cates you have;
For soldiers' stomacks always serve them well.

Cou. With all my heart; and think me honoured,
To feast so great a warrior in my house. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. London. The Temple Garden.

Enter the Earls of Somerset, Suffolk, and Warwick; Richard Plantagenet, Vernon, and another Lawyer.

Pla. Great lords, and gentlemen, what means this silence?
Dare no man answer in a case of truth?

Suf. Within the temple hall we were too loud;
The garden here is more convenient.

Pla. Then say at once, If I maintain'd the truth;
Or, else, was wrangling Somerset i'the right?

Suf. 'Faith, I have been a truant in the law;

And never yet could frame my will to it;
And, therefore, frame the law unto my will. [us.

Som. Judge you, my lord of Warwick, then between

War. Between two hawks, which flies the higher pitch,
Between two dogs, which hath the deeper mouth,
Between two blades, which bears the better temper,
Between two horſes, which doth bear him beſt,
Between two girls, which hath the merrieſt eye,
I have, perhaps, ſome ſhallow ſpirit of judgment:
But in these nice ſharp quillets of the law,
Good faith, I am no wiser than a daw.

Pla. Tut, tut, here is a mannerly forbearance:
The truth appears ſo naked on my ſide,
That any purblind eye may find it out.

Som. And on my ſide it is ſo well apparel'd,
So clear, ſo ſhining, and ſo evident,
That it will glimmer through a blind man's eye.

Pla. Since you are tongue-ty'd, and ſo loth to ſpeak,
In dumb ſignificants proclaim your thoughts:
Let him that is a true-born gentleman,
And ſtands upon the honour of his birth,
If he ſuppose that I have pleaded truth,
From off this briar pluck a white rose with † me.

Som. Let him that is no coward, nor no flatterer,
But dare maintain the party of the truth,
Pluck a red rose from off this thorn with † me.

War. I love no colours; and, without all colour
Of baſe inſinuating flattery,
I pluck this white † rose with Plantagenet.

Suf. I pluck this red † rose, with young Somerſet;
And ſay withal, I think he held the right.

Ver. Stay, lords, and gentlemen; and pluck no more,

'Till you conclude — that he, upon whose side
The fewest roses are cropt from the tree,
Shall yield the other in the right opinion.

Som. Good master Vernon, it is well objected;
If I have fewest, I subscribe in silence.

Pla. And I.

Ver. Then, for the truth and plainness of the case,
I pluck this pale and maiden blossom † here,
Giving my verdict on the white rose side.

Som. Prick not your finger, as you pluck it off;
Lest, bleeding, you do paint the white rose red,
And fall on my side so against your will.

Ver. If I, my lord, for my opinion bleed,
Opinion shall be surgeon to my hurt,
And keep me on the side where still I am.

Som. Well, well, come on; Who else?

Law. Unless my study and my books be false,
The argument you held [to Som.] was wrong in you;
In sign whereof, I pluck a white † rose too.

Pla. Now, Somerset, where is your argument?

Som. Here, in my scabbard; meditating that,
Shall dye your white rose in a bloody red. [ses;

Pla. Mean time, your cheeks do counterfeit our ro-
For pale they look with fear, as witnessing
The truth on our side.

Som. No, Plantagenet,
'Tis not for fear; but anger — that thy cheeks
Blush for pure shame, to counterfeit our roses;
And yet thy tongue will not confess thy error.

Pla. Hath not thy rose a canker, Somerset?

Som. Hath not thy rose a thorn, Plantagenet?

Pla. Ay, sharp and piercing, to maintain his truth;

Whiles thy conſuming canker eats his falſhood.

Som. Well, I'll find friends to wear my bleeding roses,
That ſhall maintain what I have ſaid is true,
Where falſe Plantagenet dare not be ſeen.

Pla. Now, by this maiden bloſſom in my hand,
I ſcorn thee and thy faction, peeviſh boy.

Suf. Turn not thy ſcorns this way, Plantagenet.

Pla. Proud Poole, I will; and ſcorn both him and thee.

Suf. I'll turn my part thereof into thy throat.

Som. Away, away, good William De-la Poole!
We grace the yeoman, by converſing with him. [ſet;

War. Now, by God's will, thou wrong'ſt him, Somer-
His grandfather was Lionel duke of Clarence,
Third ſon to the third Edward king of England;
Spring creſtleſs yeomen from ſo deep a root?

Pla. He bears him on the place's priviledge,
Or durſt not, for his craven heart, ſay thus.

Som. By him that made me, I'll maintain my words
On any plot of ground in chriſtendom:
Was not thy father, Richard, earl of Cambridge,
For treaſon executed in our late king's days?
And, by his treaſon, ſtand'ſt not thou attainted,
Corrupted, and exempt from ancient gentry?
His treſpaſs yet lives guilty in thy blood;
And, 'till thou be reſtor'd, thou art a yeoman.

Pla. My father was attached, not attainted;
Condemn'd to die for treaſon, but no traitor;
And that I'll prove on better men than Somerſet,
Were growing time once ripen'd to my will.
For your partaker Poole, and you yourſelf,
I'll note you in my book of memory,
To ſcourge you for this apprehenſion:

[6] faſhion

Look to it well; and say, you are well warn'd.
Som. Ay, thou shalt find us ready for thee still:
And know us, by these colours, for thy foes;
For these my friends, in spite of thee, shall wear.
Pla. And, by my soul, this pale and angry rose,
As cognizance of my blood-drinking hate,
Will I for ever, and my faction, wear;
Until it wither with me to my grave,
Or flourish to the height of my degree.
Suf. Go, forward, And be choak'd with thy ambition!
And so farewel, until I meet thee next.
Som. Have with thee, Poole:— Farewel, ambitious Richard. [Exeunt Suf. and Som.
Pla. How I am brav'd, and must perforce endure it!
War. This blot, that they object against your house,
Shall be wip'd out in the next parliament,
Call'd for the truce of Winchester and Gloster:
And, if thou be not then created York,
I will not live to be accounted Warwick.
Mean time, in signal of my love to thee,
Against proud Somerset, and William Poole,
Will I upon thy party wear this rose:
And here I prophesy,—This brawl to-day,
Grown to this faction in the temple garden,
Shall send, between the red rose and the white,
A thousand souls to death and deadly night.
Pla. Good master Vernon, I am bound to you,
That you on my behalf would pluck a flower.
Ver. In your behalf still will I wear the same.
Law. And so will I.
Pla. Thanks, gentle sir.
Come, let us four to dinner: I dare say,

This quarrel will drink blood another day. [Exeunt.

SCENE V. The ſame. A Room in the Tower.
Enter Edmund MORTIMER, ſupported by two of his Keepers.

Mor. Kind keepers of my weak decaying age,
Let dying Mortimer here reſt himſelf. —
[ſeating him in a Chair.
Even like a man new haled from the rack,
So fare my limbs with long imprisonment:
And these grey locks, the purſuivants of death,
Neſtor-like aged, in an age of care,
Argue the end of Edmund Mortimer.
These eyes — like lamps, whose waſting oil is ſpent —
Wax dim, as drawing to their exigent:
Weak ſhoulders, over-born with burth'ning grief;
And pithleſs arms, like to a wither'd vine
That drops his ſapleſs branches to the ground: —
Yet are these feet — whose ſtrengthleſs ſtay is numb,
Unable to ſupport this lump of clay, —
Swift-winged with desire to get a grave,
As witting I no other comfort have. —
But tell me, keeper, will my nephew come?

1. K. Richard Plantagenet, my lord, will come:
We ſent unto the temple, to his chamber;
And anſwer was return'd — that he will come.

Mor. Enough; my ſoul ſhall then be ſatiſfy'd. —
Poor gentleman! his wrong doth equal mine.
Since Henry Monmouth firſt began to reign,
(Before whose glory I was great in arms)
This loathſome ſequeſtration have I had;
And even ſince then hath Richard been obſcur'd,

Depriv'd of honour and inheritance:
But now, the arbitrator of despairs,
Just death, kind umpire of men's miseries,
With sweet enlargement doth dismiss me hence;
I would, his troubles likewise were expir'd,
That so he might recover what was lost.

Enter Richard PLATAGENET.

1. K. My lord, your loving nephew now is come.

Mor. Richard Plantagenet, my friend, is he come?

Pla. Ay, noble uncle, thus ignobly us'd,
Your nephew, late-despised Richard, comes.

Mor. Direct mine arms, I may embrace his neck,
And in his bosom spend my latter gasp:
O, tell me when my lips do touch his cheeks,
That I may kindly give one fainting kiss.—
And now declare, sweet stem from York's great stock,
Why didst thou say—of late thou wert despis'd?

Pla. First, lean thine aged back against mine arm;
And, in that ease, I'll tell thee my dis-ease.
This day, in argument upon a case,
Some words their grew 'twixt Somerset and me:
Among which terms, he us'd his lavish tongue,
And did upbraid me with my father's death;
Which obloquy set bars before my tongue,
Else with the like I had requited him:
Therefore, good uncle,—for my father's sake,
In honour of a true Plantagenet,
And for alliance sake,—declare the cause,
My father, earl of Cambridge, lost his head.

Mor. That cause, fair nephew, that imprison'd me,
And hath detain'd me, all my flow'ring youth,
Within a loathsome dungeon, there to pine,

Was curſed inſtrument of his deceaſe.

Pla. Diſcover more at large what cauſe that was;
For I am ignorant, and cannot gueſs.

Mor. I will; if that my fading breath permit,
And death approach not ere my tale be done.
Henry the fourth, grandfather to this king,
Depos'd his cousin Richard; Edward's ſon,
The firſt-begotten and the lawful heir
Of Edward king, the third of that deſcent:
During whose reign, the Percies of the north,
Finding his uſurpation moſt unjuſt,
Endeavour'd my advancement to the throne:
The reason mov'd these warlike lords to this,
Was — for that (young king Richard thus remov'd, Leaving no heir begotten of his body)
I was the next by birth and parentage;
For by my mother I derived am
From Lionel duke of Clarance, the third ſon
To king Edward the third; whereas he, Bolingbroke,
From John of Gaunt doth bring his pedigree,
Being but the fourth of that heroick line:
But mark; as, in this haughty great attempt,
They laboured to plant the rightful heir,
I loſt my liberty, and they their lives.
Long after this, when Henry the fifth,—
Succeeding his father Bolingbroke,—did reign,
Thy father, earl of Cambridge,—then deriv'd
From famous Edmund Langley, duke of York,— Marrying my ſiſter, that thy mother was,
Again, in pity of my hard diſtreſs,
Levy'd an army; weening to redeem,
And have inſtal'd me in the diadem:

7 his Nephew

But, as the reſt, ſo fell that noble earl,
And was beheaded. Thus the Mortimers,
In whom the title reſted, were ſuppreſſ'd.

Pla. Of which, my lord, your honour is the laſt.

Mor. True; and thou ſee'ſt, that I no iſſue have;
And that my fainting words do warrant death:
Thou art my heir; the reſt, I wiſh thee gather:
But yet be wary in thy ſtudious care.

Pla. Thy grave admoniſhments prevail with me:
But yet, methinks, my father's execution
Was nothing leſs than bloody tyranny.

Mor. With ſilence, nephew, be thou politick;
Strong-fixed is the houſe of Lancaſter,
And, like a mountain, not to be remov'd.
But now thy uncle is removing hence;
As princes do their courts, when they are cloy'd
With long continuance in a ſettl'd place.

Pla. O, uncle, 'would ſome part of my young years
Might but redeem the paſſage of your age! [doth,

Mor. Thou doſt then wrong me; as the ſlaughterer
Which giveth many wounds, when one will kill.
Mourn not, except thou ſorrow for my good;
Only, give order for my funeral;
And ſo farewel; And fair befal thy hopes!
And proſperous be thy life, in peace, and war!

[Mortimer ſinks in his Chair, and expires.

Pla. And peace, no war, befal thy parting ſoul!
In priſon haſt thou ſpent a pilgrimage,
And like a hermit over-paſſ'd thy days.—
Well, I will lock his counſel in my breaſt;
And what I do imagine, let that reſt.—
Keepers, convey him hence; and I myſelf

Will ſee his burial better than his life. —
[Exeunt Keepers, bearing out Mortimer.
Here dies the duſky torch of Mortimer,
Choak'd with ambition of the meaner ſort: —
And, for those wrongs, those bitter injuries,
Which Somerſet hath offer'd to my houſe,—
I doubt not, but with honour to redreſs.
And therefore haſte I to the parliament;
Either to be reſtored to my blood,
Or make my ill the advantage of my good. [Exit.

ACT III.

SCENE I. The ſame. The Parliament-houſe.
King Henry is diſcover'd upon his Throne, ſurrounded by his Nobility; among whom are, the Dukes of Gloster, and Exeter; the Earls of Somerset, Suffolk, and Warwick; and Biſhop of Winchester: Richard Plantagenet, and many Others, attending: Gloster comes from his Seat, and offers to put up a Bill:

Win. Com'ſt thou with deep-premeditated lines,
[ſnatches the Bill, and tears it.
With written pamphlets ſtudiouſly devis'd,
Humphry of Gloſter? if thou canſt accuſe,
Or ought intend'ſt to lay unto my charge,
Do it without invention ſuddenly;
As I with ſudden and extemporal ſpeech
Purpose to anſwer what thou canſt object.
Glo. Presumptuous prieſt! this place commands my patience,
Or thou ſhould'ſt find thou haſt diſhonour'd me.

Think not, although in writing I prefer'd
The manner of thy vile outrageous crimes,
That therefore I have forg'd, or am not able
Verbatim to rehearse the method of my pen:
No, prelate; such is thy audacious wickedness,
Thy lewd, pestiferous, and dissentious pranks,
As very infants prattle of thy pride.
Thou art a most pernicious usurer;
Froward by nature, enemy to peace;
Lascivious, wanton, more than well beseems
A man of thy profession, and degree;
And for thy treachery, What's more manifest?
In that thou lay'dst a trap to take my life,
As well at London-bridge, as at the tower?
Beside, I fear me, if thy thoughts were sifted,
The king, thy sovereign, is not quite exempt
From envious malice of thy swelling heart.

Win. Gloster, I do defy thee. — Lords, vouchsafe
To give me hearing what I shall reply.
If I were covetous, perverse, ambitious,
As he will have me, How am I so poor?
Or how haps it, I seek not to advance
Or raise myself, but keep my wonted calling?
And for dissention, Who preferreth peace
More than I do, — except I be provok'd?
No, my good lords, it is not that offends;
It is not that, that hath incens'd the duke:
It is, because no one should sway but he;
No one, but he, should be about the king;
And that engenders thunder in his breast,
And makes him roar these accusations forth,
But he shall know, I am as good —

20 ambitious, or perverse,

Glo. As good?
Thou baſtard of my grandfather!—
Win. Ay, lordly ſir; For what are you, I pray,
But one imperious in another's throne?
Glo. And am I not protector, ſaucy prieſt?
Win. And am not I a prelate of the church?
Glo. Yes, as an out-law in a caſtle keeps,
And uſeth it to patronage his theft.
Win. Unreverent Gloſter!
Glo. Thou art reverent
Touching thy ſpiritual function, not thy life.
Win. Rome ſhall remedy this.
Glo. Roam thither then.
Som. My lord, [to Glo.] it were your duty to forbear.
War. Ay, ſee the biſhop be not over-born.
Som. Methinks, my lord ſhould be religious,
And know the office that belongs to ſuch.
War. Methinks, his lordſhip ſhould be humbler;
It fitteth not a prelate ſo to plead.
Som. Yes, when his holy ſtate is touch'd ſo near.
War. State holy, or unhallow'd, what of that?
Is not his grace protector to the king?
Pla. "Plantagenet, I ſee, muſt hold his tongue;"
"Leſt it be ſaid, Speak, ſirrah, when you ſhould;"
"Muſt your bold verdict enter talk with lords?"
"Elſe would I have a fling at Wincheſter."
King. Uncles of Gloſter, and of Wincheſter,
[coming from his Throne.
The ſpecial watchmen of our Engliſh weal;
I would prevail, if prayers might prevail,
To join your hearts in love and amity.
O, what a ſcandal is it to our crown,

13 Warw. Roame 15 Som. I, ſee

That two such noble peers as ye should jar!
Believe me, lords, my tender years can tell,
Civil dissention is a vip'rous worm,
That gnaws the bowels of the common-wealth. —
[Noise within; Down with the tawny-coats! &c.
What tumult's this?

War. An uproar, I dare warrant,
Begun through malice of the bishop's men.

Noise again; Stones! stones! Enter the Mayor of London, attended.

May. O, my good lords, — and virtuous Henry, —
Pity the city of London, pity us!
The bishop and the duke of Gloster's men,
Forbidden late to carry any weapon,
Have fill'd their pockets full of pebble-stones;
And, themselves banding in contrary parts,
Do pelt so fast at one another's pate,
That many have their giddy brains knock'd out:
Our windows are broke down in every street,
And we, for fear, compell'd to shut our shops.

Enter, skirmishing, certain Retainers and Servants of Gloster and the Bishop, with bloody Pates.

Kin. We charge you, on allegiance to ourself,
To hold your slaught'ring hands, and keep the peace: —
Pray, uncle Gloster, mitigate this strife.

1. S. Nay, if we be
Forbidden stones, we'll fall to't with our teeth.

2. S. Do what ye dare, we are as resolute.

[Skirmish again.

Glo. You of my household, leave this peevish broil,
And set this unaccustom'd fight aside.

3. S. My lord, we know your grace to be a man

16 banding themselves

Juſt and upright; and, for your royal birth,
Inferior to none, but to his majeſty:
And, ere that we will ſuffer ſuch a prince,
So kind a father of the common-weal,
To be diſgraced by an ink-horn mate,
We, and our wives, and children, all will fight,
And have our bodies ſlaughter'd by thy foes.

1. S. Ay, and the very parings of our nails
Shall pitch a field when we are dead. [begin again.

Glo. Stay, ſtay, I ſay!
And, if you love me, as you ſay you do,
Let me perſuade you to forbear a while.

Kin. O, how this diſcord doth afflict my ſoul!—
Can you, my lord of Wincheſter, behold
My ſighs and tears, and will not once relent?
Who ſhould be pitiful, if you be not?
Or who ſhould ſtudy to prefer a peace,
If holy churchmen take delight in broils?

War. My lord protector, yield;—yield, Wincheſter;—
Except you mean, with obſtinate repulſe,
To ſlay your ſovereign, and deſtroy the realm:
You ſee what miſchief, and what murther too,
Hath been enacted through your enmity;
Then be at peace, except ye thirſt for blood.

Win. He ſhall ſubmit, or I will never yield.

Glo. Compaſſion on the king commands me ſtoop;
Or, I would ſee his heart out, ere the prieſt
Should ever get that priviledge of me.

War. Behold, my lord of Wincheſter, the duke
Hath baniſh'd moody diſcontented fury,
As by his ſmoothed brows it doth appear:
Why look you ſtill ſo ſtern, and tragical?

[19] Yeild my Lord Protector,

Glo. Here, Winchester, I offer thee my hand.
Kin. Fie, uncle Beaufort! I have heard you preach,
That malice was a great and grievous sin:
And will not you maintain the thing you teach,
But prove a chief offender in the same?
War. Sweet king! — the bishop hath a kindly gird. —
For shame, my lord of Winchester! relent;
What, shall a child instruct you what to do?
Win. Well, duke of Gloster, I will yield to thee;
Love for thy love, and hand for hand I give.
[joining Hands with him.
Glo. Ay; but, I fear me, with a hollow heart. —
See here, my friends, and loving countrymen;
This token serveth for a flag of truce,
Betwixt ourselves, and all our followers:
So help me God, as I dissemble not!
Win. "So help me God, as I intend it not."
Kin. O loving uncle! kind, kind duke of Gloster!
How joyful am I made by this contract. —
Away, my masters! trouble us no more;
But join in friendship, as your lords have done.
1. S. Content; — I'll to the surgeon's.
2. S. And so will I.
3. S. And I will see what physick
The tavern affords. [Exeunt Servants, Mayor, &c.

War. Accept this † scrowl, most gracious sovereign;
Which in the right of Richard Plantagenet
We do exhibit to your majesty. [prince,
Glo. Well urg'd, my lord of Warwick; — for, sweet
An if your grace mark every circumstance,
You have great reason to do Richard right:

Eſpecially, for those occasions
At Eltham-place I told your majeſty.
Kin. And those occasions, uncle, were of force: —
Therefore, my loving lords, our pleasure is,
That Richard be reſtored to his blood.
War. Let Richard be reſtored to his blood;
So ſhall his father's wrongs be recompenc'd.
Win. As will the reſt, ſo willeth Wincheſter.
Kin. If Richard will be true, not that alone,
But all the whole inheritance I give,
That doth belong unto the houſe of York,
From whence you ſpring by lineal deſcent.
Pla. Thy humble ſervant vows obedience,
And humble ſervice, 'till the point of death.
Kin. Stoop then, and ſet your knee againſt my foot;
[Plantagenet kneels to the King.
And, in reguerdon of that duty done,
I girt † thee with the valiant ſword of York:
Riſe, Richard, like a true Plantagenet;
And rise created princely duke of York.
Pla. And ſo thrive Richard, as thy foes may fall!
And as my duty ſprings, [riſing.] ſo periſh they
That grudge one thought againſt your majeſty!
Lor. Welcome, high prince, the mighty duke of York!
Som. "Periſh, baſe prince, ignoble duke of York!"
Glo. Now will it beſt avail your majeſty,
To croſs the ſeas, and to be crown'd in France:
The presence of a king engenders love
Amongſt his ſubjects, and his loyal friends;
As it diſanimates his enemies.
Kin. When Gloſter ſays the word, king Henry goes;

For friendly counsel cuts off many foes.

Glo. Your ships already are in readiness.

[Exeunt All but Exeter.

Exe. Ay, we may march in England, or in France,
Not seeing what is likely to ensue:
This late dissention, grown betwixt the peers,
Burns under feigned ashes of forg'd love,
And will at last break out into a flame;
As fester'd members rot but by degree,
'Till bones, and flesh, and sinews fall away,
So will this base and envious discord breed.
And now I fear that fatal prophesy,
Which, in the time of Henry, nam'd the fifth,
Was in the mouth of every sucking babe,—
That Henry, born at Monmouth, should win all;
And Henry, born at Windsor, should lose all:
Which is so plain, that Exeter doth wish,
His days may finish ere that hapless time. [Exit.

SCENE II. France. Before Roan.

Enter Pucelle, and Soldiers, disguis'd like Countrymen, with Sacks upon their Backs.

Puc. These are the city-gates, the gates of Roan,
Through which our policy must make a breach:—
Take heed, be wary how you place your words;
Talk like the vulgar sort of market-men,
That come to gather money for their corn.
If we have entrance, (as, I hope, we shall)
And that we find the slothful watch but weak,
I'll by a sign give notice to our friends,
That Charles the dauphin may encounter them.

1. S. Our sacks shall be a mean to sack the city,

And we'll be lords and rulers over Roan;
Therefore we'll knock. [they knock.

Gua. [within.] Qui va là?

Puc. Paiſans, pauvres gens de France:
Poor market-folks, that come to ſell their corn.

Gua. Enter, go in; the market-bell is rung.

Puc. Now, Roan, I'll ſhake thy bulwarks to the ground. [Guard open; and PUCELLE, and her Soldiers, enter the City.

Enter, at a Diſtance, marching, the Baſtard of Orleans, CHARLES, ALENSON, and Forces.

Cha. Saint Dennis bleſs this happy ſtratagem,
And once again we'll ſleep ſecure in Roan.

Baſ. Here enter'd Pucelle, and her practiſants:
Now ſhe is there, how will ſhe ſpecify
Where is the beſt and ſafeſt paſſage in?

Ale. By thruſting out a torch from yonder tower;
Which, once discern'd, ſhews, that her meaning is —
No way to that, for weakneſs, which ſhe enter'd.

Enter PUCELLE, on a Battlement; holding out a Torch.

Puc. Behold, this is the happy wedding-torch,
That joineth Roan unto her countrymen;
But burning fatal to the Talbotites.

Baſ. See, noble Charles! the beacon of our friend,
The burning torch in yonder turret ſtands.

Cha. Now ſhine it like a comet of revenge,
A prophet to the fall of all our foes!

Ale. Defer no time, Delays have dangerous ends;
Enter, and cry — The dauphin! — presently,
And then do execution on the watch,
[they ſhout; force open the Gate, and enter.

1 v. Note. 16 Here 24 Talbonites 29 v. Note.

Alarums. Enter TALBOT, and certain English.

TAL. France, thou shalt rue this treason with thy tears,
If Talbot but survive thy treachery.—
Pucelle, that witch, that damned sorceress,
Hath wrought this hellish mischief unawares,
That hardly we escap'd the pride of France.

[Enters the City again.

Other Alarums. Enter the English Forces retreating, bearing out BEDFORD (sick) in a Chair; TALBOT, and BURGUNDY, covering them. Then, Enter, upon the Walls, aloft, PUCELLE, CHARLES, Bastard, ALENSON, and Others.

PUC. Good morrow, gallants! want ye corn for bread?
I think, the duke of Burgundy will fast,
Before he'll buy again at such a rate:
'Twas full of darnel; Do you like the taste?

BUR. Scoff on, vile fiend, and shameless courtezan:
I trust, ere long to choak thee with thine own,
And make thee curse the harvest of that corn.

CHA. Your grace may starve, perhaps, before that time.

BED. O, let no words, but deeds, revenge this treason.

PUC. What will you do, good grey-beard? break a lance,
And run a tilt at death within a chair?

TAL. Foul fiend of France, and hag of all despite,
Encompass'd with thy lustful paramours!
Becomes it thee to taunt his valiant age,
And twit with cowardice a man half dead?
Damsel, I'll have a bout with you again,
Or else let Talbot perish with this shame.

[English consult together.

PUC. Are you so hot, sir?—Yet, Pucelle, hold thy peace;

If Talbot do but thunder, rain will follow. —
God ſpeed the parliament! who ſhall be the ſpeaker?

Tal. Dare ye come forth, and meet us in the field?

Puc. Belike, your lordſhip takes us then for fools,
To try if that our own be ours, or no.

Tal. I ſpeak not to that railing Hecate,
But unto thee, Alenson, and the reſt;
Will ye, like ſoldiers, come and fight it out?

Ale. Signior, no.

Tal. Signior, hang! — baſe muliteers of France!
Like peaſant foot-boys do they keep the walls,
And dare not take up arms like gentlemen.

Puc. Captains, away; let's get us from the walls;
For Talbot means no goodneſs, by his looks. —
God be wi' you, my lord! we came, ſir, but to tell you
That we are here. [Exeunt, from the Walls.

Tal. And there will we be too, ere it be long;
Or elſe reproach be Talbot's greateſt fame! —
Vow, Burgundy, by honour of thy houſe,
(Prick'd on by publick wrongs, ſuſtain'd in France)
Either to get the town again, or die:
And I, — as ſure as Engliſh Henry lives,
And as his father here was conqueror;
As ſure as in this late-betrayed town
Great Cœur-de-lion's heart was buried;
So ſure I ſwear, to get the town, or die.

Bur. My vows are equal partners with thy vows.

Tal. But, ere we go, regard this dying prince,
The valiant duke of Bedford: — Come, my lord,
We will beſtow you in ſome better place,
Fitter for ſickneſs, and for crazy age.

Bed. Lord Talbot, do not ſo diſhonour me:

[13] Away Captaines

Here will I sit before the walls of Roan,
And will be partner of your weal, or woe.

Bur. Courageous Bedford, let us now persuade you.

Bed. Not to be gone from hence; for once I read,
That stout Pendragon, in his litter, sick,
Came to the field, and vanquished his foes:
Methinks, I should revive the soldiers' hearts,
Because I ever found them as myself.

Tal. Undaunted spirit in a dying breast! —
Then be it so: — Heavens keep old Bedford safe! —
And now no more ado, brave Burgundy,
But gather we our forces out of hand,
And set upon our boasting enemy.

[Exeunt Burgundy, Talbot, and Forces; leaving Bedford under the Guard of a Captain, and Others.

Alarums. Excursions. Enter, in one of them, Sir J. Falstaff.

Cap. Whither away, sir John Falstaff, in such haste?

Fal. Whither away? to save myself by flight;
We are like to have the overthrow again.

Cap. What! will you fly, and leave lord Talbot?

Fal. Ay;
All the Talbots in the world, to save my life. [Exit.

Cap. Cowardly knight! ill fortune follow thee!

Other Alarums. Afterwards, a Retreat.

Enter, flying, Pucelle, Charles, &c. and Exeunt.

Bed. Now, quiet soul, depart when heaven please;
For I have seen our enemies' overthrow.
What is the trust or strength of foolish man?
They, that of late were daring with their scoffs,
Are glad and fain by flight to save themselves.

[dies; and is carry'd off in his Chair.

Flourish. Enter Talbot, Burgundy, and Others.

Tal. Loſt, and recover'd in a day again!
This is a double honour, Burgundy:—
Yet, heavens have glory for this victory!
Bur. Warlike and martial Talbot, Burgundy
Enſhrines thee in his heart; and there erects
Thy noble deeds, as valour's monument.
Tal. Thanks, gentle duke. But where is Pucelle now?
I think, her old familiar is aſleep:
Now where's the baſtard's braves, and Charles his gleeks?
What, all amort? Roan hangs her head for grief,
That ſuch a valiant company are fled.
Now will we take ſome order in the town,
Placing therein ſome expert officers;
And then depart to Paris, to the king;
For there young Henry, with his nobles, lyes.
Bur. What wills lord Talbot, pleaseth Burgundy.
Tal. But yet, before we go, let's not forget
The noble duke of Bedford, late deceas'd,
But ſee his exequies fulfil'd in Roan;
A braver ſoldier never couched lance,
A gentler heart did never ſway in court:
But kings, and mightieſt potentates, muſt die;
For that's the end of human misery. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. The ſame. Plains near the City.

Enter Pucelle, Charles, Baſtard, Alenson, and Forces.

Puc. Diſmay not, princes, at this accident,
Nor grieve that Roan is ſo recovered:
Care is no cure, but rather corroſive,
For things that are not to be remedy'd.
Let frantick Talbot triumph for a while,

And like a peacock ſweep-along his tail;
We'll pull his plumes, and take away his train,
If dauphin, and the reſt, will be but rul'd.

Cha. We have been guided by thee hitherto,
And of thy cunning had no diffidence;
One ſudden foil ſhall never breed diſtruſt.

Baſ. Search out thy wit for ſecret policies,
And we will make thee famous through the world.

Ale. We'll ſet thy ſtatue in ſome holy place,
And have thee reverenc'd like a bleſſed ſaint;
Employ thee then, ſweet virgin, for our good.

Puc. Then thus it muſt be; this doth Joan deviſe:
By fair perſuasions, mixt with ſugar'd words,
We will entice the duke of Burgundy
To leave the Talbot, and to follow us.

Cha. Ay, marry, ſweeting, if we could do that,
France were no place for Henry's warriors;
Nor ſhould that nation boaſt it ſo with us,
But be extirped from our provinces.

Ale. For ever ſhould they be expulſ'd from France,
And not have title of an earldom here.

Puc. Your honours ſhall perceive how I will work,
To bring this matter to the wiſhed end. [Drum heard.
Hark! by the ſound of drum, you may perceive
Their powers are marching unto Paris-ward.

Engliſh March. Enter, and paſs over, at a Diſtance, Talbot, and his Forces.

There goes the Talbot, with his colours ſpread;
And all the troops of Engliſh after him.

French March. Enter the Duke of Burgundy, and Forces.

Now, in the rereward, comes the duke, and his:

Fortune, in favour, makes him lag behind.
Summon a parley, we will talk with him. [Trumpet.

Cha. A parley with the duke of Burgundy.

Bur. Who craves a parley with the Burgundy?

Puc. The princely Charles of France, thy countryman.

Bur. What ſay'ſt thou Charles? for I am marching hence.

Cha. Speak, Pucelle; and enchant him with thy words.

Puc. Brave Burgundy, undoubted hope of France,
Stay, let thy humble handmaid ſpeak to thee.

Bur. Speak on; but be not over-tedious.

Puc. Look on thy country, look on fertile France,
And ſee the cities and the towns defac'd
By waſting ruin of the cruel foe!
As looks the mother on her lowly babe,
When death doth close his tender dying eyes,
See, ſee, the pining malady of France;
Behold the wounds, the moſt unnatural wounds,
Which thou thyſelf haſt giv'n her woful breaſt!
O, turn thy edged ſword another way;
Strike those that hurt, and hurt not those that help!
One drop of blood, drawn from thy country's bosom,
Should grieve thee more than ſtreams of foreign gore;
Return thee, therefore, with a flood of tears,
And waſh away thy country's ſtained ſpots!

Bur. Either ſhe hath bewitch'd me with her words,
Or nature makes me ſuddenly relent.

Puc. Beſides, all French and France exclaims on thee,
Doubting thy birth and lawful progeny.
Whom join'ſt thou with, but with a lordly nation,
That will not truſt thee, but for profit's ſake?
When Talbot hath ſet footing once in France,

And fashion'd thee that instrument of ill.
Who then, but English Henry, will be lord,
And thou be thrust out, like a fugitive?
Call we to mind,—and mark but this, for proof;—
Was not the duke of Orleans thy foe?
And was he not in England prisoner?
But, when they heard he was thine enemy,
They set him free, without his ransom pay'd,
In spight of Burgundy, and all his friends.
See then! thou fight'st against thy countrymen,
And join'st with them will be thy slaughter-men:
Come, come, return; return, thou wand'ring lord;
Charles, and the rest, will take thee in their arms.

Bur. I am vanquished; these haughty words of hers
Have batter'd me like roaring cannon-shot,
And made me almost yield upon my knees.—
Forgive me, country, and sweet countrymen!
And, lords, accept this hearty † kind embrace:
My forces and my power of men are yours;—
So, farewel, Talbot; I'll no longer trust thee.

Puc. "Done like a Frenchman; turn, and turn again!"

Cha. Welcome, brave duke! thy friendship makes us fresh:

Bas. And doth beget new courage in our breasts.

Ale. Pucelle hath bravely play'd her part in this,
And doth deserve a coronet of gold.

Cha. Now let us on, my lords, and join our powers;
And seek how we may prejudice the foe. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. Paris. A Room in the Palace.
Enter King Henry; with Gloster, and Train of Nobles, &c. Vernon, and Basset, in the Train:

To them, TALBOT, and ſome of his Officers.

TAL. My gracious prince, — and honourable peers, —
Hearing of your arrival in this realm,
I have a while given truce unto my wars,
To do my duty to my ſovereign:
In ſign whereof, this arm — that hath reclaim'd
To your obedience fifty fortreſſes,
Twelve cities, and ſeven walled towns of ſtrength,
Beſide five hundred prisoners of eſteem, —
Lets fall his † ſword before your highneſs' feet;
And, with ſubmiſſive loyalty of heart,
Aſcribes the glory of his conqueſt got,
Firſt to my God, and next unto your grace.

Kin. Is this the Talbot, uncle Glocester,
That hath ſo long been resident in France?

GLO. Yes, if it please your majeſty, my liege.

Kin. Welcome, brave captain, and victorious lord!
When I was young, (as yet I am not old)
I do remember how my father ſaid,
A ſtouter champion never handl'd arms.
Long ſince we were resolved of your truth,
Your faithful ſervice, and your toil in war;
Yet never have you taſted our reward,
Or been reguerdon'd with ſo much as thanks,
Because 'till now we never ſaw your face:
Therefore, ſtand up; and, for these good deserts,
We here create † you earl of Shrewsbury;
And in our coronation take your place.

[Flouriſh. Exeunt King, GLO. TAL. and Nobles.

VER. Now, ſir, to you, that were ſo hot at ſea
Diſgracing of these colours that I wear
In honour of my noble lord of York, —

Dar'st thou maintain the former words thou spak'st?

Bas. Yes, sir; as well as you dare patronage
The envious barking of your saucy tongue
Against my lord, the duke of Somerset.

Ver. Sirrah, thy lord I honour as he is.

Bas. Why, what is he? as good a man as York.

Ver. Hark ye; not so: in witness, take ye that.
[striking him.

Bas. Villain, thou know'st the law of arms is such,
That, whoso draws a sword, 'tis present death;
Or else this blow should broach thy dearest blood.
But I'll unto his majesty, and crave
I may have liberty to venge this wrong;
When thou shalt see, I'll meet thee to thy cost.

Ver. Well, miscreant, I'll be there as soon as you;
And, after, meet you sooner than you would. [Exeunt.

ACT IV.

SCENE I. The same. A Hall of State.

King Henry is seen sitting upon his Throne; attended on by the Dukes of Gloster, Exeter, York, and Somerset; the Lords Suffolk, Warwick, and Talbot; and divers other Nobles, &c. French and English: Winchester bearing his Crown; and the Governor of Paris attending.

Glo. Lord bishop, set the crown upon his head.

Win. God save king Henry, of that name the sixth!
[setting on the Crown.

Glo. Now, governor of Paris, take your oath,— [Governor kneels.

That you elect no other king but him:
Esteem none friends, but such as are his friends;
And none your foes, but such as shall pretend
Malicious practices against his state:
This shall ye do, so help you righteous God!

[Exeunt Gov. and Train. King comes from his Throne.

Enter Sir John FALSTAFF.

Fal. My gracious sovereign, as I rode from Calais,
To haste unto your coronation,
A letter was deliver'd to my hands, [presenting it.
Writ to your grace from the duke of Burgundy.

Tal. Shame to the duke of Burgundy, and thee!
I vow'd, base knight, when I did meet thee next,
To tear the garter from thy craven's leg,
[plucking it off.
(Which I have done) because unworthily
Thou wast installed in that high degree.—
Pardon me, princely Henry, and the rest:
This dastard, at the battle of Poitiers,—
When but in all I was six thousand strong,
And that the French were almost ten to one,—
Before we met, or that a stroke was given,
Like to a trusty squire, did run away;
In which assault we lost twelve hundred men;
Myself, and divers gentlemen beside,
Were there surpriz'd, and taken prisoners:
Then judge, great lords, if I have done amiss;
Or whether that such cowards ought to wear
This ornament of knighthood, yea, or no.

Glo. To say the truth, this fact was infamous,
And ill beseeming any common man;
Much more a knight, a captain, and a leader.

Tal. When first this order was ordain'd, my lords,
Knights of the garter were of noble birth;
Valiant, and virtuous, full of haughty courage,
Such as were grown to credit by the wars;
Not fearing death, nor shrinking for distress,
But always resolute in most extreams:
He then, that is not furnish'd in this sort,
Doth but usurp the sacred name of knight,
Prophaning this most honourable order;
And should (if I were worthy to be judge)
Be quite degraded, like a hedge-born swain
That doth presume to boast of gentle blood.

Kin. Stain to thy countrymen, thou hear'st thy doom:
Be packing therefore, thou that wast a knight;
Henceforth we banish thee, on pain of death. —
[Exit Falstaff.
And now, my lord protector, view † the letter
Sent from our uncle duke of Burgundy.

Glo. What means his grace, that he hath chang'd his stile? [viewing the Superscription.
No more but, plain and bluntly, — To the King?
Hath he forgot, he is his sovereign?
Or doth this churlish superscription
Pretend some alteration in good will? [opens the Letter.
What's here? — I have, upon especial cause, —
Mov'd with compassion of my country's wreck,
Together with the pitiful complaints
Of such as your oppression feeds upon, —
Forsaken your pernicious faction,
And join'd with Charles, the rightful king of France.
O monstrous treachery! Can this be so;
That in alliance, amity, and oaths,

There ſhould be found ſuch falſe diſſembling guile?
Kin. What! doth my uncle Burgundy revolt?
Glo. He doth, my lord; and is become your foe.
Kin. Is that the worſt, this letter doth contain?
Glo. It is the worſt, and all (my lord) he writes.
Kin. Why then, lord Talbot there ſhall talk with him,
And give him chaſtiſement for this abuſe: —
My lord, how ſay you? are you not content?
Tal. Content, my liege? Yes; but that I'm prevented,
I ſhould have beg'd I might have been employ'd.
Kin. Then gather ſtrength, and march unto him ſtraight:
Let him perceive, how ill we brook his treaſon;
And what offence it is, to flout his friends.
Tal. I go, my lord; in heart deſiring ſtill,
You may behold confuſion of your foes. [Exit.

Enter Vernon, and Basset.

Ver. Grant me the combat, gracious ſovereign!
Bas. And me, my lord, grant me the combat too!
Yor. This † is my ſervant, Hear him, noble prince!
Som. And this † is mine, Sweet Henry, favour him!
Kin. Be patient, lords, and give them leave to ſpeak. —
Say, gentlemen, What makes you thus exclaim?
And wherefore crave you combat? or with whom?
Ver. With † him, my lord; for he hath done me wrong.
Bas. And I with † him; for he hath done me wrong.
Kin. What is that wrong, whereof you both com-plain?
Firſt let me know, and then I'll anſwer you.
Bas. Croſſing the ſea from England into France,
This fellow here, with envious carping tongue,
Upbraided me about the rose I wear;
Saying — the ſanguine colour of the leaves

[8] How ſay you (my Lord)

Did represent my master's blushing cheeks,
When stubbornly he did repugn the truth,
About a certain question in the law,
Argu'd betwixt the duke of York and him;
With other vile and ignominious terms:
In confutation of which rude reproach,
And in defence of my lord's worthiness,
I crave the benefit of law of arms.

Ver. And that is my petition, noble lord:
For though he seem, with forged quaint conceit,
To set a gloss upon his bold intent,
Yet know, my lord, I was provok'd by him;
And he first took exceptions at this † badge,
Pronouncing — that the paleness of this flower
Bewray'd the faintness of my master's heart.

York. Will not this malice, Somerset, be left?

Som. Your private grudge, my lord of York, will out,
Though ne'er so cunningly you smother it. [men,

King. Good lord! what madness rules in brain-sick
When, for so slight and frivolous a cause,
Such factious emulations shall arise! —
Good cousins both, of York and Somerset,
Quiet yourselves, I pray, and be at peace.

York. Let this dissention first be try'd by fight,
And then your highness shall command a peace.

Som. The quarrel toucheth none but us alone,
Betwixt ourselves let us decide it then.

York. There is my † pledge; accept it, Somerset.
[throwing down a Glove.

Ver. Nay, let it rest where it began at first.

Bas. Confirm it so, mine honourable lord.

Glo. Confirm it so? Confounded be your strife!

And periſh ye, with your audacious prate!
Presumptuous vaſſals! are you not aſham'd,
With this immodeſt clamorous outrage
To trouble and diſturb the king and us? —
And you, my lords,— methinks, you do not well,
To bear with their perverſe objections;
Much leſs, to take occasion from their mouths
To raise a mutiny betwixt yourſelves;
Let me perſuade you take a better courſe. [friends.
Exe. It grieves his highneſs; — Good my lords, be
Kin. Come hither, you that would be combatants:
Henceforth, I charge you, as you love our favour,
Quite to forget this quarrel, and the cause. —
And you, my lords,— remember where we are;
In France, amongſt a fickle wavering nation:
If they perceive diſſention in our looks,
And that within ourſelves we diſagree,
How will their grudging ſtomacks be provok'd
To wilful diſobedience, and rebel?
Beſide, What infamy will there arise,
When foreign princes ſhall be certify'd,
That, for a toy, a thing of no regard,
King Henry's peers, and chief nobility,
Deſtroy'd themſelves, and loſt the realm of France?
O, think upon the conqueſt of my father,
My tender years; and let us not forego
That for a trifle, which was bought with blood!
Let me be umpire in this doubtful ſtrife.
I ſee no reason, if I wear this † rose,
That any one ſhould therefore be ſuſpitious
I more incline to Somerſet, than York:
Both are my kinsmen, and I love them both:

As well they may upbraid me with my crown,
Because (forſooth) the king of Scots is crown'd.
But your diſcretions better can perſuade,
Than I am able to inſtruct or teach:
And therefore, as we hither came in peace,
So let us ſtill continue peace and love.—
Cousin of York, we inſtitute your grace
To be our regent in these parts of France:—
And, good my lord of Somerſet, unite
Your troops of horſemen with his bands of foot;—
And, like true ſubjects, ſons of your progenitors,
Go chearfully together, and digeſt
Your angry choler on your enemies.
Ourſelf, my lord protector, and the reſt,
After ſome reſpite, will return to Calais;
From thence to England; where I hope ere long
To be presented, by your victories,
With Charles, Alenson, and that traiterous rout.

[Flouriſh. Exeunt King, GLOSTER, SOMERSET, WINCHESTER, Suffolk, and BASSET.

War. My lord of York, I promise you, the king
Prettily (methought) did play the orator.

York. And ſo he did; but yet I like it not,
In that he wears the badge of Somerſet.

War. Tuſh! that was but his fancy, blame him not;
I dare presume, ſweet prince, he thought no harm.

York. An if I wiſt he did,—But let it reſt;
Other affairs muſt now be managed.

[Exeunt YORK, WARWICK, and VERNON.

Exe. Well didſt thou, Richard, to ſuppreſs thy voice:
For, had the paſſions of thy heart burſt out,
I fear, we ſhould have ſeen decypher'd there

More rancorous ſpite, more furious raging broils,
Then yet can be imagin'd or ſuppos'd:
But howſoe'er, no ſimple man that ſees
This jarring diſcord of nobility,
This ſhould'ring of each other in the court,
This factious bandying of their favourites,
But that he doth preſage ſome ill event.
'Tis much, when ſcepters are in children's hands;
But more, when envy breeds unkind division;
There comes the ruin, there begins confusion. [Exit.

SCENE II. France. Before Bourdeaux.

Enter TALBOT, and Forces, marching.

Tal. Go to the gates of Bourdeaux, trumpeter,
Summon their general unto the wall.

Trumpet ſounds a Parley. Enter General of the French Forces within Bourdeaux, upon the Walls.

Engliſh John Talbot, captains, calls you forth,
Servant in arms to Harry king of England;
And thus he would,— Open your city gates,
Be humbl'd to us; call my ſovereign yours,
And do him homage as obedient ſubjects,
And I'll withdraw me and my bloody power:
But, if you frown upon this proffer'd peace,
You tempt the fury of my three attendants,
Lean famine, quartering ſteel, and climbing fire;
Who, in a moment, even with the earth
Shall lay your ſtately and air-braving towers,
If you forſake the offer of their love.

Gen. Thou ominous and fearful owl of death,
Our nation's terror, and their bloody ſcourge,
The period of thy tyranny approacheth.

7 that it doth

On us thou canſt not enter, but by death;
For (I proteſt) we are well fortify'd,
And ſtrong enough to iſſue out and fight:
If thou retire, the dauphin, well appointed,
Stands with the ſnares of death to tangle thee:
On either hand thee there are ſquadrons pitch'd,
To wall thee from the liberty of flight;
And no way canſt thou turn thee for redreſs,
But death doth front thee with apparent ſpoil,
And pale deſtruction meets thee in the face.
Ten thouſand French have ta'en the ſacrament,
To rive their dangerous artillery
Upon no chriſtian ſoul but Engliſh Talbot.
Lo! there thou ſtand'ſt, a breathing valiant man,
Of an invincible unconquer'd ſpirit:
This is the lateſt glory of thy praiſe,
That I, thy enemy, dew thee withal;
For ere the glaſs, that now begins to run,
Finiſh the proceſs of his ſandy hour,
These eyes, that ſee thee now well coloured,
Shall ſee thee wither'd, bloody, pale, and dead.
[Drum afar off.
Hark, hark! the dauphin's drum, a warning bell,
Sings heavy muſick to thy timorous ſoul;
And mine ſhall ring thy dire departure out.
[Exit General.

Tal. He fables not, I hear the enemy;—
Out, ſome light horſemen, and peruſe their wings.—
O, negligent and heedleſs diſcipline!
How are we park'd, and bounded in a pale;
A little herd of England's timorous deer,
Maz'd with a yelping kennel of French curs!

If we be Engliſh deer, be then in blood:
Not raſcal-like, to fall down with a pinch;
But rather moody-mad, and deſperate ſtags,
Turn on the bloody hounds with heads of ſteel,
And make the cowards ſtand aloof at bay:
Sell every man his life as dear as mine,
And they ſhall find dear deer of us, my friends.—
God, and ſaint George! Talbot, and England's right!
Proſper our colours in this dangerous fight!

[Exeunt TALBOT, and Forces.

SCENE III. Plains in Gaſcony.

Enter YORK, and Forces; a Meſſenger with him.

Yor. Are not the ſpeedy ſcouts return'd again,
That dog'd the mighty army of the dauphin?

Meſ. They are return'd, my lord; and give it out,
That he is march'd to Bourdeaux with his power,
To fight with Talbot: As he march'd along,
By your eſpials were diſcovered
Two mightier troops than that the dauphin led; [deaux.
Which join'd with him, and made their march for Bour-

Yor. A plague upon that villain Somerſet;
That thus delays my promised ſupply
Of horſemen, that were levy'd for this ſiege!
Renowned Talbot doth expect my aid;
And I am louted by a traitor villain,
And cannot help the noble chevalier:
God comfort him in this neceſſity!
If he miſcarry, farewel wars in France.

Enter Sir William LUCY.

Luc. Thou princely leader of our Engliſh ſtrength,

Never so needful on the earth of France,
Spur to the rescue of the noble Talbot;
Who now is girdl'd with a waste of iron,
And hem'd about with grim destruction:
To Bourdeaux, warlike duke! to Bourdeaux, York!
Else, farewel Talbot, France, and England's honour.

York. O God! that Somerset — who, in proud heart,
Doth stop my cornets — were in Talbot's place!
So should we save a valiant gentleman,
By forfeiting a traitor, and a coward.
Mad ire, and wrathful fury, makes me weep,
That thus we die, while remiss traitors sleep.

Luc. O, send some succour to the distress'd lord!

York. He dies, we lose; I break my warlike word:
We mourn, France smiles; we lose, they daily get;
All long of this vile traitor Somerset.

Luc. Then, God take mercy on brave Talbot's soul!
And on his son, young John; whom, two hours since,
I met in travel towards his warlike father!
This seven years did not Talbot see his son;
And now they meet where both their lives are done.

York. Alas! what joy shall noble Talbot have,
To bid his young son welcome to his grave?
Away! vexation almost stops my breath,
That sunder'd friends greet in the hour of death. —
Lucy, farewel: no more my fortune can,
But curse the cause I cannot aid the man. —
Maine, Bloys, Poitiers, and Tours, are won away;
Long all of Somerset, and his delay. [Exit.

Luc. Thus, while the vultur of sedition
Feeds in the bosom of such great commanders,
Sleeping neglection doth betray to loss

The conqueſt of our ſcarce-cold conqueror,
That ever-living man of memory,
Henry the fifth: Whiles they each other croſs,
Lives, honours, lands, and all, hurry to loſs. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. Other Plains in the ſame.

Enter SOMERSET, and Forces; an Officer of Talbot's with him.

Som. It is too late; [to the Off.] I cannot ſend them now:
This expedition was by York, and Talbot,
Too raſhly plotted; all our general force
Might with a ſally of the very town
Be buckl'd with: the over-daring Talbot
Hath fully'd all his gloſs of former honour
By this unheedful, deſperate, wild adventure:
York ſet him on to fight, and die in ſhame,
That, Talbot dead, great York might bear the name.

Enter Sir William LUCY.

Off. Here is ſir William Lucy, who with me
Set from our o'er-match'd forces forth for aid.

Som. How now, ſir William? whither were you ſent?

Luc. Whither, my lord? from bought and ſold lord Talbot;
Who, ring'd about with bold adverſity,
Cries out for noble York and Somerſet,
To beat aſſailing death from his weak legions:
And whiles the honourable captain there
Drops bloody ſweat from his war-weary'd limbs,
And, in advantage ling'ring, looks for reſcue,
You, his falſe hopes, the truſt of England's honour,
Keep off aloof with worthleſs emulation:
Let not your private diſcord keep away
The levy'd ſuccours that ſhould lend him aid,

25 Regions

While he, renowned noble gentleman,
Yields up his life unto a world of odds;
Orleans the bastard, Charles, and Burgundy,
Alenson, Reignier, compass him about,
And Talbot perisheth by your default.

Som. York set him on, York should have sent him aid.

Luc. And York as fast upon your grace exclaims;
Swearing, that you withhold his levy'd host,
Collected for this expedition.

Som. York lies; he might have sent, and had the horse:
I owe him little duty, and less love;
And take foul scorn, to fawn on him by sending.

Luc. The fraud of England, not the force of France,
Hath now entrapt the noble-minded Talbot:
Never to England shall he bear his life;
But dies, betray'd to fortune by your strife.

Som. Come, go, I will dispatch the horsemen straight:
Within six hours they will be at his aid.

Luc. Too late comes rescue; he is ta'en, or slain:
For fly he could not, if he would have fled;
And fly would Talbot never, if he might.

Som. If he be dead, brave Talbot then adieu!

Luc. His fame lives in the world, his shame in you.

[Exeunt.

SCENE V. Camp near Bourdeaux.

Enter TALBOT, and Son; Officers at a Distance.

Tal. O young John Talbot! I did send for thee,
To tutor thee in stratagems of war;
That Talbot's name might be in thee reviv'd,
When sapless age, and weak unable limbs,
Should bring thy father to his drooping chair.

But,—O malignant and ill-boding ſtars! —
Now thou art come unto a feaſt of death,
A terrible and unavoided danger:
Therefore, dear boy, mount on my ſwifteſt horſe;
And I'll direct thee how thou ſhalt eſcape
By ſudden flight: come, dally not, be gone.

Son. Is my name Talbot? and am I your ſon?
And ſhall I fly? O, if you love my mother,
Diſhonour not her honourable name,
To make a baſtard, and a ſlave of me:
The world will ſay — He is not Talbot's blood,
That baſely fled, when noble Talbot ſtood.

Tal. Fly, to revenge my death, if I be ſlain.

Son. He, that flies ſo, will ne'er return again.

Tal. If we both ſtay, we both are ſure to die.

Son. Then, let me ſtay; and, father, do you fly:
Your loſs is great, ſo your regard ſhould be;
My worth unknown, no loſs is known in me.
Upon my death the French can little boaſt;
In yours they will, in you all hopes are loſt.
Flight cannot ſtain the honour you have won;
But mine it will, that no exploit have done:
You fled for vantage, every one will ſwear;
But, if I bow, they'll ſay — it was for fear.
There is no hope that ever I will ſtay,
If, the firſt hour, I ſhrink, and run away.
Here, on my knee, I beg mortality,
Rather than life, preſerv'd with infamy.

Tal. Shall all thy mother's hopes lie in one tomb?

Son. Ay, rather than I'll ſhame my mother's womb.

Tal. Upon my bleſſing I command thee go.

Son. To fight I will, but not to fly the foe.

Tal. Part of thy father may be sav'd in thee.
Son. No part of him, but will be shame in me.
Tal. Thou never hadst renown, nor canst not lose it.
Son. Yes, your renowned name; Shall flight abuse it?
Tal. Thy father's charge shall clear thee from that
Son. You cannot witness for me, being slain. [stain.
If death be so apparent, then both fly.
Tal. And leave my followers here, to fight, and die?
My age was never tainted with such shame.
Son. And shall my youth be guilty of such blame?
No more can I be sever'd from your side,
Than can yourself yourself in twain divide:
Stay, go, do what you will, the like do I;
For live I will not, if my father die.
Tal. Then here I take my leave of thee, fair son,
[embracing him.
Born to eclipse thy life this afternoon.
Come, side by side together live and die;
And soul with soul from France to heaven fly. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. A Field of Battle.

Loud Alarums. Enter the English Forces, pursuing; Talbot, and his Son, heading them.

Tal. Saint George, and victory! fight, soldiers, fight:
The regent hath with Talbot broke his word,
And left us to the rage of France's sword.
Where is John Talbot? — pause, and take thy breath;
I gave thee life, and rescu'd thee from death.
Son. O twice my father! twice am I thy son:
The life, thou gav'st me first, was lost and done;
'Till with thy warlike sword, despight of fate,
To my determin'd time thou gav'st new date.

TAL. When from the dauphin's creſt thy ſword ſtruck fire,
It warm'd thy father's heart with proud desire
Of bold-fac'd victory. Then leaden age,
Quicken'd with youthful ſpleen, and warlike rage,
Beat down Alenson, Orleans, Burgundy,
And from the pride of Gallia reſcu'd thee:
The ireful baſtard Orleans— that drew blood
From thee, my boy; and had the maidenhood
Of thy firſt fight— I ſoon encountered;
And, enterchanging blows, I quickly ſhed
Some of his baſtard blood; and, in diſgrace,
Beſpoke him thus: Contaminated, baſe,
And miſ-begotten blood I ſpill of thine,
Mean and right poor; for that pure blood of mine,
Which thou didſt force from Talbot, my brave boy:
Here, purposing the baſtard to deſtroy,
Came-in ſtrong reſcue. Speak, thy father's care;
Art thou not weary, John? How doſt thou fare?
Wilt thou yet leave the battle, boy, and fly,
Now thou art ſeal'd the ſon of chivalry?
Fly, to revenge my death, when I am dead;
The help of one ſtands me in little ſtead.
O, too much folly is it, well I wot,
To hazard all our lives in one ſmall boat.
If I to-day die not with Frenchmen's rage,
To-morrow I ſhall die with mickle age:
By me they nothing gain, an if I ſtay,
'Tis but the ſhort'ning of my life one day;
In thee thy mother dies, our houſhold's name,
My death's revenge, thy youth, and England's fame:
All these, and more, we hazard by thy ſtay;

All these are sav'd, if thou wilt fly away.

Son. The sword of Orleans hath not made me smart,
These words of yours draw life-blood from my heart:
But on that vantage, bought with such a shame,
To save a paltry life, and slay bright fame!
Before young Talbot from old Talbot fly,
The coward horse, that bears me, fall and die!
And like me to the peasant boys of France;
To be shame's scorn, and subject of mischance!
Surely, by all the glory you have won,
An if I fly, I am not Talbot's son:
Then talk no more of flight, it is no boot;
If son to Talbot, die at Talbot's foot.

Tal. Then follow thou thy desperate sire of Crete,
Thou Icarus; thy life to me is sweet:
If thou wilt fight, fight by thy father's side;
And, commendable prov'd, let's die in pride.

[Exeunt; Trumpets sounding a Charge.

SCENE VI. Another Part of the same.

Alarums. Enter English, retreating; with TALBOT wounded, leaning upon a Servant.

Tal. Where is my other life? — mine own is gone; —
O, where's young Talbot? where is valiant John? —
Triumphant death, smear'd with captivity,
Young Talbot's valour makes me smile at thee: —
When he perceiv'd me shrink, and on my knee,
His bloody sword he brandish'd over me,
And, like a hungry lion, did commence
Rough deeds of rage, and stern impatience:
But when my angry guardant stood alone,
Tend'ring my ruin, and assail'd of none,

4 that advantage

Dizzy-ey'd fury, and great rage of heart,
Suddenly made him from my ſide to ſtart
Into the cluſt'ring battle of the French:
And in that ſea of blood my boy did drench
His over-mounting ſpirit; and there dy'd
My Icarus, my bloſſom, in his pride.

Enter Soldiers, with the Body of young Talbot.

Ser. O my dear lord, lo, where your ſon is born!

Tal. Thou antick death, which laugh'ſt us here to ſcorn,
Anon, from thy inſulting tyranny,
Coupl'd in bonds of perpetuity,
Two Talbots, winged through the lither ſky,
In thy deſpight, ſhall 'ſcape mortality —
O thou whose wounds become hard-favour'd death,
Speak to thy father, ere thou yield thy breath:
Brave death by ſpeaking, whether he will, or no;
Imagine him a Frenchman, and thy foe. —
Poor boy! he ſmiles, methinks; as who ſhould ſay —
Had death been French, then death had dy'd to-day.
Come, come, and lay him in his father's arms;
My ſpirit can no longer bear these harms.
Soldiers, adieu! I have what I would have,
Now my old arms are young John Talbot's grave. [dies.

[Alarums. Exeunt Sol. and Ser. leaving the two Bodies.

Drums. Enter Pucelle, Charles, Baſtard, Burgundy, and Soldiers.

Cha. Had York and Somerſet brought reſcue in,
We ſhould have found a bloody day of this.

Baſ. How the young whelp of Talbot's, raging-wood,
Did fleſh his puny ſword in Frenchmen's blood!

Puc. Once I encounter'd him; and thus I ſaid,
Thou maiden youth, be vanquiſh'd by a maid:

But — with a proud, majeſtical, high ſcorn —
He anſwer'd thus; Young Talbot was not born
To be the pillage of a giglot wench:
So, ruſhing in the bowels of the French,
He left me proudly, as unworthy fight.

Bur. Doubtleſs, he would have made a noble knight:
See, where he lies inherſed in the arms
Of the moſt bloody nurſer of his harms.

Baſ. Hew them to pieces, hack their bones aſunder;
Whose life was England's glory, Gallia's wonder.

Cha. O, no; forbear: for that which we have fled
During the life, let us not wrong it dead.

Enter Sir William Lucy, attended;
Herald of the French preceding.

Luc. Herald, conduct me to the dauphin's tent;
To know who hath obtain'd the glory of the day.

[Herald ſhews the Dauphin to him.

Cha. On what ſubmiſſive meſſage art thou ſent?

Luc. Submiſſion, dauphin? 'tis a meer French word;
We Engliſh warriors wot not what it means.
I come to know what prisoners thou haſt ta'en,
And to ſurvey the bodies of the dead.

Cha. For prisoners aſk'ſt thou? hell our prison is.
But tell me whom thou ſeek'ſt.

Luc. Where is the great Alcides of the field,
Valiant lord Talbot, earl of Shrewsbury?
Created, for his rare ſucceſs in arms,
Great earl of Waſhford, Waterford, and Valence;
Lord Talbot of Goodrig and Urchinfield,
Lord Strange of Blackmere, lord Verdun of Alton,
Lord Cromwel of Wingfield, lord Furnival of Sheffield,
The thrice victorious lord of Falconbridge;

25 But where's

Knight of the noble order of ſaint George,
Worthy ſaint Michael, and the golden fleece;
Great mariſhal to Henry the ſixth,
Of all his wars within the realm of France?

Puc. Here is a ſilly ſtately ſtile, indeed!
The Turk, that two and fifty kingdoms hath,
Writes not ſo tedious a ſtile as this. —
He, whom thou magnify'ſt with all these titles,
Stinking, and fly-blown, lies here † at our feet.

Luc. Is Talbot ſlain; the Frenchmen's only ſcourge,
Your kingdom's terror and black Nemeſis?
O, were mine eye-balls into bullets turn'd;
That I, in rage, might ſhoot them at your faces!
O, that I could but call these dead to life!
It were enough to fright the realm of France:
Were but his picture left amongſt you here,
It would amaze the proudeſt of you all.
Give me their bodies; that I may bear them hence,
And give them burial as beſeems their worth.

Puc. I think, this upſtart is old Talbot's ghoſt,
He ſpeaks with ſuch a proud commanding ſpirit.
For God's ſake, let him have 'em; to keep them here,
They would but ſtink, and putrify the air.

Cha. Go, take their bodies hence.

Luc. I'll bear them hence: [Att. take up the Bodies.
But from their aſhes, Dauphin, ſhall be rear'd
A phœnix, that ſhall make all France afeard.

Cha. So we be rid, do with them what thou wilt.
[Exeunt Luc. and Att. bearing out the Bodies.
And now to Paris, in this conquering vein;
All will be ours, now bloody Talbot's ſlain. [Exeunt.

ACT V.

SCENE I. London. A Room in the Palace.

Enter King, GLOSTER, EXETER, and Others.

Kin. Have you perus'd the letters from the pope,
The emperor, and the earl of Armagnac?

Glo. I have, my lord; and their intent is this,—
They humbly sue unto your excellence,
To have a godly peace concluded of,
Between the realms of England and of France.

Kin. How doth your grace affect their motion?

Glo. Well, my good lord; and as the only means
To stop effusion of our christian blood,
And 'stablish quietness on every side.

Kin. Ay, marry, uncle; for I always thought,
It was both impious and unnatural,
That such immanity and bloody strife
Should reign among professors of one faith.

Glo. Beside, my lord,—the sooner to effect,
And surer bind, this knot of amity,—
The earl of Armagnac—near knit to Charles,
A man of great authority in France,—
Proffers his only daughter to your grace
In marriage, with a large and sumptuous dowry.

Kin. Marriage, good uncle! alas, my years are young;
And fitter is my study and my books,
Than wanton dalliance with a paramour.
Yet, call the embassadors; and, as you please,
So let them have their answers every one:
I shall be well content with any choice,

Tends to God's glory, and my country's weal.
Enter a Legate, and two Embaſſadors, uſher'd;
WINCHESTER with them, habited as a Cardinal.
EXE. "What! is my lord of Wincheſter inſtall'd,"
"And call'd unto a cardinal's degree!"
"Then, I perceive, that will be verify'd,"
"Henry the fifth did ſome time propheſy,"—
"If once he come to be a cardinal,"
"He'll make his cap co-equal with the crown."
Kin. My lords embaſſadors, your ſeveral ſuits
Have been conſider'd and debated on.
Your purpose is both good and reasonable:
And, therefore, we are certainly resolv'd
To draw conditions of a friendly peace;
Which, by my lord of Wincheſter, we mean
Shall be tranſported presently to France.
GLO. And for the proffer of my lord your maſter,—
I have inform'd his highneſs ſo at large,
As—liking of the lady's virtuous gifts,
Her beauty, and the value of her dower—
He doth intend ſhe ſhall be England's queen.
Kin. In argument and proof of which contract,
Bear her this † jewel, [to the Emb.] pledge of my affec-
And ſo, my lord protector, ſee them guarded, [tion.—
And ſafely brought to Dover; where, inſhip'd,
Commit them to the fortune of the ſea.
[Exeunt Kin. GLO. EXE. &c. Embaſſadors follow.
WIN. Stay, my lord legate; you ſhall firſt receive
The ſum of money, which I promised
Should be deliver'd to his holineſs
For cloathing me in these grave ornaments.
Leg. I will attend upon your lordſhip's leiſure.

† wherein ſhip'd

Win. Now Winchester will not submit, I trow,
Or be inferior to the proudest peer.
Humphry of Gloster, thou shalt well perceive,
That, nor in birth, nor for authority,
The bishop will not be o'er-born by thee:
I'll either make thee stoop, and bend thy knee,
Or sack this country with a mutiny. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. France. Plains in Anjou.

Enter Pucelle, Charles, Burgundy, Alenson, and Forces, marching.

Cha. These news, my lords, may chear our droop-spirits:
'Tis said, the stout Parisians do revolt,
And turn again unto the warlike French.

Ale. Then march to Paris, royal Charles of France,
And keep not back your powers in dalliance.

Puc. Peace be amongst them, if they turn to us;
Else, ruin combat with their palaces!

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. Success unto our valiant general,
And happiness to his accomplices!

Cha. What tidings send our scouts? I pr'ythee, speak.

Mes. The English army, that divided was
Into two parts, is now conjoin'd in one;
And means to give you battle presently.

Cha. Somewhat too sudden, sirs, the warning is;
But we will presently provide for them.

Bur. I trust, the ghost of Talbot is not there;
Now he is gone, my lord, you need not fear.

Puc. Of all base passions, fear is most accurs'd:—
Command the conquest, Charles, it shall be thine;

[4] neither in birth, or for [25] parties

Let Henry fret, and all the word repine.
Cha. Then on, my lords; And France be fortunate!
[Exeunt, marching.

SCENE III. The ſame. Under Angiers.

Alarums, as of a Battle join'd. Excurſions.
Enter Pucelle, haſtily.

Puc. The regent conquers, and the Frenchmen fly.—
Now help, ye charming ſpells, and periapts;
And ye choice ſpirits, that admoniſh me
And give me ſigns of future accidents!
[She performs certain Ceremonies. Thunder heard.
You ſpeedy helpers, that are ſubſtitutes
Under the lordly monarch of the north,
Appear, and aid me in this enterprize.
[Thunder again. Enter certain Fiends.
This ſpeedy quick appearance argues proof
Of your accuſtom'd diligence to me.
Now, ye familiar ſpirits, that are cull'd
Out of the powerful regions under earth,
Help me this once, that France may get the field.
[they walk ſullenly about her.
O, hold me not with ſilence over-long!
Where I was wont to feed you with my blood,
I'll lop a member off, and give it you,
In earneſt of a further benefit;
So you do condeſcend to help me now.—
[they hang their Heads.
No hope to have redreſs?—My body ſhall
Pay recompence, if you will grant my ſuit.
[they ſhake their Heads.
Cannot my body, nor blood-ſacrifice,

[17] ſpeedy and quicke

Entreat you to your wonted furtherance?
Then take my soul; my body, soul, and all,
Before that England give the French the foil.
[Thunder; and they depart.
See! they forsake me. Now the time is come,
That France must vail her lofty-plumed crest,
And let her head fall into England's lap.
My antient incantations are too weak,
And hell too strong for me to buckle with: —
Now, France, thy glory droopeth to the dust. [Exit.

Other Alarums. Enter French and English, fighting; YORK and PUCELLE heading them:
French fly, leaving Pucelle.

YOR. Damsel of France, I think I have you fast:
[laying Hands on her.
Unchain your spirits now with spelling charms,
And try if they can gain your liberty. —
A goodly prize, fit for the devil's grace!
See, how the ugly witch doth bend her brows,
As if, with Circe, she would change my shape.

PUC. Chang'd to a worser shape thou canst not be.

YOR. O, Charles the dauphin is a proper man;
No shape but his can please your dainty eye.

PUC. A plaguing mischief light on Charles, and thee!
And may ye both be suddenly surpriz'd
By bloody hands, in sleeping on your beds!

YOR. Fell banning hag, enchantress, hold thy tongue.

PUC. I pr'ythee, give me leave to curse a while.

YOR. Curse, miscreant, when thou comest to the stake.
[Exeunt, with PUCELLE.

Other short Alarums. Enter SUFFOLK, bringing in MARGARET.

Suf. Be what thou wilt, thou art my prisoner.
[gazes earneſtly on her.
O faireſt beauty, do not fear, nor fly;
For I will touch thee but with reverent hands,
And lay them gently on thy tender ſide.
I kiſs these fingers [kiſſing her Hand.] for eternal peace:
Who art thou, ſay, that I may honour thee?
Mar. Margaret my name; and daughter to a king,
The king of Naples, whoſoe'er thou art.
Suf. An earl I am, and Suffolk am I call'd.
Be not offended, nature's miracle,
Thou art allotted to be ta'en by me:
So doth the ſwan her downy cignets ſave,
Keeping them prisoners underneath her wings.
Yet, if this ſervile usage once offend,
Go, and be free again, as Suffolk's friend.
[ſhe turns from him, as going.
O, ſtay!—I have no power to let her paſs;
My hand would free her, but my heart ſays—no.
As plays the ſun upon the glaſſy ſtreams,
Twinkling another counterfeited beam,
So ſeems this gorgeous beauty to mine eyes.
Fain would I woo her, yet I dare not ſpeak:
I'll call for pen and ink, and write my mind:
Fie, De-la-poole! diſable not thyſelf;
Haſt not a tongue? is ſhe not here thy prisoner?
Wilt thou be daunted at a woman's ſight?
Ay; beauty's princely majeſty is ſuch,
Confounds the tongue, and make the ſenſes crouch.
Mar. Say, earl of Suffolk,—if thy name be ſo,—
What ranſom muſt I pay before I paſs?
For, I perceive, I am thy prisoner.

6 v. Note. 14 priſoner. 29 rough.

Suf. How canst thou tell, she will deny thy suit,
Before thou make a trial of her love?
Mar. Why speak'st thou not? what ransom must I pay?
Suf. She's beautiful; and therefore to be woo'd:
She is a woman; therefore to be won.
Mar. Wilt thou accept of ransom, yea, or no?
Suf. Fond man! remember, that thou hast a wife;
Then how can Margaret be thy paramour?
Mar. I were best leave him, for he will not hear.
Suf. There all is mar'd; there lies a cooling card.
Mar. He talks at random; sure, the man is mad.
Suf. And yet a dispensation may be had.
Mar. And yet I would that you would answer me.
Suf. I'll win this lady Margaret. For whom?
Why, for my king: Tush! that's a wooden thing.
Mar. He talks of wood; It is some carpenter.
Suf. Yet so my fancy may be satisfy'd,
And peace established between these realms.
But there remains a scruple in that too:
For though her father be the king of Naples,
Duke of Anjou and Maine, yet is he poor,
And our nobility will scorn the match.
Mar. Hear ye me, captain; Are you not at leisure?
Suf. It shall be so, disdain they ne'er so much:
Henry is youthful, and will quickly yield. —
Madam, I have a secret to reveal.
Mar. What though I be enthral'd? he seems a knight,
And will not any way dishonour me.
Suf. Lady, vouchsafe to listen what I say.
Mar. Perhaps, I shall be rescu'd by the French;
And then I need not crave his courtesy.
Suf. Sweet madam, give me hearing in a cause—

9 best to leave

Mar. Tuſh! women have been captivate ere now.
Suf. Fair, bear me, lady; Wherefore talk you ſo?
Mar. I cry you mercy, 'tis but quid for quo.
Suf. Say, gentle princeſs, would you not ſuppose
Your bondage happy, to be made a queen.
Mar. To be a queen in bondage, is more vile,
Than is a ſlave in baſe ſervility;
For princes ſhould be free.
Suf. And ſo ſhall you,
If happy England's royal king be free.
Mar. Why, what concerns his freedom unto me?
Suf. I'll undertake to make thee Henry's queen;
To put a golden ſcepter in thy hand,
And ſet a precious crown upon thy head,
If thou wilt condeſcend to be my —
Mar. What?
Suf. His love.
Mar. I am unworthy to be Henry's wife.
Suf. No, gentle madam; I unworthy am
To woo ſo fair a dame to be his wife,
And have no portion in the choice myſelf.
How ſay you, madam; are you ſo content?
Mar. An if my father please, I am content.
Suf. Then call our captains, and our colours, forth: —
[to his Troops; who come forward.
And, madam, at your father's caſtle walls
We'll crave a parley, to confer with him. —
Trumpet ſounds a Parley: Is anſwer'd from within: and, Enter Reignier, upon the Walls.
See, Reignier, ſee, thy daughter priſoner.
Rei. To whom?
Suf. To me.

Rei. Suffolk, what remedy?
I am a ſoldier; and unapt to weep,
Or to exclaim on fortune's fickleneſs.
Suf. Yes, there is remedy enough, my lord:
Conſent, (and, for thy honour, give conſent)
Thy daughter ſhall be wedded to my king;
Whom I with pain have woo'd and won thereto;
And this her easy-held imprisonment
Hath gain'd thy daughter princely liberty.
Rei. Speaks Suffolk as he thinks?
Suf. Fair Margaret knows,
That Suffolk doth not flatter, face, or feign.
Rei. Upon thy princely warrant, I deſcend,
To give thee anſwer of thy juſt demand.
[Exit, from the Walls.
Suf. And here I will expect thy coming, Reignier.
Trumpets. Enter Reignier, below.
Rei. Welcome, brave earl, into our territories;
Command in Anjou what your honour pleases.
Suf. Thanks, Reignier, happy for ſo ſweet a child,
Fit to be made companion with a king:
What anſwer makes your grace unto my ſuit?
Rei. Since thou doſt deign to woo her little worth,
To be the princely bride of ſuch a lord;
Upon condition I may quietly
Enjoy mine own, the countries Maine and Anjou,
Free from oppreſſion, or the ſtroke of war,
My daughter ſhall be Henry's, if he please.
Suf. That is her ranſom, I deliver † her;
And those two countries, I will undertake,
Your grace ſhall well and quietly enjoy.
Rei. And I again,—in Henry's royal name,

12 ſaine, 26 Country 30 Counties

As deputy unto that gracious king,—
Give thee her † hand, for ſign of plighted faith.
Suf. Reignier of France, I give thee kingly thanks,
Because this is in traffick of a king:
And yet, methinks, I could be well content
To be mine own attorney in this caſe.
I'll over then to England with this news,
And make this marriage to be ſolemniz'd:
So, farewel, Reignier! Set this diamond ſafe
In golden palaces, as it becomes.
Rei. I do embrace † thee, as I would embrace
The chriſtian prince, king Henry, were he here.
Mar. Farewel, my lord! good wiſhes, praise, and prayers,
Shall Suffolk ever have of Margaret. [going.
Suf. Farewel, ſweet madam! But hark you, Margaret; [calling her back.
No princely commendations to my king?
Mar. Such commendations as becomes a maid,
A virgin, and his ſervant, ſay to him.
Suf. Words ſweetly plac'd, and modeſtly directed.
But, madam, I muſt trouble you again,—
No loving token to his majeſty?
Mar. Yes, my good lord; a pure unſpotted heart,
Never yet taint with love, I ſend the king.
Suf. And this withal. [kiſſes her.
Mar. That for thyſelf; I will not ſo presume,
To ſend ſuch peeviſh tokens to a king.
[Exeunt Reignier, and Margaret.
Suf. O, wert thou for myſelf! But, Suffolk, ſtay;
Thou may'ſt not wander in that labyrinth;
There minotaurs, and ugly treasons, lurk.

Sollicit Henry with her wondrous praise:
Bethink thee on her virtues that surmount,
And natural graces that extinguish art;
Repeat their semblance often on the seas,
That, when thou com'st to kneel at Henry's feet,
Thou may'st bereave him of his wits with wonder. [Exit.

SCENE IV. Camp of the Duke of York, in Anjou.

Enter York, Warwick, and Others.

York. Bring forth that sorceress, condemn'd to burn.

Enter Pucelle, guarded; Shepherd, her Father, with her.

She. Ah, Joan, this kills thy father's heart outright!
Have I sought every country far and near,
And, now it is my chance to find thee out,
Must I behold thy timeless cruel death?
Ah, Joan, sweet daughter Joan, I'll die with thee!

Puc. Decrepit miser! base ignoble wretch!
I am descended of a gentler blood;
Thou art no father, nor no friend, of mine.

She. Out, out!—My lords, an please you, 'tis not so;
I did beget her, all the parish knows:
Her mother liveth yet, can testify
She was the first-fruit of my batchelorship.

War. Graceless! wilt thou deny thy parentage?

York. This argues what her kind of life hath been;
Wicked and vile; and so her death concludes.

She. Fie, Joan! that thou wilt be so obstacle!
God knows, thou art a collop of my flesh;
And for thy sake have I shed many a tear:
Deny me not, I pr'ythee, gentle Joan.

Puc. Peasant, avant!—You have suborn'd this man,

[3] Mad naturall

Of purpose to obſcure my noble birth.

She. 'Tis true, I gave a noble to the prieſt,
The morn that I was wedded to her mother.—
Kneel down and take my bleſſing, good my girl.
Wilt thou not ſtoop? Now curſed be the time
Of thy nativity! I would, the milk
Thy mother gave thee, when thou ſuck'dſt her breaſt,
Had been a little ratsbane for thy ſake!
Or elſe, when thou didſt keep my lambs afield,
I wiſh ſome ravenous wolf had eaten thee!
Doſt thou deny thy father, curſed drab?
O, burn her, burn her; hanging is too good.
[Exit Shepherd.

York. Take her away; for ſhe hath liv'd too long,
To fill the world with vicious qualities.

Puc. Firſt, let me tell you whom you have condemn'd:
Not me begotten of a ſhepherd ſwain,
But iſſu'd from the progeny of kings;
Virtuous, and holy; chosen from above,
By inſpiration of celeſtial grace,
To work exceeding miracles on earth.
I never had to do with wicked ſpirits:
But you,—that are polluted with your luſts,
Stain'd with the guiltleſs blood of innocents,
Corrupt and tainted with a thousand vices,—
Because you want the grace that others have,
You judge it ſtraight a thing impoſſible
To compaſs wonders, but by help of devils:
No, miſconceivers; Joan of Arc hath been
A virgin from her tender infancy,
Chaſt and immaculate in very thought;
Whose maiden blood, thus rigorouſly effus'd,

29 miſconceived, Jone of Aire

Will cry for vengeance at the gates of heaven.
York. Ay, ay; — away with her to execution.
War. And hark ye, sirs; because she is a maid,
Spare for no faggots, let there be enough:
Place barrels of pitch upon the fatal stake,
That so her torture may be shortened.
Puc. Will nothing turn your unrelenting hearts? —
Then, Joan, discover thine infirmity;
That warranteth by law to be thy priviledge. —
I am with child, ye bloody homicides:
Murther not then the fruit within my womb,
Although ye hale me to a violent death.
York. Now heaven forefend! the holy maid with child?
War. The greatest miracle that e'er ye wrought:
Is all your strict preciseness come to this?
York. She and the dauphin have been juggling:
I did imagine what would be her refuge.
War. Well, well, go to; we'll have no bastards live;
Especially, since Charles must father it.
Puc. You are deceiv'd; my child is none of his;
It was Alenson, that enjoy'd my love.
York. Alenson! that notorious Machiavel!
It dies, an if it had a thousand lives.
Puc. O, give me leave, I have deluded you;
'Twas neither Charles, nor yet the duke I nam'd,
But Reignier, king of Naples, that prevail'd.
War. A marry'd man! that's most intolerable.
York. Why, here's a girl! I think, she knows not well,
There were so many, whom she may accuse.
War. It's sign, she hath been liberal and free.
York. And, yet, forsooth, she is a virgin pure. —
Strumpet, thy words condemn thy brat, and thee:

Use no entreaty, for it is in vain. [curſe:
Puc. Then lead me hence;—with whom I leave my
May never glorious ſun reflex his beams
Upon the country where you make abode!
But darkneſs, and the gloomy ſhade of death
Environ you; 'till miſchief, and deſpair,
Drive you to break your necks, or hang yourſelves!
[Exit, guarded.

Yor. Break thou in pieces, and conſume to aſhes,
You foul accurſed miniſter of hell!

Enter Cardinal Beaufort, attended.

Car. Lord regent, I do greet your excellence
With letters of commiſſion from the king.
For know, my lords, the ſtates of chriſtendom,
Mov'd with remorſe of these outrageous broils,
Have earneſtly implor'd a general peace
Betwixt our nation and the aſpiring French;
And here at hand the dauphin, and his train,
Approacheth, to confer about ſome matters.

Yor. Is all our travel turn'd to this effect?
After the ſlaughter of ſo many peers,
So many captains, gentlemen, and ſoldiers,
That in this quarrel have been overthrown,
And ſold their bodies for their country's benefit,
Shall we at laſt conclude effeminate peace?
Have we not loſt moſt part of all the towns,
By treason, falſhood, and by treachery,
Our great progenitors had conquered?—
O, Warwick, Warwick! I foreſee with grief
The utter loſs of all the realm of France.

War. Be patient, York; if we conclude a peace,
It ſhall be with ſuch ſtrict and ſevere covenants,

As little ſhall the Frenchmen gain thereby.

Enter CHARLES, attended; REIGNIER, ALENSON, and Others.

CHA. Since, lords of England, it is thus agreed,
That peaceful truce ſhall be proclaim'd in France,
I come to be informed by yourſelves
What the conditions of that league muſt be.

YOR. Speak, Wincheſter; for boiling choler choaks
The hollow paſſage of my prison'd voice,
By ſight of these our baleful enemies.

Car. Charles, and the reſt, it is enacted thus:
That—in regard king Henry gives conſent,
Of meer compaſſion, and of lenity,
To ease your country of diſtreſſful war,
And ſuffer you to breath in fruitful peace,—
You ſhall become true liegemen to his crown:
And, Charles, upon condition thou wilt ſwear
To pay him tribute, and ſubmit thyſelf,
Thou ſhalt be plac'd as vice-roy under him,
And ſtill enjoy thy regal dignity.

ALE. Muſt he be then as ſhadow of himſelf?
Adorn his temples with a coronet;
And yet, in ſubſtance and authority,
Retain but priviledge of a private man?
This proffer is abſurd and reasonleſs.

CHA. 'Tis known, already that I am poſſeſſ'd
Of more than half the Gallian territories,
And therein reverenc'd for their lawful king:
Shall I, for lucre of the reſt unvanquiſh'd,
Detract ſo much from that prerogative,
As to be call'd but vice-roy of the whole?
No, lord embaſſador; I'll rather keep

9 poyſon'd 27 With more

That which I have, than, coveting for more,
Be caſt from poſſibility of all.

Yor. Inſulting Charles! haſt thou by ſecret means
Us'd interceſſion to obtain a league;
And, now the matter grows to compromise,
Stand'ſt thou aloof upon compariſon?
Either accept the title thou uſurp'ſt,
Of benefit proceeding from our king,
And not of any challenge of desert,
Or we will plague thee with inceſſant wars. [nacy"

Rei. "My lord [to Cha.] you do not well, in obſti-
"To cavil in the courſe of this contract:"
"If once it be neglected, ten to one,"
"We ſhall not find like opportunity."

Ale. "To ſay the truth, it is your policy,"
"To ſave your ſubjects from ſuch maſſacre,"
"And ruthleſs ſlaughters, as are daily ſeen"
"By our proceeding in hoſtility:"
"And therefore take this compact of a truce,"
"Although you break it when your pleasure ſerves."

War. How ſay'ſt thou, Charles? ſhall our condition
ſtand?

Cha. It ſhall: only reſerv'd, you claim no intereſt
In any of our towns of garriſon.

Yor. Then ſwear allegiance to his majeſty;
As thou art knight, never to diſobey,
Nor be rebellious to the crown of England,
Thou, nor thy nobles, to the crown of England.
So, now diſmiſs your army when ye please;
Hang up your enſigns, let your drums be ſtill,
For here we entertain a ſolemn peace. [Exeunt.

SCENE V. London. A Room in the Palace.
Enter King Henry, and SUFFOLK, conferring; GLOSTER, and EXETER, after them.

Kin. Your wondrous rare deſcription, noble earl,
Of beauteous Margaret hath aſtoniſh'd me:
Her virtues, graced with external gifts,
Do breed love's ſettl'd paſſions in my heart:
And like as rigour of tempeſtuous guſts
Provokes the mightieſt hulk againſt the tide;
So am I driven, by breath of her renown,
Either to ſuffer ſhipwreck, or arrive
Where I may have fruition of her love.

Suf. Tuſh, my good lord! this ſuperficial tale
Is but a preface of her worthy praise:
The chief perfections of that lovely dame
(Had I ſufficient ſkill to utter them)
Would make a volume of enticing lines,
Able to raviſh any dull conceit.
And, which is more, ſhe is not ſo divine,
So full replete with choice of all delights,
But, with as humble lowlineſs of mind,
She is content to be at your command;
Command, I mean, of virtuous chaſt intents,
To love and honour Henry as her lord.

Kin. And otherwise will Henry ne'er presume:—
Therefore, my lord protector, give conſent,
That Margaret may be England's royal queen.

Glo. So ſhould I give conſent to flatter ſin.
You know, my lord, your highneſs is betroth'd
Unto another lady of eſteem;
How ſhall we then diſpenſe with that contráct,
And not deface your honour with reproach?

Suf. As doth a ruler with unlawful oaths;
Or one, that, at a triumph having vow'd
To try his ſtrength, forſaketh yet the liſts
By reason of his adverſary's odds:
A poor earl's daughter is unequal odds,
And therefore may be broke without offence.

Glo. Why, what (I pray) is Margaret more than that?
Her father is no better than an earl,
Although in glorious titles he excel.

Suf. Yes, my good lord, her father is a king,
The king of Naples, and Jeruſalem;
And of ſuch great authority in France,
As his alliance will confirm our peace,
And keep the Frenchmen in allegiance.

Glo. And ſo the earl of Armagnac may do,
Because he is near kinſman unto Charles.

Exe. Beſide, his wealth doth warrant liberal dower;
Where Reignier ſooner will receive, than give.

Suf. A dower, my lords! diſgrace not ſo your king,
That he ſhould be ſo abject, baſe, and poor,
To choose for wealth, and not for perfect love.
Henry is able to enrich his queen,
And not to ſeek a queen to make him rich:
So worthleſs peaſants bargain for their wives,
As market-men for oxen, ſheep, or horſe.
But marriage is a matter of more worth,
Than to be dealt in by attorneyſhip;
Not whom we will, but whom his grace affects,
Muſt be companion of his nuptial bed:
And therefore, lords, ſince he affects her moſt,
It moſt of all these reasons bindeth us,
In our opinions ſhe ſhould be prefer'd.

For what is wedlock forced, but a hell,
An age of diſcord and continual ſtrife?
Whereas the contrary bringeth forth bliſs,
And is a pattern of celeſtial peace.
Whom ſhould we match with Henry, being a king,
But Margaret, that is daughter to a king?
Her peerleſs feature, joined with her birth,
Approves her fit for none, but for a king:
Her valiant courage, and undaunted ſpirit,
(More than in women commonly is ſeen) will
Anſwer our hope in iſſue of a king;
For Henry, ſon unto a conqueror,
Is likely to beget more conquerors,
If with a lady of ſo high reſolve,
As is fair Margaret, he be link'd in love.
Then yield, my lords; and here conclude with me,
That Margaret ſhall be queen, and none but ſhe.

Kin. Whether it be through force of your report,
My noble lord of Suffolk; or for that
My tender youth was never yet attaint
With any paſſion of inflaming love,
I cannot tell; but this I am aſſur'd,
I feel ſuch ſharp diſſention in my breaſt,
Such fierce alarums both of hope and fear,
As I am ſick with working of my thoughts.
Take, therefore, ſhipping; poſt, my lord, to France;
Agree to any covenants; and procure
That lady Margaret do vouchſafe to come
To croſs the ſeas to England, and be crown'd
King Henry's faithful and anointed queen:
For your expences and ſufficient charge,
Among the people gather up a tenth.

Be gone, I ſay; for, 'till you do return,
I reſt perplexed with a thouſand cares. —
And you, good uncle, baniſh all offence:
If you do cenſure me by what you were,
Not what you are, I know it will excuſe
This ſudden execution of my will.
And ſo conduct me, where from company
I may revolve and ruminate my grief. [Exit.

Glo. Ay, grief, I fear me, both at firſt and laſt.
[Exeunt Gloster, and Exeter.

Suf. Thus Suffolk hath prevail'd: and thus he goes,
As did the youthful Paris once to Greece;
With hope to find the like event in love,
But proſper better than the Trojan did.
Margaret ſhall now be queen, and rule the king;
But I will rule both her, the king, and realm.
[Exit.

ACT I.

SCENE I. London. A Room of State in the Palace. Flourish of Trumpets, &c. Enter, on one Side, King Henry; Duke of Gloster, Cardinal Beaufort, the Lords Salisbury, Warwick, &c: on the other, Queen Margaret, led by Suffolk; York, Somerset, Buckingham, and Others, following.

Suf. As by your high imperial majesty
I had in charge at my depart for France,
As procurator to your excellence,
To marry princess Margaret for your grace;
So, in the famous ancient city, Tours,—
In presence of the kings of France, and Sicile,
The dukes of Orleans, Calaber, Bretaigne, Alenson,
Seven earls, twelve barons, twenty reverend bishops,—
I have perform'd my task, and was espous'd:
And humbly now upon my bended knee,
In sight of England and her lordly peers,
Deliver up my title in the queen
To your most gracious hand, that are the substance
Of that great shadow I did represent;
The happiest gift that ever marquess gave,
The fairest queen that ever king receiv'd.

Kin. Suffolk, arise. — Welcome, queen Margaret:
I can express no kinder sign of love,
Than this † kind kiss. — O Lord, that lends me life,
Lend me a heart replete with thankfulness!
For thou hast given me, in this beauteous face,
A world of earthly blessings to my soul,
If sympathy of love unite our thoughts.

Que. Great king of England, and my gracious lord;
The mutual conference that my mind hath had —
By day, by night; waking, and in my dreams;
In courtly company, or at my beads, —
With you mine alder-liefest sovereign,
Makes me the bolder to salute my king
With ruder terms; such as my wit affords,
And over-joy of heart doth minister.

Kin. Her sight did ravish: but her grace in speech,
Her words y-clad with wisdom's majesty,
Makes me, from wond'ring, fall to weeping joys;
Such is the fulness of my heart's content. —
Lords, with one cheerful voice welcome my love.

all. Long live queen Margaret, England's happiness!

Que. We thank you all. [Flourish.

Suf. My lord protector, so it please your grace,
Here are the † articles of contracted peace,
Between our sovereign and the French king Charles,
For eighteen months concluded by consent.

Glo. [reads.] Imprimis, it is agreed between the French king, Charles, and William de la Poole, marquess of Suffolk, embassador for Henry king of England, — that the said Henry shall espouse the lady Margaret, daughter to Reignier king of Naples, Sicily, and Jerusalem; and crown her queen of England, ere the thirtieth of May next enſuing. Item,———that the dutchies of Anjou and Maine ſhall be releaſed and delivered to the king her fa —

Kin. Uncle, how now?

Glo. Pardon me, gracious lord;
Some ſudden qualm hath ſtruck me at the heart,
And dim'd mine eyes, that I can read no further.

Kin. Uncle of Wincheſter, I pray, read on.

Car. [taking the Paper from Glo. and reading.] Item, it is further agreed between them,—that the dutchies of Anjou and Maine ſhall be releaſed and delivered to the king her father; and ſhe ſent over of the king of England's own proper coſt and charges, without having any dowry. [you down:

Kin. They please us well.—Lord marqueſs, kneel
We here create thee the firſt duke of Suffolk,
And girt thee † with the ſword.—
Cousin of York, we here diſcharge your grace
From being regent in the parts of France,
'Till term of eighteen months be full expir'd.—
Thanks, uncle Wincheſter, Gloſter, York, and Buckingham, Somerſet, Salisbury, and Warwick, thanks;
We thank you all for this great favour done,
In entertainment to my princely queen.
Come, let us in; and with all ſpeed provide
To ſee her coronation be perform'd.

[Exeunt King, Queen, and Suffolk.

Glo. Brave peers of England, pillars of the ſtate,
To you duke Humphrey muſt unload his grief,
Your grief, the common grief of all the land.
What! did my brother Henry ſpend his youth,
His valour, coin, and people, in the wars?

Did he ſo often lodge in open field,
In winter's cold, and ſummer's parching heat,
To conquer France, his true inheritance?
And did my brother Bedford toil his wits,
To keep by policy what Henry got?
Have you yourſelves, Somerſet, Buckingham,
Brave York, and Salisbury, victorious Warwick,
Receiv'd deep ſcars in France and Normandy?
Or hath mine uncle Beaufort, and myſelf,
With all the learned counſel of the realm,
Study'd ſo long, ſat in the council-houſe,
Early and late, debating to and fro
How France and Frenchmen might be kept in awe?
Or hath his highneſs in his infancy
Been crown'd in Paris, in deſpight of foes;
And ſhall these labours, and these honours, die?
Shall Henry's conqueſt, Bedford's vigilance,
Your deeds of war, and all our counſel, die?
O peers of England, ſhameful is this league!
Fatal this marriage! cancelling your fame;
Blotting your names from books of memory;
Raſing the characters of your renown;
Reverſing monuments of conquer'd France;
Undoing all, as all had never been!

Car. Nephew, what means this paſſionate diſcourſe?
This peroration with ſuch circumſtance?
For France, 'tis ours; and we will keep it ſtill.

Glo. Ay, uncle, we will keep it, if we can;
But now it is impoſſible we ſhould:
Suffolk, the new-made duke that rules the roaſt,
Hath given the dutchies of Anjou and Maine
Unto the poor king Reignier, whose large ſtyle

7 Salisbury, and 31 Dutchy

Agrees not with the leanneſs of his purſe.

Sal. Now, by the death of him that dy'd for all,
These counties were the keys of Normandy: —
But wherefore weeps Warwick, my valiant ſon?

War. For grief that they are paſt recovery:
For, were there hope to conquer them again,
My ſword ſhould ſhed hot blood, mine eyes no tears.
Anjou and Maine! myſelf did win them both;
Those provinces these arms of mine did conquer:
And are the cities, that I got with wounds,
Deliver'd up again with peaceful words?
Mort Dieu!

York. For Suffolk's duke — may he be ſuffocate,
That dims the honour of this warlike iſle!
France ſhould have torn and rent my very heart,
Before I would have yielded to this league.
I never read but England's kings have had
Large ſums of gold, and dowries, with their wives:
And our king Henry gives away his own,
To match with her that brings no vantages.

Glo. A proper jeſt, and never heard before,
That Suffolk ſhould demand a whole fifteenth,
For coſts and charges in tranſporting her!
She ſhould have ſtay'd in France, and ſtarv'd in France,
Before —

Car. My lord of Gloſter, now you grow too hot;
It was the pleaſure of my lord the king.

Glo. My lord of Wincheſter, I know your mind;
'Tis not my ſpeeches that you do miſlike,
But 'tis my preſence that doth trouble you.
Rancour will out, proud prelate; in thy face
I ſee thy fury: if I longer ſtay,

We shall begin our ancient bickerings: —
Lordings, farewel; and say, when I am gone,
I prophesy'd — France will be lost ere long. [Exit.

Car. So, there goes our protector in a rage.
'Tis known to you, he is mine enemy:
Nay, more, an enemy unto you all;
And no great friend, I fear me, to the king.
Consider, lords, — he is the next of blood,
And heir apparent to the English crown;
Had Henry got an empire by his marriage,
And all the wealthy kingdoms of the west,
There's reason he should be displeas'd at it:
Look to it, lords; let not his smoothing words
Bewitch your hearts; be wise, and circumspect.
What though the common people favour him,
Calling him — Humphrey, the good duke of Gloster;
Clapping their hands, and crying with loud voice —
Jesu maintain your royal excellence!
With — God preserve the good duke Humphrey!
I fear me, lords, for all this flattering gloss,
He will be found a dangerous protector.

Buc. Why should he then protect our sovereign,
He being of age to govern of himself? —
Cousin of Somerset, join you with me,
And, all together, — with the duke of Suffolk, —
We quickly hoise duke Humphrey from his seat.

Car. This weighty business will not brook delay;
I'll to the duke of Suffolk presently. [Exit.

Som. Cousin of Buckingham, tho' Humphrey's pride,
And greatness of his place be grief to us,
Yet let us watch the haughty cardinal;
His insolence is more intolerable

Than all the princes in the land beſide;
If Gloſter be diſplac'd, he'll be protector.
Buc. Thou, or I, Somerſet, will be protector,
Deſpight duke Humphrey, or the cardinal.
[Exeunt Buc. and Som.
Sal. Pride goes before, ambition follows him.
While these do labour for their own preferment,
Behoves it us to labour for the realm.
I never ſaw but Humphrey duke of Gloſter
Did bear him like a noble gentleman:
Oft have I ſeen the haughty cardinal —
More like a ſoldier, than a man o'the church;
As ſtout, and proud, as he were lord of all, —
Swear like a ruffian, and demean himſelf
Unlike the ruler of a common-weal. —
Warwick my ſon, the comfort of my age,
Thy deeds, thy plainneſs, and thy houſe-keeping,
Hath won the greateſt favour of the commons,
Excepting none but good duke Humphrey: —
And, brother York, thy acts in Ireland,
In bringing them to civil diſcipline;
Thy late exploits done in the heart of France,
When thou wert regent for our ſovereign,
Have made thee fear'd, and honour'd, of the people: —
Join we together, for the publick good;
In what we can, to bridle and ſuppreſs
The pride of Suffolk, and the cardinal,
With Somerſet's and Buckingham's ambition;
And, as we may, cheriſh duke Humphrey's deeds,
While they do tend to profit of the land.
War. So God help Warwick, as he loves the land,
And common profit of his country.

3 Buc. Or thou, 30 tend the pro—

YOR. And so says York, for he hath greatest cause.
SAL. Then let's make haste, and look unto the main.
WAR. Unto the main! O, father, Maine is lost;
That Maine, which by main force Warwick did win,
And would have kept, so long as breath did last:
Main chance, father, you meant; but I meant, Maine;
Which I will win from France, or else be slain.
[Exeunt WAR. and SAL.
YOR. Anjou, and Maine, are given to the French;
Paris is lost; the state of Normandy
Stands on a tickle point, now they are gone:
Suffolk concluded on the articles;
The peers agreed; and Henry was well pleas'd,
To change two dukedoms for a duke's fair daughter.
I cannot blame them all; What is't to them?
'Tis thine they give away, and not their own.
Pirates may make cheap penn'worth of their pillage,
And purchase friends, and give to courtezans,
Still revelling, like lords, 'till all be gone:
While as the silly owner of the goods
Weeps over them, and wrings his hapless hands,
And shakes his head, and trembling stands aloof,
While all is shar'd, and all is born away;
Ready to starve, and dares not touch his own.
So York must sit, and fret, and bite his tongue,
While his own lands are bargain'd for, and sold.
Methinks, the realms of England, France, and Ireland,
Bear that proportion to my flesh and blood,
As did the fatal brand Althea burnt,
Unto the prince's heart of Calydon.
Anjou and Maine, both given unto the French!
Cold news for me; for I had hope of France,

2 haste away, and 24 dare

Even as I have of fertile England's ſoil.
A day will come, when York ſhall claim his own;
And therefore I will take the Nevils' parts,
And make a ſhew of love to proud duke Humphrey,
And, when I ſpy advantage, claim the crown,
For that's the golden mark I ſeek to hit:
Nor ſhall proud Lancaſter uſurp my right,
Nor hold the ſcepter in his childiſh fiſt,
Nor wear the diadem upon his head,
Whoſe church-like humour fits not for a crown.
Then, York, be ſtill a while, 'till time do ſerve:
Watch thou, and wake, when others be aſleep,
To pry into the ſecrets of the ſtate;
'Till Henry, ſurfeiting in joys of love,
With his new bride, and England's dear-bought queen,
And Humphrey with the peers be fall'n at jars:
Then will I raiſe aloft the milk-white roſe,
With whoſe ſweet ſmell the air ſhall be perfum'd;
And in my ſtandard bear the arms of York,
To grapple with the houſe of Lancaſter;
And, force perforce, I'll make him yield the crown,
Whoſe bookiſh rule hath pull'd fair England down. [Exit.

SCENE II. The ſame. A Room in Gloſter's Houſe.
Enter GLOSTER, and his Dutcheſs.

Dut. Why droops my lord, like over-ripen'd corn,
Hanging the head at Ceres' plenteous load?
Why doth the great duke Humphrey knit his brows,
As frowning at the favours of the world?
Why are thine eyes fix'd to the ſullen earth,
Gazing on that which ſeems to dim thy ſight?
What ſee'ſt thou there? king Henry's diadem,

10 humors

Inchaſ'd with all the honours of the world?
If ſo, gaze on, and grovel on thy face,
Until thy head be circl'd with the ſame.
Put forth thy hand, reach at the glorious gold:
What, is't too ſhort? I'll lengthen it with mine:
And, having both together heav'd it up,
We'll both together lift our heads to heaven;
And never more abaſe our ſight ſo low,
As to vouchſafe one glance unto the ground.

GLO. O Nell, ſweet Nell, if thou doſt love thy lord,
Baniſh the canker of ambitious thoughts:
And may that thought, when I imagine ill
Againſt my king and nephew, virtuous Henry,
Be my laſt breathing in this mortal world!
My troublous dream this night doth make me ſad.

Dut. What dream'd my lord? tell me, and I'll requite it
With ſweet rehearſal of my morning's dream.

GLO. Methought, this ſtaff, mine office-badge in court,
Was broke in twain; by whom, I have forgot,
But, as I think, it was by the cardinal;
And on the pieces of the broken wand
Were plac'd the heads of Edmond duke of Somerſet,
And William de la Poole firſt duke of Suffolk.
This was my dream; what it doth bode, God knows.

Dut. Tut, this was nothing but an argument,
That he, that breaks a ſtick of Gloſter's grove,
Shall loſe his head for his presumption.
But lift to me, my Humphrey, my ſweet duke:
Methought, I ſat in ſeat of majeſty,
In the cathedral church of Weſtminſter,
And in that chair where kings and queens are crown'd;
Where Henry, and dame Margaret, kneel'd to me,

And on my head did ſet the diadem.

Glo. Nay, Eleanor, then muſt I chide out-right:
Preſumptuous dame, ill-nurtur'd Eleanor!
Art thou not ſecond woman in the realm;
And the protector's wife, belov'd of him?
Haſt thou not worldly pleaſure at command,
Above the reach or compaſs of thy thought?
And wilt thou ſtill be hammering treachery,
To tumble down thy husband, and thyſelf,
From top of honour to diſgrace's feet?
Away from me, and let me hear no more.

Dut. What, what, my lord! are you ſo cholerick
With Eleanor, for telling but her dream?
Next time, I'll keep my dreams unto myſelf,
And not be check'd.

Glo. Nay, be not angry, I am pleas'd again.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. My lord protector, 'tis his highneſs' pleaſure,
You do prepare to ride unto Saint Alban's,
Whereas the king and queen do mean to hawk.

Glo. I go.—Come, Nell, thou wilt ride with us too?

Dut. Yes, my good lord, I'll follow preſently.—

[Exeunt Glo. and Meſ.

Follow I muſt, I cannot go before,
While Gloſter bears this baſe and humble mind.
Were I a man, a duke, and next of blood,
I would remove theſe tedious ſtumbling-blocks,
And ſmooth my way upon their headleſs necks:
And, being a woman, I will not be ſlack
To play my part in fortune's pageant.
Where are you there? Sir John! nay, fear not, man,
We are alone; here's none but thee, and I.

Enter HUME.

Hum. Jesu preserve your royal majesty!

Duk. My majesty! why, man, I am but grace.

Hum. But, by the grace of God, and Hume's advice,
Your grace's title shall be multiply'd.

Duk. What say'st thou, man? hast thou as yet confer'd
With Margery Jourdain, the cunning witch;
With Roger Bolingbrook, the conjurer?
And will they undertake to do me good?

Hum. This they have promised,—to shew your highness
A spirit rais'd from depth of under ground,
That shall make answer to such questions,
As by your grace shall be propounded him.

Duk. It is enough, I'll think upon the questions:
When from Saint Alban's we do make return,
We'll see those things effected to the full.
Here, Hume, take this ╪ reward; make merry, man,
With thy confederates in this weighty cause.

[Exit Dutchess.

Hum. Hume must make merry with the dutchess' gold;
Marry, and shall. But, how now, sir John Hume?
Seal up your lips, and give no words but—mum;
The business asketh silent secresy.
Dame Eleanor gives gold, to bring the witch:
Gold cannot come amiss, were she a devil.
Yet have I gold, flies from another coast:
I dare not say, from the rich cardinal,
And from the great and new-made duke of Suffolk;
Yet I do find it so: for, to be plain,
They, knowing dame Eleanor's aspiring humour,
Have hired me to undermine the dutchess,
And buz these conjurations in her brain.

They ſay, A crafty knave does need no broker;
Yet am I Suffolk and the cardinal's broker:
Hume, if you take not heed, you ſhall go near
To call them both — a pair of crafty knaves.
Well, ſo it ſtands: And thus, I fear, at laſt,
Hume's knavery will be the dutcheſs' wreck;
And her attainture will be Humphrey's fall:
Sort how it will, I ſhall have gold for all. [Exit.

SCENE III. The ſame. A Room in the Palace.

Enter PETER, and Others, with Petitions.

1 P. My maſters, let's ſtand cloſe; my lord protector will come this way by and by, and then we may deliver our ſupplications in the quill.

2 P. Marry, the Lord protect him, for he's a good man! Jeſu bleſs him!

Enter SUFFOLK, and Queen.

PET. Here 'a comes, methinks, and the queen with him: I'll be the firſt, ſure.

2 P. Come back, fool; this is the duke of Suffolk, and not my lord protector.

SUF. How now, fellow? would'ſt any thing with me?

1 P. I pray, my lord, pardon me! I took ye for my lord protector.

Que. For my lord protector! are your ſupplications to his lordſhip? Let me ſee them: What is thine?

1 P. Mine is, an't please your grace, againſt John Goodman, my lord cardinal's man, for keeping my houſe, and lands, and wife and all, from me.

SUF. Thy wife too? that is ſome wrong, indeed. — What's yours? — [taking another.] What's here! [reads.]

25 Queene. To my

Againſt the duke of Suffolk, for enclosing the commons of Melford. — How now, ſir knave?

2 P. Alas, ſir, I am but a poor petitioner of our whole townſhip.

PET. [giving his Petition.] Againſt my maſter, Thomas Horner, for ſaying, That the duke of York was rightful heir to the crown.

Que. What ſay'ſt thou? Did the duke of York ſay, he was rightful heir to the crown?

PET. That my miſtreſs was? No, forſooth: my maſter ſaid, That he was; and that the king was an usurper.

Suf. Who is there? — [Enter Servants.] Take this fellow in, and ſend for his maſter with a purſuivant presently: — we'll hear more of your matter before the king. [Exeunt Servants, with PETER.

Que. And as for you, that love to be protected
Under the wings of our protector's grace,
Begin your ſuits anew, and ſue to him.
[tears the Petitions.
Away, baſe cullions! — Suffolk, let them go.

1 P. Come, let's be gone. [Exeunt Petitioners.

Que. My lord of Suffolk, ſay, is this the guiſe,
Is this the faſhion in the court of England?
Is this the government of Britain's isle,
And this the royalty of Albion's king?
What, ſhall king Henry be a pupil ſtill,
Under the ſurly Gloſter's governance?
Am I a queen in title and in ſtyle,
And muſt be made a ſubject to a duke?
I tell thee, Pole, when in the city Tours
Thou ran'ſt a tilt in honour of my love,
And ſtol'ſt away the ladies' hearts of France;

I thought, king Henry had resembl'd thee,
In courage, courtſhip, and proportion:
But all his mind is bent to holineſs,
To number Ave-Maries on his beads:
His champions are — the prophets, and apoſtles;
His weapons, holy ſaws of ſacred writ;
His ſtudy is his tilt-yard, and his loves
Are brazen images of canoniz'd ſaints.
I would, the colledge of the cardinals
Would choose him pope, and carry him to Rome,
And ſet the triple crown upon his head;
That were a ſtate fit for his holineſs.

Suf. Madam, be patient: as I was cause
Your highneſs came to England, ſo will I
In England work your grace's full content.

Que. Beſide the haught protector, have we Beaufort,
The imperious churchman; Somerſet, Buckingham,
And grumbling York: and not the leaſt of these,
But can do more in England than the king.

Suf. And he of these, that can do moſt of all,
Cannot do more in England than the Nevils:
Salisbury, and Warwick, are no ſimple peers.

Que. Not all these lords do vex me half ſo much,
As that proud dame, the lord protector's wife.
She ſweeps it through the court with troops of ladies,
More like an empreſs, than duke Humphrey's wife;
Strangers in court do take her for the queen:
She bears a duke's revenues on her back,
And in her heart ſhe ſcorns our poverty:
Shall I not live to be aveng'd on her?
Contemptuous baſe-born callot as ſhe is,
She vaunted 'mongſt her minions t'other day,

The very train of her worſt wearing-gown
Was better worth than all my father's lands,
'Till Suffolk gave two dukedoms for his daughter.
Suf. Madam, myſelf have lim'd a buſh for her;
And plac'd a quire of ſuch enticing birds,
That ſhe will light to liſten to their lays,
And never mount to trouble you again.
So, let her reſt: And, madam, liſt to me;
For I am bold to counſel you in this.
Although we fancy not the cardinal,
Yet muſt we join with him, and with the lords,
'Till we have brought duke Humphrey in diſgrace:
As for the duke of York,— this late complaint
Will make but little for his benefit:
So, one by one, we'll weed them all at laſt,
And you yourſelf ſhall ſteer the happy helm.

Enter King Henry; York, and Somerset, talking with him; Duke of Gloster, and Dutcheſs, Cardinal Beaufort, Buckingham, Salisbury, and Warwick.

Kin. For my part, noble lords, I care not which;
Or Somerſet, or York, all's one to me.
York. If York have ill demean'd himſelf in France,
Then let him be denay'd the regentſhip.
Som. If Somerſet be unworthy of the place,
Let York be regent, I will yield to him.
War. Whether your grace be worthy, yea, or no,
Diſpute not that; York is the worthier.
Car. Ambitious Warwick, let thy betters ſpeak.
War. The cardinal's not my better in the field.
Buc. All in this preſence are thy betters, Warwick.
War. Warwick may live to be the beſt of all.

Sal. Peace, ſon;—and ſhew ſome reason, Buckingham,
Why Somerſet ſhould be prefer'd in this.
Que. Because the king, forſooth, will have it ſo.
Glo. Madam, the king is old enough himſelf
To give his cenſure: these are no women's matters.
Que. If he be old enough, what needs your grace
To be protector of his excellence?
Glo. Madam, I am protector of the realm;
And, at his pleasure, will resign my place.
Suf. Resign it then, and leave thine inſolence.
Since thou wert king, (as who is king, but thou?)
The commonwealth hath daily run to wreck:
The dauphin hath prevail'd beyond the ſeas;
And all the peers and nobles of the realm
Have been as bondmen to thy ſovereignty. [bags,
Car. The commons haſt thou rack'd; the clergy's
Are lank and lean with thy extortions.
Som. Thy ſumptuous buildings, and thy wife's attire,
Have coſt a maſs of publick treasury.
Buc. Thy cruelty in execution,
Upon offenders, hath exceeded law,
And left thee to the mercy of the law.
Que. Thy ſale of offices, and towns in France,—
If they were known, as the ſuſpect is great,—
Would make thee quickly hop without thy head.
[Exit Gloster.
Give me my fan; What, minion, can you not?
[gives the Dutcheſs a Box on the Ear.
I cry you mercy, madam; Was it you?
Dut. Was't I? yea, I it was, proud Frenchwoman:
Could I come near your beauty with my nails,
I'd ſet my ten commandments in your face.

Kin. Sweet aunt, be quiet; 'twas againſt her will.
Dut. Againſt her will, good king? look to't in time;
She'll hamper thee, and dandle thee like a baby:
Though in this place moſt maſter wears no breeches,
She ſhall not ſtrike dame Eleanor unreveng'd.
[Exit Dutcheſs.

Buc. "Lord cardinal, I will follow Eleanor;"
"And liſten after Humphrey, how he proceeds:"
"She's tickl'd now; her fume can need no ſpurs,"
"She'll gallop faſt enough to her deſtruction."
[Exit BUCKINGHAM.

Re-enter GLOSTER.

Glo. Now, lords, my choler being over-blown
With walking once about the quadrangle,
I come to talk of commonwealth affairs.
As for your ſpiteful falſe objections,
Prove them, and I lye open to the law:
But God in mercy ſo deal with my ſoul,
As I in duty love my king and country!
But, to the matter that we have in hand:—
I ſay, my ſovereign, York is meeteſt man
To be your regent in the realm of France.
Suf. Before we make election, give me leave
To ſhew ſome reaſon, of no little force,
That York is moſt unmeet of any man.
Yor. I'll tell thee, Suffolk, why I am unmeet.
Firſt, for I cannot flatter thee in pride:
Next, if I be appointed for the place,
My lord of Somerſet will keep me here,
Without diſcharge, money, or furniture,
'Till France be won into the dauphin's hands:
Laſt time, I danc'd attendance on his will,

'Till Paris was beſieg'd, famiſh'd, and loſt.

War. That can I witneſs; and a fouler fact
Did never traitor in the land commit.

Suf. Peace, head-ſtrong Warwick!

War. Image of pride, why ſhould I hold my peace?

Enter Servants of Suffolk, bringing in the Armorer, and his Man.

Suf. Because here is a man accus'd of treaſon:
Pray God, the duke of York excuſe himſelf.

York. Doth any one accuſe York for a traitor? [theſe?

Kin. What mean'ſt thou, Suffolk; tell me? What are

Suf. Please it your majeſty, this is the man
That doth accuſe his maſter of high treaſon:
His words were theſe; — that Richard, duke of York,
Was rightful heir unto the Engliſh crown;
And that your majeſty was an uſurper.

Kin. Say, man, were theſe thy words?

Arm. An't ſhall please your majeſty, I never ſaid nor thought any ſuch matter: God is my witneſs, I am falſely accus'd by the villain.

Pet. By theſe ten bones, my lords, he did ſpeak them to me in the garret one night, as we were ſcouring my lord of York's armour.

York. Baſe dunghil villain, and mechanical,
I'll have thy head for this thy traitor's ſpeech: —
I do beſeech your royal majeſty,
Let him have all the rigour of the law.

Arm. Alas, my lord, hang me, if ever I ſpake the words. My accuſer is my prentice; and when I did correct him for his fault the other day, he did vow upon his knees he would be even with me: I have good witneſs of this; therefore, I beſeech your majeſty, do not caſt away an honeſt man for a villain's accusation.

Kin. Uncle, what ſhall we ſay to this in law?

Glo. This do, my lord, if I may be the judge.
Let Somerſet be regent o'er the French,
Because in York this breeds ſuſpicion:
And let these have a day appointed them
For ſingle combat, in convenient place;
For he hath witneſs of his ſervant's malice:
This is the law, and this duke Humphrey's doom.

Som. I humbly thank your royal majeſty.

Arm. And I accept the combat willingly.

Pet. Alas, my lord, I cannot fight; for God's ſake, pity my caſe! the ſight of my maſter prevaileth againſt me. O, Lord have mercy upon me! I ſhall never be able to fight a blow: O Lord, my heart!

Glo. Sirrah, or you muſt fight, or elſe be hang'd.

Kin. Away with them to prison: and the day
Of combat ſhall be the laſt of the next month. —
Come, Somerſet, we'll ſee thee ſent away. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. The ſame. Gloſter's Garden.

A Table ſet out, and Things proper for the Incantation.

Enter Hume, Bolingbrook, Southwel, and Mother Jourdain.

Hum. Come, my maſters; the dutcheſs, I tell you, expects performance of your promises.

Bol. Maſter Hume, we are therefore provided: Will her ladyſhip behold and hear our exorcisms?

Hum. Ay; What elſe? fear you not her courage.

Bol. I have heard her reported to be a woman of an invincible ſpirit: But it ſhall be convenient, maſter Hume, that you be by her aloft, while be busy below;

3 doome, my 13 the ſpight of my man pre-

and ſo, I pray you, go in God's name, and leave us.—
[Exit Hume.
Mother Jourdain, be you proſtrate, and grovel on the earth:—John Southwel, read you; and let us to our work.

Enter Dutcheſs, at a Window, above.

Dut. Well ſaid, my maſters; and welcome all. Come, to this geer; the ſooner the better.

Bol. Patience, good lady; wizards know their times:
Deep night, dark night, the ſilent of the night,
The time of night when Troy was ſet on fire;
The time when ſcritch-owls cry, and ban dogs howl,
And ſpirits walk, and ghoſts break up their graves,
That time beſt fits the work we have in hand.
Madam, ſit you, and fear not; whom we raise,
We will make faſt within a hallow'd verge.

Here they do the Ceremonies belonging, and make the Circle: Bolingbrook, or Southwel, reads, Conjuro te, &c. It thunders and lightens terribly; then the Spirit riseth.

Spi. Adſum.

Jou. Asmath,
By the eternal God, whose name and power
Thou trembl'ſt at, anſwer that I ſhall aſk;
For, 'till thou ſpeak, thou ſhalt not paſs from hence.

Spi. Aſk what thou wilt:—That I had ſaid and done!

Bol. Firſt, of the king; [reading out of a Paper.] What ſhall become of him?

Spi. The duke yet lives, that Henry ſhall depose;
But him out-live, and die a violent death.
[Southwel writes the Anſwer.

Bol. What fate awaits the duke of Suffolk?

Spi. By Water ſhall he die, and take his end.

Bol. What ſhall befal the duke of Somerſet?
Spi. Let him ſhun caſtles;
Safer ſhall he be on ſand,
Than where caſtles mounted ſtand.
Have done, for more I hardly can endure.
Bol. Deſcend to darkneſs, and the burning lake;
Falſe fiend, avoid! [Thunder. Spirit deſcends.

A Noiſe of breaking in.

Enter York, and Buckingham, haſtily; Guard, and Others, with them.

Yor. Lay hands upon these traitors, and their traſh.—
Beldame, I think, we watch'd you to an inch.—
What, madam, are you there? the king and commonweal
Are deep indebted for this piece of pains;
My lord protector will, I doubt it not,
See you well guerdon'd for these good deserts.
Dut. Not half ſo bad as thine to England's king,
Injurious duke; that threat'ſt where is no cause.
Buc. True, madam, none at all. What call you this?
[ſhewing her the Papers.
Away with them; let them be clap'd up cloſe,
And kept aſunder:—You, madam, ſhall with us;—
Stafford, take her to thee. [Exeunt ſome to the Dut.
We'll ſee your trinkets here forth-coming all;
Away. [Exeunt others, with Bol. Sou. &c.
Yor. Lord Buckingham, methinks, you watch'd her well:
A pretty plot, well chose to build upon!
Now, pray, my lord, let's ſee the devil's writ.
What have we here? [taking the Papers, and reading,
The duke yet lives, that Henry ſhall depoſe;
But him out-live, and die a violent death.
Why, this is juſt,—

3 v. Note. 14 deeply in- 27 choſen

Aio te, Æacida, Romanos vincere posse.
Well, to the rest:
M. What fate awaits the duke of Suffolk?
A. By Water shall he die, and take his end.
M. What shall befal the duke of Somerset?
A. Let him shun castles;
Safer shall he be on sand,
Than where castles mounted stand.
Come, come away, my lords: these oracles
Are hardily attain'd, and hardly understood.
The king is now in progress towards Saint Alban's;
With him, the husband of this lovely lady:
Thither go these news, as fast as horse can carry them;
A sorry breakfast for my lord protector.
Buc. Your grace shall give me leave, my lord of York,
To be the post, in hope of his reward.
York. At your pleasure, my good lord.—Who's within there, ho!

Enter a Servant.

Invite my lords of Salisbury, and Warwick,
To sup with me to-morrow night—Away. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE I. Saint Alban's. Entrance of the Town.
Enter King, Queen, GLOSTER, Cardinal, and SUFFOLK; with Attendants, and Falconers, hallooing.

Que. Believe me, lords, for flying at the brook,
I saw not better sport these seven years' day:
Yet, by your leave, the wind was very high;
And, ten to one, old Joan had not gone out.

10 are hardly att-

Kin. But what a point, my lord, your falcon made,
And what a pitch she flew above the rest! —
To see how God in all his creatures works!
Yea, man and birds, are fain of climbing high.

Suf. No marvel, an it like your majesty,
My lord protector's hawks do tower so well;
They know, their master loves to be aloft,
And bears his thoughts above his falcon's pitch.

Glo. My lord, 'tis but a base ignoble mind,
That mounts no higher than a bird can soar.

Car. I thought as much, he'd be above the clouds.

Glo. Ay, my lord cardinal; How think you by that?
Were it not good, your grace could fly to heaven?

Kin. The treasury of everlasting joy!

Car. Thy heaven is on earth; thine eyes and thoughts
Beat on a crown, the treasure of thy heart;
Pernicious protector, dangerous peer,
That smooth'st it so with king and common-weal.

Glo. What, cardinal, is your priesthood grown so peremptory?
Tantæne animis cœlestibus iræ? churchmen so hot?
Good uncle, hide such malice; With such holiness,
Can you not do it?

Suf. No malice, sir; no more than well becomes
So good a quarrel, and so bad a peer.

Glo. As who, my lord?

Suf. Why, as yourself, my lord;
An't like your lordly lord-protectorship.

Glo. Why, Suffolk, England knows thine insolence.

Que. And thy ambition, Gloster.

Kin. I pr'ythee, peace, good queen;
And whet not on these too too furious peers,

For bleſſed are the peace-makers on earth.

Car. Let me be bleſſed for the peace I make,
Againſt this proud protector, with my ſword.

Glo. 'Faith, holy uncle, 'would 'twere come to that.

Car. Marry, when thou dar'ſt.

Glo. Make up no factious numbers for the matter,
In thine own perſon anſwer thy abuſe. [dar'ſt,"

Car. Ay, where thou dar'ſt not peep: "an if thou
"This evening, on the eaſt ſide of the grove."

Kin. How now, my lords?

Car. Believe me, cousin Gloſter,
Had not your man put up the fowl ſo ſuddenly, [ſword."
We had had more ſport. "Come with thy two-hand

Glo. True, uncle, Are ye avis'd? "The eaſt ſide of
"Cardinal, I am with you." [the grove?"

Kin. Why, how now, uncle Gloſter?

Glo. Talking of hawking; nothing elſe, my lord.—
"Now, by God's mother, prieſt, I'll ſhave your crown
"Or all my fence ſhall fail." [for this,"

Car. "Medice teipſum;"
"Protector, ſee to't well, protect yourſelf." [lords.

Kin. The winds grow high; ſo do your ſtomacks,
How irkſome is this muſick to my heart!
When ſuch ſtrings jar, what hope of harmony?
I pray, my lords, let me compound this ſtrife.

Enter One of the Town, crying out,
A miracle!

Glo. What means this noise?—Fellow, what miracle
Doſt thou proclaim?

Town. A miracle, a miracle!

Suf. Come to the king, tell him what miracle.

Town. Forſooth, a blind man at ſaint Alban's ſhrine,

Within this half hour, hath receiv'd his sight;
A man, that ne'er saw in his life before.

Kin. Now God be prais'd! that to believing souls
Gives light in darkness, comfort in despair.

Enter a great Multitude, bearing SIMPCOX between two in a Chair, his Wife with him; the Mayor of Saint Alban's, and his Brethren, following in Procession.

Car. Here are the townsmen on procession,
Come to present your highness with the man.

Kin. Great is his comfort in this earthly vale,
Though by his sight his sin be multiply'd.

Glo. Stand by, my masters, bring him near the king,
His highness' pleasure is to talk with him.

Kin. Good fellow, tell us here the circumstance,
That we for thee may glorify the Lord.
What, hast thou been long blind, and now restor'd?

Sim. Born blind, an't please your grace.

Wif. Ay, indeed, was he.

Suf. What woman is this?

Wif. His wife, an't like your worship. [better told.

Glo. Had'st thou been his mother, thou could'st have

Kin. Where wert thou born?

Sim. At Berwick in the north, an't like your grace.

Kin. Poor soul! God's goodness hath been great to thee:
Let never day nor night unhallow'd pass,
But still remember what the Lord hath done.

Que. Tell me, good fellow, cam'st thou here by chance,
Or of devotion, to this holy shrine?

Sim. God knows, of pure devotion; being call'd
A hundred times, and oftner, in my sleep
By good saint Alban: who said,—Saunder, come;

9 Here comes the 12 Although 32 Symon,

Come, offer at my ſhrine, and I will help thee.

Wif. Moſt true, forſooth; and many time and oft
Myſelf have heard a voice to call him ſo.

Car. What, art thou lame?

Sim. Ay, God almighty help me!

Suf. How cam'ſt thou ſo?

Sim. A fall off of a tree.

Wif. A plum-tree, maſter.

Glo. How long haſt thou been blind?

Sim. O, born ſo, maſter.

Glo. What, and would'ſt climb a tree?

Sim. But that in all my life, when I was a youth.

Wif. Too true; and bought his climbing very dear.

Glo. Maſs, thou lov'dſt plums well, that would'ſt venture ſo.

Sim. Alas, good maſter, my wife deſir'd ſome damſons,
And made me climb, with danger of my life.

Glo. A ſubtle knave; but yet it ſhall not ſerve. —
Let me ſee thine eyes: wink now; now open them:
In my opinion, yet thou ſee'ſt not well. [ſaint Alban.

Sim. Yes, maſter, clear as day; I thank God, and

Glo. Say'ſt thou me ſo? What colour is this cloak of?

Sim. Red, maſter; red as blood.

Glo. Why, that's well ſaid:
What colour is my gown of?

Sim. Black, forſooth;
Coal-black as jet.

Kin. Why then, thou know'ſt what colour jet is of?

Suf. And yet, I think, jet did he never ſee.

Glo. But cloaks, and gowns, before this day, a many.

Wif. Never, before this day, in all his life.

Glo. Tell me, ſirrah, what's my name?

Sim. Alas, maſter, I know not.
Glo. What's his † name?
Sim. I know not.
Glo. Nor † his?
Sim. No, indeed, maſter.
Glo. What's thine own name?
Sim. Saunder Simpcox, an if it please you, maſter.
Glo. Then, Saunder, ſit thou there, the lying'ſt knave
In chriſtendom. If thou hadſt been born blind,
Thou might'ſt as well know all our names, as thus
To name the ſeveral colours we do wear.
Sight may diſtinguiſh colours; but ſuddenly
To nominate them all, it is impoſſible.—
My lords, ſaint Alban here hath done a miracle;
Would ye not think his cunning to be great,
That could reſtore this cripple to his legs again?
Sim. O, maſter, that you could!
Glo. My maſters of Saint Alban's,
Have you not beadles in your town, and things
Call'd whips?
May. Yes, my good lord, if't please your grace.
Glo. Then ſend for one presently.
May. Sirrah, go fetch the beadle hither ſtraight.
[Exit an Attendant.
Glo. Now fetch me a ſtool hither by and by.—
Now, ſirrah, [Stool ſet out.
If you do mean to ſave yourſelf from whipping,
Leap me over this ſtool, and run away.
Sim. Alas, maſter, I am not able to ſtand alone:
You go about to torture me in vain.
Re-enter Attendant, with the Beadle.
Glo. Well, ſir, we muſt have you find your legs.—

10 well have knowne all 15 And would

Sirrah beadle, whip him 'till he leap over that ſame ſtool.

Bea. I will, my lord.—Come on, ſirrah; off with your doublet quickly.

Sim. Alas, maſter, what ſhall I do? I am not able to ſtand. [He is taken out of his Chair, and ſtript: and after the Beadle hath hit him once, he leaps over the Stool, and runs away; and the People follow, and cry—A Miracle!

Kin. O God, ſeeſt thou this, and bear'ſt ſo long?

Que. It made me laugh, to ſee the villain run.

Glo. Follow the knave; and take this drab away.

Wif. Alas, ſir, we did it for pure need.

Glo. Let them be whipt through every market town, 'Till they do come to Berwick, whence they came.

[Exeunt Wife, Beadle, Mayor, &c.

Car. Duke Humphrey has done a miracle to-day.

Suf. True; made the lame to leap, and fly away.

Glo. But you have done more miracles than I; You, in a day, my lord, made whole towns fly.

Enter Buckingham.

Kin. What tidings with our cousin Buckingham?

Buc. Such as my heart doth tremble to unfold. A ſort of naughty perſons, lewdly bent,— Under the countenance and confederacy Of lady Eleanor, the protector's wife, The ring-leader and head of all this rout,— Have practic'd dang'rouſly againſt your ſtate, Dealing with witches, and with conjurers: Whom we have apprehended in the fact; Raising up wicked ſpirits from under ground, Demanding of king Henry's life and death, And other of your highneſs' privy council, 14 Barwick, from whence 19 v. Note.

As more at large your grace shall understand.

Car. And so, my lord protector, by this means
Your lady is forth-coming yet at London.
" This news, I think; hath turn'd your weapon's edge;"
" 'Tis like, my lord, you will not keep your hour."

Glo. Ambitious churchman, leave to afflict my heart:
Sorrow and grief have vanquish'd all my powers;
And, vanquish'd as I am, I yield to thee,
Or to the meanest groom.

Kin. O God, what mischiefs work the wicked ones;
Heaping confusion on their own heads thereby!

Que. Gloster, see here the tainture of thy nest;
And, look, thyself be faultless, thou wert best.

Glo. Madam, for myself, to heaven I do appeal,
How I have lov'd my king, and common-weal:
And, for my wife, I know not how it stands;
Sorry I am to hear what I have heard:
Noble she is; but, if she have forgot
Honour, and virtue, and convers'd with such
As, like to pitch, defile nobility,
I banish her my bed, and company;
And give her, as a prey, to law, and shame,
That hath dishonour'd Gloster's honest name.

Kin. Well, for this night, we will repose us here:
To-morrow, toward London, back again,
To look into this business thoroughly,
And call these foul offenders to their answers;
And poise the cause in justice' equal scales,
Whose beam stands sure, whose rightful cause prevails.

SCENE II. London. Duke of York's Garden.
Enter York, Salisbury, and Warwick.

York. Now, my good lords of Salisbury and Warwick,
Our ſimple ſupper ended, give me leave,
In this cloſe walk, to ſatiſfy myſelf,
In craving your opinion of my title,
Which is infallible, to England's crown.

Sal. My lord, I long to hear it at the full.

War. Sweet York, begin: and, if thy claim be good,
The Nevils are thy ſubjects to command.

York. Then thus:—
Edward the third, my lords, had ſeven ſons:
The firſt, Edward the black prince, prince of Wales;
The ſecond, William of Hatfield; and the third,
Lionel, duke of Clarence; next to whom,
Was John of Gaunt, the duke of Lancaſter:
The fifth, was Edmond Langley, duke of York;
The ſixth, was Thomas of Woodſtock, duke of Gloſter;
William of Windſor was the ſeventh, and laſt.
Edward, the black prince, dy'd before his father;
And left behind him Richard, his only ſon,
Who, after Edward the third's death, reign'd king:
'Till Henry Bolingbrook, duke of Lancaſter,
The eldeſt ſon and heir of John of Gaunt,
Crown'd by the name of Henry the fourth,
Seiz'd on the realm; depos'd the rightful king;
Sent his poor queen to France, from whence ſhe came,
And him to Pomfret; where, as you both know,
Harmleſs king Richard trait'rouſly was murther'd.

War. Father, the duke hath ſurely told the truth;
Thus got the houſe of Lancaſter the crown.

York. Which now they hold by force, and not by right;
For Richard, the firſt ſon's heir, being dead,
The iſſue of the next ſon ſhould have reign'd.

27 was murthered traiterouſly

Sal. But William of Hatfield dy'd without an heir.
Yor. The third ſon, duke of Clarence, (from whose
I claim the crown) had iſſue—Philippe, a daughter; [line
Who marry'd Edmond Mortimer, earl of March:
Edmond had iſſue—Roger, earl of March;
Roger had iſſue—Edmond, Anne, and Eleanor.
Sal. This Edmond, in the reign of Bolingbrook,
As I have read, lay'd claim unto the crown;
And, but for Owen Glendower, had been king,
Who kept him in captivity, 'till he dy'd.
But, to the reſt.
Yor. His eldeſt ſiſter, Anne,
My mother, being heir unto the crown,
Marry'd Richard, earl of Cambridge; who was ſon
To Edmond Langley, Edward the third's fifth ſon.
By her I claim the kingdom: ſhe then was heir
To Roger, earl of March; who was the ſon
Of Edmond Mortimer; who marry'd Philippe,
Sole daughter unto Lionel, duke of Clarence:
So, if the iſſue of the elder ſon
Succeed before the younger, I am king.
War. What plain proceeding is more plain than this?
Henry doth claim the crown from John of Gaunt,
The fourth ſon; but York claims it from the third.
'Till Lionel's iſſue fails, his ſhould not reign:
It fails not yet; but flouriſhes in thee,
And in thy ſons, fair ſlips of ſuch a ſtock.—
Then, father Salisbury, kneel we both together;
And, in this private plot, be we the firſt,
That ſhall ſalute our rightful ſovereign
With honour of his birth-right to the crown.
both. Long live our ſovereign Richard, England's king!

Yor. We thank you, lords. But I am not your king,
'Till I be crown'd; and that my ſword be ſtain'd
With heart-blood of the houſe of Lancaſter:
And that's not ſuddenly to be perform'd;
But with advice, and ſilent ſecrecy.
Do you, as I do, in these dangerous days;
Wink at the duke of Suffolk's inſolence,
At Beaufort's pride, at Somerſet's ambition,
At Buckingham, and all the crew of them,
'Till they have ſnar'd the ſhepherd of the flock,
That virtuous prince, the good duke Humphrey:
'Tis that they ſeek; and they, in ſeeking that,
Shall find their deaths, if York can propheſy.

Sal. My lord, break off; we know your mind at full.

War. My heart aſſures me, that the earl of Warwick
Shall one day make the duke of York a king.

Yor. And, Nevil, this I do aſſure myſelf,—
Richard ſhall live to make the earl of Warwick
The greateſt man in England, but the king. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. The ſame. A Hall of Juſtice.

Trumpets. Enter King Henry, and Queen, Duke of Gloſter, York, Suffolk, Salisbury, and divers Others: then, Enter Officers, &c. bringing in the Dutcheſs of Gloſter, Hume, Southwel, Bolingbrook, and Mother Jourdain.

Kin. Stand forth, dame Eleanor Cobham, Gloſter's wife:
In ſight of God, and us, your guilt is great;
Receive the ſentence of the law, for ſins
Such as by God's book are adjudg'd to death.—
You four, from hence to prison back again;
From thence, unto the place of execution:
The witch in Smithfield ſhall be burnt to aſhes,

24 breake we off 28 ſinne,

And you three shall be strangl'd on the gallows. —
You, madam, for you are more nobly born,
Despoiled of your honour in your life,
Shall, after three days' open penance done,
Live in your country here, in banishment,
With sir John Stanley, in the isle of Man. [death.

Dut. Welcome is banishment, welcome were my

Glo. Eleanor, the law, thou see'st, hath judged thee;
I cannot justify whom the law condemns. —

[Exeunt Officers, with Dutchess, and the other Prisoners.

Mine eyes are full of tears, my heart of grief.
Ah, Humphrey, this dishonour in thine age
Will bring thy head with sorrow to the ground! —
'Beseech your majesty, give me leave to go;
Sorrow would solace, and mine age would ease.

Kin. Stay, Humphrey duke of Gloster: ere thou go,
Give up thy staff; Henry will to himself
Protector be; and God shall be my hope,
My stay, my guide, and lanthorn to my feet:
And go in peace, Humphrey; no less belov'd,
Than when thou wert protector to thy king.

Que. I see no reason, why a king of years
Should be to be protected like a child: —
Give up your staff, sir, and the king his realm.

Glo. My staff? — here, noble Henry, is my staff:
As willingly do I the same resign,
As e'er thy father Henry made it mine;
And even as willingly at thy † feet I leave it,
As others would ambitiously receive it.
Farewel, good king: When I am dead and gone,
May honourable peace attend thy throne! [Exit.

Que. Why, now is Henry king, and Margaret queen;

14 I beseech 24 v. Note.

And Humphrey, duke of Gloſter, ſcarce himſelf,
That bears ſo ſhrewd a maim; two pulls at once,—
His lady baniſh'd, and a limb lopt off,
This ſtaff of honour raught:—There let it ſtand,
Where it beſt fits to be, in Henry's † hand.

Suf. Thus droops this lofty pine, and hangs his ſprays;
Thus Eleanor's pride dies in her youngeſt days.

Yor. Lords, let him go.—Please it your majeſty,
This is the day appointed for the combat;
And ready are the appellant and defendant,
The armourer and his man, to enter the liſts,
So please your highneſs to behold the fight.

Que. Ay, good my lord; for purposely therefore
Left I the court, to ſee this quarrel try'd.

Kin. O'God's name, ſee the liſts and all things fit;
Here let them end it, And God defend the right!

Yor. I never ſaw a fellow worſe beſted,
Or more afraid to fight, than is the appellant,
The ſervant of this armourer, my lords.

Drums. Enter, on one Side, the Armourer, and certain of his Neighbours, drinking to him ſo much, that he is drunk; and he enters bearing his Staff, with a Sand bag faſten'd to it; Drum before him: On the other Side, Enter his Man, and Prentices drinking to him; bearing a like Staff; Drum likewiſe before him.

1 N. Here, neighbour Horner, I drink to you in a cup of ſack; And fear not, neighbour, you ſhall do well enough.

2 N. And here, neighbour, here's a cup of charneco.

3 N. And here's a pot of good double-beer, neighbour: drink, and fear not your man.

Arm. Let it come, i'faith, and I'll pledge you all; And a fig for Peter!

1 P. Here, Peter, I drink to thee; and be not afraid.

2 P. Be merry, Peter, and fear not your master: fight for credit of the prentices.

Pet. I thank you all: drink, and pray for me, I pray you; for, I think, I have taken my last draught in this world — Here, † Robin, an if I die, I give thee my apron; — and, Will, thou shalt have my † hammer: — and here, Tom, take all the † money that I have. — O Lord bless me, I pray God! for I am never able to deal with my master, he hath learnt so much fence already.

Sal. Come, leave your drinking, and fall to blows. — Sirrah, what's thy name?

Pet. Peter, forsooth.

Sal. Peter! what more?

Pet. Thump.

Sal. Thump! then see thou thump thy master well.

Arm. Masters, I am come hither, as it were, upon my man's instigation, to prove him a knave, and myself an honest man: and touching the duke of York, — I will take my death, I never meant him any ill, nor the king, nor the queen; And therefore, Peter, have at thee with a down-right blow. [ble. —

York. Dispatch; — this knave's tongue begins to dou-

Sound trumpets, 'larum to the combatants.

Alarum. They fight; and Peter strikes down his Master.

Arm. Hold, Peter, hold! I confess, I confess treason.

York. Take away his weapon: — Fellow, thank God, and the good wine in thy master's way.

Pet. O God! have I overcome mine enemy in this presence? O Peter, thou haſt prevail'd in right!

Kin. Go, take away that traitor from our ſight;
For, by his death, we do perceive his guilt:
And God, in juſtice, hath reveal'd to us
The truth and innocence of this poor fellow,
Which he had thought to have murther'd wrongfully.—
Come, fellow, follow us for thy reward. [Flouriſh. Exeunt.

SCENE IV. The ſame. A Street.

Enter GLOSTER, and Servants, all in Mourning.

Glo. Thus, ſometimes, hath the brighteſt day a cloud;
And, after ſummer, evermore ſucceeds
Bare winter, with his wrathful nipping cold:
So cares and joys go round, as ſeaſons fleet.—
Sirs, what's o'clock?

Ser. Ten, my lord.

Glo. Ten is the hour that was appointed me,
To watch the coming of my puniſh'd dutcheſs:
Uneath may ſhe endure the flinty ſtreets,
To tread them with her tender feeling feet.
Sweet Nell, ill can thy noble mind abrook
The abject people, gazing on thy face,
With envious looks ſtill laughing at thy ſhame;
That erſt did follow thy proud chariot-wheels,
When thou didſt ride in triumph through the ſtreets.
But, ſoft! I think, ſhe comes; and I'll prepare,
My tear-ſtain'd eyes to ſee her miſeries.

Enter the Dutcheſs of Gloſter, bare-foot, and a white Sheet about her, with Papers pin'd upon her Back, and a Taper burning in her Hand; accompany'd with the Sheriffs of London, Sir John STANLEY, and Officers with Bills and Halberds.

2 take hence that 13 Barren 14 Joyes abound

Ser. So please your grace, we'll take her from the ſhe-riff.

GLO. No, ſtir not for your lives, let her paſs by.

Dut. Come you, my lord, to ſee my open ſhame?
Now thou doſt penance too. Look, how they gaze!
See, how the giddy multitude do point,
And nod their heads, and throw their eyes on thee!
Ah, Gloſter, hide thee from their hateful looks;
And, in thy closet pent up, rue my ſhame,
And ban thine enemies, both mine and thine.

GLO. Be patient, gentle Nell; forget this grief.

Dut. Ah, Gloſter, teach me to forget myſelf:
For, whilſt I think I am thy marry'd wife,
And thou a prince, protector of this land,
Methinks, I ſhould not thus be led along,
Mail'd up in ſhame, with papers on my back;
And follow'd with a rabble, that rejoice
To ſee my tears, and hear my deep-fet groans.
The ruthleſs flint doth cut my tender feet;
And, when I ſtart, the envious people laugh,
And bid me be advised how I tread.
Ah, Humphrey, can I bear this ſhameful yoke?
Trow'ſt thou, that e'er I'll look upon the world;
Or count them happy, that enjoy the ſun?
No; dark ſhall be my light, and night my day;
To think upon my pomp, ſhall be my hell.
Sometime I'll ſay, I am duke Humphrey's wife;
And he a prince, and ruler of the land:
Yet ſo he rul'd, and ſuch a prince he was,
As he ſtood by, whilſt I, his forlorn dutcheſs,
Was made a wonder, and a pointing-ſtock,
To every idle raſcal follower.
But be thou mild, and bluſh not at my ſhame;

Nor ſtir at nothing, 'till the axe of death
Hang over thee, as (ſure) it ſhortly will:
For Suffolk,— he that can do all in all
With her, that hateth thee, and hates us all,—
And York, and impious Beaufort that falſe prieſt,
Have all lim'd buſhes to betray thy wings,
And, fly thou how thou canſt, they'll tangle thee:
But fear not thou, until thy foot be ſnar'd,
Nor never ſeek prevention of thy foes.

Glo. Ah, Nell, forbear; thou aimeſt all awry;
I muſt offend, before I be attainted:
And had I twenty times ſo many foes,
And each of them had twenty times their power,
All these could not procure me any ſcathe,
So long as I am loyal, true, and crimeleſs.
Would'ſt have me reſcue thee from this reproach?
Why, yet thy ſcandal were not wip'd away,
And I in danger for the breach of law.
Thy greateſt help is quiet, gentle Nell:
I pray thee, ſort thy heart to patience;
This few-days' wonder will be quickly worn.

Enter a Herald.

Her. I ſummon your grace to his majeſty's parliament, holden at Bury the firſt of the next month.

Glo. And my conſent ne'er aſk'd herein before!
This is cloſe dealing.—Well, I will be there.
[Exit Herald.
My Nell, I take my leave:— and, maſter ſheriff,
Let not her penance exceed the king's commiſſion.

She. An't please your grace, here my commiſſion ſtays:
And ſir John Stanley is appointed now
To take her with him to the iſle of Man.

21 Theſe few dayes

GLO. Muſt you, ſir John, protect my lady here?
STA. So am I given in charge, may't please your grace.
GLO. Entreat her not the worſe, in that I pray
You use her well: the world may laugh again;
And I may live to do you kindneſs, if
You do it her. And ſo, ſir John, farewel.
Dut. What, gone, my lord; and bid me not farewel?
GLO. Witneſs my tears, I cannot ſtay to ſpeak.
[Exeunt GLOSTER, and Servants.
Dut. Art thou gone too? All comfort go with thee!
For none abides with me: my joy is — death;
Death, at whose name I oft have been afear'd,
Because I wiſh'd this world's eternity. —
Stanley, I pr'ythee, go, and take me hence;
I care not whither, for I beg no favour,
Only convey me where thou art commanded.
STA. Why, madam, that is to the iſle of Man;
There to be us'd according to your ſtate.
Dut. That's bad enough, for I am but reproach:
And ſhall I then be us'd reproachfully?
STA. Like to a dutcheſs, and duke Humphrey's lady,
According to that ſtate you ſhall be us'd.
Dut Sheriff, farewel, and better than I fare;
Although thou haſt been conduct of my ſhame.
She. It is my office; and, madam, pardon me.
Dut. Ay, ay, farewel; thy office is diſcharg'd. —
Come, Stanley, ſhall we go?
STA. Madam, your penance done, throw off this ſheet,
And go we to attire you for our journey.
Dut. My ſhame will not be ſhifted with my ſheet:
No, it will hang upon my richeſt robes,
And ſhew itſelf, attire me how I can.

Go, lead the way; I long to ſee my priſon. [Exeunt.

ACT III.

SCENE I. Bury. A Room in the Abbey.

Enter King Henry, and Queen, Cardinal Beaufort, York, Suffolk, Buckingham, and Others.

Kin. I muſe, my lord of Gloſter is not come:
'Tis not his wont to be the hindmoſt man,
Whate'er occaſion keeps him from us now.
Que. Can you not ſee? or will you not obſerve
The ſtrangeneſs of his alter'd countenance?
With what a majeſty he bears himſelf;
How inſolent of late he is become,
How proud, how peremptory, and unlike himſelf?
We know the time, ſince he was mild and affable;
And, if we did but glance a far-off look,
Immediately he was upon his knee,
That all the court admir'd him for ſubmiſſion:
But meet him now, and, be it in the morn,
When every one will give the time of day,
He knits his brow, and ſhews an angry eye,
And paſſeth by with ſtiff unbowed knee,
Diſdaining duty that to us belongs.
Small curs are not regarded, when they grin;
But great men tremble, when the lion roars;
And Humphrey is no little man in England.
Firſt, note, that he is near you in deſcent;
And, ſhould you fall, he is the next will mount:
Me ſeemeth then, it is no policy,—
Reſpecting what a rancorous mind he bears,

And his advantage following your deceaſe,—
That he ſhould come about your royal perſon,
Or be admitted to your highneſs' council:
By flattery hath he won the commons' hearts;
And, when he please to make commotion,
'Tis to be fear'd, they all will follow him.
Now 'tis the ſpring, and weeds are ſhallow-rooted;
Suffer them now, and they'll o'er-grow the garden,
And choak the herbs for want of husbandry.
The reverent care, I bear unto my lord,
Made me collect these dangers in the duke:
If it be fond, call it a woman's fear;
Which fear if better reasons can ſupplant,
I will ſubſcribe, and ſay—I wrong'd the duke.—
My lord of Suffolk,—Buckingham,—and York,—
Reprove my allegation, if you can;
Or elſe conclude my words effectual.

Suf. Well hath your highneſs ſeen into this duke;
And, had I firſt been put to ſpeak my mind,
I think, I ſhould have told your grace's tale.
The dutcheſs, by his ſubornation,
Upon my life, began her deviliſh practices:
Or if he were not privy to those faults,
Yet the repeating of his high deſcent,
As—next the king, he was ſucceſſive heir,
And ſuch high vaunts of his nobility,
Did inſtigate the bedlam brain-ſick dutcheſs,
By wicked means to frame our ſovereign's fall.
Smooth runs the water, where the brook is deepeſt;
And in his ſimple ſhew he harbours treason.
The fox barks not, when he would ſteal the lamb.
No, no, my ſovereign; Gloſter is a man

24 Yet by reputing

Unfounded yet, and full of deep deceit.
Car. Did he not, contrary to form of law,
Devise ſtrange deaths for ſmall offences done?
York. And did he not, in his protectorſhip,
Levy great ſums of money through the realm,
For ſoldiers' pay in France, and never ſent it?
By means whereof, the towns each day revolted.
Buc. Tut! these are petty faults to faults unknown,
Which time will bring to light in ſmooth duke Humphrey.
Kin. My lords, at once; the care you have of us,
To mow down thorns that would annoy our foot,
Is worthy praise: But ſhall I ſpeak my conſcience?
Our kinsman Gloſter is as innocent
From meaning treason to our royal perſon,
As is the ſucking lamb, or harmleſs dove:
The duke is virtuous, mild; and too well given,
To dream on evil, or to work my downfal. [ance!
Que. Ah, what's more dangerous than this fond affi-
Seems he a dove? his feathers are but borrow'd,
For he's diſposed as the hateful raven:
Is he a lamb? his ſkin is ſurely lent him,
For he's inclin'd as is the ravenous wolf.
Who cannot ſteal a ſhape, that means deceit?
Take heed, my lord; the welfare of us all
Hangs on the cutting ſhort that fraudful man.

Enter SOMERSET.

Som. All health unto my gracious ſovereign!
Kin. Welcome, lord Somerſet. What news from France?
Som. That all your intereſt in those territories
Is utterly bereft you; all is loſt. [done!
Kin. Cold news, lord Somerſet: But God's will be York. "Cold news for me; for I had hope of France,"

22 Wolves

" As firmly as I hope for fertile England."
" Thus are my bloſſoms blaſted in the bud,"
" And caterpillars eat my leaves away :"
" But I will remedy this geer ere long,"
" Or ſell my title for a glorious grave."

Enter GLOSTER.

Glo. All happineſs unto my lord the king!
Pardon, my liege, that I have ſtay'd ſo long.

Suf. Nay, Gloſter, know, that thou art come too ſoon,
Unleſs thou wert more loyal than thou art:
I do arreſt thee of high treason here.

Glo. Well, Suffolk, yet thou ſhalt not ſee me bluſh,
Nor change my countenance for this arreſt;
A heart unſpotted is not easily daunted.
The pureſt ſpring is not ſo free from mud,
As I am clear from treason to my ſovereign:
Who can accuse me? wherein am I guilty? [France,

York. 'Tis thought, my lord, that you took bribes of
And, being protector, ſtay'd the ſoldiers' pay; [it?
By means whereof, his highneſs hath loſt France.

Glo. Is it but thought ſo? What are they, that think
I never rob'd the ſoldiers of their pay,
Nor ever had one penny bribe from France.
So help me God, as I have watch'd the night,—
Ay, night by night,—in ſtudying good for England!
That doit that e'er I wreſted from the king,
Or any groat I hoarded to my uſe,
Be brought againſt me at my trial day!
No; many a pound of mine own proper ſtore,
Because I would not tax the needy commons,
Have I diſpurſed to the garriſons,
And never aſk'd for reſtitution.

Car. It ſerves you well, my lord, to ſay ſo much.
Glo. I ſay no more than truth, ſo help me God!
York. In your protectorſhip, you did devise
Strange tortures for offenders, never heard of,
That England was defam'd by tyranny. [tector,
Glo. Why, 'tis well known, that, whilſt I was pro-
Pity was all the fault that was in me;
For I ſhould melt at an offender's tears,
And lowly words were ranſom for their fault.
Unleſs it were a bloody murtherer,
Or foul felonious thief, that fleec'd poor paſſengers,
I never gave them condign puniſhment:
Murther, indeed, that bloody ſin, I tortur'd
Above the felon, or what treſpaſs elſe.
Suf. My lord, these faults are easy, quickly anſwer'd:
But mightier crimes are lay'd unto your charge,
Whereof you cannot easily purge yourſelf,
I do arreſt you in his highneſs' name;
And here commit to my lord cardinal
To keep, until your further time of trial.
King. My lord of Gloſter, 'tis my ſpecial hope,
That you will clear yourſelf from all ſuſpect;
My conſcience tells me, you are innocent.
Glo. Ah, gracious lord, these days are dangerous!
Virtue is choak'd with foul ambition,
And charity chac'd hence by rancor's hand;
Foul ſubornation is predominant,
And equity exil'd your highneſs' land.
I know, their complot is to have my life;
And, if my death might make this iſland happy,
And prove the period of their tyranny,
I would expend it with all willingneſs:

19 commit you to 22 ſuſpence,

But mine is made the prologue to their play;
For thouſands more, that yet ſuſpect no peril,
Will not conclude their plotted tragedy.
Beaufort's red ſparkling eyes blab his heart's malice,
And Suffolk's cloudy brow his ſtormy hate;
Sharp Buckingham unburthens with his tongue
The envious load that lies upon his heart;
And dogged York, that reaches at the moon,
Whoſe over-weening arm I have pluck'd back,
By falſe accuſe doth level at my life: —
And you, my ſovereign lady, with the reſt,
Cauſeleſs have lay'd diſgraces on my head;
And, with your beſt endeavour, have ſtir'd up
My liefeſt liege to be mine enemy: —
Ay, all of you have lay'd your heads together,
Myſelf had notice of your conventicles,
And all to make away my guiltleſs life:
I ſhall not want falſe witneſs to condemn me,
Nor ſtore of treaſons to augment my guilt;
The ancient proverb will be well effected,—
A ſtaff is quickly found to beat a dog.

Car. My liege, his railing is intolerable:
If thoſe, that care to keep your royal perſon
From treaſon's ſecret knife, and traitors' rage,
Be thus upbraided, chid, and rated at,
And the offender granted ſcope of ſpeech,
'Twill make them cool in zeal unto your grace.

Suf. Hath he not twit our ſovereign lady here,
With ignominious words, though clerkly couch'd,
As if ſhe had ſuborned ſome to ſwear
Falſe allegations to o'er-throw his ſtate?

Que. But I can give the loſer leave to chide.

Glo. Far truer ſpoke, than meant: I loſe, indeed;—
Beſhrew the winners, for they play me falſe!—
And well ſuch loſers may have leave to ſpeak.

Buc. He'll wreſt the ſenſe, and hold us here all day:—
Lord cardinal, he is your priſoner.

Car. Sirs, take away the duke, and guard him ſure.
[to ſome Attendants.

Glo. Ah, thus king Henry throws away his crutch,
Before his legs be firm to bear his body:
Thus is the ſhepherd beaten from thy ſide,
And wolves are gnarling who ſhall gnaw thee firſt.
Ah, that my fear were falſe; ah, that it were!
For, good king Henry, thy decay I fear.
[Exeunt Attendants, with Gloster.

Kin. My lords, what to your wisdoms ſeemeth beſt,
Do, or undo, as if ourſelf were here.

Que. What, will your highneſs leave the parliament?

Kin. Ay, Margaret; my heart is drown'd with grief,
Whoſe flood begins to flow within mine eyes;
My body round engirt with miſery;
For what's more miſerable than diſcontent?—
Ah! uncle Humphrey, in thy face I ſee
The map of honour, truth, and loyalty;
And yet, good Humphrey, is the hour to come,
That e'er I prov'd thee falſe, or fear'd thy faith.
What louring ſtar now envies thy eſtate,
That theſe great lords, and Margaret our queen,
Do ſeek ſubverſion of thy harmleſs life?
Thou never didſt them wrong, nor no man wrong:
And as the butcher takes away the calf,
And binds the wretch, and beats it when it ſtrays,
Bearing it to the bloody ſlaughter-houſe;

Even ſo, remorſeleſs, have they born him hence.
And as the dam runs lowing up and down,
Looking the way her harmleſs young one went,
And can do nought but wail her darling's loſs:
Even ſo myſelf bewail good Gloſter's caſe
With ſad unhelpful tears; and with dim'd eyes
Look after him, and cannot do him good;
So mighty are his vowed enemies.
His fortunes I will weep; and, 'twixt each groan,
Say — Who's a traitor? Gloſter he is none. [Exit.

Que. Free lords, cold ſnow melts with the ſun's hot beams.
Henry my lord is cold in great affairs,
Too full of fooliſh pity: and Gloſter's ſhew
Beguiles him, as the mournful crocodile
With ſorrow ſnares relenting paſſengers;
Or as the ſnake, rowl'd on a flow'ring bank,
With ſhining checker'd ſlough, doth ſting a child,
That, for the beauty, thinks it excellent.
Believe me, lords, were none more wise than I,
(And yet, herein, I judge mine own wit good)
This Gloſter ſhould be quickly rid the world,
To rid us from the fear we have of him.

Car. That he ſhould die, is worthy policy;
But yet we want a colour for his death:
'Tis meet, he be condemn'd by courſe of law.

Suf. But, in my mind, that were no policy:
The king will labour ſtill to ſave his life,
The commons haply rise to ſave his life;
And yet we have but trivial argument,
More than miſtruſt, that ſhews him worthy death.

York. So that, by this, you would not have him die.

Suf. Ah, York, no man alive ſo fain as I.

5 bewayles 16 in 2

Yor. 'Tis York that hath more reason for his death.—
But, my lord cardinal,—and you, my lord of Suffolk,—
Say as you think, and ſpeak it from your ſouls,—
Wer't not all one, an empty eagle were ſet
To guard the chicken from a hungry kite,
As place duke Humphrey for the king's protector?

Que. So the poor chicken ſhould be ſure of death.

Suf. Madam, 'tis true: And wer't not madneſs then,
To make the fox ſurveyor of the fold?
Who being accus'd a crafty murtherer,
His guilt ſhould be but idly poſted over,
Because his purpose is not executed:
No; let him die, in that he is a fox,
By nature prov'd an enemy to the flock,
Before his chaps be ſtain'd with crimson blood;
As Humphrey's prov'd by reasons to my liege.
And do not ſtand on quillets, how to ſlay him:
Be it by gins, by ſnares, by ſubtlety,
Sleeping, or waking, 'tis no matter how,
So he be dead; For that is good deceit,
Which mates him firſt, that firſt intends deceit.

Que. Thrice noble Suffolk, resolutely ſpoke.

Suf. Not resolute, except ſo much were done;
For things are often ſpoke, and ſeldom meant:
But, that my heart accordeth with my tongue,—
Seeing the deed is meritorious,
And to preserve my ſovereign from his foe,—
Say but the word, and I will be his prieſt.

Car. But I would have him dead, my lord of Suffolk,
Ere you can take due orders for a prieſt:
Say, you conſent, and cenſure well the deed,
And I'll provide his executioner,

22 Suffolke, 'tis reſolutely

I tender ſo the ſafety of my liege.

Suf. Here is my hand, the deed is worthy doing.

Que. And ſo ſay I.

Yor. And I: and now we three have ſpoke it,
It ſkills not greatly who impugns our doom.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Great lords, from Ireland am I come amain,
To ſignify — that rebels there are up,
And put the Engliſhmen unto the ſword:
Send ſuccours, lords, and ſtop the rage betime,
Before the wound do grow uncurable;
For, being green, there is great hope of help.

Car. A breach, that craves a quick expedient ſtop.
What counſel give you in this weighty cauſe?

Yor. That Somerſet be ſent as regent thither:
'Tis meet, that lucky ruler be employ'd;
Witneſs the fortune he hath had in France.

Som. If York, with all his far-fet policy,
Had been the regent there inſtead of me,
He never would have ſtay'd in France ſo long.

Yor. No, not to lose it all, as thou haſt done:
I rather would have loſt my life betimes,
Than bring a burthen of diſhonour home,
By ſtaying there ſo long, 'till all were loſt.
Shew me one ſcar character'd on thy ſkin:
Men's fleſh preserv'd ſo whole, do ſeldom win.

Que. Nay then, this ſpark will prove a raging fire,
If wind and fuel be brought to feed it with: —
No more, good York; — ſweet Somerſet, be ſtill; —
Thy fortune, York, hadſt thou been regent there,
Might hapily have prov'd far worſe than his. [all!

Yor. What, worſe than nought? nay, then a ſhame take

Som. And, in the number, thee, that wiſheſt ſhame!
Car. My lord of York, try what your fortune is.
The uncivil kerns of Ireland are in arms,
And temper clay with blood of Engliſhmen:
To Ireland will you lead a band of men,
Collected choicely, from each county ſome,
And try your hap againſt the Iriſhmen?
York. I will, my lord, ſo please his majeſty.
Suf. Why, our authority is his conſent;
And, what we do eſtabliſh, he confirms:
Then, noble York, take thou this taſk in hand.
York. I am content: Provide me ſoldiers, lords,
Whiles I take order for mine own affairs.
Suf. A charge, lord York, that I will ſee perform'd.
But now return we to the falſe duke Humphrey.
Car. No more of him; for I will deal with him,
That, henceforth, he ſhall trouble us no more.
And ſo break off; the day is almoſt ſpent:—
Lord Suffolk, you and I muſt talk of that event.
York. My lord of Suffolk, within fourteen days,
At Briſtol I expect my ſoldiers;
For there I'll ſhip them all for Ireland.
Suf. I'll ſee it truly done, my lord of York.
[Exeunt all but York.
York. Now, York, or never, ſteel thy fearful thoughts,
And change miſdoubt to reſolution:
Be that thou hop'ſt to be; or what thou art
Reſign to death, it is not worth the enjoying:
Let pale-fac'd fear keep with the mean-born man,
And find no harbour in a royal heart. [thought;
Faſter than ſpring-time ſhowers, comes thought on
And not a thought, but thinks on dignity.

My brain, more busy than a labouring ſpider,
Weaves tedious ſnares to trap mine enemies.
Well, nobles, well; 'tis politickly done,
To ſend me packing with an hoſt of men:
I fear me, you but warm the ſtarved ſnake,
Who, cheriſh'd in your breaſts, will ſting your hearts.
'Twas men I lack'd, and you will give them me:
I take it kindly; yet, be well aſſur'd,
You put ſharp weapons in a madman's hands.
Whiles I in Ireland nouriſh a mighty band,
I will ſtir up in England ſome black ſtorm,
Shall blow ten thouſand ſouls to heaven, or hell:
And this fell tempeſt ſhall not ceaſe to rage,
Until the golden circuit on my head,
Like to the glorious ſun's tranſparent beams,
Do calm the fury of this mad-bred flaw.
And, for a miniſter of my intent,
I have ſeduc'd a head-ſtrong Kentiſhman,
John Cade of Aſhford,
To make commotion, as full well he can,
Under the title of John Mortimer.
In Ireland have I ſeen this ſtubborn Cade
Oppoſe himſelf againſt a troop of kerns;
And fought ſo long, 'till that his thighs with darts
Were almoſt like a ſharp-quill'd porcupine:
And, in the end being reſcu'd, I have ſeen him
Caper upright, like to a wild moriſco,
Shaking the bloody darts, as he his bells.
Full often, like a ſhag-hair'd crafty kern,
Hath he converſed with the enemy;
And undiſcover'd come to me again,
And given me notice of their villanies.

This devil here ſhall be my ſubſtitute;
For that John Mortimer, which now is dead,
In face, in gait, in ſpeech he doth resemble:
By this I ſhall perceive the commons' minds,
How they affect the houſe and claim of York.
Say, he be taken, rack'd, and tortured;
I know, no pain, they can inflict upon him,
Will make him ſay—I mov'd him to those arms:
Say, that he thrive, (as 'tis great like he will)
Why, then from Ireland come I with my ſtrength,
And reap the harveſt which that raſcal ſow'd:
For, Humphrey being dead, as he ſhall be,
And Henry put apart, the next for me. [Exit.

SCENE II. The ſame. Another Room.

Enter certain Murtherers, haſtily.

1 M. Run to my lord of Suffolk; let him know,
We have diſpatch'd the duke, as he commanded.

2 M. O, that it were to do!—What have we done?
Didſt ever hear a man ſo penitent?

Enter SUFFOLK.

1 M. Here comes my lord.

Suf. Now, ſirs,
Have you diſpatch'd this thing?

1 M. Ay, my good lord, he's dead.

Suf. Why, that's well ſaid. Go, get you to my houſe;
I will reward you for this venturous deed.
The king and all the peers are here at hand:—
Have you lay'd fair the bed? are all things well,
According as I gave directions?

1 M. Yes, my good lord.

Suf. Away, be gone. [Exeunt Murtherers.

31 1. Tis, my

Enter King, Queen, Cardinal, SOMERSET, Lords, and Others.

Kin. Go, call our uncle to our presence straight:
Say, we intend to try his grace to-day,
If he be guilty, as 'tis published.

Suf. I'll call him presently, my noble lord. [Exit.

Kin. Lords, take your places; And, I pray you all,
Proceed no straiter 'gainst our uncle Gloster,
Than from true evidence, of good esteem,
He be approv'd in practice culpable.

Que. God forbid, any malice should prevail,
That faultless may condemn a nobleman!
Pray God, he may acquit him of suspicion! [much.—

Kin. I thank thee, Meg; these words content me

Re-enter SUFFOLK, hastily.

How now? why look'st thou pale? why trembl'st thou?
Where is our uncle? what's the matter, Suffolk?

Suf. Dead in his bed, my lord; Gloster is dead.

Que. Marry, God forefend!

Car. God's secret judgment:—I did dream to-night,
The duke was dumb,, and could not speak a word.
[King swoons.

Que. How fares my lord?—Help, lords! the king is

Som. Rear up his body; wring him by the nose. [dead.

Que. Run, go, help, help!—O, Henry, ope thine eyes!

Suf. He doth revive again;—Madam, be patient.

Kin. O heavenly God!

Que. How fares my gracious lord?

Suf. Comfort, my sovereign! gracious Henry, comfort!

Kin. What, doth my lord of Suffolk comfort me?
Came he right now to sing a raven's note,
Whose dismal tune bereft my vital powers;

14 thee Nell, these

And thinks he, that the chirping of a wren,
By crying comfort from a hollow breaſt,
Can chaſe away the firſt-conceived ſound?
Hide not thy poiſon with ſuch ſugar'd words.
Lay not thy hands on me; forbear, I ſay;
Their touch affrights me, as a ſerpent's ſting.
Thou baleful meſſenger, out of my ſight!
Upon thy eye-balls murd'rous tyranny
Sits, in grim majeſty, to fright the world.
Look not upon me, for thine eyes are wounding:—
Yet do not go away; Come, baſiliſk,
And kill the innocent gazer with thy ſight:
For in the ſhade of death I ſhall find joy;
In life, but double death, now Gloſter's dead.

Que. Why do you rate my lord of Suffolk thus?
Although the duke was enemy to him,
Yet he, moſt chriſtian-like, laments his death:
And for myſelf,—foe as he was to me,
Might liquid tears, or heart-offending groans,
Or blood-conſuming ſighs recall his life,
I would be blind with weeping, ſick with groans,
Look pale as primrose with blood-drinking ſighs,
And all to have the noble duke alive.
What know I how the world may deem of me?
For it is known, we were but hollow friends;
It may be judg'd, I made the duke away:
So ſhall my name with ſlander's tongue be wounded,
And princes' courts be fill'd with my reproach.
This get I by his death: Aye me unhappy!
To be a queen, and crown'd with infamy!

Kin. Ah, woe is me for Gloſter, wretched man!

Que. Be woe for me, more wretched than he is.

What, doſt thou turn away, and hide thy face?
I am no loathſome leper, look on me.
What, art thou, like the adder, waxen deaf?
Be poisonous too, and kill thy forlorn queen.
Is all thy comfort ſhut in Gloſter's tomb?
Why, then dame Margaret was ne'er thy joy:
Erect his ſtatue then, and worſhip it,
And make my image but an ale-houſe ſign.
Was I, for this, nigh wreck'd upon the ſea;
And twice by aukward wind from England's bank
Drove back again unto my native clime?
What boded this, but well-fore-warning wind
Did ſeem to ſay,— Seek not a ſcorpion's neſt,
Nor ſet no footing on this unkind ſhore?
What did I then, but curſ'd the gentle guſts,
And he that looſ'd them forth their brazen caves;
And bid them blow towards England's bleſſed ſhore,
Or turn our ſtern upon a dreadful rock?
Yet Æolus would not be a murtherer,
But left that hateful office unto thee:
The pretty vaulting ſea refus'd to drown me;
Knowing, that thou would'ſt have me drown'd on ſhore
With tears as ſalt as ſea through thy unkindneſs:
The ſplitting rocks cowr'd in the ſinking ſands,
And would not daſh me with their ragged ſides;
Because thy flinty heart, more hard than they,
Might in thy palace periſh Margaret.
As far as I could ken thy chalky cliffs,
When from thy ſhore the tempeſt beat us back,
I ſtood upon the hatches in the ſtorm:
And when the duſky ſky began to rob
My earneſt-gaping ſight of thy land's view,

I took a coſtly jewel from my neck,—
A heart it was, bound in with diamonds,—
And threw it towards thy land; the ſea receiv'd it;
And ſo, I wiſh'd, thy body might my heart:
And even with this, I loſt fair England's view,
And bid mine eyes be packing with my heart;
And call'd them blind and duſky ſpectacles,
For losing ken of Albion's wiſhed coaſt.
How often have I tempted Suffolk's tongue
(The agent of thy foul inconſtancy)
To ſit and witch me, as Aſcanius did,
When he to madding Dido, would unfold
His father's acts, commenc'd in burning Troy?
Am I not witch'd like her? or thou not falſe like him?
Aye me, I can no more! Die, Margaret;
For Henry weeps, that thou doſt live ſo long.

Noise within. Commons are ſeen preſſing towards the Door, with Salisbury keeping them back: Enter WARWICK.

War. It is reported, mighty ſovereign,
That good duke Humphrey trait'rouſly is murther'd
By Suffolk's and the cardinal Beaufort's means.
The commons, like an angry hive of bees
That want their leader, ſcatter up and down,
And care not who they ſting in his revenge:
Myſelf have calm'd their ſpleenful mutiny,
Until they hear the order of his death.

King. That he is dead, good Warwick, 'tis too true;
But how he dy'd, God knows, not Henry:
Enter his chamber, view his breathleſs corpſe,
And comment then upon his ſudden death.

War. That ſhall I do, my liege:—Stay, Salisbury,

With the rude multitude, 'till I return.

[Exit, to an inner Room.

Kin. O thou that judgeſt all things, ſtay my thoughts;
My thoughts, that labour to perſuade my ſoul,
Some violent hands were lay'd on Humphrey's life!
If my ſuſpect be falſe, forgive me, God;
For judgment only doth belong to thee!
Fain would I go to chafe his paly lips
With twenty thouſand kiſſes, and to drain
Upon his face an ocean of ſalt tears;
To tell my love unto his dumb deaf trunk,
And with my fingers feel his hand unfeeling:
But all in vain are these mean obſequies;
And, to ſurvey his dead and earthy image,
What were it but to make my ſorrow greater?

A Door is thrown open, and Gloſter diſcover'd dead upon his Bed: WARWICK, and Others, by him.

War. Come hither, gracious ſovereign, view this body.

Kin. That is to ſee how deep my grave is made:
For, with his ſoul, fled all my worldly ſolace;
And, ſeeing him, I ſee my death in life.

War. As ſurely as my ſoul intends to live
With that dread King, that took our ſtate upon him
To free us from his father's wrathful curſe,
I do believe that violent hands were lay'd
Upon the life of this thrice-famed duke.

Suf. A dreadful oath, ſworn with a ſolemn tongue:
What inſtance gives lord Warwick for his vow?

War. See, how the blood is ſettl'd in his face!
Oft have I ſeen a timely-parted ghoſt,
Of aſhy ſemblance, meager, pale, and bloodleſs,
Being all deſcended to the lab'ring heart;

21 For ſeeing — life in death

Who, in the conflict that it holds with death,
Attracts the same for aidance 'gainst the enemy;
Which with the heart there cools, and ne'er returneth
To blush and beautify the cheek again.
But, see, his face is black, and full of blood;
His eye-balls farther out than when he liv'd,
Staring full ghastly like a strangl'd man:
His hair up-rear'd, his nostrils stretch'd with struggling;
His hands abroad display'd, as one that grasp'd
And tug'd for life, and was by strength subdu'd.
Look on the sheets, his hair, you see, is sticking;
His well-proportion'd beard made rough and rugged,
Like to the summer's corn by tempest lodg'd.
It cannot be, but he was murther'd here;
The least of all these signs were probable. [death?

Suf. Why, Warwick, who should do the duke to Myself, and Beaufort, had him in protection;
And we, I hope, sir, are no murtherers. [foes;

War. But both of you were vow'd duke Humphrey's
And you, forsooth, had the good duke to keep:
'Tis like, you would not feast him like a friend;
And 'tis well seen, he found an enemy.

Que. Then you, belike, suspect these noblemen,
As guilty of duke Humphrey's timeless death.

War. Who finds the heifer dead, and bleeding fresh,
And sees fast by a butcher with an axe,
But will suspect, 'twas he that made the slaughter?
Who finds the partridge in the puttock's nest,
But may imagine how the bird was dead,
Although the kite soar with unbloody'd beak?
Even so suspicious is this tragedy. [knife?

Que. Are you the butcher, Suffolk? where's your

Is Beaufort term'd a kite? where are his talons?

Suf. I wear no knife, to ſlaughter ſleeping men;
But here's † a vengeful ſword, ruſted with ease,
That ſhall be ſcoured in his rancorous heart,
That ſlanders me with murder's crimson badge:—
Say, if thou dar'ſt, proud lord of Warwickſhire,
That I am faulty in duke Humphrey's death.

[Exeunt Car. Som. and Others.

War. What dares not Warwick, if falſe Suffolk dare

Que. He dares not calm his contumelious ſpirit, [him?
Nor ceaſe to be an arrogant controller,
Though Suffolk dare him twenty thousand times.

War. Madam, be ſtill; with reverence may I ſay it;
For every word, you ſpeak in his behalf,
Is ſlander to your royal dignity.

Suf. Blunt-witted lord, ignoble in demeanour!
If ever lady wrong'd her lord ſo much,
Thy mother took into her blameful bed
Some ſtern untutor'd churl, and noble ſtock
Was graft with crab-tree ſlip; whoſe fruit thou art,
And never of the Nevils' noble race.

War. But that the guilt of murther bucklers thee,
And I ſhould rob the death's-man of his fee,
Quitting thee thereby of ten thousand ſhames,
And that my ſovereign's preſence makes me mild,
I would, falſe murd'rous coward, on thy knee
Make thee beg pardon for thy paſſed ſpeech,
And ſay — it was thy mother that thou meant'ſt,
That thou thyſelf waſt born in baſtardy:
And, after all this fearful homage done,
Give thee thy hire, and ſend thy ſoul to hell,
Pernicious blood-ſucker of ſleeping men.

Suf. Thou ſhalt be waking, while I ſhed thy blood,
If from this presence thou dar'ſt go with me.
War. Away even now, or I will drag thee hence:
Unworthy though thou art, I'll cope with thee,
And do ſome ſervice to duke Humphrey's ghoſt.
[Exeunt Suf. and War.
Kin. What ſtronger breaſt-plate than a heart untainted?
Thrice is he arm'd, that hath his quarrel juſt;
And he but naked, though lock'd up in ſteel,
Whoſe conſcience with injuſtice is corrupted.
Que. What noise is this? [Noise within.
Re-enter Suffolk, and Warwick.
Kin. Why, how now, lords? your wrathful weapons drawn
Here in our presence? dare you be ſo bold?—
Why, what tumultuous clamour have we here?
Suf. The trait'rous Warwick, with the men of Bury,
Set all upon me, mighty ſovereign.
Enter Salisbury.
Sal. Sirs, ſtand apart, the king ſhall know your mind.
[to the Commons, entering.
Dread lord, the commons ſend you word by me,—
Unleſs lord Suffolk ſtraight be done to death,
Or baniſhed fair England's territories,
They will by violence tear him from your palace,
And torture him with grievous ling'ring death.
They ſay, by him the good duke Humphrey dy'd;
They ſay, in him they fear your highneſs' death:
And meer inſtinct of love, and loyalty,—
Free from a ſtubborn opposite intent,
As being thought to contradict your liking,—
Makes them thus forward in his baniſhment.
They ſay, in care of your moſt royal perſon,

That, if your highneſs ſhould intend to ſleep,
And charge — that no man ſhould diſturb your reſt,
In pain of your diſlike, or pain of death;
Yet, notwithſtanding ſuch a ſtrait edict,
Were there a ſerpent ſeen, with forked tongue,
That ſlily glided towards your majeſty,
It were but neceſſary you were wak'd;
Leſt, being ſuffer'd in that harmful ſlumber,
The mortal worm might make the ſleep eternal:
And therefore do they cry, though you forbid,
That they will guard you, whe'r you will, or no,
From ſuch fell ſerpents as falſe Suffolk is;
With whose envenomed and fatal ſting,
Your loving uncle, twenty times his worth,
They ſay, is ſhamefully bereft of life. [Salisbury.

Com. [within.] An anſwer from the king, my lord of

Suf. 'Tis like, the commons, rude unpoliſh'd hinds,
Could ſend ſuch meſſage to their ſovereign:
But you, my lord, were glad to be employ'd,
To ſhew how quaint an orator you are:
But all the honour Salisbury hath won,
Is — that he was the lord embaſſador,
Sent from a ſort of tinkers to the king. [all break in.

Com. [within.] An anſwer from the king, or we will

Kin. Go, Salisbury, and tell them all from me,
I thank them for their tender loving care:
And had I not been cited ſo by them,
Yet did I purpoſe as they do entreat;
For, ſure, my thoughts do hourly propheſy
Miſchance unto my ſtate by Suffolk's means.
And therefore,— by his majeſty I ſwear,
Whose far unworthy deputy I am,—

He ſhall not breath infection in this air
But three days longer, on the pain of death.
[Exit SALISBURY.

Que. O Henry, let me plead for gentle Suffolk!

Kin. Ungentle queen, to call him gentle Suffolk.
No more, I ſay; if thou doſt plead for him,
Thou wilt but add encreaſe unto my wrath.
Had I but ſaid, I would have kept my word;
But, when I ſwear, it is irrevocable: —
If, after three days' ſpace, thou here be'ſt found
On any ground that I am ruler of,
The world ſhall not be ranſom for thy life. —
Come, Warwick, come, good Warwick, go with me;
I have great matters to impart to thee.
[Exeunt King, WARWICK, Lords, &c.

Que. Miſchance, and ſorrow, go along with you!
Heart's diſcontent, and ſour affliction,
Be play-fellows to keep you company!
There's two of you, The devil make a third!
And three-fold vengeance tend upon your ſteps!

Suf. Ceaſe, gentle queen, these execrations,
And let thy Suffolk take his heavy leave.

Que. Fie, coward woman, and ſoft-hearted wretch!
Haſt thou not ſpirit to curſe thine enemies? [them?

Suf. A plague upon them! wherefore ſhould I curſe
Would curſes kill, as doth the mandrake's groan,
I would invent as bitter ſearching terms,
As curſt, as harſh, and horrible to hear,
Deliver'd ſtrongly through my fixed teeth,
With full as many ſigns of deadly hate,
As lean-fac'd envy in her loathſome cave:
My tongue ſhould ſtumble in mine earneſt words;

Mine eyes ſhould ſparkle like the beaten flint;
My hair be fixt on end, as one diſtract;
Ay, every joint ſhould ſeem to curſe and ban.
And even now my burthen'd heart would break,
Should I not curſe them. Poiſon be their drink!
Gall, worſe than gall, the daintieſt that they taſte!
Their ſweeteſt ſhade, a grove of cypreſs trees!
Their chiefeſt proſpect, murth'ring baſiliſks!
Their ſofteſt touch, as ſmart as lizards' ſtings!
Their muſick, frightful as the ſerpent's hiſs;
And boding ſcritch-owls make the concert full!
All the foul terrors in dark-ſeated hell—

Que. Enough, ſweet Suffolk, thou torment'ſt thyſelf;
And these dread curſes—like the ſun 'gainſt glaſs,
Or like an over-charged gun,—recoil,
And turn the force of them upon thyſelf.

Suf. You bad me ban, and will you bid me leave?
Now, by the ground that I am baniſh'd from,
Well could I curſe away a winter's night,
Though ſtanding naked on a mountain top,
Where biting cold would never let graſs grow,
And think it but a minute ſpent in ſport.

Que. O, let me entreat thee ceaſe! Give me thy hand,
That I may dew it with my mournful tears;
Nor let the rain of heaven wet this place,
To waſh away my woful monuments.
O, could this [kiſs be printed in thy hand;
That thou might'ſt think on these lips, by the ſeal,
Through whom a thousand ſighs are breath'd for thee!
So, get thee gone, that I may know my grief;
'Tis but ſurmis'd whilſt thou art ſtanding by,
As one that ſurfeits thinking on a want.

16 turnes 28 upon

I will repeal thee, or, be well assur'd,
Adventure to be banished myself:
And banished I am, if but from thee.
Go, speak not to me; even now be gone.
O, go not yet! Even thus two friends condemn'd
Embrace, and kiss, and take ten thousand leaves,
Lother a hundred times to part than die.
Yet now farewel; and farewel life with thee.

Suf. Thus is poor Suffolk ten times banished,
Once by the king, and three times thrice by thee.
'Tis not the land I care for, wert thou hence;
A wilderness is populous enough,
So Suffolk had thy heavenly company:
For where thou art, there is the world itself,
With every several pleasure in the world;
And where thou art not, desolation.
I can no more: Live thou to joy thy life;
Myself no joy in nought, but that thou liv'st.

Enter a Gentleman, hastily.

Que. Whither goes Vaux so fast? what news, I pr'ythee?

Gen. To signify unto his majesty,
That cardinal Beaufort is at point of death:
For suddenly a grievous sickness took him,
That makes him gasp and stare, and catch the air,
Blaspheming God, and cursing men on earth.
Sometime, he talks as if duke Humphrey's ghost
Were by his side; sometime, he calls the king,
And whispers to his pillow, as to him,
The secrets of his over-charged soul:
And I am sent to tell his majesty,
That even now he cries aloud for him.

Que. Go, tell this heavy message to the king. [Ex. Gen.

Ay me! what is this world? what news are these?
But wherefore grieve I at an hour's poor loſs,
Omitting Suffolk's exile, my ſoul's treasure?
Why only, Suffolk, mourn I not for thee,
And with the ſouthern clouds contend in tears;
Theirs for the earth's encreaſe, mine for my ſorrows?
Now, get thee hence; the king, thou know'ſt, is coming;
If thou be found by me, thou art but dead.

Suf. If I depart from thee, I cannot live:
And in thy ſight to die, what were it elſe,
But like a pleaſant ſlumber in thy lap?
Here could I breath my ſoul into the air,
As mild and gentle as the cradle-babe,
Dying with mother's dug between it's lips:
Where, from thy ſight, I ſhould be raging mad,
And cry out for thee to close up mine eyes,
To have thee with thy lips to ſtop my mouth;
So ſhould'ſt thou either turn my flying ſoul,
Or I ſhould breath it ſo into thy body,
And then it liv'd in ſweet Elyzium.
To die by thee, were but to die in jeſt;
From thee to die, were torture more than death:
O, let me ſtay, befal what may befal.

Que. Away! though parting be a fretful corroſive,
It is applied to a deathful wound.
To France, ſweet Suffolk: Let me hear from thee;
For whereſoe'er thou art in this world's globe,
I'll have an Iris that ſhall find thee out.

Suf. I go.

Que. And take my heart with thee along.

Suf. A jewel lock'd into the woful'ſt caſk
That ever did contain a thing of worth.

Even as a ſplitted bark, ſo ſunder we;
This way fall I to death.
Que. This way for me. [Exeunt, ſeverally.

SCENE III. The ſame. Another Room.

The Cardinal in his Bed; Attendants by him: Enter King, WARWICK, SALISBURY, and Others.

Kin. How fares my lord? ſpeak, Beaufort, to thy ſovereign.
Car. If thou be'ſt death, I'll give thee England's treaſure,
Enough to purchaſe ſuch another iſland,
So thou wilt let me live, and feel no pain.
Kin. Ah, what a ſign it is of evil life,
Where death's approach is ſeen ſo terrible!
War. Beaufort, it is thy ſovereign ſpeaks to thee.
Car. Bring me unto my trial when you will.
Dy'd he not in his bed? where ſhould he die?
Can I make men live, whe'r they will or no?
O! torture me no more, I will confeſs.
Alive again? then ſhew me where he is;
I'll give a thouſand pound to look upon him.
He hath no eyes, the duſt hath blinded them.
Comb down his hair; look, look, it ſtands upright,
Like lime-twigs ſet to catch my winged ſoul.
Give me ſome drink; and bid the apothecary
Bring the ſtrong poiſon that I bought of him.
Kin. O thou eternal mover of the heavens,
Look with a gentle eye upon this wretch!
O, beat away the busy meddling fiend,
That lays ſtrong ſiege unto this wretch's ſoul,
And from his boſom purge this black deſpair!
War. See, how the pangs of death do make him grin,

Sal. Diſturb him not, let him paſs peaceably.
Kin. Peace to his ſoul, if God's good pleaſure be!—
Lord cardinal, if thou think'ſt on heaven's bliſs,
Hold up thy hand, make ſignal of thy hope.—
He dies, and makes no ſign:—O God, forgive him!
War. So bad a death argues a monſtrous life.
Kin. Forbear to judge, for we are ſinners all.—
Close up his eyes, and draw the curtain cloſe;
And let us all to meditation. [Exeunt.

ACT IV.

SCENE I. Kent. The ſea Shore.

Firing heard at Sea. After that, a Boat appears; and puts aſhore a Captain, a Maſter, a Maſter's Mate, Walter Whitmore, and Others: and with them, as Priſoners, Suffolk, and other Gentlemen.

Cap. The gaudy, blabbing, and remorſeful day
Is crept into the boſom of the ſea;
And now loud-howling wolves arouſe the jades
That drag the tragick melancholy night;
Who with their drowzy, ſlow, and flagging wings
Clip dead men's graves, and from their miſty jaws
Breath foul contagious darkneſs in the air:
Therefore, bring forth the ſoldiers of our prize;
For, whilſt our pinnace anchors in the Downs,
Here ſhall they make their ranſom on the ſand,
Or with their blood ſtain this diſcolour'd ſhore.—
Maſter, this † priſoner freely give I thee;—
And thou that art his mate, make boot of † this;—
The † other, Walter Whitmore, is thy ſhare.

1 G. What is my ranſom, maſter? let me know.
Maſ. A thousand crowns, or elſe lay down your head.
Mat. And ſo much ſhall you give, or off goes yours.
Cap. What, think you much to pay two thousand
And bear the name and port of gentlemen?—
Cut both the villains' throats;—for die you ſhall;
The lives of those which we have loſt in fight,
Cannot be pois'd with ſuch a petty ſum.
1 G. I'll give it, ſir; and therefore ſpare my life.
2 G. And ſo will I, and write home for it ſtraight.
Whi. I loſt mine eye in laying the prize aboard,
And therefore, to revenge it, ſhalt thou die; [to Suf.
And ſo ſhould these, if I might have my will.
Cap. Be not ſo raſh, take ranſom, let him live.
Suf. Look on my † George, I am a gentleman;
Rate me at what thou wilt, thou ſhalt be pay'd.
Whi. And ſo am I; my name is — Walter Whitmore.
How now? why ſtart'ſt thou? what, doth death affright?
Suf. Thy name affrights me, in whose ſound is death.
A cunning man did calculate my birth,
And told me — that by Water I ſhould die:
Yet let not this make thee be bloody-minded;
Thy name is — Gualtier, being rightly ſounded.
Whi. Gualtier, or Walter, which it is, I care not:
Ne'er yet did baſe diſhonour blur our name,
But with our ſword we wip'd away the blot;
Therefore, when merchant-like I ſell revenge,
Broke be my ſword, my arms torn and defac'd,
And I proclaim'd a coward through the world.
[is laying Hands on Suffolk, to bear him off.
Suf. Stay, Whitmore; for thy prisoner is a prince,
The duke of Suffolk, William de la Pole.

† Be counter-poys'd

Cap. The duke of Suffolk, muffl'd up in rags!

Suf. Ay, but theſe rags are no part of the duke; Jove ſometime went diſguis'd, And why not I?

Cap. But Jove was never ſlain, as thou ſhalt be.

Suf. Obſcure and lowly ſwain, king Henry's blood, The honourable blood of Lancaſter, Muſt not be ſhed by ſuch a jady groom. Haſt thou not kiſſ'd thy hand, and held my ſtirrop, And bare-head plodded by my foot-cloth mule, And thought thee happy when I ſhook my head? How often haſt thou waited at my cup, Fed from my trencher, kneel'd down at the board, When I have feaſted with queen Margaret? Remember it, and let it make thee creſt-faln; Ay, and allay this thy abortive pride: How in our voiding lobby haſt thou ſtood, And duly waited for my coming forth? This hand of mine hath writ in thy behalf, And therefore ſhall it charm thy riotous tongue.

Whi. Speak, captain, ſhall I ſtab the forlorn ſwain?

Cap. Firſt let my words ſtab him, as he hath me.

Suf. Baſe ſlave! thy words are blunt, and ſo art thou.

Cap. Convey him hence, and on our long-boat's ſide Strike off his head.

Suf. Thou dar'ſt not for thine own.

Cap. Yes, Pole.

Suf. Pole?

Cap. Pole? ay, Pole; Nay, kennel, puddle, ſink; whoſe filth and dirt Troubles the ſilver ſpring where England drinks. Now will I dam up this thy yawning mouth, For ſwallowing the treaſure of the realm:

5 lowſie 28 v. Note.

Thy lips, that kiſſ'd the queen, ſhall ſweep the ground;
And thou, that ſmil'dſt at good duke Humphrey's death,
Againſt the ſenſeleſs winds ſhalt grin in vain,
Who, in contempt, ſhall hiſs at thee again:
And wedded be thou to the hags of hell,
For daring to affy a mighty lord
Unto the daughter of a worthleſs king,
Having neither ſubject, wealth, nor diadem.
By deviliſh policy art thou grown great,
And, like ambitious Sylla, over-gorg'd
With gobbets of thy mother's bleeding heart.
By thee, Anjou and Maine were ſold to France:
The falſe revolting Normans, thorough thee,
Diſdain to call us lord; and Picardy
Hath ſlain their governors, ſurpris'd our forts,
And ſent the ragged ſoldiers wounded home.
The princely Warwick, and the Nevils all,—
Whose dreadful ſwords were never drawn in vain,—
As hating thee, are riſing up in arms:
And now the houſe of York—thruſt from the crown,
By ſhameful murther of a guiltleſs king,
And lofty proud encroaching tyranny,—
Burns with revenging fire; whose hopeful colours
Advance our half-fac'd ſun, ſtriving to ſhine,
Under the which is writ—Invitis nubibus.
The commons here in Kent are up in arms:
And, to conclude, reproach, and beggary,
Is crept into the palace of our king,
And all by thee;—Away, convey him hence.

Suf. O that I were a god, to ſhoot forth thunder
Upon these paltry, ſervile, abject drudges!
Small things make baſe men proud: this villain here,

11 mother-bleeding 19 thee, and riſing

Being captain of a pinnace, threatens more
Than Bargulus the strong Illyrian pirate.
Drones suck not eagles' blood, but rob bee-hives.
It is impossible, that I should die
By such a lowly vassal as thyself.
Thy words move rage, and not remorse, in me:
I go of message from the queen to France;
I charge thee, waft me safely cross the channel.

Cap. Walter,—

Whi. Come, Suffolk, I must waft thee to thy death.

Suf. Gelidus timor occupat artus: — 'tis thee I fear.

Whi. Thou shalt have cause to fear, before I leave thee.
What, are ye daunted now? now will ye stoop?

1 G. My gracious lord, entreat him, speak him fair.

Suf. Suffolk's imperial tongue is stern and rough,
Us'd to command, untaught to plead for favour.
Far be it, we should honour such as these
With humble suit: no, rather let my head
Stoop to the block, than these knees bow to any,
Save to the God of heaven, and to my king;
And sooner dance upon a bloody pole,
Than stand uncover'd to the vulgar groom.
Know, true nobility is exempt from fear: —
More can I bear, than you dare execute.

Cap. Hale him away, and let him talk no more.

Suf. Come, soldiers, [presenting himself to them.] shew
what cruelty ye can,
That this my death may never be forgot. —
Great men oft die by vile bezonians:
A Roman sworder and banditto slave
Murther'd sweet Tully; Brutus' bastard hand
Stab'd Julius Cæsar; savage islanders,

Pompey the great; and Suffolk dies by pirates.

[Exit, with WHITMORE, and Others.

Cap. And as for these whose ranſom we have ſet,—
It is our pleaſure, one of them depart:—
Therefore come you with us, and let him † go.

[Exeunt All but the firſt Gentleman.

Re-enter WHITMORE, with Suffolk's Body.

Whi. There let his head and lifeleſs body lie,

[throwing it down.

Until the queen his miſtreſs bury it. [Exit.

1 G. O barbarous and bloody ſpectacle!
His body will I bear unto the king:
If he revenge it not, yet will his friends;
So will the queen, that living held him dear.

[Exit, with the Body.

SCENE II. The ſame. Black-heath.

Enter George Bevis, and John Holland.

Geo. Come, and get thee a ſword, though made of a lath; they have been up theſe two days.

Joh. They have the more need to ſleep now then.

Geo. I tell thee, Jack Cade the clothier means to dreſs the common-wealth, and turn it, and ſet a new nap upon it.

Joh. So he had need, 'tis thread-bare. Well, I ſay, it was never merry world in England, ſince gentlemen came up.

Geo. O miſerable age! Virtue is not regarded in handicrafts-men.

Joh. The nobility think ſcorn to go in leather aprons.

Geo. Nay more, the king's council are no good workmen.

JOH. True; And yet it is said — Labour in thy vocation: which is as much to say, as,—let the magistrates be labouring men; and therefore should we be magistrates.

GEO. Thou hast hit it: for there's no better sign of a brave mind, than a hard hand.

JOH. I see them! I see them! There Best's son, the tanner of Wingham;

GEO. He shall have the skins of our enemies, to make dog's leather of.

JOH. And Dick the butcher;

GEO. Then is sin struck down like an ox, and iniquity's throat cut like a calf.

JOH. And Will the weaver:

GEO. Argo, their thread of life is spun.

JOH. Come, come, let's fall in with them: for our enemies shall fall before us, inspired with the spirit of putting down kings and princes.

Drum. Enter DICK the Butcher,
WILL the Weaver, and Others in great Number,
with CADE at the Head of them.

CAD. We John Cade, so term'd of our supposed father,—

DIC. "Or, rather, of stealing a cade of herrings."

CAD. Command silence.

DIC. Silence!

CAD. My father was a Mortimer; [layer."

DIC. "He was an honest man, and a good brick-

CAD. My mother a Plantagenet;

DIC. "I knew her well, she was a midwife."

CAD. My wife descended of the Lacies;

DIC. "She was, indeed, a pedlar's daughter, and" "sold many laces."

15 v. Note. 16 faile

Wil. "But now of late, not able to travel with her" "fur'd pack, ſhe waſhes bucks here at home."

Cad. Therefore am I of an honourable houſe.

Dic. "Ay, by my faith: the field is honourable;" "and there was he born, under a hedge; for his father" "had never a houſe, but the cage."

Cad. Valiant I am:

Wil. "'A muſt needs; for beggary is valiant."

Cad. I am able to endure much:

Dic. "No queſtion of that; for I have ſeen him" "whip'd three market-days together."

Cad. I fear neither ſword nor fire. [proof."

Wil. "He need not fear the ſword, for his coat is of

Dic. "But, methinks, he ſhould ſtand in fear of fire," "being burnt i'th' hand for ſtealing of ſheep."

Cad. Be brave then; for your captain is brave, and vows reformation. There ſhall be, in England, ſeven half-penny loaves ſold for a penny: the three-hoop'd pot ſhall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony, to drink ſmall beer: all the realm ſhall be in common, and in Cheapſide ſhall my palfrey go to graſs. And, when I am king, (as king I will be)—

all. God ſave your majeſty!

Cad. I thank you, good people.—there ſhall be no money; all ſhall eat and drink on my ſcore; and I will apparel them all in one livery, that they may agree like brothers, and worſhip me their lord.

Dic. The firſt thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers.

Cad. Nay, that I mean to do. Is not this a lamentable thing, that of the ſkin of an innocent lamb ſhould be made parchment; that parchment, being ſcribbl'd o'er, ſhould undo a man? Some ſay, the bee ſtings: but I ſay,

'tis the bee's wax; for I did but seal once to a thing, and I was never my own man since. How now? who's there?

Enter Some, bringing forward the Clerk of Chatham.

Wil. The clerk of Chatham: he can write and read, and cast accompt.

Cad. O monstrous!

Wil. We took him setting of boys copies.

Cad. Here's a villain!

Wil. H'as a book in his pocket, with red letters in't.

Cad. Nay, then he is a conjurer.

Dic. Nay, he can make obligations, and write court-hand.

Cad. I am sorry for't: the man is a proper man, of mine honour; unless I find him guilty, he shall not die.—Come hither, sirrah, I must examine thee: What is thy name?

Cle. Emanuel.

Dic. They use to write it on the top of letters;—'twill go hard with you.

Cad. Let me alone:—Dost thou use to write thy name? or hast thou a mark to thyself, like an honest plain-dealing man?

Cle. Sir, I thank God, I have been so well brought up, that I can write my name.

all. He hath confest: away with him; he's a villain, and a traitor.

Cad. Away with him, I say: hang him with his pen and inkhorn about his neck. [Exeunt Some with the Clerk.

Enter Michael, hastily.

Mic. Where's our general?

Cad. Here I am, thou particular fellow.

Mic. Fly, fly, fly! sir Humphrey Stafford, and his brother, are hard by, with the king's forces.

CAD. Stand, villain, ſtand, or I'll fell thee down: he ſhall be encounter'd with a man as good as himſelf; He is but a knight, is 'a?

MIC. No.

CAD. To equal him, I will make myſelf a knight presently; Rise up ſir John Mortimer. Now have at him.

Drum. Enter Sir Humphrey STAFFORD, and Brother, with Forces.

STA. Rebellious hinds, the filth and ſcum of Kent, Mark'd for the gallows,—lay your weapons down, Home to your cottages, forſake this † groom; The king is merciful, if you revolt.

Bro. But angry, wrathful, and inclin'd to blood, If you go forward: therefore yield, or die.

CAD. As for these ſilken-coated ſlaves,—I paſs not;— It is to you, good people, that I ſpeak, O'er whom, in time to come, I hope to reign; For I am rightful heir unto the crown.

STA. Villain, thy father was a plaiſterer; And thou thyſelf, a ſhearman, Art thou not?

CAD. And Adam was a gard'ner.

Bro. And what of that?

CAD. Marry, this: Edmund Mortimer, earl of March, Marry'd the duke of Clarence' daughter; Did he not?

STA. Ay, ſir.

CAD. By her he had two children at one birth.

Bro. That's falſe.

CAD. Ay, that's the queſtion; but, I ſay, 'tis true: The elder of them, being put to nurſe, Was by a beggar-woman ſtoln away; And, ignorant of his birth and parentage, Became a bricklayer, when he came to age:

His ſon am I; deny it, if you can.

Dic. Nay, 'tis too true; therefore he ſhall be king.

Wil. Sir, he made a chimney in my father's houſe, and the bricks are alive at this day to teſtify it; therefore, deny it not.

Sta. And will you credit this baſe drudge's words, That ſpeaks he knows not what?

all. Ay, marry, will we; therefore get you gone.

Bro. Jack Cade, the duke of York hath taught you this.

Cad. "He lies, for I invented it myſelf."—Go to, ſirrah, Tell the king from me, that—for his father's ſake, Henry the fifth, in whose time boys went to ſpan-counter for French crowns,—I am content he ſhall reign; but I'll be protector over him.

Dic. And, furthermore, we'll have the lord Say's head, for ſelling the dukedom of Maine.

Cad. And good reason; for thereby is England main'd, and fain to go with a ſtaff, but that my puiſſance holds it up. Fellow kings, I tell you, that that lord Say hath gelded the common-wealth, and made it an eunuch: and more than that, he can ſpeak French, and therefore he is a traitor.

Sta. O groſs and miserable ignorance!

Cad. Nay, anſwer, if you can: The Frenchmen are our enemies: go to then, I aſk but this; Can he, that ſpeaks with the tongue of an enemy, be a good counſellor, or no?

all. No, no; and therefore we'll have his head.

Bro. Well, ſeeing gentle words will not prevail, Aſſail them with the army of the king.

Sta. Herald, away: and, throughout every town, Proclaim them traitors that are up with Cade;

That those, which fly before the battle ends,
May, even in their wives' and children's ſight,
Be hang'd up for example at their doors: —
And you, that be the king's friends, follow me.
[Exeunt STAFFORD, and Forces.

Cad. And you, that love the commons, follow me. —
Now ſhew yourſelves men, 'tis for liberty.
We will not leave one lord, one gentleman:
Spare none, but ſuch as go in clouted ſhoen;
For they are thrifty honeſt men, and ſuch
As would (but that they dare not) take our parts.

Dic. They are all in order, and march toward us.

Cad. But then are we in order, when we are moſt out of order. Come, march forward. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. The ſame. Another Part of it. Alarums. Enter the two Parties, and fight; and both the Staffords are ſlain.

Cad. Where's Dick, the butcher of Aſhford?

Dic. Here, ſir.

Cad. They fell before thee like ſheep and oxen, and thou behav'dſt thyſelf as if thou hadſt been in thine own ſlaughter-houſe: therefore thus will I reward thee, — The lent ſhall be as long again as it is; and thou ſhalt have a licenſe to kill for a hundred lacking one.

Dic. I deſire no more.

Cad. And, to ſpeak truth, thou deſerv'ſt no leſs. — This monument of the victory [taking off Stafford's Armour.] will I bear; and the bodies ſhall be drag'd at my horſe' heels, 'till I do come to London, where we will have the mayor's ſword born before us.

Dic. If we mean to thrive and do good, break open the goals, and let out the prisoners.

Cad. Fear not that, I warrant thee. Come, let's march towards London. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. London. A Room in the Palace.

Enter King Henry, reading; Buckingham, and the Lord Say, with him: at a Diſtance, Queen Margaret, mourning over a Head.

Que. Oft have I heard — that grief ſoftens the mind,
And makes it fearful and degenerate;
Think therefore on revenge, and ceaſe to weep.
But who can ceaſe to weep, and look on this?
Here may his head lie on my throbbing breaſt:
But where's the body that I ſhould embrace?

Buc. What anſwer makes your grace to the rebels' ſupplication?

Kin. I'll ſend ſome holy biſhop to entreat:
For God forbid, ſo many ſimple ſouls
Should periſh by the ſword! And I myſelf,
Rather than bloody war ſhall cut them ſhort,
Will parly with Jack Cade their general.
But ſtay, I'll read it over once again.

Que. Ah, barbarous villains! hath this lovely face
Rul'd, like a wand'ring planet, over me;
And could it not enforce them to relent,
That were unworthy to behold the ſame?

Kin. Lord Say, Jack Cade hath ſworn to have thy head.

Say. Ay, but (I hope) your highneſs ſhall have his.

Kin. How now, madam?
Lamenting ſtill, and mourning Suffolk's death?
I fear, my love, if that I had been dead,
Thou wouldeſt not have mourn'd ſo much for me.

30 Still lamenting and mourning for

Que. No, love, I ſhould not mourn, but die for thee.

Enter a Meſſenger, haſtily.

Kin. How now! what news? why com'ſt thou in ſuch haſte?

Meſ. The rebels are in Southwark; Fly, my lord!
Jack Cade proclaims himſelf lord Mortimer,
Deſcended from the duke of Clarence' houſe;
And calls your grace uſurper, openly,
And vows to crown himſelf in Weſtminſter.
His army is a ragged multitude
Of hinds and peaſants, rude and mercileſs:
Sir Humphrey Stafford and his brother's death
Hath given them heart and courage to proceed:
All ſcholars, lawyers, courtiers, gentlemen,
They call — falſe caterpillars, and intend their death.

Kin. O graceleſs men! they know not what they do.

Buc. My gracious lord, retire to Kenelworth,
Until a power be rais'd to put them down.

Que. Ah, were the duke of Suffolk now alive,
These Kentiſh rebels ſhould be ſoon appeas'd.

Kin. Lord Say, the traitor rebel hateth thee,
Therefore away with us to Kenelworth.

Say. So might your grace's perſon be in danger;
The ſight of me is odious in their eyes:
And therefore in this city will I ſtay,
And live alone as ſecret as I may.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Meſ. Jack Cade hath gotten London-bridge, my lord;
The citizens fly him, and forſake their houſes:
The raſcal people, thirſting after prey,
Join with the traitor; and they jointly ſwear,
To ſpoil the city, and your royal court.

1 No my Love 21 Traitors

Buc. Then linger not, my lord; away, take horſe.
Kin. Come, Margaret; God, our hope, will ſuccour us.
Que. My hope is gone, now Suffolk is deceaſ'd.
Kin. Farewel, my lord; truſt not to Kentiſh rebels.
Buc. Truſt no body, for fear you be betray'd.
Sar. The truſt I have is in mine innocence,
And therefore am I bold and resolute. [Exeunt.

SCENE V. The ſame. The Tower.

Lord SCALES, and Others, upon the Walls. Enter certain Citizens, beneath.

Sca. How now? is Jack Cade ſlain?
1 C. No, my lord, nor likely to be ſlain; for they have won the bridge, killing all those that withſtand them: The lord mayor craves aid of your honour from the tower, to defend the city from the rebels.
Sca. Such aid as I can ſpare, you ſhall command;
But I am troubl'd here with them myſelf,
The rebels have aſſay'd to win the tower.
But get you into Smithfield, gather head,
And thither will I ſend you Matthew Gough:
Fight for your king, your country, and your lives;
And ſo farewel, for I muſt hence again. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. The ſame. Cannon-ſtreet.

Enter JACK CADE, and the reſt, and ſtrikes his Sword upon London-ſtone.

Cade. Now is Mortimer lord of this city. And here, ſitting upon London-ſtone, I charge and command, that, of the city's coſt, the piſſing-conduit run nothing but claret wine the firſt year of our reign. And now, henceforward, it ſhall be treaſon for any that calls me other

20 Smithfield, and gather than — lord Mortimer.

Enter one of his Soldiers, running.

Sol. Jack Cade, Jack Cade,—

Cad. Knock him down there. [they kill him.

Wil. If this fellow be wise, he'll never call ye Jack Cade more; I think, he hath a very fair warning.

Dic. My lord, there's an army gather'd together in Smithfield.

Cad. Come then, let's go fight with them: But, firſt, go and ſet London-bridge on fire; and, if you can, burn down the Tower too. Come, let's away. [Exeunt.

SCENE VII. The ſame. Smithfield.

Alarums. Enter, on one Side, Cade and his Company; on the other, Citizens, and King's Forces, headed by Matthew Gough: They fight; and the Citizens, &c. are routed, and Gough ſlain.

Cad. So, ſirs:—Now go ſome and pull down the Savoy; others to the inns of court; down with them all.

Dic. I have a ſuit unto your lordſhip.

Cad. Be it a lordſhip, thou ſhalt have it for that word.

Dic. Only, that the laws of England may come out of your mouth.

Joh. "Maſs, 'twill be ſore law then; for he was" "thruſt in the mouth with a ſpear, and 'tis not whole yet."

Wil. "Nay, John, it will be ſtinking law; for his" "breath ſtinks with eating toaſted cheeſe."

Cad. I have thought upon it, it ſhall be ſo. Away, burn all the records of the realm; my mouth ſhall be the parliament of England.

Joh. "Then we are like to have biting ſtatutes," "unleſs his teeth be pull'd out."

Cad. And henceforward all things shall be in common.

Enter a Messenger.

Mes. My lord, a prize, a prize! here's the lord Say, which sold the towns in France; he that made us pay one and twenty fifteens, and one shilling to the pound, the last subsidy.

Enter George, with the Lord Say.

Cad. Well, he shall be beheaded for it ten times.—Ah, thou say, thou serge, nay, thou buckram lord! now art thou within point-blank of our jurisdiction regal. What canst thou answer to my majesty, for giving up of Normandy unto monsieur Basimecu, the dauphin of France? Be it known unto thee by these presence, even the presence of lord Mortimer, that I am the besom that must sweep the court clean of such filth as thou art. Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm, in erecting a grammar-school: and whereas, before, our fore-fathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be us'd; and, contrary to the king, his crown, and dignity, thou hast built a paper-mill. It will be proved to thy face, that thou hast men about thee, that usually talk of a noun, and a verb; and such abominable words, as no christian ear can endure to hear. Thou hast appointed justices of peace, to call poor men before them about matters they were not able to answer: Moreover, thou hast put them in prison; and, because they could not read, thou hast hang'd them; when, indeed, only for that cause they have been most worthy to live. Thou dost ride on a foot-cloth, dost thou not?

Say. What of that?

Cad. Marry, thou ought'st not to let thy horse wear a cloak, when honeſter men than thou go in their hose and doublets.

Dic. And work in their ſhirt too; as myſelf, for example, that am a butcher.

Say. You men of Kent,—

Dic. What ſay you of Kent?

Say. Nothing but this,—'Tis bona terra, mala gens.

Cad. Away with him, away with him! he ſpeaks Latin.

Say. Hear me but ſpeak, and bear me where you will.
Kent, in the commentaries Cæsar writ,
Is term'd the civil'ſt place of all this iſle:
Sweet is the country, because full of riches;
The people liberal, valiant, active, wealthy;
Which makes me hope you are not void of pity.
I ſold not Maine, I loſt not Normandy;
Yet, to recover them, would loſe my life.
Juſtice with favour have I always done;
Prayers and tears have mov'd me, gifts could never.
When have I aught exacted at your hands?
Kent to maintain, the king, the realm, and you,
Large gifts have I beſtow'd on learned clerks,
Because my book prefer'd me to the king:
And—ſeeing ignorance is the curſe of God,
Knowledge the wing wherewith we fly to heaven,—
Unleſs you be poſſeſſ'd with deviliſh ſpirits,
You cannot but forbear to murther me.
This tongue hath parly'd unto foreign kings
For your behoof,—

Cad. Tut! when ſtruck'ſt thou one blow in the field?

Say. Great men have reaching hands: oft have I ſtruck
Those that I never ſaw, and ſtruck them dead.

Geo. O monſtrous coward! what, to come behind folks!

Say. These cheeks are pale with watching for your good. ['em red again.

Cad. Give him a box o'th'ear, and that will make

Say. Long sitting to determine poor men's causes
Hath made me full of sickness and diseases.

Cad. Ye shall have a hempen caudle then, and the help of a hatchet.

Dic. Why dost thou quiver, man?

Say. The palsy, and not fear, provoketh me.

Cad. Nay, he nods at us; as who should say, I'll be even with you. I'll see if his head will stand steadier on a pole, or no: Take him away, and behead him.

Say. Tell me, wherein have I offended most?
Have I affected wealth, or honour; speak?
Are my chests fill'd up with extorted gold?
Is my apparel sumptuous to behold?
Whom have I injur'd, that ye seek my death?
These hands are free from guiltless blood-shedding,
This breast from harb'ring foul deceitful thoughts.
O, let me live!

Cad. "I feel remorse in myself with his words:"
"but I'll bridle it; he shall die, an it be but for plead-"
"ing so well for his life." Away with him! he has a familiar under his tongue; he speaks not, o'God's name. Go, take him away, I say, and strike off his head presently; and then break into his son-in-law's house, sir James Cromer, and strike off his head, and bring them both upon two poles hither.

all. It shall be done. [prayers,

Say. Ah, countrymen! if, when you make your God should be so obdurate as yourselves,
How would it fare with your departed souls?

6 Candle 9 provokes

And therefore yet relent, and ſave my life.

Cad. Away with him, and do as I command ye:—
[Exeunt Some with Lord Say.
the proudeſt peer in the realm ſhall not wear a head on his ſhoulders, unleſs he pay me tribute; there ſhall not a maid be marry'd, but ſhe ſhall pay to me her maiden-head ere they have it: Men ſhall hold of me in capite; and we charge and command, that their wives be as free as heart can wiſh, or tongue can tell.

Dic. My lord, when ſhall we go to Cheapſide, and take up commodities upon our bills?

Cad. Marry, presently.

all. O brave!

Re-enter Rebels, with the Heads.

Cad. But is not this braver?—Let them kiſs one another; for they lov'd well, when they were alive. Now part them again, leſt they conſult about the giving up of ſome more towns in France. Soldiers, defer the ſpoil of the city until night: for with these born before us, inſtead of maces, will we ride through the ſtreets; and, at every corner, have them kiſs. Away! [Exeunt.

SCENE VIII. Southwark.

Alarums. Enter Cade, and his Party.

Cad. Up Fiſh-ſtreet! down ſaint Magnus' corner! kill and knock down! throw them into Thames!—
[Parley ſounded; afterwards, a Retreat.
What noise is this I hear? Dare any be ſo bold, to ſound retreat or parley when I command them kill?

Enter Buckingham, and old Clifford;
Forces with them.

Buc. Ay, here they be that dare and will diſturb thee:

Know, Cade, we come embaſſadors from the king
Unto the commons, whom thou haſt miſ-led;
And here pronounce free pardon to them all,
That will forſake thee, and go home in peace.

o. C. What ſay ye, countrymen? will ye relent,
And yield to mercy, whilſt 'tis offer'd you;
Or let a rabble lead you to your deaths?
Who loves the king, and will embrace his pardon,
Fling up his cap, and ſay—God ſave his majeſty!
Who hateth him, and honours not his father,
Henry the fifth, that made all France to quake,
Shake he his weapon at us, and paſs by.

all. God ſave the king! God ſave the king!

Cad. What, Buckingham, and Clifford, are ye ſo brave?—And you, baſe peasants, do ye believe him? will you needs be hang'd with your pardons about your necks? Hath my ſword therefore broke through London gates, that you ſhould leave me at the White-hart in Southwark? I thought, ye would never have given out these arms, 'till you had recover'd your antient freedom: but you are all recreants, and daſtards; and delight to live in ſlavery to the nobility. Let them break your backs with burthens, take your houses over your heads, raviſh your wives and daughters before your faces: For me,—I will make ſhift for one; and ſo—God's curſe light upon you all!

all. We'll follow Cade, we'll follow Cade.

o. C. Is Cade the ſon of Henry the fifth,
That thus you do exclaim—you'll go with him?
Will he conduct you through the heart of France,
And make the meaneſt of you earls and dukes?
Alas, he hath no home, no place to fly to;

Nor knows he how to live, but by the ſpoil,
Unleſs by robbing of your friends, and us.
Wer't not a ſhame, that, whilſt you live at jar,
The fearful French, whom you late vanquiſhed,
Should make a ſtart o'er ſeas, and vanquiſh you?
Methinks, already, in this civil broil,
I ſee them lording it in London ſtreets,
Crying — Villageois! unto all they meet:
Better, ten thouſand baſe-born Cades miſcarry,
Than you ſhould ſtoop unto a Frenchman's mercy.
To France, to France, and get what you have loſt;
Spare England, for it is your native coaſt:
Henry hath money, you are ſtrong and manly;
God on our ſide, doubt not of victory.

all. A Clifford! a Clifford! we'll follow the king, and Clifford.

Cad. Was ever feather ſo lightly blown to and fro, as this multitude? the name of Henry the fifth hales them to an hundred miſchiefs, and makes them leave me deſolate. I ſee them lay their heads together, to ſurprize me: my ſword make way for me, for here is no ſtaying. — In deſpight of the devils and hell, have through the very midſt of you! and heavens and honour be witneſs, that no want of reſolution in me, but only my followers' baſe and ignominious treasons, makes me betake me to my heels. [Exit.

Buc. What, is he fled? go ſome, and follow him;
And he, that brings his head unto the king,
Shall have a thouſand crowns for his reward. —
[Exeunt ſome of them.
Follow me, ſoldiers; we'll deviſe a mean
To reconcile you all unto the king. [Exeunt.

[a] Villiago

SCENE IX. Kenelworth.

Enter King Henry, and Queen, with SOMERSET and Others, upon a Terras.

Kin. Was ever king, that joy'd an earthly throne,
And could command no more content than I?
No ſooner was I crept out of my cradle,
But I was made a king, at nine months old:
Was never ſubject long'd to be a king,
As I do long and wiſh to be a ſubject.

Enter BUCKINGHAM, and old CLIFFORD.

Buc. Health, and glad tidings, to your majeſty!

Kin. Why, Buckingham, is the traitor Cade ſurpriz'd?
Or is he but retir'd to make him ſtrong?

Enter, below, the Soldiers of Cade's Army, with Halters about their Necks.

o. C. He is fled, my lord, and all his powers do yield;
And humbly thus † with halters on their necks
Expect your highneſs' doom, of life, or death.

Kin. Then, heaven, ſet ope thy everlaſting gates,
To entertain my vows of thanks and praiſe. —
Soldiers, this day have you redeem'd your lives,
And ſhew'd how well you love your prince and country:
Continue ſtill in this ſo good a mind,
And Henry, though he be infortunate,
Aſſure yourſelves, will never be unkind:
And ſo, with thanks, and pardon to you all,
I do diſmiſs you to your ſeveral countries.

all. God ſave the king! God ſave the king! [Exeunt.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Please it your grace to be advertised,
The duke of York is newly come from Ireland:

And with a puiſſant and a mighty power,
Of nimble Gallow-glaſſes, and ſtout Kernes,
Is marching hitherward in proud array;
And ſtill proclaimeth, as he comes along,
His arms are only to remove from thee
The duke of Somerſet, whom he terms a traitor.

Kin. Thus ſtands my ſtate, 'twixt Cade and York di-
Like to a ſhip, that, having 'ſcap'd a tempeſt, [ſtreſſ'd;
Is ſtraitway calm'd, and boarded with a pirate:
But now is Cade driven back, his men diſperſ'd;
And now is York in arms, to ſecond him. —
I pray thee, Buckingham, go and meet with him;
And aſk him, what's the reason of these arms:
Tell him, I'll ſend duke Edmund to the tower; —
And, Somerſet, we will commit thee thither,
Until his army be diſmiſſ'd from him.

Som. My lord, I'll yield myſelf to prison willingly,
Or unto death, to do my country good.

Kin. In any caſe, be not too rough in terms;
For he is fierce, and cannot brook hard language.

Buc. I will, my lord; and doubt not ſo to deal,
As all things ſhall redound unto your good.

Kin. Come, wife, let's in, and learn to govern better;
For yet may England curſe my wretched reign. [Exeunt.

ACT V.

SCENE I. Kent. Iden's Garden.

Enter CADE.

Cad. Fie on ambition! fie on myſelf; that have a ſword, and yet am ready to famiſh! These five days

9 calme,

have I hid me in these woods; and durſt not peep out, for all the country is lay'd for me; but now am I ſo hungry, that, if I might have a leaſe of my life for a thousand years, I could ſtay no longer. Wherefore, o'er a brick-wall have I climb'd into this garden; to ſee if I can eat graſs, or pick a ſallet another while, which is not amiſs to cool a man's ſtomack this hot weather: And, I think, this word ſallet was born to do me good: for, many a time, but for a ſallet, my brain-pan had been cleft with a brown bill; and, many a time, when I have been dry, and bravely marching, it hath ſerv'd me inſtead of a quart-pot to drink in; and now the word ſallet muſt ſerve me to feed on.

Enter IDEN.

IDE. Lord, who would live turmoiled in the court,
And may enjoy ſuch quiet walks as these?
This ſmall inheritance, my father left me,
Contenteth me, and'ſ worth a monarchy:
I ſeek not to wax great by others' waining;
Or gather wealth, I care not with what envy;
Sufficeth, that I have maintains my ſtate,
And ſends the poor well pleased from my gate.

CAD. Here's the lord of the ſoil come to ſeize me for a ſtray, for ent'ring his fee-ſimple without leave. — Ah, villain, thou wilt betray me, and get a thousand crowns of the king by carrying my head to him; but I'll make thee eat iron like an oſtridge, and ſwallow my ſword like a great pin, ere thou and I part.

IDE. Why, rude companion, whatſoe'er thou be,
I know thee not; Why then ſhould I betray thee?
Is't not enough, to break into my garden,
And, like a thief, to come to rob my grounds,

5 on a 19 warning

Climbing my walls in ſpight of me the owner,
But thou wilt brave me with these ſaucy terms?

Cad. Brave thee? ay, by the beſt blood that ever was broach'd, and beard thee too. Look on me well: I have eat no meat these five days; yet, come thou and thy five men, and if I do not leave you all as dead as a door-nail, I pray God, I may never eat graſs more.

Ide. Nay, it ſhall ne'er be ſaid, while England ſtands,
That Alexander Iden, 'ſquire of Kent,
Took odds to combat a poor famiſh'd man.
Oppose thy ſtedfaſt-gazing eyes to mine,
See if thou canſt out-face me with thy looks.
Set limb to limb, and thou art far the leſſer:
Thy hand is but a finger to my fiſt;
Thy leg a ſtick, compared with this truncheon;
My foot ſhall fight with all the ſtrength thou haſt;
And if mine arm be heaved in the air,
Thy grave is dig'd already in the earth.
As for more words,—let this † my ſword report,
Whose greatneſs anſwers words, what ſpeech forbears.

Cad. By my valour, the moſt compleat champion that ever I heard.—Steel, if thou turn the edge, or cut not out the burly-bon'd clown in chines of beef ere thou ſleep in thy ſheath, I beſeech Jove on my knees, thou may'ſt be turn'd to hob-nails. [fight; and Cade falls.] O, I am ſlain! famine, and no other, hath ſlain me: let ten thousand devils come againſt me, and give me but the ten meals I have loſt, and I'd defy them all.—Wither, garden; and be henceforth a burying-place to all that do dwell in this houſe, because the unconquer'd ſoul of Cade is fled.

Ide. Is't Cade that I have ſlain, that monſtrous traitor?

9 Iden, an Eſquire 19 v. Note.

Sword, I will hallow thee for this thy deed,
And hang thee o'er my tomb, when I am dead:
Ne'er ſhall this blood be wiped from thy point;
But thou ſhalt wear it as a herald's coat,
To emblaze the honour that thy maſter got.

Cad. Iden, farewel; and be proud of thy victory: Tell Kent from me, ſhe hath loſt her beſt man, and exhort all the world to be cowards; for I, that never feared any, am vanquiſhed by famine, not by valour. [dies.

Ide. How much thou wrong'ſt me, heaven be my judge. Die, damned wretch, the curſe of her that bare thee! And as I thruſt † thy body in with my ſword, So wiſh I, I might thruſt thy ſoul to hell. Hence will I drag thee headlong by the heels Unto a dunghil, which ſhall be thy grave, And there cut off thy moſt ungracious head; Which I will bear in triumph to the king, Leaving thy trunk for crows to feed upon.

[Exit, dragging out the Body.

SCENE II. Fields near Saint Alban's.

Two Camps pitch'd, the King's, and the Duke of York's; on either Side, one. Enter York, attended.

Yor. From Ireland thus comes York, to claim his right, And pluck the crown from feeble Henry's head: Ring, bells, aloud; burn, bonfires, clear and bright, To entertain great England's lawful king. Ah, majeſty, who would not buy thee dear! Let them obey, that know not how to rule; This hand was made to handle nought but gold: I cannot give due action to my words

29 Ah Sancta Majeſtas 30 knowes

Except a ſword, or ſcepter, balance it.
A ſcepter ſhall it have, have I a ſoul;
On which I'll toſs the flower-de-luce of France.

Enter BUCKINGHAM.

Whom have we here? Buckingham, to diſturb me?
The king hath ſent him, ſure: I muſt diſſemble.

Buc. York, if thou meaneſt well, I greet thee well.

Yor. Humphrey of Buckingham, I accept thy greeting.
Art thou a meſſenger, or come of pleasure?

Buc. A meſſenger from Henry, our dread liege,
To know the reason of these arms in peace;
Or why, thou — being a ſubject, as I am, —
Againſt thy oath and true allegiance ſworn,
Should'ſt raise ſo great a power without his leave,
Or dare to bring thy force ſo near the court.

Yor. "Scarce can I ſpeak, my choler is ſo great."
"O, I could hew up rocks, and fight with flint,"
"I am ſo angry at these abject terms;"
"And now, like Ajax Telamonius,"
"On ſheep and oxen could I ſpend my fury!"
"I am far better born than is the king;"
"More like a king, more kingly in my thoughts: —"
"But I muſt make fair weather yet a while,"
"'Till Henry be more weak, and I more ſtrong. —"
O Buckingham, I pr'ythee, pardon me,
That I have given no anſwer all this while;
My mind was troubl'd with deep melancholy.
The cause why I have brought this army hither,
Is — to remove proud Somerſet from the king,
Seditious to his grace, and to the ſtate.

Buc. That is too much presumption on thy part:
But if thy arms be to no other end,

The king hath yielded unto thy demand;
The duke of Somerset is in the tower.

York. Upon thine honour, is he prisoner?

Buc. Upon mine honour, he is prisoner.

York. Then, Buckingham, I do dismiss my powers:—
Soldiers, I thank you all; disperse yourselves;
Meet me to-morrow in saint George's field,
You shall have pay, and every thing you wish.—
And let my sovereign, virtuous Henry,
Command my eldest son,—nay, all my sons,—
As pledges of my fealty and love,
I'll send them all as willing as I live;
Lands, goods, horse, armour, any thing I have
Is to his use, so Somerset may die.

Buc. York, I commend this kind submission:
We twain will go into his highness' tent.

Enter King Henry, attended.

Kin. Buckingham, doth York intend no harm to us,
That thus he marcheth with thee arm in arm?

York. In all submission and humility,
York doth present himself unto your highness.

Kin. Then what intend these forces thou dost bring?

York. To heave the traitor Somerset from hence;
And fight against that monstrous rebel, Cade,
Whom since I hear to be discomfited.

Enter Iden, with Cade's Head.

Ide. If one so rude, and of so mean condition,
May pass into the presence of a king,
Lo, I present your grace a traitor's head,
The head of Cade, whom I in combat slew. [thou!—

Kin. The head of Cade?—Great God, how just art
O, let me view his visage being dead,

22 intends 25 heard

That living wrought me ſuch exceeding trouble.
Tell me, my friend, art thou the man that ſlew him?
Ide. I was, an't like your majeſty.
Kin. How art thou call'd? and what is thy degree?
Ide. Alexander Iden, that's my name;
A poor eſquire of Kent, that loves the king.
Buc. So please it you, my lord, 'twere not amiſs
He were created knight for his good ſervice.
Kin. Iden, kneel down; now rise thou up a knight:
We give thee for reward a thousand marks;
And will, that thou henceforth attend on us.
Ide. May Iden live to merit ſuch a bounty,
And never live but true unto his liege!

Enter the Queen, and Somerset.

Kin. See, Buckingham! Somerſet comes with the queen;
Go, bid her hide him quickly from the duke.
Que. For thousand Yorks he ſhall not hide his head,
But boldly ſtand, and front him to his face.
Yor. How now! is Somerſet at liberty?
Then York unlooſe thy long imprison'd thoughts,
And let thy tongue be equal with thy heart.
Shall I endure the ſight of Somerſet?—
Falſe king, why haſt thou broken faith with me,
Knowing how hardly I can brook abuſe?
King did I call thee? no, thou art not king;
Not fit to govern and rule multitudes,
Which dar'ſt not, no, nor canſt not, rule a traitor:
That head of thine doth not become a crown;
Thy hand is made to graſp a palmer's ſtaff,
And not to grace an awful princely ſcepter.
That gold muſt round engirt these brows of mine;
Whose ſmile and frown, like to Achilles' ſpear,

Is able with the change to kill and cure:
Here is a hand to hold a ſcepter up,
And with the ſame to act controuling laws.
Give place; by heaven, thou ſhalt rule no more
O'er him, whom heaven created for thy ruler.

Som. O monſtrous traitor! — I arreſt thee, York,
Of capital treason 'gainſt the king and crown:
Obey, audacious traitor; kneel for grace.

Yor. Would'ſt have me kneel? firſt let me aſk of these,
[pointing to his Troops, and Attendants.
If they can brook I bow a knee to man. —
Sirrah, call in my ſons to be my bail; — [Exit Att.
I know, ere they will let me go to ward,
They'll pawn their ſwords for my enfranchiſement.

Que. Call hither Clifford; bid him come amain,
[Exit Buckingham.
To ſay, if that the baſtard boys of York
Shall be the ſurety for their traitor father.

Yor. O blood-beſpotted Neapolitan,
Out-caſt of Naples, England's bloody ſcourge!
The ſons of York, thy betters in their birth,
Shall be their father's bail; and bane to those
That for my ſurety will refuse the boys.
See, where they come; I'll warr'nt, they'll make it good.

Que. And here comes Clifford, to deny their bail.

Drums. Enter, from one Side, the Lords Edward and Richard, Sons to York; and, from the other, Old Clifford and his Son; Forces with them both.

o. C. Health and all happineſs to my lord the king!
[kneeling to Henry.

Yor. We thank thee, Clifford: Say, what news with thee?

Nay, do not fright us with an angry look:
We are thy ſovereign, Clifford, kneel again;
For thy miſtaking ſo, we pardon thee.

o. C. This is my king, York, I do not miſtake;
But thou miſtak'ſt me much, to think I do:
To Bedlam with him! is the man grown mad?

Kin. Ay, Clifford; a bedlam and ambitious humour
Makes him oppoſe himſelf againſt his king.

o. C. He is a traitor; let him to the tower,
And crop away that factious pate of his.

Que. He is arreſted, but will not obey;
His ſons, he ſays, ſhall give their words for him.

York. Will you not, ſons?

Edw. Ay, noble father, if our words will ſerve.

Ric. And if words will not, then our weapons ſhall.

o. C. Why, what a brood of traitors have we here!

York. Look in a glaſs, and call thy image ſo;
I am thy king, and thou a falſe-heart traitor. —
Call hither to the ſtake my two brave bears,
That, with the very ſhaking of their chains,
They may aſtoniſh these fell lurking curs;
Bid Salisbury, and Warwick, come to me.

Drums. Enter Salisbury, and Warwick, with Forces.

o. C. Are these thy bears? we'll bait thy bears to death,
And manacle the bear-ward in their chains,
If thou dar'ſt bring them to the baiting-place.

Ric. Oft have I ſeen a hot o'er-weening cur
Run back and bite, because he was with-held;
Who, being ſuffer'd with the bear's fell paw,
Hath clap'd his tail between his legs, and cry'd:
And ſuch a piece of ſervice will you do,

If you oppoſe yourſelves to match lord Warwick.

y. C. Hence, heap of wrath, foul indigeſted lump,
As crooked in thy manners as thy ſhape!

Yor. Nay, we ſhall heat you thoroughly anon.

o. C. Take heed, leſt by your heat you burn yourſelves.

Kin. Why, Warwick, hath thy knee forgot to bow?—
Old Salisbury,— ſhame to thy ſilver hair,
Thou mad miſ-leader of thy brain-ſick ſon!—
What, wilt thou on thy death-bed play the ruffian,
And ſeek for ſorrow with thy ſpectacles?—
O, where is faith? o, where is loyalty?
If it be baniſh'd from the froſty head,
Where ſhall it find a harbour in the earth?—
Wilt thou go dig a grave to find out war,
And ſhame thine honourable age with blood?
Why art thou old, and want'ſt experience?
Or wherefore doſt abuse it, if thou haſt it?
For ſhame! in duty bend thy knee to me,
That bows unto the grave with mickle age.

Sal. My lord, I have conſider'd with myſelf
The title of this moſt renowned duke;
And in my conſcience do repute his grace
The rightful heir to England's royal ſeat.

Kin. Haſt thou not ſworn allegiance unto me?

Sal. I have.

Kin. Canſt thou diſpenſe with heaven for ſuch a vow?

Sal. It is great ſin, to ſwear unto a ſin;
But greater ſin, to keep a ſinful oath:
Who can be bound by any ſolemn vow
To do a murd'rous deed, to rob a man,
To force a ſpotleſs virgin's chaſtity,
To reave the orphan of his patrimony,

To wring the widow from her cuſtom'd right;
And have no other reason for this wrong,
But that he was bound by a ſolemn oath?
Que. A ſubtle traitor needs no ſophiſter.
Kin. Call Buckingham, and bid him arm himſelf.
Yor. Call Buckingham, and all the friends thou haſt,
I am resolv'd for death, or dignity.
o. C. The firſt I warrant thee, if dreams prove true.
War. You were beſt go to bed, and dream again,
To keep thee from the tempeſt of the field.
o. C. I am resolv'd to bear a greater ſtorm,
Than any thou canſt conjure up to-day;
And that I'll write upon thy burgonet,
Might I but know thee by thy houſe's badge.
War. Now by my father's age, old Nevil's creſt,
The rampant bear chain'd to the ragged ſtaff,
This day I'll wear aloft my burgonet,
(As on a mountain top the cedar ſhows,
That keeps his leaves in ſpight of any ſtorm)
Even to affright thee with the view thereof.
o. C. And from thy burgonet I'll rend thy bear,
And tread it under foot with all contempt,
Deſpight the bear-ward that protects the bear.
y. C. And ſo to arms, victorious noble father,
To quell these traitors, and their complices.
Ric. Fie! charity, for ſhame! ſpeak not in ſpight,
For you ſhall ſup with Jesu Chriſt to-night.
y. C. Foul ſtigmatic, that's more than thou canſt tell.
Ric. If not in heaven, you'll ſurely ſup in hell. [Exeunt.

SCENE III. Saint Alban's.

Alarums, as of a Battle join'd. Excurſions.

7 death and dignity

Enter WARWICK.

War. Clifford of Cumberland, 'tis Warwick calls!
And if thou dost not hide thee from the bear,
Now,—when the angry trumpet sounds alarm,
And dead men's cries do fill the empty air,—
Clifford, I say, come forth and fight with me!
Proud northern lord, Clifford of Cumberland,
Warwick is hoarse with calling thee to arms.

Enter YORK.

How now, my noble lord? what, all a-foot?

Yor. The deadly-handed Clifford slew my steed:
But match to match I have encounter'd him,
And made a prey for carrion kites and crows
Even of the bonny beast he lov'd so well.

Enter CLIFFORD.

War. Of one or both of us the time is come. [to Cli.

Yor. Hold, Warwick, seek thee out some other chace,
For I myself must hunt this deer to death. ['st:—

War. Then, nobly, York; 'tis for a crown thou fight-
As I intend, Clifford, to thrive to-day,
It grieves my soul to leave thee unassail'd. [Exit.

o. C. What see'st thou in me, York? why dost thou pause?

Yor. With thy brave bearing should I be in love,
But that thou art so fast mine enemy.

o. C. Nor should thy prowess want praise and esteem,
But that 'tis shewn ignobly, and in treason.

Yor. So let it help me now against thy sword,
As I in justice and true right express it!

o. C. My soul and body on the action both!

Yor. A dreadful lay!—address thee instantly.

[fight; and Clifford falls.

o. C. La fin couronne les oeuvres. [dies.

Yor. Thus war hath given thee peace, for thou art ſtill.
Peace with his ſoul, heaven, if it be thy will. [Exit.

Alarums. Enter young Clifford.

y. C. Shame and confuſion! all is on the rout;
Fear frames diſorder, and diſorder wounds
Where it ſhould guard.—O war, thou ſon of hell,
Whom angry heavens do make their miniſter,
Throw in the frozen boſoms of our part
Hot coals of vengeance!—Let no ſoldier fly:
He, that is truly dedicate to war,
Hath no ſelf-love; nor he, that loves himſelf,
Hath not eſſentially, but by circumſtance,
The name of valour.—O, let the vile world end,
[ſeeing his dead Father.
And the premiſed flames of the laſt day
Knit earth and heaven together!
Now let the general trumpet blow his blaſt,
Particularities and petty ſounds
To ceaſe!—Waſt thou ordain'd, dear father,
To loſe thy youth in peace, and to atchieve
The ſilver livery of adviſed age;
And, in thy reverence, and in thy chair-days, thus
To die in ruffian battle?—Even at this ſight,
My heart is turn'd to ſtone: and, while 'tis mine,
It ſhall be ſtony. York not our old men ſpares;
No more will I their babes: tears virginal
Shall be to me even as the dew to fire;
And beauty, that the tyrant oft reclaims,
Shall to my flaming wrath be oil and flax.
Henceforth, I will not have to do with pity:
Meet I an infant of the houſe of York,

Into as many gobbits will I cut it
As wild Medea young Abſyrtus did:
In cruelty will I ſeek out my fame.
Come, thou new ruin of old Clifford's houſe;
[taking up the Body.
As did Æneas old Anchiſes bear,
So bear I thee upon my manly ſhoulders:
But then Æneas bare a living load,
Nothing ſo heavy as these woes of mine. [Exit.

Alarums. Enter RICHARD, and Somerſet, fighting; and Somerſet falls.

Ric. So, lye thou there;—
For, underneath an ale-houſe paltry ſign,
The caſtle in Saint Alban's, Somerſet
Hath made the wizard famous in his death.—
Sword, hold thy temper; heart, be wrathful ſtill:
Prieſts pray for enemies, but princes kill. [Exit.

Alarums again. Excurſions. Enter King Henry, and Queen, with Others, flying.

Que. Away, my lord, you are ſlow; for ſhame, away!

Kin. Can we out-run the heavens? good Margaret, ſtay.

Que. What are you made of? you'll nor fight, nor fly:
Now is it manhood, wisdom, and defence,
To give the enemy way; and to ſecure us
By what we can, which can no more but fly.
If you be ta'en, we then ſhould ſee the bottom
Of all our fortunes: but if we haply ſcape,
(As well we may, if not through your neglect)
We ſhall to London get; where you are lov'd;
And where this breach, now in our fortunes made,
May readily be ſtopt.

Other Alarums. Enter young CLIFFORD.

y. C. But that my heart's on future miſchief ſet,
I would ſpeak blaſphemy ere bid you fly;
But fly you muſt; uncureable diſcomfit
Reigns in the hearts of all our present party.
Away, for your relief! and we will live
To ſee their day, and them our fortune give:
Away, my lord, away! [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. Fields without the Town.

Retreat heard. Flouriſh; and Enter, with Drum and Colours, triumphantly, YORK, RICHARD, WARWICK, and Soldiers.

YOR. Of Salisbury, who can report of him;
That winter lion, who, in rage, forgets
Aged contuſions and all bruſh of time;
And, like a gallant in the brow of youth,
Repairs him with occaſion? this happy day
Is not itſelf, nor have we won one foot,
If Salisbury be loſt.

RIC. My noble father,
Three times to-day I holp him to his horſe,
Three times beſtrid him; thrice I led him off,
Perſuaded him from any further act:
But ſtill, where danger was, ſtill there I met him;
And like rich hangings in a homely houſe,
So was his will in his old feeble body.
But, noble as he is, look where he comes.

Enter SALISBURY.

SAL. Now, by my ſword, well haſt thou fought to-day;
[to York.
By th' maſs, ſo did we all. — I thank you, Richard:

God knows, how long it is I have to live;
And it hath pleas'd him, that three times to-day
You have defended me from imminent death. —
Well, lords, we have not got that which we have;
'Tis not enough our foes are this time fled,
Being opposites of such repairing nature.

York. I know, our safety is to follow them;
For, as I hear, the king is fled to London,
To call a present court of parliament.
Let us pursue him, ere the writs go forth: —
What says lord Warwick, shall we after them?

War. After them! nay, before them, if we can.
Now by my hand, lords, 'twas a glorious day:
Saint Alban's battle, won by famous York,
Shall be eterniz'd in all age to come. —
Sound, drums and trumpets; — and to London all:
And more such days as this to us befal! [Flourish. Exeunt.

The third Part of King HENRY the ſixth.

ACT I.

SCENE I. London. The Parliament Houſe. Drums. Enter Soldiers of York's Party, as breaking in: Then, Enter the Duke of YORK, with EDWARD and RICHARD, his Sons; Earl of WARWICK, Marqueſs of MOUNTAGUE, Duke of NORFOLK, and Others, with white Roſes in their Hats.

War. I wonder, how the king eſcap'd our hands.
Yor. While we purſu'd the horſemen of the north,
He ſlily ſtole away, and left his men:
Whereat the great lord of Northumberland,
Whoſe warlike ears could never brook retreat,
Cheer'd up the drooping army; and himſelf,
Lord Clifford, and lord Stafford, all a-breaſt,
Charg'd our main battle's front, and, breaking in,
Were by the ſwords of common ſoldiers ſlain.
Edw. Lord Stafford's father, duke of Buckingham,
Is either ſlain, or wounded dang'rouſly:
I cleft his beaver with a downright blow;
That this is true, father, behold his blood.
[ſhewing his bloody Sword.
Mou. And, brother, here's the earl of Wiltſhire's blood,
[to Warwick, ſhewing his.

Whom I encounter'd as the battles join'd.

Ric. Speak thou for me, and tell them what I did.

[ſhewing Somerſet's Head.

Yor. Richard hath beſt deserv'd of all my ſons.—
Is your grace dead, my lord of Somerſet?

Nor. Such end have all the line of John of Gaunt!

Ric. Thus do I hope to ſhake king Henry's head.

[ſhakes, and throws it away.

War. And ſo do I.—Victorious prince of York,
Before I ſee thee ſeated in that throne
Which now the houſe of Lancaſter uſurps,
I vow by heaven, these eyes ſhall never close.
This is the palace of the fearful king,

[drawing towards the Throne.

And this the regal ſeat: poſſeſs it, York;
For it is thine, and not king Henry's heirs'.

Yor. Aſſiſt me then, ſweet Warwick, and I will;
For hither are we broken in by force.

Nor. We'll all aſſiſt you; he, that flies, ſhall die.

Yor. Thanks, gentle Norfolk.—Stay by me, my lords;—
And, ſoldiers, ſtay, and lodge by me this night.

War. And, when the king comes, offer him no violence,
Unleſs he ſeek to put us out by force.

[to the Soldiers, who retire.

Yor. The queen, this day, here holds her parliament;
But little thinks, we ſhall be of her council:
By words, or blows, here let us win our right.

Ric. Arm'd as we are, let's ſtay within this houſe.

War. The bloody parliament ſhall this be call'd,
Unleſs Plantagenet, duke of York, be king;
And baſhful Henry depos'd, whose cowardiſe
Hath made us by-words to our enemies.

5 But is 6 Such hope have 16 For this is

York. Then leave me not, my lords; be resolute;
I mean to take poſſeſſion of my right.
War. Neither the king, nor he that loves him beſt,
The proudeſt he that holds up Lancaſter,
Dares ſtir a wing, if Warwick ſhake his bells.
I'll plant Plantagenet, root him up who dares: —
[putting him in the Throne.
Reſolve thee, Richard; claim the Engliſh crown.
Flouriſh. Enter King Henry, attended;
Duke of Exeter, Earl of Northumberland, Earl of Westmoreland, Lord Clifford, and Others, with red Roses in their Hats.
Kin. My lords, look where the ſturdy rebel ſits,
Even in the chair of ſtate! belike, he means,
(Back'd by the power of Warwick, that falſe peer)
To aſpire unto the crown, and reign as king. —
Earl of Northumberland, he ſlew thy father; —
And thine, lord Clifford; and you both have vow'd
Revenge on him, his ſons, his favourers.
North. If I be not, heavens, be reveng'd on me!
Cli. The hope thereof makes Clifford mourn in ſteel.
Wes. What, ſhall we ſuffer this? let's pluck him down:
My heart for anger burns, I cannot brook it.
Kin. Be patient, gentle earl of Weſtmoreland.
Cli. Patience is for poltroons, and ſuch as † he:
He durſt not ſit there, had your father liv'd.
My gracious lord, here in the parliament
Let us aſſail the family of York.
North. Well haſt thou ſpoken, couſin; be it ſo.
Kin. Ah, know you not, the city favours them,
And they have troops of ſoldiers at their beck?
Exe. But, when the duke is ſlain, they'll quickly fly.

† 19 favourites, and his friends.

Kin. Far be it from the thoughts of Henry's heart,
To make a ſhambles of the parliament houſe!
Cousin of Exeter, frowns, words, and threats,
Shall be the war that Henry means to use. —
Thou factious duke of York, deſcend my throne,
And kneel for grace and mercy at my feet;
I am thy ſovereign.

York. Thou'rt deceiv'd, I am thine.

Exe. For ſhame, come down; he made thee duke of York. 'Twas my inheritance, as the earldom was.

Exe. Thy father was a traitor to the crown.

War. Exeter, thou art a traitor to the crown,
In following this usurping Henry.

Cli. Whom ſhould he follow, but his natural king?

War. True, Clifford; and that's Richard, duke of York.

Kin. And ſhall I ſtand, and thou ſit in my throne?

York. It muſt and ſhall be ſo, content thyſelf.

War. Be duke of Lancaſter, let him be king.

Wes. He is both king and duke of Lancaſter;
And that the lord of Weſtmoreland ſhall maintain.

War. And Warwick ſhall diſprove it. You forget,
That we are those, which chac'd you from the field,
And ſlew your fathers, and with colours ſpread
March'd through the city to the palace-gates.

North. Yes, Warwick, I remember't to my grief;
And, by his ſoul, thou and thy houſe ſhall rue it.

Wes. Plantagenet, of thee, and these thy ſons,
Thy kinsmen, and thy friends, I'll have more lives,
Than drops of blood were in my father's veins.

Cli. Urge it no more; leſt that, inſtead of words,
I ſend thee, Warwick, ſuch a meſſenger,
As ſhall revenge his death, before I ſtir.

War. Poor Clifford! how I ſcorn his worthleſs threats!
York. Will you, we ſhew our title to the crown?
If not, our ſwords ſhall plead it in the field.
Kin. What title haſt thou, traitor, to the crown?
Thy father was, as thou art, duke of York;
Thy grandfather, Roger Mortimer, earl of March:
I am the ſon of Henry the fifth,
Who made the dauphin and the French to ſtoop,
And ſeiz'd upon their towns and provinces.
War. Talk not of France, ſith thou haſt loſt it all.
Kin. The lord protector loſt it, and not I;
When I was crown'd, I was but nine months old.
Ric. You are old enough now, and yet (methinks)
you lose:—
Father, tear the crown from the usurper's head.
Edw. Sweet father, do ſo; ſet it on your head.
Mou. Good brother, [to War.] as thou lov'ſt and honour'ſt arms,
Let's fight it out, and not ſtand cavilling thus. [fly.
Ric. Sound drums and trumpets, and the king will York. Sons, peace!
Kin. Peace thou! and give king Henry leave to ſpeak.
War. Plantagenet ſhall ſpeak firſt:—hear him, lords;
And be you ſilent and attentive too,
For he, that interrupts him, ſhall not live. [throne,
Kin. Think'ſt thou, that I will leave my kingly
Wherein my grandſire, and my father, ſat?
No: firſt ſhall war unpeople this my realm;
Ay, and their colours—often born in France;
And now in England, to our heart's great ſorrow,—
Shall be my winding-ſheet.—Why faint you, lords?
My title's good, and better far than his.

War. But prove it, Henry, and thou ſhalt be king.
Kin. Henry the fourth by conqueſt got the crown.
Yor. 'Twas by rebellion againſt his king.
Kin. "I know not what to ſay; my title's weak."
Tell me, may not a king adopt an heir?
Yor. What then?
Kin. An if he may, then am I lawful king:
For Richard, in the view of many lords,
Reſign'd the crown to Henry the fourth;
Whoſe heir my father was, and I am his.
Yor. He rose againſt him, being his ſovereign,
And made him to reſign the crown perforce.
War. Suppose, my lords, he did it unconſtrain'd,
Think you, 'twere prejudicial to the crown?
Exe. No; for he could not ſo reſign his crown,
But that the next heir ſhould ſucceed and reign.
Kin. Art thou againſt us, duke of Exeter?
Exe. His is the right, and therefore pardon me.
Yor. Why whiſper you, my lords, and anſwer not?
Exe. My conſcience tells me, he is lawful king.
[to the Lords.
Kin. "All will revolt from me, and turn to him."
North. Plantagenet, for all the claim thou lay'ſt,
Think not, that Henry ſhall be ſo depos'd.
War. Depos'd he ſhall be, in deſpight of all.
North. Thou art deceiv'd: 'tis not thy ſouthern power,
Of Eſſex, Norfolk, Suffolk, nor of Kent,—
Which makes thee thus presumptuous and proud,—
Can ſet the duke up, in deſpight of me.
Clif. King Henry, be thy title right or wrong,
Lord Clifford vows to fight in thy defence:
May that ground gape, and ſwallow me alive,

Where I ſhall kneel to him that ſlew my father!
Kin. O Clifford, how thy words revive my heart!
Yor. Henry of Lancaſter, reſign thy crown: —
What mutter you, or what conſpire you, lords?
War. Do right unto this princely duke of York;
Or I will fill the houſe with armed men,
And, o'er the chair of ſtate, where now he ſits,
Write up his title with uſurping blood.
[ſtamps, and the Soldiers ſhew themſelves.
Kin. My lord of Warwick, hear me but one word;—
Let me, for this my life-time, reign as king.
Yor. Confirm the crown to me, and to mine heirs,
And thou ſhalt reign in quiet while thou liv'ſt.
Kin. I am content: Richard Plantagenet,
Enjoy the kingdom after my deceaſe.
Cli. What wrong is this unto the prince your ſon?
War. What good is this to England, and himſelf?
Wes. Baſe, fearful, and deſpairing Henry!
Cli. How haſt thou injur'd both thyſelf and us?
Wes. I cannot ſtay to hear these articles.
North. Nor I.
Cli. Come, cousin, let's go tell the queen these news.
Wes. Farewel, faint-hearted and degenerate king,
In whose cold blood no ſpark of honour bides.
North. Be thou a prey unto the houſe of York,
And die in bands for this unmanly deed!
Cli. In dreadful war may'ſt thou be overcome!
Or live in peace, abandon'd, and deſpis'd!
[Exeunt Cli. Wes. and North.
War. Turn this way, Henry, and regard them not.
Exe. They ſeek revenge, and therefore will not yield.
Kin. Ah, Exeter!

War. Why ſhould you ſigh, my lord?

Kin. Not for myſelf, lord Warwick, but my ſon,
Whom I unnaturally ſhall diſ-inherit.
But, be it as it may:—I here entail
The crown to thee and to thine heirs for ever;
Conditionally, that here thou take an oath
To ceaſe this civil war, and, whilſt I live,
To honour me as thy king and ſovereign;
Neither by treason, nor hoſtility,
To ſeek to put me down, and reign thyſelf.

York. This oath I willingly take, and will perform. [coming from the Throne.

War. Long live king Henry!—Plantagenet, embrace him.

Kin. And long live thou, and these thy forward ſons!

York. Now York and Lancaſter are reconcil'd.

Exe. Accurſ'd be he, that ſeeks to make them foes! [Flouriſh; and the Lords come forward.

York. Farewel, my gracious lord; I'll to my caſtle.

War. And I'll keep London with my ſoldiers.

Nor. And I to Norfolk, with my followers.

Mou. And I unto the ſea, from whence I came.

Kin. "And I, with grief and ſorrow, to the court."

[Exeunt York, and his Sons, War. Nor. Mou. their Soldiers, and Att.

Exe. Here comes the queen, whose looks bewray her anger:
I'll ſteal away.

Kin. Exeter, ſo will I. [going.

Enter the Queen, and Prince.

Que. Nay, go not from me; I will follow thee.

Kin. Be patient, gentle queen, and I will ſtay.

Que. Who can be patient in ſuch extreams?

Ah, wretched man! 'would I had dy'd a maid,
And never ſeen thee, never born thee ſon,
Seeing thou haſt prov'd ſo unnatural a father!
Hath he deserv'd to lose his birth-right thus?
Hadſt thou but lov'd him half ſo well as I;
Or felt that pain which I did for him once;
Or nouriſh'd him, as I did with my blood;
Thou wouldſt have left thy deareſt heart-blood there,
Rather than made that ſavage duke thine heir,
And diſ-inherited thine only ſon.

Pri. Father, you cannot diſ-inherit me:
If you be king, why ſhould not I ſucceed? [ſon;—

Kin. Pardon me, Margaret;— pardon me, ſweet
The earl of Warwick, and the duke, enforc'd me.

Que. Enforc'd thee! art thou king, and wilt be forc'd?
I ſhame to hear thee ſpeak. Ah, timerous wretch!
Thou haſt undone thyſelf, thy ſon, and me;
And given unto the houſe of York ſuch head,
As thou ſhalt reign but by their ſufferance:
To entail him and his heirs unto the crown,
What is it, but to make thy ſepulcher,
And creep into it far before thy time?
Warwick is chancellor, and the lord of Calais;
Stern Falconbridge commands the narrow ſeas;
The duke is made protector of the realm;
And yet ſhalt thou be ſafe? ſuch ſafety finds
The trembling lamb, environed with wolves.
Had I been there, which am a ſilly woman,
The ſoldiers ſhould have toſſ'd me on their pikes,
Before I would have granted to that act.
But thou prefer'ſt thy life before thine honour:
And, ſeeing thou doſt, I here divorce myſelf,

Both from thy table, Henry, and thy bed,
Until that act of parliament be repeal'd,
Whereby my ſon is diſ-inherited.
The northern lords, that have forſworn thy colours,
Will follow mine, if once they ſee them ſpread:
And ſpread they ſhall be; to thy foul diſgrace,
And utter ruin of the houſe of York.
Thus do I leave thee: — Come, ſon, let's away;
Our army's ready, come, we'll after them.

Kin. Stay, gentle Margaret, and hear me ſpeak.

Que. Thou haſt ſpoke too much already; get thee gone.

Kin. Gentle ſon Edward, thou wilt ſtay with me?

Que. Ay, to be murther'd by his enemies.

Pri. When I return with victory from the field,
I'll ſee your grace: 'till then, I'll follow her.

Que. Come, ſon, away; we may not linger thus.

[Exeunt Queen, and her Son.

Kin. Poor queen! how love to me, and to her ſon,
Hath made her break out into terms of rage!
Reveng'd may ſhe be on that hateful duke;
Whoſe haughty ſpirit, winged with desire,
Will coſt my crown, and, like an empty eagle,
Tire on the fleſh of me, and of my ſon.
The loſs of those three lords torments my heart:
I'll write unto them, and entreat them fair; —
Come, cousin, you ſhall be the meſſenger.

Exe. And I, I hope, ſhall reconcile them all. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. Sandal Caſtle, near Wakefield in Yorkſhire. A Room in the Caſtle.

Enter Edward, Richard, and Mountague.

Ric. Brother, though I be youngeſt, give me leave.

Edw. No, I can better play the orator.
Mou. But I have reasons ſtrong and forceable.

Enter York.

Yor. Why, how now, ſons, and cousin, at a ſtrife?
What is your quarrel? how began it firſt?
Edw. No quarrel, but a ſlight contention.
Yor. About what?
Ric. About that which concerns your grace, and us;
The crown of England, father, which is yours.
Yor. Mine, boy? not 'till king Henry be dead.
Ric. Your right depends not on his life, or death.
Edw. Now you are heir, therefore enjoy it now:
By giving the houſe of Lancaſter leave to breath,
It will out-run you, father, in the end.
Yor. I took an oath, that he ſhould quietly reign.
Edw. But, for a kingdom, any oath may be broken:
I'd break a thousand oaths, to reign one year.
Ric. No; God forbid, your grace ſhould be forſworn.
Yor. I ſhall be, if I claim by open war.
Ric. I'll prove the contrary, if you'll hear me ſpeak.
Yor. Thou canſt not, ſon; it is impoſſible.
Ric. An oath is of no moment, being not took
Before a true and lawful magiſtrate,
That hath authority over him that ſwears:
Henry had none, but did usurp the place;
Then, ſeeing 'twas he that made you to depoſe,
Your oath, my lord, is vain and frivolous.
Therefore, to arms: And, father, do but think,
How ſweet a thing it is to wear a crown;
Within whose circuit is Elyzium,
And all that poets feign of bliſs and joy.
Why do we linger thus? I cannot reſt,

Until the white rose, that I wear, be dy'd
Even in the luke-warm blood of Henry's heart.
Yor. Richard, enough; I will be king, or die.—
Cousin, thou ſhalt to London presently,
And whet on Warwick to this enterprize.—
Thou, Richard, ſhalt to the duke of Norfolk go,
And tell him privily of our intent.—
You, Edward, ſhall unto my lord of Cobham,
With whom the Kentiſhmen will willingly rise:
In them I truſt; for they are ſoldiers,
Witty, and courteous, liberal, full of ſpirit.—
While you are thus employ'd, what reſteth more,
But that I ſeek occasion how to rise;
And yet the king not privy to my drift,
Nor any of the houſe of Lancaſter?
Enter a Meſſenger, haſtily.
But, ſtay; What news?—Why com'ſt thou in ſuch poſt?
Meſ. The queen, with all the northern earls and lords,
Intend here to beſiege you in your caſtle:
She is hard by with twenty thousand men;
And therefore fortify your hold, my lord.
Yor. Ay, with my ſword. What! think'ſt thou, that we fear them?—
Edward and Richard, you ſhall ſtay with me;—
My cousin Mountague ſhall poſt to London:
Let noble Warwick, Cobham, and the reſt,
Whom we have left protectors of the king,
With powerful policy ſtrengthen themſelves,
And truſt not ſimple Henry, nor his oaths.
Mou. Cousin, I go; I'll win them, fear it not:
And thus moſt humbly I do take my leave.
[Exit Mountague.

31 Brother, I goe

Enter Sir John, and Sir Hugh MORTIMER.

YOR. Sir John, and ſir Hugh Mortimer, mine uncles!
You are come to Sandal in a happy hour;
The army of the queen mean to beſiege us.

Sir J. She ſhall not need, we'll meet her in the field.

YOR. What, with five thouſand men?

RIC. Ay, with five hundred, father, for a need.
A woman's general; What ſhould we fear?
[March afar off.

EDW. I hear their drums: Let's ſet our men in order;
And iſſue forth, and bid them battle ſtraight.

YOR. Five men to twenty!—though the odds be great,
I doubt not, uncle, of our victory.
Many a battle have I won in France,
When as the enemy hath been ten to one;
Why ſhould I not now have the like ſucceſs?
[Alarum. Exeunt.

SCENE III. Plains near the Caſtle.

Alarums, as a Battle join'd. Excurſions, and Parties flying. Enter, in the Rear of them, Edmund Earl of RUTLAND, and his Tutor.

RUT. Ah, whither ſhall I fly, to ſcape their hands!
Ah, tutor! look, where bloody Clifford comes!

Enter CLIFFORD, and Soldiers, purſuing.

CLI. Chaplain, away! thy prieſthood ſaves thy life.
As for the brat of this accurſed duke,—
His father ſlew my father, he ſhall die.

Tut. And I, my lord, will bear him company.

CLI. Soldiers, away with him.

Tut. Ah, Clifford, murther not this innocent child,
Leſt thou be hated both of God and man. [Exit, forc'd off.

Cli. How now! is he dead already? Or, is it fear,
That makes him close his eyes? — I'll open them.
Rut. So looks the pent-up lion o'er the wretch
That trembles under his devouring paws:
And so he walks, insulting o'er his prey;
And so he comes, to rend his limbs asunder. —
Ah, gentle Clifford, kill me with thy sword,
And not with such a cruel threat'ning look.
Sweet Clifford, hear me speak before I die; —
I am too mean a subject for thy wrath;
Be thou reveng'd on men, and let me live. [blood
Cli. In vain thou speak'st, poor boy; my father's Hath stopt the passage where thy words should enter.
Rut. Then let my father's blood open it again;
He is a man, and, Clifford, cope with him.
Cli. Had I thy brethren here, their lives, and thine,
Were not revenge sufficient for me:
No, if I dig'd up thy fore-fathers' graves,
And hung their rotten coffins up in chains,
It could not slake mine ire, nor ease my heart.
The sight of any of the house of York
Is as a fury to torment my soul;
And 'till I root out their accursed line,
And leave not one alive, I live in hell.
Therefore —
Rut. O, let me pray before I take my death: —
To thee I pray; Sweet Clifford, pity me!
Cli. Such pity as my rapier's point affords.
Rut. I never did thee harm; Why wilt thou slay me?
Cli. Thy father hath.
Rut. But 'twas ere I was born.
Thou hast one son, for his sake pity me;

Left, in revenge thereof,—ſith God is juſt,—
He be as miſerably ſlain as I.
Ah, let me live in prison all my days;
And when I give occasion of offence,
Then let me die, for now thou haſt no cause.

Cli. No cause?
Thy father ſlew my father; therefore, die.
[ſtabbing him.

Rut. Dii faciant, laudis ſumma ſit iſta tuæ! [dies.

Cli. Plantagenet! I come, Plantagenet!
And this thy ſon's blood, cleaving to my blade,
Shall ruſt upon my weapon, 'till thy blood,
Congeal'd with this, do make me wipe off both. [Exit.

SCENE IV. The ſame. Another Part of them.

Alarums, &c. Enter York.

Yor. The army of the queen hath got the field:
My uncles both are ſlain, in reſcuing me;
And all my followers to the eager foe
Turn back, and fly, like ſhips before the wind,
Or lambs purſu'd by hunger-ſtarved wolves.
My ſons—God knows, what hath bechanced them:
But this I know, They have demean'd themſelves
Like men born to renown, by life, or death.
Three times did Richard make a lane to me;
And thrice cry'd,—Courage, father! fight it out!
And full as oft came Edward to my ſide,
With purple falchion, painted to the hilt
In blood of those that had encounter'd him:
And when the hardieſt warriors did retire,
Richard cry'd,—Charge! and give no foot of ground!
And cry'd—A crown, or elſe a glorious tomb!

A ſcepter, or an earthly ſepulcher!
With this, we charg'd again: but (out, alas!)
We bodg'd again; as I have ſeen a ſwan
With bootleſs labour ſwim againſt the tide,
And ſpend her ſtrength with over-matching waves.
[Alarum heard.
Ah, hark! the fatal followers do purſue;
And I am faint, and cannot fly their fury:
And, were I ſtrong, I would not ſhun their fury:
The ſands are number'd, that make up my life;
Here muſt I ſtay, and here my life muſt end.

Enter Queen, CLIFFORD, NORTHUMBERLAND, and Soldiers.

Come, bloody Clifford, — rough Northumberland, —
I dare your quenchleſs fury to more rage;
I am your but, and I abide your ſhot.

North. Yield to our mercy, proud Plantagenet.

Cli. Ay, to ſuch mercy, as his ruthleſs arm,
With downright payment, ſhew'd unto my father.
Now Phaeton hath tumbl'd from his car,
And made an evening at the noon-tide prick.

Yor. My aſhes, as the phœnix, may bring forth
A bird that will revenge upon you all:
And, in that hope, I throw mine eyes to heaven,
Scorning whate'er you can afflict me with.
Why come you not? what! multitudes, and fear?

Cli. So cowards fight, when they can fly no farther;
So doves do peck the falcon's piercing talons;
So deſperate thieves, all hopeleſs of their lives,
Breath out invectives 'gainſt the officers.

Yor. O, Clifford, but bethink thee once again,
And in thy thought o'er-run my former time:

And, if thou canſt for bluſhing, view this face;
And bite thy tongue, that ſlanders him with cowardiſe
Whoſe frown hath made thee faint and fly ere this.

Cli. I will not bandy with thee word for word;
But buckle with thee blows, twice two for one.

[aſſailing him.

Que. Hold, valiant Clifford! for a thouſand causes,
I would prolong a while the traitor's life: —
Wrath makes him deaf; ſpeak thou, Northumberland.

North. Hold, Clifford; do not honour him ſo much,
To prick thy finger, though to wound his heart:
What valour were it, when a cur doth grin,
For one to thruſt his hand between his teeth,
When he might ſpurn him with his foot away?
It is war's prize, to take all vantages;
And ten to one is no impeach of valour.

[joins with Cli.

Cli. Ay, ay, ſo ſtrives the woodcock with the gin.

North. So doth the coney ſtruggle in the net.

York. So triumph thieves upon their conquer'd booty;
So true men yield, with robbers ſo o'er-match'd.

North. What would your grace have done unto him now?

Que. Brave warriors, Clifford, and Northumberland,
Come make him ſtand upon this mole-hill here;
That raught at mountains with out-ſtretched arms,
Yet parted but the ſhadow with his hand. —
What! was it you, that would be England's king?
Was't you, that revel'd in our parliament,
And made a preachment of your high deſcent?
Where are your meſs of ſons, to back you now?
The wanton Edward, and the luſty George?

And where's that valiant crook-back prodigy,
Dicky your boy, that, with his grumbling voice,
Was wont to chear his dad in mutinies?
Or, with the reſt, where is your darling Rutland?
Look, York; I ſtain'd this † napkin with the blood
That valiant Clifford, with his rapier's point,
Made iſſue from the bosom of the boy:
And, if thine eyes can water for his death,
I give thee this † to dry thy cheeks withal.
Alas, poor York! but that I hate thee deadly,
I ſhould lament thy miserable ſtate.
I pr'ythee, grieve, to make me merry, York.
What, hath thy fiery heart ſo parch'd thine entrails,
That not a tear can fall for Rutland's death?
Why art thou patient, man? thou ſhould'ſt be mad;
And I, to make thee mad, do mock thee thus.
Stamp, rave, and fret, that I may ſing and dance.
Thou would'ſt be fee'd, I ſee, to make me ſport;
York cannot ſpeak, unleſs he wear a crown. —
A crown for York; — and, lords, bow low to him. —
[they give her a paper Crown.
Hold you his hands, whilſt I do ſet it on. — [puts it upon his Head.
Ay, marry, ſir, now looks he like a king!
Ay, this is he that took king Henry's chair;
And this is he was his adopted heir. —
But how is it, that great Plantagenet
Is crown'd ſo ſoon, and broke his ſolemn oath?
As I bethink me, you ſhould not be king,
'Till our king Henry had ſhook hands with death.
And will you pale your head in Henry's glory,
And rob his temples of the diadem,

Now in his life, againſt your holy oath?
O, 'tis a fault too too unpardonable! —
Off with the crown; and, with the crown, his head;
And, whilſt we breath, take time to do him dead.

Cli. That is my office, for my father's death.

Que. Nay, ſtay; let's hear the orisons he makes.

Yor. She-wolf of France, but worſe than wolves of France,
Whose tongue more poisons than the adder's tooth!
How ill-beſeeming is it in thy ſex,
To triumph, like an Amazonian trull,
Upon their woes, whom fortune captivates?
But that thy face is vizard-like, unchanging,
Made impudent with uſe of evil deeds,
I would aſſay, proud queen, to make thee bluſh:
To tell thee whence thou cam'ſt, of whom deriv'd,
Were ſhame enough to ſhame thee, wert thou not ſhameleſs.
Thy father bears the type of king of Naples,
Of both the Sicils, and Jeruſalem;
Yet not ſo wealthy as an Engliſh yeoman.
Hath that poor monarch taught thee to inſult?
It needs not, nor it boots thee not, proud queen;
Unleſs the adage muſt be verify'd,—
That beggars, mounted, run their horſe to death.
'Tis beauty, that doth oft make women proud;
But, God he knows, thy ſhare thereof is ſmall:
'Tis virtue, that doth make them moſt admir'd;
The contrary doth make thee wonder'd at:
'Tis government, that makes them ſeem divine;
The want thereof makes thee abominable:
Thou art as opposite to every good,
As the Antipodes are unto us,

Or as the ſouth to the Septentrion.
O tygreſs' heart, wrapt in a woman's hide!
How could'ſt thou drain the life-blood of the child,
To bid the father wipe his eyes withal,
And yet be ſeen to bear a woman's face?
Women are ſoft, mild, pitiful, and flexible;
Thou ſtern, obdurate, flinty, rough, remorſeleſs.
Bid'ſt thou me rage? why, now thou haſt thy wiſh:
Would'ſt have me weep? why, now thou haſt thy will:
For raging wind blows up inceſſant ſhowers,
And, when the rage allays, the rain begins.
These tears are my ſweet Rutland's obſequies;
And every drop cries vengeance for his death,—
'Gainſt thee, fell Clifford,—and thee, falſe French-woman.

North. Beſhrew me, but his paſſions move me ſo,
That hardly can I check my eyes from tears.

York. That face of his the hungry cannibals [blood:
Would not have touch'd, would not have ſtain'd with
But you are more inhuman, more inexorable,—
O, ten times more,—than tygers of Hyrcania.
See, ruthleſs queen, a hapleſs father's tears:
This cloth thou dip'dſt in blood of my ſweet boy,
And I with tears do waſh the blood away.
Keep thou † the napkin, and go boaſt of this:
And, if thou tell'ſt the heavy ſtory right,
Upon my ſoul, the hearers will ſhed tears;
Yea, even my foes will ſhed faſt-falling tears,
And ſay,—Alas, it was a piteous deed!
There, take † the crown, and, with the crown, my curſe;
And, in thy need, ſuch comfort come to thee,
As now I reap at thy too cruel hand!—
Hard-hearted Clifford, take me from the world;

My ſoul to heaven, my blood upon your heads!
North. Had he been ſlaughter-man of all my kin,
I could not for my life but weep with him,
To ſee how inly ſorrow gripes his ſoul.
Que. What, weeping ripe, my lord Northumberland?
Think but upon the wrong he did us all,
And that will quickly dry thy melting tears. [death.
Cli. Here's † for my oath, here's † for my father's Que. And here's † to right our gentle-hearted king.
[ſtabbing him.
Yor. Open thy gate of mercy, gracious God!
My ſoul flies through these wounds to ſeek out thee.
[dies.
Que. Off with his head, and ſet it on York gates; —
So York may over-look the town of York. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE I. A Plain in Hereford-ſhire.

Drums. Enter EDWARD, and RICHARD, with Forces, marching.

Edw. I wonder, how our princely father 'ſcap'd;
Or whether he be 'ſcap'd away, or no,
From Clifford's and Northumberland's purſuit:
Had he been ta'en, we ſhould have heard the news;
Had he been ſlain, we ſhould have heard the news;
Or, had he 'ſcap'd, methinks, we ſhould have heard
The happy tidings of his good eſcape. —
How fares our brother? why is he ſo ſad?
Ric. I cannot joy, until I be resolv'd
Where our right valiant father is become.

I ſaw him in the battle range about;
And watch'd him, how he ſingl'd Clifford forth.
Methought, he bore him in the thickeſt troop,
As doth a lion in a herd of neat:
Or as a bear, encompaſſ'd round with dogs;
Who having pinch'd a few, and made them cry,
The reſt ſtand all aloof, and bark at him:
So far'd our father with his enemies,
So fled his enemies my warlike father;
Methinks, 'tis prize enough to be his ſon.
See, how the morning opes her golden gates,
And takes her farewel of the glorious ſun!
How well resembles it the prime of youth,
Trim'd like a yonker, prancing to his love?

Edw. Dazzle mine eyes, or do I ſee three ſuns?

Ric. Three glorious ſuns, each one a perfect ſun;
Not ſeparated by the racking clouds,
But ſever'd in a pale clear-ſhining ſky.
See, ſee! they join, embrace, and ſeem to kiſs,
As if they vow'd ſome league inviolable:
Now are they but one lamp, one light, one ſun.
In this the heaven figures ſome event. [of.

Edw. 'Tis wond'rous ſtrange, the like yet never heard
I think, it cites us, brother, to the field;
That we, the ſons of brave Plantagenet,
Each one already blazing by our meeds,
Should, notwithſtanding, join our lights together,
And over-ſhine the earth, as this the world.
Whate'er it bodes, henceforward will I bear
Upon my target three fair ſhining ſuns. [it,

Ric. Nay, bear three daughters; by your leave I ſpeak
You love the breeder better than the male.

Enter a Meſſenger.

But what art thou, whose heavy looks fore-tell
Some dreadful ſtory hanging on thy tongue?

Meſ. Ah, one that was a woful looker-on,
When as the noble duke of York was ſlain,
Your princely father, and my loving lord.

Edw. O, ſpeak no more! for I have heard too much.

Ric. Say how he dy'd, for I will hear it all.

Meſ. Environed he was with many foes;
And ſtood againſt them, as the hope of Troy
Againſt the Greeks, that would have enter'd Troy.
But Hercules himſelf muſt yield to odds;
And many ſtrokes, though with a little axe,
Hew down and fell the hardeſt-timber'd oak,
By many hands your father was ſubdu'd;
But only ſlaughter'd by the ireful arm
Of unrelenting Clifford, and the queen:
Who crown'd the gracious duke, in high deſpight;
Laugh'd in his face; and, when with grief he wept,
The ruthleſs queen gave him, to dry his cheeks,
A napkin ſteeped in the harmleſs blood
Of ſweet young Rutland, by rough Clifford ſlain:
And, after many ſcorns, many foul taunts,
They took his head, and on the gates of York
They ſet the ſame; and there it doth remain,
The ſaddeſt ſpectacle that e'er I view'd.

Edw. Sweet duke of York, our prop to lean upon;
Now thou art gone, we have no ſtaff, no ſtay!—
O Clifford, boiſtrous Clifford, thou haſt ſlain
The flower of Europe for his chivalry;
And treacherouſly haſt thou vanquiſh'd him,
For, hand to hand, he would have vanquiſh'd thee!—

14 Hewes downe and fells.

Now my ſoul's palace is become a prison:
Ah, would ſhe break from hence! that this my body
Might in the ground be closed up in reſt:
For never henceforth ſhall I joy again;
Never, o, never, ſhall I ſee more joy.

Ric. I cannot weep; for all my body's moiſture
Scarce ſerves to quench my furnace-burning heart:
Nor can my tongue unload my heart's great burthen;
For ſelf-ſame wind, that I ſhould ſpeak withal,
Is kindling coals, that fire all my breaſt,
And burn me up with flames, that tears would quench.
To weep, is to make leſs the depth of ſorrow:
Tears, then, for babes; blows, and revenge, for me!—
Richard, I bear thy name, I'll venge thy death,
Or die renowned by attempting it.

Edw. His name that valiant duke hath left with thee;
His dukedom and his chair with me is left.

Ric. Nay, if thou be that princely eagle's bird,
Shew thy deſcent by gazing 'gainſt the ſun:
For chair and dukedom, throne and kingdom ſay;
Either that is thine, or elſe thou wert not his.

Drums. Enter Warwick, Mountague, and Others, with Forces.

War. How now, fair lords? What fare? what news abroad?

Ric. Great lord of Warwick, if we ſhould recount
Our baleful news, and, at each word's deliverance,
Stab poniards in our fleſh, 'till all were told,
The words would add more anguiſh than the wounds.
O valiant lord, the duke of York is ſlain.

Edw. Ah, Warwick, Warwick, that Plantagenet
Which held thee dearly, as his ſoul's redemption,

10 fires all my breſt, | And burnes

Is by the ſtern lord Clifford done to death!

War. Ten days ago, I drown'd these news in tears:
And now, to add more measure to your woes,
I come to tell you things ſince then befall'n.
After the bloody fray at Wakefield fought,
Where your brave father breath'd his lateſt gaſp,
Tidings, as ſwiftly as the poſts could run,
Were brought me of your loſs, and his depart.
I then in London, keeper of the king,
Muſter'd my ſoldiers, gather'd flocks of friends,
March'd toward Saint Alban's to intercept the queen,
Bearing the king in my behalf along:
For by my ſcouts I was advertised,
That ſhe was coming with a full intent
To daſh our late decree in parliament,
Touching king Henry's oath, and your ſucceſſion.
Short tale to make,— We at Saint Alban's met,
Our battles join'd, and both ſides fiercely fought:
But, whether 'twas the coldneſs of the king,
Who look'd full gently on his warlike queen,
That rob'd my ſoldiers of their heated ſpleen;
Or whether 'twas report of her ſucceſs;
Or more than common fear of Clifford's rigour,
Who thunders to his captives — blood and death,
I cannot judge: but, to conclude with truth,
Their weapons like to lightning came and went;
Our ſoldiers' — like the night-owl's lazy flight,
Or like an idle threſher with a flail,—
Fell gently down, as if they ſtruck their friends.
I cheer'd them up with juſtice of the cause,
With promise of high pay and great rewards:
But all in vain; they had no heart to fight,

And we (in them) no hope to win the day,
So that we fled; the king, unto the queen;
Lord George your brother, Norfolk, and myſelf,
In haſte, poſt haſte, are come to join with you;
For in the marches here, we heard, you were,
Making another head to fight again.

Edw. Where is the duke of Norfolk, gentle Warwick?
And when came George from Burgundy to England?

War. Some ſix miles off the duke is with his power:
And for your brother,—he was lately ſent,
From your kind aunt, dutcheſs of Burgundy,
With aid of ſoldiers to this needful war.

Ric. 'Twas odds, belike, when valiant Warwick fled:
Oft have I heard his praiſes in purſuit;
But ne'er, 'till now, his ſcandal of retire.

War. Nor now my ſcandal, Richard, doſt thou hear:
For thou ſhalt know, this ſtrong right-hand of mine
Can pluck the diadem from faint Henry's head,
And wring the awful ſcepter from his fiſt;
Were he as famous and as bold in war,
As he is fam'd for mildneſs, peace, and prayer.

Ric. I know it well, lord Warwick: blame me not;
'Tis love, I bear thy glories, makes me ſpeak.
But, in this troublous time, what's to be done?
Shall we go throw away our coats of ſteel,
And wrap our bodies in black mourning gowns,
Numb'ring our Ave-maries with our beads?
Or ſhall we on the helmets of our foes
Tell our devotion with revengeful arms?
If for the laſt, ſay—Ay, and to it, lords.

War. Why, therefore Warwick came to ſeek you out;
And therefore comes my brother Mountague.

Attend me, lords. The proud inſulting queen,
With Clifford, and the haught Northumberland,
And, of their feather, many more proud birds,
Have wrought the easy-melting king like wax:
He ſwore conſent to your ſucceſſion,
His oath enrolled in the parliament;
And now to London all the crew are gone,
To fruſtrate both his oath, and what beſide
May make againſt the houſe of Lancaſter.
Their power, I think, is thirty thousand ſtrong:
Now, if the help of Norfolk, and myſelf,
With all the friends that thou, brave earl of March,
Among the loving Welſhmen canſt procure,
Will but amount to five and twenty thousand,
Why, via! to London will we march amain;
And once again beſtride our foaming ſteeds,
And once again cry — Charge upon the foe,
But never once again turn back and fly.

Ric. Ay, now, methinks, I hear great Warwick ſpeak:
Ne'er may he live to ſee a ſun-ſhine day,
That cries — Retire, when Warwick bids him ſtay.

Edw. Lord Warwick, on thy ſhoulder will I lean;
And when thou fail'ſt, (as God forbid the hour!)
Muſt Edward fall, Which peril heaven forefend!

War. No longer earl of March, but duke of York;
The next degree is, England's royal king:
For king of England ſhalt thou be proclaim'd
In every borough as we paſs along;
And he, that caſts not up his cap for joy,
Shall for the fault make forfeit of his head.
King Edward, — valiant Richard, — Mountague, —
Stay we no longer dreaming of renown,

But ſound the trumpets, and about our taſk.
Ric. Then, Clifford, were thy heart as hard as ſteel,
(As thou haſt ſhewn it flinty by thy deeds)
I come to pierce it,—or to give thee mine. [for us!
Edw. Then ſtrike up, drums;—God, and ſaint George,

Enter a Meſſenger.

War. How now? what news?
Meſ. The duke of Norfolk ſends you word by me,
The queen is coming with a puiſſant hoſt;
And craves your company for ſpeedy counſel.
War. Why then it ſorts, brave warriors: Let's away.
[Exeunt, marching.

SCENE II. Before York.

Enter, with Drum and Colours, marching, King Henry, and Queen, Prince, Clifford, Northumberland, and Forces.

Que. Welcome, my lord, to this brave town of York.
Yonder's the head of that arch-enemy,
That ſought to be encompaſſ'd with your crown:
Doth not the object cheer your heart, my lord?
Kin. Ay, as the rocks cheer them that fear their
To ſee this ſight, it irks my very ſoul:— [wreck;—
With-hold revenge, dear God! 'tis not my fault,
Nor wittingly have I infring'd my vow.
Cli. My gracious liege, this too much lenity,
And harmful pity, muſt be lay'd aſide.
To whom do lions caſt their gentle looks?
Not to the beaſt that would uſurp their den.
Whoſe hand is that, the foreſt bear doth lick?
Not his, that ſpoils her young before her face.
Who 'ſcapes the lurking ſerpent's mortal ſting?

Not he, that ſets his foot upon her back.
The ſmalleſt worm will turn, being trodden on;
And doves will peck, in ſafe-guard of their brood.
Ambitious York did level at thy crown,
Thou ſmiling, while he knit his angry brows:
He, but a duke, would have his ſon a king,
And raise his iſſue like a loving ſire;
Thou, being a king, bleſt with a goodly ſon,
Didſt yield conſent to diſ-inherit him,
Which argu'd thee a moſt unloving father.
Unreasonable creatures feed their young:
And though man's face be fearful to their eyes,
Yet, in protection of their tender ones,
Who hath not ſeen them, even with those wings
Which ſometime they have us'd in fearful flight,
Make war with him that climb'd unto their neſt,
Offering their own lives in their young's defence?
For ſhame, my liege, make them your precedent!
Were it not pity, that this † goodly boy
Should lose his birth-right by his father's fault;
And long hereafter ſay unto his child,—
What my great-grandfather and grandſire got,
My careleſs father fondly gave away?
Ah, what a ſhame were this! Look on the boy;
And let his manly face, which promiseth
Succeſſful fortune, ſteel thy melting heart,
To hold thine own, and leave thine own with him.

Kin. Full well hath Clifford play'd the orator,
Inferring arguments of mighty force.
But, Clifford, tell me, didſt thou never hear,—
That things ill-got had ever bad ſucceſs?
And happy always was it for that ſon,

Whose father for his hoarding went to hell?
I'll leave my ſon my virtuous deeds behind;
And 'would, my father had left me no more!
For all the reſt is held at ſuch a rate,
As brings a thouſand fold more care to keep,
Than in poſſeſſion any jot of pleaſure. —
Ah, cousin York! 'would, thy beſt friends did know,
How it doth grieve me that thy head is here! [nigh,

Que. My lord, cheer up your ſpirits; our foes are
And this ſoft courage makes your followers faint.
You promis'd knighthood to our forward ſon;
Unſheath your ſword, and dub him presently: —
Edward, kneel down.

Kin. Edward Plantagenet, arise a knight;
And learn this leſſon,— Draw thy ſword in right.

Pri. My gracious father, by your kingly leave,
I'll draw it as apparent to the crown,
And in that quarrel use it to the death.

Cli. Why, that is ſpoken like a toward prince.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Royal commanders, be in readineſs:
For, with a band of thirty thouſand men,
Comes Warwick, backing of the duke of York;
And, in the towns as they do march along,
Proclaims him king, and many fly to him:
Darraign your battle, for they are at hand.

Cli. I would, your highneſs would depart the field;
The queen hath beſt ſucceſs when you are abſent.

Que. Ay, good my lord, and leave us to our fortune.

Kin. Why, that's my fortune too; therefore I'll ſtay.

North. Be it with resolution then to fight.

Pri. My royal father, cheer these noble lords,

And hearten those that fight in your defence:
Unsheath your sword, good father; cry, Saint George!

Drums. Enter EDWARD, Duke of York; with GEORGE, and RICHARD, his Brothers; WARWICK, Norfolk, Mountague, and Soldiers.

Edw. Now, perjur'd Henry, wilt thou kneel for grace,
And set thy diadem upon my head;
Or bide the mortal fortune of the field?

Que. Go rate thy minions, proud insulting boy:
Becomes it thee to be thus bold in terms,
Before thy sovereign, and thy lawful king?

Edw. I am his king, and he should bow his knee;
I was adopted heir by his consent:
Since when, his oath is broke; for, as I hear,
You — that are king, though he do wear the crown,—
Have caus'd him, by new act of parliament,
To blot out me, and put his own son in.

Cli. And reason too;
Who should succeed the father, but the son?

Ric. Art thou there, butcher? — O, I cannot speak!

Cli. Ay, crook-back; here I stand, to answer thee,
Or any he the proudest of thy sort.

Ric. 'Twas you that kill'd young Rutland, was it not?

Cli. Ay, and old York, and yet not satisfy'd.

Ric. For God's sake, lords, give signal to the fight.

War. What say'st thou, Henry, wilt thou yield the crown? [you speak?

Que. Why, how now, long-tongu'd Warwick? dare
When you and I met at Saint Alban's last,
Your legs did better service than your hands.

War. Then 'twas my turn to fly, and now 'tis thine.

Cli. You said so much before, and yet you fled.

War. 'Twas not your valour, Clifford, drove me thence.
North. No, nor your manhood, that durſt make you ſtay.
Ric. Northumberland, I hold thee reverently; —
Break off the parley; for ſcarce I can refrain
The execution of my big ſwoln heart
Upon that Clifford there, that cruel child-killer.
Cli. I ſlew thy father; Call'ſt thou him a child?
Ric. Ay, like a daſtard, and a treacherous coward,
As thou didſt kill our tender brother Rutland;
But, ere ſun-ſet, I'll make thee curſe the deed. [ſpeak.
Kin. Have done with words, my lords, and hear me
Que. Defy them then, or elſe hold cloſe thy lips.
Kin. I pr'ythee, give no limits to my tongue;
I am a king, and priviledg'd to ſpeak.
Cli. My liege, the wound, that bred this meeting here,
Cannot be cur'd by words; therefore be ſtill.
Ric. Then, executioner, unſheath thy ſword:
By him that made us all, I am resolv'd,
That Clifford's manhood lies upon his tongue.
Edw. Say, Henry, ſhall I have my right, or no?
A thouſand men have broke their faſts to-day,
That ne'er ſhall dine, unleſs thou yield the crown.
War. If thou deny, their blood upon thy head;
For York in juſtice puts his armour on.
Pri. If that be right, which Warwick ſays is right,
There is no wrong, but every thing is right.
Ric. Whoever got thee, there thy mother ſtands;
For, well I wot, thou haſt thy mother's tongue.
Que. But thou art neither like thy ſire, nor dam;
But like a foul miſ-ſhapen ſtigmatick,
Mark'd by the deſtinies to be avoided,
As venom'd toads, or lizards' dreadful ſtings.

Ric. Iron of Naples, hid with Engliſh gilt,
Whose father bears the title of a king,
(As if a channel ſhould be call'd the ſea)
Sham'ſt thou not, knowing whence thou art extraught,
To let thy tongue detect thy baſe born heart?

Edw. A wiſp of ſtraw were worth a thousand crowns,
To make this ſhameleſs callet know herſelf. —
Helen of Greece was fairer far than thou,
Although thy husband may be Menelaus;
And ne'er was Agamemnon's brother wrong'd
By that falſe woman, as this † king by thee.
His father revel'd in the heart of France,
And tam'd the king, and made the dauphin ſtoop;
And, had he † match'd according to his ſtate,
He might have kept that glory to this day:
But, when he took a beggar to his bed,
And grac'd thy poor ſire with his bridal day;
Even then that ſun-ſhine brew'd a ſhower for him,
That waſh'd his father's fortunes forth of France,
And heap'd ſedition on his crown at home.
For what hath broach'd this tumult, but thy pride?
Hadſt thou been meek, our title ſtill had ſlept;
And we, in pity of the gentle king,
Had ſlipt our claim until another age.

Geo. But, when we ſaw our ſun-ſhine made thy ſpring,
And that thy ſummer bred us no encreaſe,
We ſet the axe to thy uſurping root:
And though the edge hath ſomething hit ourſelves,
Yet, know thou, ſince we have begun to ſtrike,
We'll never leave, 'till we have hewn thee down,
Or bath'd thy growing with our heated bloods.

Edw. And, in this reſolution, I defy thee;

Not willing any further conference,
Since thou deny'ſt the gentle king to ſpeak. —
Sound, trumpets! — let our bloody colours wave! —
And either victory, or elſe a grave.

Que. Stay, Edward.

Edw. No, wrangling woman, I'll no longer ſtay:
Thy words will coſt ten thouſand lives to-day.

[Exeunt, marching.

SCENE III. The ſame. A Field of Battle.

Alarums. Excurſions. Enter WARWICK.

War. Fore-ſpent with toil, as runners with a race,
I lay me down a little while to breath:
For ſtrokes receiv'd, and many blows repay'd,
Have rob'd my ſtrong-knit ſinews of their ſtrength,
That, ſpight of ſpight, needs muſt I reſt a while.

Enter EDWARD, running.

Edw. Smile, gentle heaven! or ſtrike, ungentle death!
For this world frowns, and Edward's ſun is clouded.

War. How now, my lord? what hap? what hope of good?

Enter GEORGE.

Geo. Our hap is loſs, our hope but ſad deſpair;
Our ranks are broke, and ruin follows us:
What counſel give you? whither ſhall we fly?

Edw. Bootleſs is flight, they follow us with wings;
And weak we are, and cannot ſhun purſuit.

Enter RICHARD.

Ric. Ah, Warwick, why haſt thou withdrawn thyſelf?
Thy brother's blood the thirſty earth hath drunk,
Broach'd with the ſteely point of Clifford's lance:
And, in the very pangs of death, he cry'd,
Like to a diſmal clangor heard from far,—

Warwick, revenge! brother, revenge my death!
So underneath the belly of their ſteeds,
That ſtain'd their fet-locks in his ſmoaking blood,
The noble gentleman gave up the ghoſt.
War. Then let the earth be drunken with our blood:
I'll kill my horſe, because I will not fly.
Why ſtand we like ſoft-hearted women here,
Wailing our loſſes, while the foe doth rage;
And look upon, as if the tragedy
Were play'd in jeſt by counterfeiting actors?
Here on my † knee I vow to God above,
I'll never pauſe again, never ſtand ſtill,
'Till either death hath clos'd these eyes of mine,
Or fortune giv'n me measure of revenge.
Edw. O Warwick, I do bend † my knee with thine;
And, in this vow, do chain my ſoul to thine. —
And, ere my knee rise from the earth's cold face,
I throw my hands, mine eyes, my heart to Thee,
Thou ſetter up and plucker down of kings;
Beſeeching thee,— if with thy will it ſtands,
That to my foes this body muſt be prey,—
Yet that thy brazen gates of heaven may ope,
And give ſweet paſſage to my ſinful ſoul! —
Now, lords, take leave until we meet again,
Where-e'er it be, in heaven, or in earth. [wick,
Ric. Brother, give me thy hand; — and, gentle War-
Let me embrace thee in my weary arms: —
I, that did never weep, now melt with woe,
That winter ſhould cut off our ſpring-time ſo.
War. Away, away! Once more, ſweet lords, farewel.
Geo. Yet let us all together to our troops:
And give them leave to fly that will not ſtay:

And call them pillars, that will ſtand to us;
And, if we thrive, promise them ſuch rewards
As victors wear at the Olympian games:
This may plant courage in their quailing breaſts;
For yet is hope of life, and victory.
Fore-ſlow no longer, make we hence amain. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. The ſame. Another Part of it.

Excurſions. Enter RICHARD, and CLIFFORD.

Ric. Now, Clifford, I have ſingl'd thee alone:
Suppoſe, this arm is for the duke of York,
And this for Rutland; both bound to revenge,
Wert thou environ'd with a brazen wall.

Cli. Now, Richard, I am with thee here alone:
This is the hand, that ſtab'd thy father York;
And this the hand, that ſlew thy brother Rutland;
And here's the heart, that triumphs in their death,
And cheers these hands, that ſlew thy ſire and brother,
To execute the like upon thyſelf;
And ſo, have at thee. [they fight.

Enter Warwick, as joining Richard;
CLIFFORD flies.

Ric. Nay, Warwick, ſingle out ſome other chace;
For I myſelf will hunt this wolf to death. [Exeunt.

SCENE V. The ſame. Another Part.

Alarums. Enter King Henry.

Kin. This battle fares like to the morning's war,
When dying clouds contend with growing light;
What time the ſhepherd, blowing of his nails,
Can neither call it perfect day, nor night.
Now ſways it this way, like a mighty ſea,

Forc'd by the tide to combat with the wind;
Now ſways it that way, like the ſelf-ſame ſea,
Forc'd to retire by fury of the wind:
Sometime, the flood prevails; and then, the wind;
Now, one the better; then, another beſt;
Both tugging to be victors, breaſt to breaſt,
Yet neither conqueror, nor conquered:
So is the equal poize of this fell war.
Here on this mole-hill will I ſit me down.
To whom God will, there be the victory!
For Margaret my queen, and Clifford too,
Have chid me from the battle; ſwearing both,
They proſper beſt of all when I am thence.
'Would, I were dead! if God's good will were ſo:
For what is in this world, but grief and woe?
O God! methinks, it were a happy life,
To be no better than a homely ſwain;
To ſit upon a hill, as I do now,
To carve out dials quaintly, point by point,
Thereby to ſee the minutes how they run:
How many make the hour full compleat,
How many hours bring about the day,
How many days will finiſh up the year,
How many years a mortal man may live.
When this is known, then to divide the time:
So many hours muſt I tend my flock,
So many hours muſt I take my reſt,
So many hours muſt I cóntemplate,
So many hours muſt I ſport myſelf;
So many days my ewes have been with young,
So many weeks ere the poor fools will ean,
So many years ere I ſhall ſhear the fleece:

21 makes 25 Times

So minutes, hours, days, weeks, months, and years,
Paſt over to the end they were created,
Would bring white hairs unto a quiet grave.
Ah, what a life were this! how ſweet! how lovely!
Gives not the hawthorn buſh a ſweeter ſhade
To ſhepherds, looking on their ſilly ſheep,
Than doth a rich embroider'd canopy
To kings, that fear their ſubjects' treachery?
O, yes, it doth; a thouſand fold it doth.
And to conclude,— the ſhepherd's homely curds,
His cold thin drink out of his leather bottle,
His wonted ſleep under a freſh tree's ſhade,
All which ſecure and ſweetly he enjoys,
Is far beyond a prince's delicates,
His viands ſparkling in a golden cup,
His body couched in a curious bed,
When care, miſtruſt, and treason waits on him.

Alarums. Enter a Son that has kill'd his Father, dragging in the Body.

Son. Ill blows the wind, that profits nobody.
This man, whom hand to hand I ſlew in fight,
May be poſſeſſed with ſome ſtore of crowns:
And I, that (haply) take them from him now,
May yet ere night yield both my life and them
To ſome man elſe, as this dead man doth me.
[goes to rifle him.
Who's this? — O God! it is my father's face,
Whom in this conflict I unwares have kill'd.
O heavy times, begetting ſuch events!
From London by the king was I preſſ'd forth;
My father, being the earl of Warwick's man,
Came on the part of York, preſſ'd by his maſter;

And I, who at his hands receiv'd my life,
Have by my hands of life bereaved him. —
Pardon me, God, I knew not what I did! —
And pardon, father, for I knew not thee! —
My tears ſhall wipe away these bloody marks;
And no more words, 'till they have flow'd their fill.

Kin. O piteous ſpectacle! o bloody times!
Whilſt lions war, and battle for their dens,
Poor harmleſs lambs abide their enmity. —
Weep, wretched man, I'll aid thee tear for tear;
And let our hearts, and eyes, like civil war,
Be blind with tears, and break o'ercharg'd with grief.

Enter a Father that has kill'd his Son, bringing in the Body.

Fat. Thou that ſo ſtoutly haſt reſiſted me,
Give me thy gold, if thou haſt any gold;
For I have bought it with an hundred blows. —
But let me ſee! is this our foe-man's face?
Ah, no, no, no, it is mine only ſon! —
Ah, boy, if any life be left in thee,
Throw up thine eye; ſee, ſee, what ſhowers arise,
Blown by the windy tempeſt of my heart,
Upon thy wounds, that kill mine eye and heart! —
O, pity, God, this miſerable age! —
What ſtratagems, how fell, how butcherly,
Erroneous, mutinous, and unnatural,
This deadly quarrel daily doth beget! —
O boy, thy father gave thee life too late,
And hath bereft thee of thy life too ſoon! [grief!

Kin. Woe above woe! grief more than common
O, that my death would ſtay theſe ruthful deeds! —
O, pity, pity, gentle heaven, pity! —

15 hath 23 killes 25 Stragems

The red rose and the white are on his face,
The fatal colours of our ſtriving houses:
The one, his purple blood right well resembles;
The other, his pale cheek (methinks) presenteth:
Wither one rose, and let the other flouriſh!
If you contend, a thousand lives muſt wither.

Son. How will my mother, for a father's death,
Take on with me, and ne'er be ſatiſfy'd?

Fat. How will my wife, for ſlaughter of my ſon,
Shed ſeas of tears, and ne'er be ſatiſfy'd?

Kin. How will the country, for these woful chances,
Miſ think the king, and not be ſatiſfy'd?

Son. Was ever ſon, ſo ru'd a father's death?

Fat. Was ever father, ſo bemoan'd his ſon?

Kin. Was ever king, ſo griev'd for ſubjects' woe?
Much is your ſorrow; mine, ten times ſo much.

Son. I'll bear thee hence, where I may weep my fill.
[Exit, with the Body.

Fat. These arms of mine ſhall be thy winding-ſheet;
My heart, ſweet boy, ſhall be thy ſepulcher;
For from my heart thine image ne'er ſhall go:
My ſighing breaſt ſhall be thy funeral bell;
And ſo obſequious will thy father be,
Even for the loſs of thee, having no more,
As Priam was for all his valiant ſons.
I'll bear thee hence; and let them fight that will,
For I have murther'd where I ſhould not kill.
[Exit, with the Body.

Kin. Sad-hearted men, much overgone with care,
Here ſits a king more woful than you are.

Alarums. Excurſions. Enter the Queen, Prince, EXETER, and Others, haſtily.

4 Cheekes 24 Men for

Pri. Fly, father, fly! for all your friends are fled,
And Warwick rages like a chafed bull:
Away! for death doth hold us in purſuit. [main:
Que. Mount you, my lord, towards Berwick poſt a-
Edward and Richard, like a brace of greyhounds
Having the fearful flying hare in ſight,
With fiery eyes, ſparkling for very wrath,
And bloody ſteel graſpt in their ireful hands,
Are at our backs; and therefore hence amain.
Exe. Away! for vengeance comes along with them:
Nay, ſtay not to expoſtulate, make ſpeed;
Or elſe come after, I'll away before.
Kin. Nay, take me with thee, good ſweet Exeter;
Not that I fear to ſtay, but love to go
Whither the queen intends. Forward; away. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. The ſame.

A loud Alarum. Enter CLIFFORD, wounded.

Cli. Here burns my candle out, ay, here it dies, [ſinks.
Which, whilſt it laſted, gave king Henry light.
Ah, Lancaſter, I fear thine over-throw,
More than my body's parting with my ſoul:
My love, and fear, glew'd many friends to thee;
And, now I fall, thy tough commixtures melt.
Impairing Henry, ſtrength'ning miſproud York,
The common people ſwarm like ſummer flies:
And whither fly the gnats, but to the ſun?
And who ſhines now, but Henry's enemy?
O Phœbus, hadſt thou never given conſent
That Phaeton ſhould check thy fiery ſteeds,
Thy burning car never had ſcorch'd the earth:

And, Henry, hadſt thou ſway'd as kings ſhould do,
And as thy father, and his father, did,
Giving no ground unto the houſe of York,
I, and ten thousand in this luckleſs realm,
Had left no mourning widows for our deaths,
And thou this day hadſt kept thy chair in peace.
For what doth cheriſh weeds, but gentle air?
And what makes robbers bold, but too much lenity?
Bootleſs are plaints, and cureleſs are my wounds;
No way to fly, nor ſtrength to hold out flight:
The foe is mercileſs, and will not pity;
And, at their hands, I have deserv'd no pity.
The air hath got into my deadly wounds,
And much effuſe of blood doth make me faint:—
Come, York, and Richard, Warwick, and the reſt;
I ſtab'd your fathers' bosoms, ſplit my breaſt. [faints.

Drums. Enter EDWARD; GEORGE, and RICHARD, his Brothers; WARWICK, Mountague, and Forces.

EDW. Now breath we, lords; good fortune bids us pause,
And ſmooth the frowns of war with peaceful looks.—
Some troops purſue the bloody-minded queen;—
That led calm Henry, though he were a king,
As doth a ſail, fill'd with a fretting guſt,
Command an argoſy to ſtem the waves.
But think you, lords, that Clifford fled with them?

WAR. No, 'tis impoſſible he ſhould eſcape:
For, though before his face I ſpeak the words,
Your brother Richard mark'd him for the grave;
And, whereſoe'er he is, he's ſurely dead.

[Clifford groans.

EDW. Who's ſoul is that which takes her heavy leave?

Ric. A deadly groan, like life in death departing.
Edw. See who it is: and, now the battle's ended,
If friend, or foe, let him be gently us'd.
Ric. Revoke that doom of mercy, for 'tis Clifford;
Who not contented that he lop'd the branch
In hewing Rutland when his leaves put forth,
But ſet his murd'ring knife unto the root
From whence that tender ſpray did ſweetly ſpring,
I mean, our princely father, duke of York.
War. From off the gates of York fetch down the head,
Your father's head, which Clifford placed there:
Inſtead whereof, let his ſupply the room;
Measure for measure muſt be anſwered.
Edw. Bring forth that fatal ſcritch-owl to our houſe,
That nothing ſung but death to us and ours:
Now death ſhall ſtop his dismal threat'ning ſound,
And his ill-boding tongue no more ſhall ſpeak.
[Attendants bring the Body forward.
War. I think, his underſtanding is bereft:—
Speak, Clifford, doſt thou know who ſpeaks to thee?—
Dark cloudy death o'er-ſhades his beams of life,
And he nor ſees, nor hears us what we ſay.
Ric. O, 'would he did! and ſo, perhaps, he doth;
'Tis but his policy to counterfeit,
Because he would avoid ſuch bitter taunts
As in the time of death he gave our father.
Geo. If ſo thou think'ſt, vex him with eager words.
Ric. Clifford, aſk mercy, and obtain no grace.
Edw. Clifford, repent in bootleſs penitence.
War. Clifford, devise excuſes for thy faults.
Geo. While we devise fell tortures for thy faults.
Ric. Thou didſt love York, and I am ſon to York.

1 life and deaths

Edw. Thou pity'dſt Rutland, I will pity thee.
Geo. Where's captain Margaret, to fence you now?
War. They mock thee, Clifford; ſwear as thou waſt wont.
Ric. What, not an oath? nay, then the world goes hard,
When Clifford cannot ſpare his friends an oath: —
I know by that, he's dead; And, by my ſoul,
Would this right hand buy but an hour's life,
That I in all deſpight might rail at him,
I'd chop it off; and with the iſſuing blood
Stifle the villain, whoſe unſtanched thirſt
York and young Rutland could not ſatiſfy.
War. Ay, but he's dead: Off with the traitor's head,
And rear it in the place your father's ſtands. —
And now to London with triumphant march,
There to be crowned England's royal king.
From thence ſhall Warwick cut the ſea to France,
To aſk the lady Bona for thy queen:
So ſhalt thou ſinew both these lands together;
And, having France thy friend, thou ſhalt not dread
The ſcatter'd foe, that hopes to rise again;
For though they cannot greatly ſting to hurt,
Yet look to have them buz, to offend thine ears.
Firſt, will I ſee the coronation;
And then to Britany I'll croſs the ſea,
To effect this marriage, ſo it please my lord.
Edw. Even as thou wilt, ſweet Warwick, let it be:
For on thy ſhoulder do I build my ſeat;
And never will I undertake the thing,
Wherein thy counſel and conſent is wanting. —
Richard, I will create thee duke of Gloſter; —
And George, of Clarence; — Warwick, as ourſelf,

Shall do, and undo, as him pleaseth beſt.
Ric. Let me be duke of Clarence; George, of Gloſter;
For Gloſter's dukedom is too ominous.
War. Tut, that's a fooliſh observation;
Richard, be duke of Gloſter: Now to London,
To ſee these honours in poſſeſſion. [Exeunt.

ACT III.

SCENE I. A Chace in the North of England.

Enter Humphrey, and Sinklo, Keepers; with Croſs-bows in their Hands.

Sin. Under this thick-grown brake we'll ſhroud ourſelves;
For through this lawn anon the deer will come;
And in this covert will we make our ſtand,
Culling the principal of all the deer.
Hum. I'll ſtay above the hill, ſo both may ſhoot.
Sin. That cannot be; the noise of thy croſs-bow
Will ſcare the herd, and ſo my ſhoot is loſt.
Here ſtand we both, and aim we at the beſt:
And, for the time ſhall not ſeem tedious,
I'll tell thee what befel me on a day,
In this ſelf place where now we mean to ſtand.
Hum. Here comes a man, let's ſtay 'till he be paſt.

Enter King Henry, diſguis'd.

K. H. From Scotland am I ſtoln, even of pure love,
To greet mine own land with my wiſhful ſight.
No, Harry, Harry, 'tis no land of thine;
Thy place is fill'd, thy ſcepter wrung from thee,
Thy balm waſh'd off, wherewith thou waſt anointed:
No bending knee will call thee Cæsar now,

No humble ſuitors preaſe to ſpeak for right,
No, not a man comes for redreſs of thee;
For how can I help them, and not myſelf?
Sin. " Ay, here's a deer, whose ſkin's a keeper's fee:"
" This is the quondam king; let's ſeize upon him."
K. H. Let me embrace these four adverſities;
For wise men ſay, it is the wiſeſt courſe.
Hum. " Why linger we? let us lay hands upon him."
Sin. " Forbear a while, we'll hear a little more."
K. H. My queen, and ſon, are gone to France for aid;
And (as I hear) the great commanding Warwick
Is thither gone, to crave the French king's ſiſter
To wife for Edward: If this news be true,
Poor queen, and ſon, your labour is but loſt;
For Warwick is a ſubtle orator,
And Lewis a prince ſoon won with moving words.
By this account, then, Margaret may win him;
For ſhe's a woman to be pity'd much:
Her ſighs will make a battery in his breaſt;
Her tears will pierce into a marble heart;
The tiger will be mild, while ſhe doth mourn;
And Nero will be tainted with remorſe,
To hear, and ſee, her plaints, her briniſh tears.
Ay, but ſhe's come to beg; Warwick, to give:
She, on his left ſide, craving aid for Henry;
He, on his right, aſking a wife for Edward.
She weeps, and ſays — her Henry is depos'd;
He ſmiles, and ſays — his Edward is inſtall'd;
That ſhe, poor wretch, for grief can ſpeak no more:
Whiles Warwick tells his title, ſmooths the wrong,
Inferreth arguments of mighty ſtrength;
And, in conclusion, wins the king from her,

[6] the ſowre Adverſaries

With promise of his ſiſter, and what elſe,
To ſtrengthen and ſupport king Edward's place.
O Margaret, thus 'twill be; and thou (poor ſoul)
Art then forſaken, as thou went'ſt forlorn.

Hum. Say, what art thou, that talk'ſt of kings and queens? [ſtarting out upon him.

K. H. More than I ſeem, and leſs than I was born to:
A man at leaſt, for leſs I ſhould not be;
And men may talk of kings, And why not I?

Hum. Ay, but thou talk'ſt as if thou wert a king.

K. H. Why, ſo I am, in mind; and that's enough.

Hum. But, if thou be a king, where is thy crown?

K. H. My crown is in my heart, not on my head;
Not deck'd with diamonds, and Indian ſtones,
Nor to be ſeen: my crown is call'd, content;
A crown it is, that ſeldom kings enjoy.

Hum. Well, if you be a king crown'd with content,
Your crown content, and you, muſt be contented
To go along with us: for, as we think,
You are the king, king Edward hath depos'd;
And we his ſubjects, ſworn in all allegiance,
Will apprehend you as his enemy.

K. H. But did you never ſwear, and break an oath?

Hum. No, never ſuch an oath; nor will not now.

K. H. Where did you dwell, when I was king of England?

Hum. Here in this country, where we now remain.

K. H. I was anointed king at nine months old;
My father, and my grandfather, were kings;
And you were ſworn true ſubjects unto me:
And, tell me then, have you not broke your oaths?

Sin. No; for we were ſubjects but while you were king.

K. H. Why, am I dead? do I not breath a man?

Ah, ſimple men, you know not what you ſwear.
Look, as I blow this † feather from my face,
And as the air blows it to me again,
Obeying with my wind when I do blow,
And yielding to another when it blows,
Commanded always by the greater guſt;
Such is the lightneſs of you common men.
But do not break your oaths; for, of that ſin,
My mild entreaty ſhall not make you guilty.
Go where you will, the king ſhall be commanded;
And be you kings, command, and I'll obey.

Sin. We are true ſubjects to the king, king Edward.

K. H. So would you be again to Henry,
If he were ſeated as king Edward is.

Sin. We charge you, in God's name, and in the king's,
To go with us unto the officers. [obey'd:

K. H. In God's name, lead; your king's name be
And what God will, that let your king perform;
And what he will, I humbly yield unto. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. London. A Room in the Palace.

Enter Edward, as King; the Lady Grey with him; Clarence, and Gloster, following.

K. E. Brother of Gloſter, at Saint Alban's field
This lady's husband, ſir John Grey, was ſlain,
His lands then ſeiz'd on by the conqueror:
Her ſuit is now, to repoſſeſs thoſe lands;
Which we in juſtice cannot well deny,
Because in quarrel of the houſe of York
The worthy gentleman did loſe his life.

Glo. Your highneſs ſhall do well, to grant her ſuit;
It were diſhonour, to deny it her.

25 Sir Richard Grey

K. E. It were no leſs; but yet I'll make a pause.
Glo. "Yea, is it ſo?"
"I ſee, the lady hath a thing to grant," [to Cla.
"Before the king will grant her humble ſuit." [wind?"
Cla. "He knows the game; How true he keeps the
Glo. "Silence!"
K. E. Widow, we will conſider of your ſuit;
And come ſome other time, to know our mind.
Lad. Right gracious lord, I cannot brook delay:
May't please your highneſs, to resolve me now;
And what your pleasure is, ſhall ſatiſfy me. [lands," Glo. "Ay, widow? then I'll warrant you all your
"An if what pleases him, ſhall pleasure you."
"Fight cloſer, or (good faith) you'll catch a blow."
Cla. "I fear her not, unleſs ſhe chance to fall."
Glo. "God forbid that! for he'll take vantages."
K. E. How many children haſt thou, widow? tell me.
Cla. "I think, he means to beg a child of her."
Glo. "Nay, whip me then; he'll rather give her two."
Lad. Three, my moſt gracious lord.
Glo. "You ſhall have four, if you'll be rul'd by him."
K. E. 'Twere pity, they ſhould lose their father's land.
Lad. Be pitiful, dread lord, and grant it then.
K. E. Lords, give us leave; I'll try this widow's wit.
Glo. "Ay, good leave have you; for you will have"
"leave,"
"Till youth take leave, and leave you to the crutch."
[retiring to a Diſtance with Cla.
K. E. Now tell me, madam, do you love your children?
Lad. Ay, full as dearly as I love myſelf.
K. E. And would you not do much to do them good?
Lad. To do them good, I would ſuſtain ſome harm.

22 Lands

K. E. Then get your husband's lands, to do them good.
Lad. Therefore I came unto your majesty.
K. E. I'll tell you how these lands are to be got.
Lad. So shall you bind me to your highness' service.
K. E. What service wilt thou do me, if I give them?
Lad. What you command, that rests in me to do.
K. E. But you will take exceptions to my boon.
Lad. No, gracious lord, except I cannot do it.
K. E. Ay, but thou canst do what I mean to ask.
Lad. Why, then I will do what your grace commands.
Glo. " He plies her hard; and much rain wears the"
" marble."
Cla. " As red as fire! nay, then her wax will melt."
Lad. Why stops my lord? shall I not hear my task?
K. E. An easy task; 'tis but to love a king.
Lad. That's soon perform'd, because I am a subject.
K. E. Why then, thy husband's lands I freely give thee.
Lad. I take my leave, with many thousand thanks.
Glo. " The match is made, she seals it with a curt'sy."
K. E. But stay thee, 'tis the fruits of love I mean.
Lad. The fruits of love I mean, my loving liege.
K. E. Ay, but (I fear me) in another sense.
What love, think'st thou, I sue so much to get? [ers;
Lad. My love 'till death, my humble thanks, my pray-
That love, which virtue begs, and virtue grants.
K. E. No, by my troth, I did not mean such love.
Lad. Why, then you mean not as I thought you did.
K. E. But now you partly may perceive my mind.
Lad. My mind will never grant what I perceive
Your highness aims at, if I aim aright.
K. E. To tell thee plain, I aim to lye with thee.
Lad. To tell you plain, I had rather lye in prison.

K. E. Why, then thou ſhalt not have thy husband's lands.
Lad. Why, then mine honeſty ſhall be my dower;
For by that loſs I will not purchaſe them.
K. E. Herein thou wrong'ſt thy children mightily.
Lad. Herein your highneſs wrongs both them and me:
But, mighty lord, this merry inclination
Accords not with the ſadneſs of my ſuit;
Please you diſmiſs me, either with ay, or no.
K. E. Ay; if thou wilt ſay, ay, to my requeſt:
No; if thou doſt ſay, no, to my demand.
Lad. Then, no, my lord; my ſuit is at an end.
Glo. "The widow likes him not, ſhe knits her brows."
Cla. "He is the bluntest wooer in chriſtendom."
K. E. "Her looks do argue her replete with modeſty;"
"Her words do ſhew her wit incomparable;"
"All her perfections challenge ſovereignty:"
"One way, or other, ſhe is for a king;"
"And ſhe ſhall be my love, or elſe my queen."—
Say, that king Edward take thee for his queen?
Lad. 'Tis better ſaid than done, my gracious lord:
I am a ſubject fit to jeſt withal,
But far unfit to be a ſovereign.
K. E. Sweet widow, by my ſtate I ſwear to thee,
I ſpeak no more than what my ſoul intends;
And that is, to enjoy thee for my love.
Lad. And that is more than I will yield unto:
I know, I am too mean to be your queen;
And yet too good to be your concubine.
K. E. You cavil, widow; I did mean my queen.
Lad. 'Twill grieve your grace, my ſons ſhould call
you — father. [ther.
K. E. No more, than when my daughters call thee mo-

Thou art a widow, and thou haſt ſome children;
And, by God's mother, I, being but a batchelor,
Have other ſome: why, 'tis a happy thing,
To be the father unto many ſons.
Anſwer no more, for thou ſhalt be my queen.

Glo. "The ghoſtly father now hath done his ſhrift."

Cla. "When he was made a ſhriver, 'twas for ſhift."

K. E. Brothers, you muse what chat we two have had.

Glo. The widow likes it not, for ſhe looks ſad.

K. E. You'd think it ſtrange, if I ſhould marry her.

Cla. To whom, my lord?

K. E. Why, Clarence, to myſelf.

Glo. That would be ten days' wonder, at the leaſt.

Cla. That's a day longer than a wonder laſts.

Glo. By ſo much is the wonder in extreams.

K. E. Well, jeſt on, brothers: I can tell you both,
Her ſuit is granted for her husband's lands.

Enter ſome Noblemen.

1 N. My gracious lord, Henry your foe is taken,
And brought as prisoner to your palace gate.

K. E. See, that he be convey'd unto the tower: —
And go we, brothers, to the man that took him,
To queſtion of his apprehenſion. —
Widow, go you along; — Lords, use her honourably.

[Exeunt King, Lady, Clarence, and Lords.

Glo. Ay, Edward will use women honourably.
'Would he were waſted, marrow, bones, and all,
That from his loins no hopeful branch may ſpring,
To croſs me from the golden time I look for!
And yet, between my ſoul's desire, and me,
(The luſtful Edward's title buried)
Is Clarence, Henry, and his ſon young Edward,

And all the unlook'd-for iſſue of their bodies,
To take their rooms, ere I can place myſelf:
A cold premeditation for my purpose!
Why, then I do but dream on ſovereignty; —
Like one that ſtands upon a promontory,
And ſpies a far-off ſhore where he would tread,
Wiſhing his foot were equal with his eye;
And chides the ſea that ſunders him from thence,
Saying — he'll lade it dry to have his way:
So do I wiſh the crown, being ſo far off;
And ſo I chide the means that keep me from it;
And ſo I ſay — I'll cut the causes off,
Flattering me with impoſſibilities: —
My eye's too quick, my heart o'er-weens too much,
Unleſs my hand and ſtrength could equal them.
Well, ſay there is no kingdom then for Richard;
What other pleasure can the world afford?
I'll make my heaven in a lady's lap,
And deck my body in gay ornaments,
And witch ſweet ladies with my words and looks.
O miserable thought! and more unlikely,
Than to accompliſh twenty golden crowns!
Why, love fore-ſwore me in my mother's womb:
And, for I ſhould not deal in her ſoft laws,
She did corrupt frail nature with ſome bribe
To ſhrink mine arm up like a wither'd ſhrub;
To make an envious mountain on my back,
Where ſits deformity to mock my body;
To ſhape my legs of an unequal ſize;
To diſproportion me in every part,
Like to a chaos, or an unlick'd bear-whelp,
That carries no impreſſion like the dam.

And am I then a man to be belov'd?
O monſtrous fault, to harbour ſuch a thought!
Then, ſince this earth affords no joy to me,
But to command, to check, to o'er-bear ſuch
As are of better perſon than myſelf,
I'll make my heaven — to dream upon the crown;
And, while I live, to account this world but hell,
Until the head, this miſ-ſhap'd trunk doth bear,
Be round-impaled with a glorious crown.
And yet I know not how to get the crown,
For many lives ſtand between me and home:
And I,—like one loſt in a thorny wood,
That rents the thorns, and is rent with the thorns;
Seeking a way, and ſtraying from the way;
Not knowing how to find the open air,
But toiling deſperately to find it out,—
Torment myſelf to catch the Engliſh crown:
And from that torment I will free myſelf,
Or hew my way out with a bloody axe.
Why, I can ſmile, and murther while I ſmile;
And, cry, content, to that which grieves my heart;
And wet my cheeks with artificial tears,
And frame my face to all occaſions:
I'll drown more ſailors than the mermaid ſhall;
I'll ſlay more gazers than the baſiliſk;
I'll play the orator as well as Neſtor,
Deceive more ſlily than Ulyſſes could,
And, like a Sinon, take another Troy:
I can add colours to the cameleon;
Change ſhapes, with Proteus, for advantages,
And ſet the murth'rous Machiavel to ſchool.
Can I do this, and cannot get a crown?

8 Untill my mis-ſhap'd Tranke, that beares this Head,

Tut! were it farther off, I'll pluck it down. [Exit.

SCENE III. France. A Room in ſome Palace.
Flouriſh. Enter LEWIS the French King, and Lady BONA, attended: King takes his State. Then, Enter Queen Margaret, Prince Edward her Son, and the Earl of OXFORD.

LEW. Fair queen of England, worthy Margaret, [riſing.
Sit down with us; it ill befits thy ſtate,
And birth, that thou ſhould'ſt ſtand, while Lewis doth ſit.
Q. M. No, mighty king of France; now Margaret
Muſt ſtrike her ſail, and learn a while to ſerve,
Where kings command. I was, I muſt confeſs,
Great Albion's queen in former golden days:
But now miſchance hath trod my title down,
And with diſhonour lay'd me on the ground;
Where I muſt take like ſeat unto my fortune,
And to my humble ſeat conform myſelf. [deſpair?
LEW. Why, ſay, fair queen, whence ſprings this deep
Q. M. From ſuch a cauſe as fills mine eyes with tears,
And ſtops my tongue, while heart is drown'd in cares.
LEW. Whate'er it be, be thou ſtill like thyſelf, [neck
And ſit thee by our ſide: [ſeats her by him.] yield not thy
To fortune's yoke, but let thy dauntleſs mind
Still ride in triumph over all miſchance.
Be plain, queen Margaret, and tell thy grief;
It ſhall be eas'd, if France can yield relief. [thoughts,
Q. M. Those gracious words revive my drooping
And give my tongue-ty'd ſorrows leave to ſpeak.
Now, therefore, be it known to noble Lewis,
That Henry, ſole poſſeſſor of my love,

Is, of a king, become a baniſh'd man,
And forc'd to live in Scotland a forlorn;
While proud ambitious Edward, duke of York,
Usurps the regal title, and the ſeat
Of England's true anointed lawful king.
This is the cause, that I, poor Margaret,—
With this my ſon, prince Edward, Henry's heir,—
Am come to crave thy juſt and lawful aid;
And, if thou fail us, all our hope is done:
Scotland hath will to help, but cannot help;
Our people and our peers are both miſ-led,
Our treaſure ſeiz'd, our ſoldiers put to flight,
And, as thou ſee'ſt, ourſelves in heavy plight.

Lew. Renowned queen, with patience calm the ſtorm,
While we bethink a means to break it off.

Q. M. The more we ſtay, the ſtronger grows our foe.

Lew. The more I ſtay, the more I'll ſuccour thee.

Q. M. O, but impatience waiteth on true ſorrow.
And ſee, where comes the breeder of my ſorrow.

Enter WARWICK, attended.

Lew. What's he, approacheth boldly to our preſence?

Q. M. Our earl of Warwick, Edward's greateſt friend.

Lew. Welcome, brave Warwick! [coming from his State]
What brings thee to France? [Mar. riſes.

Q. M. Ay, now begins a ſecond ſtorm to riſe;
For this is he, that moves both wind and tide.

War. From worthy Edward, king of Albion,
My lord and ſovereign, and thy vowed friend,
I come,—in kindneſs, and unfeigned love,—
Firſt, to do greetings to thy royal perſon;
And, then, to crave a league of amity;
And, laſtly, to confirm that amity

With nuptial knot, if thou vouchſafe to grant
That virtuous lady Bona, thy fair ſiſter,
To England's king, in lawful marriage.
Q. M. " If that go forward, Henry's hope is done."
War. And, gracious madam, [to Bona.] in our king's behalf,
I am commanded, with your leave and favour,
Humbly to kiſs your hand, and with my tongue
To tell the paſſion of my ſovereign's heart;
Where fame, late ent'ring at his heedful ears,
Hath plac'd thy beauty's image, and thy virtue.
Q. M. King Lewis, — and lady Bona, — hear me ſpeak,
Before you anſwer Warwick. His demand
Springs not from Edward's well-meant honeſt love,
But from deceit, bred by neceſſity:
For how can tyrants ſafely govern home,
Unleſs abroad they purchaſe great alliance?
To prove him tyrant, this reason may ſuffice,—
That Henry liveth ſtill: but were he dead,
Yet here prince Edward ſtands, king Henry's ſon.
Look therefore, Lewis, that by this league and marriage
Thou draw not on thy danger and diſhonour:
For though uſurpers ſway the rule a while,
Yet heavens are juſt, and time ſuppreſſeth wrongs.
War. Injurious Margaret!
Pri. And why not queen?
War. Because thy father Henry did uſurp;
And thou no more art prince, than ſhe is queen.
Oxf. Then Warwick diſannuls great John of Gaunt,
Which did ſubdue the greateſt part of Spain;
And, after John of Gaunt, Henry the fourth,
Whoſe wiſdom was a mirror to the wiſeſt;

And, after that wise prince, Henry the fifth,
Who by his proweſs conquered all France:
From these our Henry lineally deſcends.
War. Oxford, how haps it, in this ſmooth diſcourſe,
You told not, how Henry the ſixth hath loſt
All that which Henry the fifth had gotten?
Methinks, these peers of France ſhould ſmile at that.
But for the reſt,—You tell a pedigree
Of threeſcore and two years; a ſilly time,
To make preſcription for a kingdom's worth.
Oxf. Why, Warwick, canſt thou ſpeak againſt thy liege,
Whom thou obeyed'ſt thirty and ſix years,
And not bewray thy treason with a bluſh?
War. Can Oxford, that did ever fence the right,
Now buckler falſhood with a pedigree?
For ſhame, leave Henry, and call Edward king.
Oxf. Call him my king, by whose injurious doom
My elder brother, the lord Aubrey Vere,
Was done to death? and more than ſo, my father,
Even in the downfal of his mellow'd years,
When nature brought him to the door of death?
No, Warwick, no; while life upholds this arm,
This arm upholds the houſe of Lancaſter.
War. And I the houſe of York.
Lew. Queen Margaret, prince Edward, and lord Oxford,
Vouchſafe, at our requeſt, to ſtand aſide
While I use further conference with Warwick.
Q. M. Heavens grant, that Warwick's words bewitch him not! [retiring, with Oxf. and the Prince.
Lew. Now, Warwick, tell me, even upon thy conſcience,
Is Edward your true king? for I were loth,
To link with him that were not lawful chosen.

War. Thereon I pawn my credit and mine honour.
Lew. But is he gracious in the people's eye?
War. The more, that Henry was unfortunate.
Lew. Then further,—all diſſembling ſet aſide,
Tell me for truth the measure of his love
Unto our ſiſter Bona.
War. Such it ſeems,
As may beſeem a monarch like himſelf.
Myſelf have often heard him ſay, and ſwear,—
That this his love was an eternal plant;
Whereof the root was fix'd in virtue's ground,
The leaves and fruit maintain'd with beauty's ſun;
Exempt from envy, but not from diſdain,
Unleſs the lady Bona quit his pain.
Lew. Now, ſiſter, let us hear your firm reſolve.
Bon. Your grant, or your denial, ſhall be mine:—
Yet I confeſs, [to War.] that often ere this day,
When I have heard your king's deſert recounted,
Mine ear hath tempted judgment to desire. [ward's;
Lew. Then, Warwick, this,—Our ſiſter ſhall be Ed-
And now forthwith ſhall articles be drawn
Touching the jointure that your king muſt make,
Which with her dowry ſhall be counterpoiz'd:—
Draw near, queen Margaret; and be a witneſs,
That Bona ſhall be wife to the Engliſh king.
Pri. To Edward, but not to the Engliſh king.
Q. M. Deceitful Warwick! it was thy device,
By this alliance to make void my ſuit;
Before thy coming, Lewis was Henry's friend.
Lew. And ſtill is friend to him and Margaret:
But if your title to the crown be weak,—
As may appear by Edward's good ſucceſs,—

Then 'tis but reason, that I be releaſ'd
From giving aid, which late I promiſed.
Yet ſhall you have all kindneſs at my hand,
Which your eſtate requires, and mine can yield.
War. Henry now lives in Scotland, at his eaſe;
Where having nothing, nothing can he loſe.
And as for you yourſelf, our quondam queen,—
You have a father able to maintain you;
And better 'twere, you troubl'd him than France.
Q. M. Peace, impudent and ſhameleſs Warwick, peace;
Proud ſetter-up and puller-down of kings!
I will not hence, 'till with my talk and tears
(Both full of truth) I make king Lewis behold
Thy ſly conveyance, and thy lord's falſe love;
For both of you are birds of ſelf-ſame feather.
[Tucket heard.
Lew. Warwick, this is ſome poſt to us, or thee.
Enter a Meſſenger.
Meſ. My lord embaſſador, these † letters are for you;
Sent from your brother, marqueſs Mountague. —
These † from our king unto your majeſty. — [to Lew.
And, madam, these † for you; from whom, I know not.
[to Mar. They all read their Letters.
Oxf. I like it well, that our fair queen and miſtreſs
Smiles at her news, while Warwick frowns at his.
Pri. Nay, mark, how Lewis ſtamps as he were nettl'd:
I hope, all's for the beſt. [queen?
Lew. Warwick, what are thy news?—and yours, fair
Q. M. Mine, ſuch as fill my heart with unhop'd joys.
War. Mine, full of ſorrow and heart's diſcontent.
Lew. What! has your king marry'd the lady Grey?
And now, to ſooth your forgery and his,

Sends me a paper to perſuade me patience?
Is this the alliance that he ſeeks with France?
Dare he presume to ſcorn us in this manner?
Q. M. I told your majeſty as much before:
This proveth Edward's love, and Warwick's honeſty.
War. King Lewis, I here proteſt,—in ſight of heaven,
And by the hope I have of heavenly bliſs,—
That I am clear from this miſdeed of Edward's;
No more my king, for he diſhonours me;
But moſt himſelf, if he could ſee his ſhame.—
Did I forget, that by the houſe of York
My father came untimely to his death?
Did I let paſs the abuſe done to my niece?
Did I impale him with the regal crown;
Did I put Henry from his native right;
And am I guerdon'd at the laſt with ſhame?
Shame on himſelf! for my desert is honour.
And, to repair my honour loſt for him,
I here renounce him, and return to Henry:—
My noble queen, let former grudges paſs,
And henceforth I am thy true ſervitor;
I will revenge his wrong to lady Bona,
And replant Henry in his former ſtate.
Q. M. Warwick, these words have turn'd my hate to love;
And I forgive and quite forget old faults,
And joy that thou becom'ſt king Henry's friend.
War. So much his friend, ay, his unfeigned friend,
That, if king Lewis vouchſafe to furniſh us
With ſome few bands of chosen ſoldiers,
I'll undertake to land them on our coaſt,
And force the tyrant from his ſeat by war.
'Tis not his new-made bride ſhall ſuccour him:

And as for Clarence,—as my letters tell me,
He's very likely now to fall from him;
For matching more for wanton luſt than honour,
Or than for ſtrength and ſafety of our country.

Bon. Dear brother, how ſhall Bona be reveng'd,
But by the help of this diſtreſſed queen?

Q. M. Renowned prince, how ſhall poor Henry live,
Unleſs thou reſcue him from foul deſpair?

Bon. My quarrel, and this Engliſh queen's, are one.

War. And mine, fair lady Bona, joins with yours.

Lew. And mine, with hers, and thine, and Margaret's.
Therefore, at laſt, I firmly am resolv'd,
You ſhall have aid.

Q. M. Let me give humble thanks for all at once.

Lew. Then, England's meſſenger, return in poſt;
And tell falſe Edward, thy ſupposed king,—
That Lewis of France is ſending over maſkers,
To revel it with him and his new bride:
Thou ſee'ſt what's paſt, go fear thy king withal.

Bon. Tell him, In hope he'll prove a widower ſhortly,
I'll wear the willow garland for his ſake.

Q. M. Tell him, My mourning weeds are lay'd aſide,
And I am ready to put armour on.

War. Tell him from me, That he hath done me wrong;
And therefore I'll uncrown him, ere't be long.
There's thy † reward; be gone. [Exit Meſſenger.

Lew. But, Warwick;
Thyſelf, and Oxford, with five thouſand men,
Shall croſs the ſeas, and bid falſe Edward battle:
And, as occaſion ſerves, this noble queen
And prince ſhall follow with a freſh ſupply.
Yet, ere thou go, but anſwer me one doubt;—

28 Thou and

What pledge have we of thy firm loyalty?
War. This shall assure my constant loyalty; —
That, if our queen and this young prince agree,
I'll join mine eldest daughter, and my joy,
To him forthwith in holy wedlock-bands.
Q. M. Yes, I agree, and thank you for your motion: —
Son Edward, she is fair and virtuous,
Therefore delay not, give thy hand to Warwick;
And, with thy hand, thy faith irrevocable,
That only Warwick's daughter shall be thine.
Pri. Yes, I accept her, for she well deserves it;
And here, to pledge my vow, I give my † hand.
Lew. Why stay we now? These soldiers shall be le- [vy'd,—
And thou, lord Bourbon, our high admiral,
Shalt waft them over with our royal fleet. —
I long, 'till Edward fall by war's mischance,
For mocking marriage with a dame of France.
[Exeunt All but Warwick.
War. I came from Edward as embassador,
But I return his sworn and mortal foe:
Matter of marriage was the charge he gave me,
But dreadful war shall answer his demand.
Had he none else to make a stale, but me?
Then none but I shall turn his jest to sorrow.
I was the chief that rais'd him to the crown,
And I'll be chief to bring him down again:
Not that I pity Henry's misery,
But seek revenge on Edward's mockery. [Exit.

ACT IV.

SCENE I. London. A Room in the Palace.

Enter CLARENCE, GLOSTER, SOMERSET, MOUNTAGUE, and Others.

GLO. Now tell me, brother Clarence, what think you
Of this new marriage with the lady Grey?
Hath not our brother made a worthy choice?

CLA. Alas, you know, 'tis far from hence to France;
How could he ſtay 'till Warwick made return?

SOM. My lords, forbear this talk; here comes the king.

GLO. And his well-chosen bride.

CLA. I mind to tell him plainly what I think.

Flouriſh. Enter King Edward, attended; Lady Grey, as Queen; Pembroke, Stafford, HASTINGS, and divers Others.

K. E. Now, brother of Clarence, how like you our choice,
That you ſtand penſive, as half malecontent?

CLA. As well as Lewis of France, or the earl of Warwick;
Which are ſo weak of courage, and in judgment,
That they'll take no offence at our abuſe.

K. E. Suppose, they take offence without a cause,
They are but Lewis and Warwick; I am Edward,
Your king and Warwick's, and muſt have my will.

GLO. And you ſhall have your will, because our king:
Yet haſty marriage ſeldom proveth well.

K. E. Yea, brother Richard, are you offended too?

GLO. Not I:
No; God forbid, that I ſhould wiſh them ſever'd,
Whom God hath join'd together: ay, and 'twere pity,
To ſunder them that yoke ſo well together.

K. E. Setting your ſcorns, and your miſlike, aſide,
Tell me ſome reason, why the lady Grey
Should not become my wife, and England's queen:—

And you too, Somerſet, and Mountague,
Speak freely what you think.

Cla. Then this is my opinion,—that king Lewis
Becomes your enemy, for mocking him
About the marriage of the lady Bona.

Glo. And Warwick, doing what you gave in charge,
Is now diſhonoured by this new marriage.

K. E. What, if both Lewis and Warwick be appeas'd,
By ſuch invention as I can devise?

Mou. Yet to have join'd with France in ſuch alliance,
Would more have ſtrengthen'd this our commonwealth
'Gainſt foreign ſtorms, than any home-bred marriage.

Has. Why, knows not Mountague, that of itſelf
England is ſafe, if true within itſelf?

Mou. Yes; but the ſafer, when 'tis back'd with France.

Has. 'Tis better using France, than truſting France:
Let us be back'd with God, and with the ſeas,
Which he hath given for fence impregnable,
And with their helps only defend ourſelves;
In them, and in ourſelves, our ſafety lies.

Cla. For this one ſpeech, lord Haſtings well deserves
To have the heir of the lord Hungerford.

K. E. Ay, what of that? it was my will, and grant;
And, for this once, my will ſhall ſtand for law. [well,

Glo. And yet, methinks, your grace hath not done
To give the heir and daughter of lord Scales
Unto the brother of your loving bride;
She better would have fitted me, or Clarence:
But in your bride you bury brotherhood.

Cla. Or elſe you would not have beſtow'd the heir
Of the lord Bonville on your new wife's ſon,
And leave your brothers to go ſpeed elſewhere.

K. E. Alas, poor Clarence! is it for a wife,
That thou art malecontent? I will provide thee.

Cla. In choosing for yourſelf, you ſhew'd your judg-
Which being ſhallow, you ſhall give me leave [ment:
To play the broker in mine own behalf;
And, to that end, I ſhortly mind to leave you.

K. E. Leave me, or tarry, Edward will be king,
And not be ty'd unto his brother's will.

Que. My lords, before it pleas'd his majeſty
To raise my ſtate to title of a queen,
Do me but right, and you muſt all confeſs,—
That I was not ignoble of deſcent,
And meaner than myſelf have had like fortune.
But as this title honours me and mine,
So your diſlikes, to whom I would be pleasing,
Do cloud my joys with danger and with ſorrow.

K. E. My love, forbear to fawn upon their frowns:
What danger, or what ſorrow can befal thee,
So long as Edward is thy conſtant friend,
And their true ſovereign, whom they muſt obey?
Nay, whom they ſhall obey, and love thee too,
Unleſs they ſeek for hatred at my hands:
Which if they do, yet will I keep thee ſafe,
And they ſhall feel the vengeance of my wrath.

Glo. I hear, yet ſay not much, but think the more.

Enter Meſſenger.

K. E. Now, meſſenger, what letters, or what news,
From France?

Meſ. My liege, no letters; and few words,
But ſuch as I (without your ſpecial pardon)
Dare not relate.

K. E. Go to, we pardon thee: therefore, in brief,

16 Doth 29 My Soveraigne Liege

Tell me their words as near as thou canſt gueſs them.
What anſwer makes king Lewis unto our letters?

Meſ. At my depart, these were his very words;
Go tell falſe Edward, thy ſupposed king,—
That Lewis of France is ſending over maſkers,
To revel it with him and his new bride.

K. E. Is Lewis ſo brave? belike, he thinks me Henry.
But what ſaid lady Bona to my marriage?

Meſ. These were her words, utter'd with mild diſdain:
Tell him, in hope he'll prove a widower ſhortly,
I'll wear the willow garland for his ſake.

K. E. I blame her not, ſhe could ſay little leſs;
She had the wrong. But what ſaid Henry's queen?
For I have heard, that ſhe was there in place.

Meſ. Tell him, quoth ſhe, my mourning weeds are done,
And I am ready to put armour on.

K. E. Belike, ſhe minds to play the Amazon.
But what ſaid Warwick to these injuries?

Meſ. He, more incenſ'd againſt your majeſty
Than all the reſt, diſcharg'd me with these words;
Tell him from me, that he hath done me wrong;
And therefore I'll uncrown him, ere't be long.

K. E. Ha! durſt the traitor breath out ſo proud words?
Well, I will arm me, being thus fore-warn'd:
They ſhall have wars, and pay for their presumption.
But ſay, is Warwick friends with Margaret? [friendſhip,

Meſ. Ay, gracious ſovereign; they are ſo link'd in
That young prince Edward marries Warwick's daughter.

Cla. Belike, the elder; Clarence will have the younger.
Now, brother king, farewel, and ſit you faſt,
For I will hence to Warwick's other daughter;
That, though I want a kingdom, yet in marriage

I may not prove inferior to yourſelf: —
You, that love me and Warwick, follow me.
[Exit. SOMERSET follows.
Glo. " Not I:"
" My thoughts aim at a further matter; I"
" Stay not for love of Edward, but the crown."
K. E. Clarence and Somerſet both gone to Warwick!
Yet am I arm'd againſt the worſt can happen;
And haſte is needful in this deſperate caſe. —
Pembroke, and Stafford, you in our behalf
Go levy men, and make prepare for war;
They are already, or quickly will be landed:
Myſelf in perſon will ſtraight follow you.
[Exeunt Pemb. and Staf.
But, ere I go, Haſtings, — and Mountague, —
Reſolve my doubt. You twain, of all the reſt,
Are near to Warwick, by blood, and by alliance:
Tell me, if you love Warwick more than me?
If it be ſo, then both depart to him;
I rather wiſh you foes, than hollow friends:
But if you mind to hold your true obedience,
Give me aſſurance with ſome friendly vow,
That I may never have you in ſuſpect.
Mou. So God help Mountague, as he proves true!
Has. And Haſtings, as he favours Edward's cauſe!
K. E. Now, brother Richard, will you ſtand by us?
Glo. Ay, in deſpight of all that ſhall withſtand you.
K. E. Why ſo; then am I ſure of victory.
Now therefore let us hence; and loſe no hour,
'Till we meet Warwick with his foreign power. [Exeunt.

SCENE II. A Plain in Warwickſhire.

6 for the love

Enter WARWICK, Oxford, and Forces.

WAR. Truſt me, my lord, all hitherto goes well;
The common people by numbers ſwarm to us.

Enter CLARENCE, and Somerſet.

But, ſee, where Somerſet and Clarence comes; —
Speak ſuddenly, my lords, are we all friends?

CLA. Fear not that, my lord. [wick; —

WAR. Then, gentle Clarence, welcome unto War-
And welcome, Somerſet: — I hold it cowardice,
To reſt miſtruſtful where a noble heart
Hath pawn'd an open hand in ſign of love;
Elſe might I think, that Clarence, Edward's brother,
Were but a feigned friend to our proceedings:
But welcome, Clarence; my daughter ſhall be thine.
[giving him his Hand.
And now what reſts, but, in night's coverture,
Thy brother being careleſly encamp'd,
His ſoldiers lurking in the towns about,
And but attended by a ſimple guard,
We may ſurprize and take him at our pleaſure?
Our ſcouts have found the adventure very easy:
That as Ulyſſes, and ſtout Diomede,
By ſlight and manhood ſtole to Rheſus' tents,
And brought from thence the Thracian fatal ſteeds;
So we, well cover'd with the night's black mantle,
At unawares may beat down Edward's guard,
And ſeize himſelf; I ſay not — ſlaughter him,
For I intend but only to ſurprize him. —
You that will follow me in this attempt,
Applaud the name of Henry, with your leader.
[they all cry, Henry!
Why, then, let's on our way in ſilent ſort:

14 welcome ſweet Clarence 18 Towne

For Warwick and his friends, God and saint George!
[Exeunt, marching.

SCENE III. Edward's Camp, near Warwick.
His Tent in Front: Enter certain Watchmen.

1. W. Come on, my masters, each man take his stand;
The king, by this, is set him down to sleep.

2. W. What, will he not to bed?

1. W. Why, no: for he hath made a solemn vow,—
Never to lye and take his natural rest,
Till Warwick, or himself, be quite suppress.

2. W. To-morrow then, belike, shall be the day,
If Warwick be so near as men report.

3. W. But say, I pray, what nobleman is that,
That with the king here resteth in his tent?

1. W. 'Tis the lord Hastings, the king's chiefest friend.

3. W. O, is it so? But why commands the king,
That his chief followers lodge in towns about him,
While he himself keeps here in the cold field?

2. W. 'Tis the more honour, because more dangerous.

3. W. Ay; but give me worship, and quietness,
I like it better than a dangerous honour.
If Warwick knew in what estate he stands,
'Tis to be doubted, he would waken him.

1. W. Unless our halberds did shut up his passage.

2. W. Ay; wherefore else guard we his royal tent,
But to defend his person from night-foes?

Enter Warwick, Clarence, Oxford,
Somerset, and Forces.

War. This is his tent; and see, where stand his guard:
Courage, my masters; honour now, or never!
But follow me, and Edward shall be ours.

1. W. Who goes there?
2. W. Stay, or thou dy'ſt.

Warwick, and the reſt, cry all — Warwick!
Warwick! — and ſet upon the Guard; who fly, crying — Arm! arm! — Warwick, and the reſt, following them.

The Drum beating, and Trumpet ſounding, Re-enter WARWICK, and the reſt; bringing the King out in his Gown, ſitting in a Chair: Gloſter, and Haſtings fly.

SOM. What are they that fly there? [duke.
WAR. Richard, and Haſtings: let them go, here's the K. E. The duke! why, Warwick, when we parted laſt,
Thou call'dſt me king.
WAR. Ay, but the caſe is alter'd:
When you diſgrac'd me in my embaſſage,
Then I degraded you from being king,
And come now to create you duke of York.
Alas! how ſhould you govern any kingdom,
That know not how to use embaſſadors;
Nor how to be contented with one wife;
Nor how to use your brothers brotherly;
Nor how to ſtudy for the people's welfare;
Nor how to ſhrowd yourſelf from enemies?
K. E. Yea, brother of Clarence, and art thou here too?
Nay, then I ſee, that Edward needs muſt down. —
Yet, Warwick, in deſpight of all miſchance,
Of thee thyſelf, and all thy complices,
Edward will always bear himſelf as king:
Though fortune's malice overthrow my ſtate,
My mind exceeds the compaſs of her wheel.
WAR. Then, for his mind, be Edward England's king:

But Henry now ſhall wear the Engliſh crown,
[taking it from Edward's Head.
And be true king indeed; thou but the ſhadow.—
My lord of Somerſet, at my requeſt,
See that forthwith duke Edward be convey'd
Unto my brother, archbiſhop of York:
When I have fought with Pembroke and his fellows,
I'll follow you; and tell his grace what anſwer
Lewis, and the lady Bona, ſend to him:—
Now, for a while, farewel, good duke of York.

K. E. What fates impoſe, that men muſt needs abide;
It boots not to reſiſt both wind and tide.
[Exit, led off forcibly; SOMERSET with him.

Oxf. What now remains, my lords, for us to do,
But march to London with our ſoldiers?

War. Ay, that's the firſt thing that we have to do;
To free king Henry from imprisonment,
And ſee him ſeated in the regal throne. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. London. A Room in the Palace.
Enter the Queen, and Lord RIVERS.

Riv. Madam, what makes you in this ſudden change?

Que. Why, brother Rivers, are you yet to learn
What late miſfortune is befaln king Edward? [wick?

Riv. What, loſs of ſome pitch'd battle againſt War-

Que. No, but the loſs of his own royal perſon.

Riv. Then is my ſovereign ſlain?

Que. Ay, almoſt ſlain, for he is taken priſoner;
Either betray'd by falſhood of his guard,
Or by his foe ſurpriz'd at unawares:
And, as I further have to underſtand,
Is now committed to the biſhop of York,

Fell Warwick's brother, and by that our foe.
Riv. These news, I muſt confeſs, are full of grief:
Yet, gracious madam, bear it as you may;
Warwick may lose, that now hath won the day.
Que. 'Till then, fair hope muſt hinder life's decay.
And I the rather wean me from deſpair,
For love of Edward's off-ſpring in my womb:
This is it that makes me bridle my paſſion,
And bear with mildneſs my miſfortune's croſs;
Ay, ay, for this I draw in many a tear,
And ſtop the rising of blood-ſucking ſighs,
Leſt with my ſighs or tears I blaſt or drown
King Edward's fruit, true heir to the Engliſh crown.
Riv. But, madam, where is Warwick then become?
Que. I am informed, that he comes towards London,
To ſet the crown once more on Henry's head:
Gueſs thou the reſt, king Edward's friends muſt down.
But, to prevent the tyrant's violence,
(For truſt not him that hath once broken faith)
I'll hence forthwith unto the ſanctuary,
To ſave at leaſt the heir of Edward's right;
There ſhall I reſt ſecure from force, and fraud.
Come therefore, let us fly, while we may fly;
If Warwick take us, we are ſure to die. [Exeunt.

SCENE V. Yorkſhire. Park of Middleham Caſtle.
Enter Gloster, Hastings, Sir William Stanley, and Others.

Glo. Now, my lord Haſtings, and ſir William Stanley,
Leave off to wonder why I drew you hither,
Into this chiefeſt thicket of the park.
Thus ſtands the caſe: You know, our king, my brother,

Is prisoner to the biſhop here, at whose hands
He hath good usage and great liberty;
And often, but attended with weak guard,
Comes hunting this way to diſport himſelf:
I have advértis'd him by ſecret means,
That if, about this hour, he make this way,
Under the colour of his usual game,
He ſhall here find his friends, with horſe and men,
To ſet him free from his captivity. [Horns.

Enter King Edward, and a Huntsman.

Hun. This way, my lord; for this way lies the game.

K. E. Nay, this way, man; ſee, where the huntsmen ſtand.—

Now, brother of Gloſter, lord Haſtings, and the reſt,
Stand you thus cloſe to ſteal the biſhop's deer?

GLO. Brother, the time and caſe requireth haſte;
Your horſe ſtands ready at the park-corner for you.

K. E. But whither ſhall we then? [ders.

HAS. To Lyn, my lord; and ſhip from thence to Flan-

GLO. Well gueſſ'd, believe me; for that was my mean-

K. E. Stanley, I will requite thy forwardneſs. [ing.

GLO. But wherefore ſtay we? 'tis no time to talk.

K. E. Huntsman, what ſay'ſt thou? wilt thou go along?

Hun. Better do ſo, than tarry and be hang'd.

GLO. Come then, away; let's ha' no more ado. [frown;

K. E. Biſhop, farewel: ſhield thee from Warwick's
And pray that I may repoſſeſs the crown. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. London. A Room in the Tower.
Enter King Henry, and the Lieutenant of the Tower; SOMERSET, leading in his Hand young Richmond; WARWICK, CLARENCE, OXFORD, and divers Others.

K. H. Maſter lieutenant, now that God and friends
Have ſhaken Edward from the regal ſeat;
And turn'd my captive ſtate to liberty,
My fear to hope, my ſorrows unto joys;
At our enlargement what are thy due fees? [reigns;
Lieu. Subjects may challenge nothing of their ſove-
But, if an humble prayer may prevail,
I then crave pardon of your majeſty.
K. H. For what, lieutenant? for well using me?
Nay, be thou ſure, I'll well requite thy kindneſs,
For that it made my imprisonment a pleasure:
Ay, ſuch a pleasure as incaged birds
Conceive, when, after many moody thoughts,
At laſt, by notes of houſhold harmony,
They quite forget their loſs of liberty.—
But, Warwick, after God, thou ſet'ſt me free,
And chiefly therefore I thank God, and thee;
He was the author, thou the inſtrument.
Therefore, that I may conquer fortune's ſpite,
By living low, where fortune cannot hurt me;
And that the people of this bleſſed land
May not be puniſh'd with my thwarting ſtars;
Warwick, although my head ſtill wear the crown,
I here resign my government to thee,
For thou art fortunate in all thy deeds.
War. Your grace hath ſtill been fam'd for virtuous;
And now may ſeem as wise as virtuous,
By ſpying, and avoiding, fortune's malice,
For few men rightly temper with the ſtars:
Yet in this one thing let me blame your grace,
For choosing me, when Clarence is in place.
Cla. No, Warwick, thou art worthy of the ſway,

To whom the heavens, in thy nativity,
Adjudg'd an olive branch, and lawrel crown,
As likely to be bleſt in peace, and war;
And therefore I yield thee my free conſent.

War. And I choose Clarence only for protector.

K. H. Warwick, and Clarence, give me both your hands;
Now join your hands, and, with your hands, your hearts,
That no diſſention hinder government:
I make you both protectors of this land;
While I myſelf will lead a private life,
And in devotion ſpend my latter days,
To ſin's rebuke, and my creator's praise.

War. What anſwers Clarence to his ſovereign's will?

Cla. That he conſents, if Warwick yield conſent;
For on thy fortune I repose myſelf.

War. Why then, though loth, yet muſt I be content:
We'll yoke together, like a double ſhadow
To Henry's body, and ſupply his place;
I mean, in bearing weight of government,
While he enjoys the honour, and his ease.
And, Clarence, now then it is more than needful,
Forthwith that Edward be pronounc'd a traitor,
And all his lands and goods confiſcated.

Cla. What elſe? and that ſucceſſion be determin'd.

War. Ay, therein Clarence ſhall not want his part.

K. H. But, with the firſt of all your chief affairs,
Let me entreat, (for I command no more)
That Margaret your queen, and my ſon Edward,
Be ſent for, to return from France with ſpeed:
For, 'till I ſee them here, by doubtful fear
My joy of liberty is half eclipſ'd.

Cla. It ſhall be done, my ſovereign, with all ſpeed.

K. H. My lord of Somerſet, what youth is that,
Of whom you ſeem to have ſo tender care?
Som. My liege, it is young Henry earl of Richmond.
K. H. Come hither, England's hope: If ſecret powers [laying his Hand on his Head.
Suggeſt but truth to my divining thoughts,
This pretty lad will prove our country's bliſs:
His looks are full of peaceful majeſty;
His head by nature fram'd to wear a crown,
His hand to wield a ſcepter; and himſelf
Likely, in time, to bleſs a regal throne.
Make much of him, my lords; for this is he,
Muſt help you more than you are hurt by me.
Enter a Meſſenger.
War. What news, my friend?
Meſ. That Edward is eſcaped from your brother,
And fled, as he hears ſince, to Burgundy.
War. Unſavoury news: But how made he eſcape?
Meſ. He was convey'd by Richard duke of Gloſter,
And the lord Haſtings, who attended him
In ſecret ambuſh on the foreſt ſide,
And from the biſhop's huntsmen reſcu'd him;
For hunting was his daily exercise.
War. My brother was too careleſs of his charge. —
But let us hence, my ſovereign, to provide
A ſalve for any ſore that may betide.
[Exeunt King, War. Cla. Lieu. and Att.
Som. My lord, I like not of this flight of Edward's:
For, doubtleſs, Burgundy will yield him help;
And we ſhall have more wars, before't be long.
As Henry's late preſaging propheſy
Did glad my heart, with hope of this young Richmond;

So doth my heart miſ-give me, in these conflicts
What may befal him, to his harm, and ours:
Therefore, lord Oxford, to prevent the worſt,
Forthwith we'll ſend him hence to Britany,
'Till ſtorms be paſt of civil enmity.

Oxf. Ay; for, if Edward repoſſeſs the crown,
'Tis like, that Richmond with the reſt ſhall down.

Som. It ſhall be ſo; he ſhall to Britany.
Come therefore, let's about it ſpeedily. [Exeunt.

SCENE VII. Before York.

Drums. Enter King Edward, Gloster, Hastings, and Forces, marching.

K. E. Now, brother Richard, lord Haſtings, and the reſt;
Yet thus far fortune maketh us amends,
And ſays — that once more I ſhall enterchange
My wained ſtate for Henry's regal crown.
Well have we paſſ'd, and now repaſſ'd the ſeas,
And brought desired help from Burgundy:
What then remains, we being thus arriv'd
From Ravenſpurg haven before the gates of York,
But that we enter, as into our dukedom.

[they approach the Gates, and knock.

Glo. The gates made faſt! — Brother, I like not this;
For many men, that ſtumble at the threſhold,
Are well foretold — that danger lurks within. [us:

K. E. Tuſh, man! abodements muſt not now affright
By fair or foul means we muſt enter in,
For hither will our friends repair to us.

Has. My liege, I'll knock once more, to ſummon them.

Enter the Mayor, and Others, upon the Walls.

May. My lords, we were fore-warned of your coming,
And ſhut the gates for ſafety of ourſelves;
For now we owe allegiance unto Henry.

K. E. But, maſter mayor, if Henry be your king,
Yet Edward, at the leaſt, is duke of York.

May. True, my good lord; I know you for no leſs.

K. E. Why, and I challenge nothing but my dukedom;
As being well content with that alone.

Glo. "But, when the fox hath once got in his noſe,"
"He'll ſoon find means to make the body follow."

Has. Why, maſter mayor, why ſtand you in a doubt?
Open the gates, we are king Henry's friends.

May. Ay, ſay you ſo? the gates ſhall then be open'd.
[Exit, from above.

Glo. A wiſe ſtout captain, and perſuaded ſoon!

Has. The good old man would fain that all were well,
So 'twere not long of him: but, being enter'd,
I doubt not, I, but we ſhall ſoon perſuade
Both him, and all his brothers, unto reaſon.

Re-enter Mayor, below; Attendants with him.

K. E. So, maſter mayor: these gates muſt not be ſhut,
But in the night, or in the time of war.
What! fear not, man, but yield me up the keys;
[taking them of him.
For Edward will defend the town, and thee,
And all those friends that deign to follow me.

Drums. Enter Montgomery, and Forces.

Glo. Brother, this is ſir John Montgomery,
Our truſty friend, unleſs I be deceiv'd.

K. E. Welcome, ſir John! But why come you in arms?

Mon. To help king Edward in his time of ſtorm,
As every loyal ſubject ought to do.

15 ſoone perſwaded

K. E. Thanks, good Montgomery: But we now forget
Our title to the crown; and only claim
Our dukedom, 'till God please to send the reſt.
Mon. Then fare you well, for I will hence again;
I came to ſerve a king, and not a duke:—
Drummer, ſtrike up, and let us march away.
[March begun.
K. E. Nay, ſtay, ſir John, a while; and we'll debate,
By what ſafe means the crown may be recover'd.
Mon. What talk you of debating? in few words,
If you'll not here proclaim yourſelf our king,
I'll leave you to your fortune; and be gone,
To keep them back that come to ſuccour you:
Why ſhould we fight, if you pretend no title? [points?
Glo. Why, brother, wherefore ſtand you on nice
K. E. When we grow ſtronger, then we'll make our
'Till then, 'tis wisdom to conceal our meaning. [claim:
Has. Away with ſcrupulous wit! now arms muſt rule.
Glo. And fearleſs minds climb ſooneſt unto crowns.
Brother, we will proclaim you out of hand;
The bruit thereof will bring you many friends.
K. E. Then be it as you will; for 'tis my right,
And Henry but usurps the diadem.
Mon. Ay, now my ſovereign ſpeaketh like himſelf;
And now will I be Edward's champion. [claim'd:—
Has. Sound, trumpet; Edward ſhall be here pro-
Come, fellow ſoldier, make thou proclamation.
[giving him a Paper.
Trumpet ſounds.
Sol. [reads.] Edward the fourth, by the grace of God, king of England and France, and lord of Ireland, &c.
Mon. And whoſoe'er gainſays king Edward's right,

By this I challenge him to ſingle fight.
[throwing down his Gauntlet.
all. Long live Edward the fourth!
K. E. Thanks, brave Montgomery; —
And thanks unto you all:
If fortune ſerve me, I'll requite this kindneſs.
Now, for this night, let's harbour here in York:
And, when the morning ſun ſhall raise his car
Above the border of this horizon,
We'll forward towards Warwick, and his mates;
For, well I wot, that Henry is no ſoldier. —
Ah, froward Clarence! how evil it beſeems thee,
To flatter Henry, and forſake thy brother!
Yet, as we may, we'll meet both thee and Warwick. —
Come on, brave ſoldiers: doubt not of the day;
And, that once gotten, doubt not of large pay. [Exeunt.

SCENE VIII. London. A Room in the Palace.
Enter King Henry, WARWICK, CLARENCE, MOUNTAGUE, EXETER, and OXFORD.

WAR. What counſel, lords? Edward from Belgia,
With haſty Germans, and blunt Hollanders,
Hath paſſ'd in ſafety through the narrow ſeas,
And with his troops doth march amain to London;
And many giddy people flock to him.
K. H. Let's levy men, and beat him back again.
CLA. A little fire is quickly trodden out;
Which, being ſuffer'd, rivers cannot quench.
WAR. In Warwickſhire I have true-hearted friends,
Not mutinous in peace, yet bold in war;
Those will I muſter up: — and thou, ſon Clarence,
Shall ſtir, in Suffolk, Norfolk, and in Kent,

32 ſtirre up in

The knights and gentlemen to come with thee: —
Thou, brother Mountague, in Buckingham,
Northampton, and in Leiceſterſhire, ſhalt find
Men well inclin'd to hear what thou command'ſt: —
And thou, brave Oxford, wondrous well belov'd,
In Oxfordſhire ſhalt muſter up thy friends. —
My ſovereign, with the loving citizens, —
Like to his island, girt in with the ocean;
Or modeſt Dian, circl'd with her nymphs, —
Shall reſt in London, 'till we come to him. —
Fair lords, take leave, and ſtand not to reply. —
Farewel, my ſovereign.

K. H. Farewel, my Hector, and my Troy's true hope.

Cla. In ſign of truth, I kiſs † your highneſs' hand.

K. H. Well-minded Clarence, be thou fortunate!

Mou. Comfort, my lord; and ſo I take my leave.

Oxf. And thus † I ſeal my truth, and bid adieu.

K. H. Sweet Oxford, and my loving Mountague,
And all at once, once more a happy farewel.

War. Farewel, ſweet lords; let's meet at Coventry.

[Exeunt War. Cla. Oxf. and Mou.

K. H. Here at the palace will I reſt a while.
Couſin of Exeter, what thinks your lordſhip?
Methinks, the power, that Edward hath in field,
Shall not be able to encounter mine.

Exe. The doubt is, that he will ſeduce the reſt.

K. H. That's not my fear, my meed hath got me fame:
I have not ſtop'd mine ears to their demands,
Nor poſted off their ſuits with ſlow delays;
My pity hath been balm to heal their wounds,
My mildneſs hath allay'd their ſwelling griefs,
My mercy dry'd their water-flowing tears:

I have not been desirous of their wealth,
Nor much oppreſſ'd them with great ſubſidies,
Nor forward of revenge, though they much err'd;
Then why ſhould they love Edward more than me?
No, Exeter, these graces challenge grace:
And, when the lion fawns upon the lamb,
The lamb will never ceaſe to follow him.

[Shout within. A Lancaſter! a Lancaſter!

EXE. Hark, hark, my lord! what ſhouts are these?

Enter Edward, and Soldiers, haſtily; GLOSTER, and Others, with him.

K. E. Seize on the ſhame-fac'd Henry, bear him hence,
And once again proclaim us king of England. —
You are the fount, that makes ſmall brooks to flow:
Now ſtops thy ſpring; my ſea ſhall ſuck them dry,
And ſwell ſo much the higher, by their ebb. —
Hence with him to the tower; let him not ſpeak. —

[Henry born off.

And, lords, towards Coventry bend we our courſe,
Where peremptory Warwick now remains:
The ſun ſhines hot, and, if we use delay,
Cold biting winter mars our hop'd-for hay.

GLO. Away betimes, before his forces join,
And take the great-grown traitor unawares:
Brave warriors, march amain towards Coventry. [Exeunt.

ACT V.

SCENE I. Coventry.

Enter, upon the Walls, WARWICK, and divers Others.

WAR. Where is the poſt, that came from valiant Oxford?

How far hence is thy lord, mine honeſt fellow?
1. M. By this at Dunſmore, marching hitherward.
War. How far off is our brother Mountague?—
Where is the poſt, that came from Mountague?
2. M. By this at Daintry, with a puiſſant troop.
Enter Sir John Somervile.
War. Say, Somervile, what ſays my loving ſon?
And, by thy gueſs, how nigh is Clarence now?
Som. At Southam I did leave him with his forces,
And do expect him here ſome two hours hence.
[Drum heard.
War. Then Clarence is at hand, I hear his drum.
Som. It is not his, my lord; here † Southam lies;
The drum, your honour hears, marcheth from Warwick.
War. Who ſhould that be? belike, unlook'd-for friends.
Som. They are at hand, and you ſhall quickly know.
Drums. Enter King Edward, with Gloster, and Forces, marching.
K. E. Go, trumpet, to the walls, and ſound a parle.
Glo. See, how the ſurly Warwick mans the wall.
War. O unbid ſpite! is ſportful Edward come?
Where ſlept our ſcouts, or how are they ſeduc'd,
That we could hear no news of his repair?
K. E. Now, Warwick, wilt thou ope the city gates,
Speak gentle words, and humbly bend thy knee,
Call Edward—king, and at his hands beg mercy,
And he ſhall pardon thee these outrages.
War. Nay, rather, wilt thou draw thy forces hence,
Confeſs who ſet thee up and pluck'd thee down,
Call Warwick—patron, and be penitent,
And thou ſhalt ſtill remain the duke of York.
Glo. I thought, at leaſt he would have ſaid—the king;

Or did he make the jeſt againſt his will?

War. Is not a dukedom, ſir, a goodly gift?

Glo. Ay, by my faith, for a poor earl to give;
I'll do thee ſervice for ſo good a gift.

War. 'Twas I, that gave the kingdom to thy brother.

K. E. Why, then 'tis mine, if but by Warwick's gift.

War. Thou art no Atlas for ſo great a weight:
And, weakling, Warwick takes his gift again;
And Henry is my king, Warwick his ſubject.

K. E. But Warwick's king is Edward's priſoner:
And, gallant Warwick, do but anſwer this,—
What is the body, when the head is off?

Glo. Alas, that Warwick had no more fore-caſt,
But, whiles he thought to ſteal the ſingle ten,
The king was ſlily finger'd from the deck!—
You left poor Henry at the biſhop's palace,
And, ten to one, you'll meet him in the tower.

K. E. 'Tis even ſo; yet you are Warwick ſtill. [down:

Glo. Come, Warwick, take the time, kneel down, kneel
Nay, when? ſtrike now, or elſe the iron cools.

War. I had rather chop this hand off at a blow,
And with the other fling it at thy face,
Than bear ſo low a ſail to ſtrike to thee. [friend;

K. E. Sail how thou canſt, have wind and tide thy
This hand, faſt wound about thy coal-black hair,
Shall, whiles thy head is warm, and new cut off,
Write in the duſt this ſentence with thy blood,—
Wind-changing Warwick now can change no more.

Enter Oxford, with Drum and Colours.

War. O chearful colours! ſee, where Oxford comes!

Oxf. Oxford, Oxford, for Lancaſter!

[he, and his Forces, enter the City.

Glo. The gates are open, let us enter too.
K. E. So other foes may ſet upon our backs.
Stand we in good array; for they, no doubt,
Will iſſue out again, and bid us battle:
If not, the city being but of ſmall defence,
We'll quickly rouze the traitors in the ſame.
War. O, welcome, Oxford! for we want thy help.
Enter Mountague, with Drum and Colours.
Mou. Mountague, Mountague, for Lancaſter!
[he too enters the City.
Glo. Thou and thy brother both ſhall buy this treason
Even with the deareſt blood your bodies bear.
K. E. The harder match'd, the greater victory;
My mind preſageth happy gain, and conqueſt.
Enter Somerset, with Drum and Colours.
Som. Somerſet, Somerſet, for Lancaſter!
[he too enters the City.
Glo. Two of thy name, both dukes of Somerſet,
Have ſold their lives unto the houſe of York;
And thou ſhalt be the third, if this ſword hold.
Enter Clarence, with Drum and Colours.
War. And, lo, where George of Clarence ſweeps along,
Of force enough to bid his brother battle;
With whom an upright zeal to right prevails,
More than the nature of a brother's love: —
Come, Clarence, come; thou wilt, if Warwick calls.
Cla. Father of Warwick, know you what this means?
[taking his red Roſe out of his Hat.
Look here, I throw † my infamy at thee:
I will not ruinate my father's houſe,
Who gave his blood to lime the ſtones together,
And ſet up Lancaſter. Why, trow'ſt thou, Warwick,

That Clarence is ſo harſh, ſo blunt, unnatural,
To bend the fatal inſtruments of war
Againſt his brother, and his lawful king?
Perhaps, thou wilt object my holy oath:
To keep that oath, were more impiety
Than Jepthah's, when he ſacrific'd his daughter.
I am ſo ſorry for my treſpaſs made,
That, to deſerve well at my brother's hands,
I here proclaim myſelf thy mortal foe;
With reſolution, whereſoe'er I meet thee,
(As I will meet thee, if thou ſtir abroad)
To plague thee for thy foul miſ-leading me.
And ſo, proud-hearted Warwick, I defy thee,
And to my brother turn my bluſhing cheeks:—
Pardon me, Edward, I will make amends;—
And, Richard, do not frown upon my faults,
For I will henceforth be no more inconſtant.

K. E. Now welcome more, and ten times more belov'd,
Than if thou never hadſt deſerv'd our hate.

Glo. Welcome, good Clarence; this is brother-like.

War. O paſſing traitor, perjur'd, and unjuſt! [fight?

K. E. What, Warwick, wilt thou leave the town, and
Or ſhall we beat the ſtones about thine ears?

War. Alas, I am not coop'd here for defence:
I will away towards Barnet preſently,
And bid thee battle, Edward, if thou dar'ſt. [way:—

K. E. Yes, Warwick, Edward dares, and leads the Lords, to the field; Saint George, and victory!

[March. Exeunt.

SCENE II. A Field near Barnet.

Alarums, as of a Battle join'd. Excurſions. Enter King

Edward, bringing in WARWICK wounded.

K. E. So, lye thou there: die thou, and die our fear;
For Warwick was a bug, that fear'd us all. —
Now, Mountague, ſit faſt; I ſeek for thee,
That Warwick's bones may keep thine company.
[Exit Edward.

WAR. Ah, who is nigh? come to me, friend, or foe,
And tell me, who is victor, York, or Warwick?
Why aſk I that? my mangl'd body ſhews,
My blood, my want of ſtrength, my ſick heart ſhews,
That I muſt yield my body to the earth,
And, by my fall, the conqueſt to my foe.
Thus yields the cedar to the axe's edge,
Whoſe arms gave ſhelter to the princely eagle,
Under whoſe ſhade the ramping lion ſlept;
Whoſe top-branch over-peer'd Jove's ſpreading tree,
And kept low ſhrubs from winter's powerful wind.
These eyes, that now are dim'd with death's black veil,
Have been as piercing as the mid-day ſun,
To ſearch the ſecret treaſons of the world:
The wrinkles in my brows, now fill'd with blood,
Were liken'd oft to kingly ſepulchers;
For who liv'd king, but I could dig his grave?
And who durſt ſmile, when Warwick bent his brow?
Lo, now my glory ſmear'd in duſt and blood!
My parks, my walks, my manors that I had,
Even now forſake me; and, of all my lands,
Is nothing left me, but my body's length!
Why, what is pomp, rule, reign, but earth and duſt?
And, live we how we can, yet die we muſt.

Enter OXFORD, and SOMERSET.

SOM. Ah, Warwick, Warwick! wert thou as we are,

We might recover all our loſs again!
The queen from France hath brought a puiſſant power;
Even now we heard the news; Ah, couldſt thou fly!

War. Why, then I would not fly.—Ah, Mountague,
If thou be there, ſweet brother, take my hand,
And with thy lips keep in my ſoul a while!
Thou lov'ſt me not; for, brother, if thou didſt,
Thy tears would waſh this cold congealed blood,
That glews my lips, and will not let me ſpeak.
Come quickly, Mountague, or I am dead.

Som. Ah, Warwick, Mountague hath breath'd his laſt;
And, to the lateſt gaſp, cry'd out on Warwick,
And ſaid — Commend me to my valiant brother.
And more he would have ſaid; and more he ſpoke,
Which ſounded like a clamour in a vault,
That could not be diſtinguiſh'd: but, at laſt,
I well might hear, deliver'd with a groan,—
O, farewel, Warwick! [ſelves;

War. Sweet reſt his ſoul!—Fly, lords, and ſave your-
For Warwick bids farewel, to meet in heaven. [dies.

Oxf. Away, away, to meet the queen's great power!
[Exeunt, bearing off the Body.

SCENE III. The ſame. Another Part of it.

Flouriſh. Enter King Edward in Triumph; with Clarence, Gloster, and the reſt.

K. E. Thus far our fortune keeps an upward courſe,
And we are grac'd with wreaths of victory.
But, in the midſt of this bright-ſhining day,
I ſpy a black, ſuſpicious, threat'ning cloud,
That will encounter with our glorious ſun,
Ere he attain his eaſeful weſtern bed:

20 bids you all farewell

I mean, my lords,— those powers, that the queen
Hath rais'd in Gallia, have arriv'd our coaſt,
And, as we hear, march on to fight with us.

Cla. A little gale will ſoon diſperſe that cloud,
And blow it to the ſource from whence it came:
Thy very beams will dry those vapours up;
For every cloud engenders not a ſtorm.

Glo. The queen is valu'd thirty thousand ſtrong,
And Somerſet, with Oxford, fled to her;
If ſhe have time to breath, be well aſſur'd,
Her faction will be full as ſtrong as ours.

K. E. We are advértis'd by our loving friends,
That they do hold their courſe towards Tewksbury:
We, having now the beſt at Barnet field,
Will thither ſtraight, For willingneſs rids way;
And, as we march, our ſtrength will be augmented
In every county as we go along.—
Strike up the drum; cry, Courage! and away. [Exeunt.

SCENE IV. Plains near Tewksbury.

Drums. Enter Queen Margaret, and the Prince her Son; with Somerset, Oxford, and Soldiers, marching.

Q. M. Great lords, wise men ne'er ſit and wail their loſs,
But chearly ſeek how to redreſs their harms.
What though the maſt be now blown over-board,
The cable broke, our holding anchor loſt,
And half our ſailors ſwallow'd in the flood?
Yet lives our pilot ſtill: Is't meet, that he Should leave the helm, and, like a fearful lad,
With tearful eyes add water to the ſea,
And give more ſtrength to that which hath too much;

Whiles, in his moan, the ſhip ſplits on the rock,
Which induſtry and courage might have ſav'd?
Ah, what a ſhame! ah, what a fault were this!
Say, Warwick was our anchor; What of that?
And Mountague our top-maſt; What of him?
Our ſlaughter'd friends the tackles; What of these?
Why, is not Oxford here another anchor?
And Somerſet another goodly maſt?
The friends of France our ſhrouds and tacklings?
And, though unſkilful, why not Ned and I
For once allow'd the ſkilful pilot's charge?
We will not from the helm, to ſit and weep;
But keep our courſe, though the rough wind ſay—no,
From ſhelves and rocks that threaten us with wreck.
As good to chide the waves, as ſpeak them fair.
And what is Edward, but a ruthleſs ſea?
What Clarence, but a quick-ſand of deceit?
And Richard, but a ragged fatal rock?
All these the enemies to our poor bark.
Say, you can ſwim; alas, 'tis but a while:
Tread on the ſand; why, there you quickly ſink:
Beſtride the rock; the tide will waſh you off,
Or elſe you famiſh, that's a threefold death.
This ſpeak I, lords, to let you underſtand,
In caſe ſome one of you would fly from us,
That there's no hop'd-for mercy with the brothers,
More than with ruthleſs waves, with ſands, and rocks.
Why, courage then! what cannot be avoided,
'Twere childiſh weakneſs to lament, or fear.

Pri. Methinks, a woman of this valiant ſpirit
Should, if a coward heard her ſpeak these words,
Infuse his breaſt with magnanimity,

And make him, naked, foil a man at arms.
I ſpeak not this, as doubting any here:
For, did I but ſuſpect a fearful man,
He ſhould have leave to go away betimes;
Leſt, in our need, he might infect another,
And make him of like ſpirit to himſelf.
If any ſuch be here, (as God forbid!)
Let him depart, before we need his help.

Oxf. Women and children of ſo high a courage,
And warriors faint! why, 'twere perpetual ſhame.—
O brave young prince! thy famous grandfather
Doth live again in thee; Long may'ſt thou live,
To bear his image, and renew his glories!

Som. And he, that will not fight for ſuch a hope,
Go home to bed, and, like the owl by day,
If he arise, be mock'd and wonder'd at.

Q. M. Thanks, gentle Somerſet;—ſweet Oxford, thanks.

Pri. And take his thanks, that yet hath nothing elſe.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Prepare you, lords, for Edward is at hand,
Ready to fight; therefore be resolute.

Oxf. I thought no leſs: it is his policy,
To haſte thus faſt, to find us unprovided.

Som. But he's deceiv'd, we are in readineſs.

Q. M. This chears my heart, to ſee your forwardneſs.

Oxf. Here pitch our battle, hence we will not budge.

Drums. Enter, at a Diſtance, King Edward,
and Forces, marching.

K. E. Brave followers, yonder ſtands the thorny wood,
Which, by the heavens' aſſiſtance, and your ſtrength,
Muſt by the roots be hewn up yet ere night.
I need not add more fuel to your fire,

For, well I wot, ye blaze to burn them out:
Give ſignal to the fight, and to it, lords.

[he, and his, draw off.

Q. M. Lords, knights, and gentlemen, what I ſhould
My tears gain-ſay; for every word I ſpeak, [ſay,
Ye ſee, I drink the water of mine eyes.
Therefore, no more but this:—Henry, your ſovereign,
Is prisoner to the foe; his ſtate usurp'd,
His realm a ſlaughter-houſe, his ſubjects ſlain,
His ſtatutes cancel'd, and his treasure ſpent;
And yonder is the wolf, that makes this ſpoil.
You fight in juſtice: then, in God's name, lords,
Be valiant, and give ſignal to the fight.

[Exeunt both the Armies.

SCENE V. The ſame. Another Part of them.

Alarums; Excurſions; afterwards, a Retreat.

Then, Enter, as from Conqueſt, King Edward, CLARENCE, GLOSTER, and Forces; with Queen Margaret, OXFORD, and SOMERSET, Prisoners.

K. E. Lo, here a period of tumultuous broils.—
Away with Oxford to Hammes' caſtle ſtraight:
For Somerſet, off with his guilty head.
Go, bear them hence; I will not hear them ſpeak.

Oxf. For my part, I'll not trouble thee with words.

Som. Nor I, but ſtoop with patience to my fortune.

[Exeunt OXF. and SOM. guarded.

Q. M. So part we ſadly in this troublous world,
To meet with joy in ſweet Jeruſalem.

K. E. Is proclamation made,—that, who finds Edward,
Shall have a high reward, and he his life.

Glo. It is; and, lo, where youthful Edward comes.

Enter Soldiers, with the Prince.

K. E. Bring forth the gallant, let us hear him ſpeak:
What, can ſo young a thorn begin to prick? —
Edward, what ſatiſfaction canſt thou make,
For bearing arms, for ſtirring up my ſubjects,
And all the trouble thou haſt turn'd me to?

Pri. Speak like a ſubject, proud ambitious York:
Suppoſe, that I am now my father's mouth;
Reſign thy chair, and, where I ſtand, kneel thou,
Whilſt I propoſe the ſelf-ſame words to thee,
Which, traitor, thou would'ſt have me anſwer to.

Q. M. Ah, that thy father had been ſo reſolv'd!

Glo. That you might ſtill have worn the petticoat,
And ne'er have ſtoln the breech from Lancaſter.

Pri. Let Æſop fable in a winter's night;
His curriſh riddles ſort not with this place.

Glo. By heaven, brat, I'll plague you for that word.

Q. M. Ay, thou waſt born to be a plague to men.

Glo. For God's ſake, take away this captive ſcold.

Pri. Nay, take away this ſcolding crook-back rather.

K. E. Peace, wilful boy, or I will charm your tongue.

Cla. Untutor'd lad, thou art too malapert.

Pri. I know my duty, you are all undutiful:
Laſcivious Edward, — and thou perjur'd George, —
And thou miſ-ſhapen Dick, — I tell ye all,
I am your better, traitors as ye are; —
And thou uſurp'ſt my father's right and mine.

K. E. Take that, [ſtabbing him.] thou likeneſs of this railer here.

Glo. Sprawl'ſt thou? take † that, to end thy agony.

Cla. And † there's for twitting me with perjury.

Q. M. O, kill me too!

GLO. Marry, and ſhall, [lifting up his Dagger.
K. E. Hold, Richard, hold, [ſtaying him.] for we have done too much.
GLO. Why ſhould ſhe live, to fill the world with words?
K. E. What, doth ſhe ſwoon? use means for her recovery.
GLO. Clarence, excuse me to the king my brother;
I'll hence to London on a ſerious matter:
Ere ye come there, be ſure to hear more news.
CLA. What? what?
GLO. The tower, the tower. [Exit GLOSTER.
Q. M. O Ned, ſweet Ned, ſpeak to thy mother, boy!
Canſt thou not ſpeak? — O traitors! murtherers! —
They, that ſtab'd Cæsar, ſhed no blood at all,
Did not offend, nor were not worthy blame,
If this foul deed were by, to equal it:
He was a man; this, in reſpect, a child;
And men ne'er ſpend their fury on a child.
What's worſe than murtherer, that I may name it?
No, no; my heart will burſt, an if I ſpeak: —
And I will ſpeak, that ſo my heart may burſt. —
Butchers and villains, bloody canibals!
How ſweet a plant have you untimely cropt!
You have no children, butchers; if you had,
The thought of them would have ſtir'd up remorſe:
But, if you ever chance to have a child,
Look in his youth to have him ſo cut off,
As, deathsmen, you have rid this ſweet young prince.
K. E. Away with her; go, bear her hence perforce.
Q. M. Nay, never bear me hence, diſpatch me here;
Here ſheath thy ſword, I'll pardon thee my death:
What, wilt thou not? — then, Clarence, do it thou.

Cla. By heaven, I will not do thee ſo much ease.
Q. M. Good Clarence, do; ſweet Clarence, do thou do it.
Cla. Didſt thou not hear me ſwear, I would not do it?
Q. M. Ay, but thou useſt to forſwear thyſelf;
'Twas ſin before, but now 'tis charity.
What, wilt thou not?—Where is that butcher, Richard?
Hard-favour'd Richard? Richard, where art thou?
Thou art not here: Murther is thy alms-deed;
Petitioner for blood thou ne'er put'ſt back.
K. E. Away, I ſay; I charge ye, bear her hence.
Q. M. So come to you, and yours, as to this prince!
[Exit, led out forcibly.
K. E. Where's Richard gone?
Cla. To London, all in poſt; and, as I gueſs,
To make a bloody ſupper in the tower.
K. E. He's ſudden, if a thing comes in his head.
Now march we hence: diſcharge the common ſort
With pay and thanks, and let's away to London,
And ſee our gentle queen how well ſhe fares;
By this, I hope, ſhe hath a ſon for me. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI. London. A Room in the Tower.
King Henry is ſeen ſitting at his Book, the Lieutenant attending. Enter Gloster.

Glo. Good day, my lord! What, at your book ſo hard?
K. H. Ay, my good lord: My lord, I ſhould ſay rather;
'Tis ſin to flatter, good was little better:
Good Gloſter, and good devil, were alike,
And both prepoſterous; therefore, not good lord.
Glo. Sirrah, leave us to ourſelves: we muſt confer.
[Exit Lieutenant.
K. H. So flies the reckleſs ſhepherd from the wolf:

6 that divels butcher

So firſt the harmleſs ſheep doth yield his fleece,
And next his throat unto the butcher's knife. —
What ſcene of death hath Roſcius now to act?

Glo. Suſpicion always haunts the guilty mind;
The thief doth fear each buſh an officer.

K. H. The bird, that hath been limed in a buſh,
With trembling wings miſdoubteth every buſh:
And I, the hapleſs male to one ſweet bird,
Have now the fatal object in my eye,
Where my poor young was lim'd, was caught, and kill'd.

Glo. Why, what a peeviſh fool was that of Crete,
That taught his ſon the office of a fowl?
And yet, for all his wings, the fool was drown'd.

K. H. I, Dædalus; my poor ſon, Icarus;
Thy father Minos, that deny'd our courſe;
The ſun, that ſear'd the wings of my ſweet boy,
Thy brother Edward; and thyſelf, the ſea,
Whoſe envious gulf did ſwallow up his life:
Ah, kill me with thy weapon, not with words!
My breaſt can better brook thy dagger's point,
Than can my ears that tragick hiſtory.
But wherefore doſt thou come? is't for my life?

Glo. Think'ſt thou, I am an executioner?

K. H. A perſecutor, I am ſure, thou art;
If murd'ring innocents be executing,
Why, then thou art an executioner.

Glo. Thy ſon I kill'd for his presumption.

K. H. Hadſt thou been kill'd, when firſt thou didſt presume,
Thou hadſt not liv'd to kill a ſon of mine.
And thus I propheſy,—that many a thousand,
Which now miſtruſt no parcel of my fear;

And many an old man's ſigh, and many a widow's,
And many an orphan's water-ſtanding eye,—
Men for their ſons, wives for their husbands' fate,
And orphans for their parents' timeleſs death,—
Shall rue the hour that ever thou waſt born.
The owl ſhriek'd at thy birth, an evil ſign;
The night-crow cry'd, aboding luckleſs time;
Dogs howl'd, and hideous tempeſts ſhook down trees;
The raven croak'd her on the chimney's top,
And chattering pies in dismal diſcords ſung.
Thy mother felt more than a mother's pain,
And yet brought forth leſs than a mother's hope;
To wit,—an undigeſt deformed lump,
Not like the fruit of ſuch a goodly tree.
Teeth hadſt thou in thy head, when thou waſt born,
To ſignify—thou cam'ſt to bite the world:
And, if the reſt be true which I have heard,
Thou cam'ſt—

Glo. I'll hear no more;—Die, prophet, in thy ſpeech;
[ſtabbing him.
For this, among'ſt the reſt, was I ordain'd.

K. H. Ay, and for much more ſlaughter after this.
O, God forgive my ſins, and pardon thee! [dies.

Glo. What, will the aſpiring blood of Lancaſter
Sink in the ground? I thought, it would have mounted.
See, how my ſword weeps for the poor king's death!
O, may ſuch purple tears be alway ſhed
From those that wiſh the downfal of our houſe!—
If any ſpark of life be yet remaining,
Down, down to hell; and ſay—I ſent thee thither,
[ſtabbing him again.
I, that have neither pity, love, nor fear.—

Indeed, 'tis true, that Henry told me of;
For I have often heard my mother ſay,
I came into the world with my legs forward:
Had I not reaſon, think ye, to make haſte,
And ſeek their ruin that uſurp'd our right?
The midwife wonder'd; and the women cry'd,
O, Jesus bleſs us, he is born with teeth!
And ſo I was; which plainly ſignify'd —
That I ſhould ſnarl, and bite, and play the dog:
Then, ſince the heavens have ſhap'd my body ſo,
Let hell make crook'd my mind, to anſwer it.
I have no brother, I am like no brother:
And this word — love, which grey-beards call divine,
Be reſident in men like one another,
And not in me; I am myſelf alone.
Clarence, beware; thou keep'ſt me from the light;
But I will ſort a pitchy day for thee:
For I will buz abroad ſuch propheſies,
That Edward ſhall be fearful of his life;
And then, to purge his fear, I'll be thy death.
King Henry, and the prince his ſon, are gone:
Clarence, thy turn is next; and then the reſt;
Counting myſelf but bad, 'till I be beſt. —
I'll throw thy body in another room,
And triumph, Henry, in thy day of doom.

[Exit, with the Body.

SCENE VII. The ſame. A Room of State in the Palace.
King Edward is ſeen ſitting in his Throne; The Queen, with the infant Prince in her Arms, CLARENCE, and Others, by him: to them, GLOSTER.

K. E. Once more we ſit in England's royal throne,

Re-purchaſ'd with the blood of enemies.
What valiant foemen, like to autumn's corn,
Have we mow'd down, in top of all their pride?
Three dukes of Somerſet, threefold renown'd
For hardy and undoubted champions:
Two Cliffords, as the father and the ſon,
And two Northumberlands; two braver men
Ne'er ſpur'd their courſers at the trumpet's ſound:
With them, the two brave bears, Warwick and Mountague,
That in their chains fetter'd the kingly lion,
And made the foreſt tremble when they roar'd.
Thus have we ſwept ſuſpicion from our ſeat,
And made our foot-ſtool of ſecurity. —
Come hither, Beſs, and let me kiſs my boy: —
Young Ned, for thee, thine uncles, and myſelf,
Have in our armours watch'd the winter's night;
Went all afoot in ſummer's ſcalding heat,
That thou might'ſt repoſſeſs the crown in peace;
And of our labours thou ſhalt reap the gain.

Glo. "I'll blaſt his harveſt, if your head were lay'd;"
"For yet I am not look'd on in the world."
"This ſhoulder was ordain'd ſo thick, to heave;"
"And heave it ſhall ſome weight, or break my back: —"
"Work thou the way, — and thou ſhalt execute."

K. E. Clarence, and Gloſter, love my lovely queen;
And kiſs your princely nephew, brothers both.

Cla. The duty, that I owe unto your majeſty,
I ſeal upon the lips of this † ſweet babe.

Que. Thanks, noble Clarence; worthy brother, thanks:

Glo. And, that I love the tree from whence thou ſprang'ſt,
Witneſs the loving kiſs † I give the fruit: —

" To say the truth, so Judas kiss'd his master ;"
" And cry'd — all hail, when as he meant — all harm."

K. E. Now am I seated as my soul delights,
Having my country's peace, and brothers' loves.

Cla. What will your grace have done with Margaret?
Reignier, her father, to the king of France
Hath pawn'd the Sicils and Jerusalem,
And hither have they sent it for her ransom.

K. E. Away with her, and waft her hence to France.
And now what rests, [rising.] but that we spend the time
With stately triumphs, mirthful comic shews,
Such as befit the pleasures of a court? —
Sound, drums and trumpets! — farewel, sour annoy;
For here, I hope, begins our lasting joy.

Flourish. Exeunt.

---

11 befits — of the Court.
